There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Worries about the past

Q. The past is haunting me. I know that I can't go back and change the things I've done. I can only accept them and make sure they don't happen again. But no matter how hard I try, sooner or later bad thoughts about the past come back. I just wish I knew of some way to keep these guilty thoughts and fears from getting the best of me. Can you give me advice?

A. The reason we call the past the past is because it is past. So, walk away from the past in your thoughts. Forget it. If you have done wrong things, made mistakes, so what? It's over; skip it. Turn your face to the future — and your thinking too.

The healthiest advice ever given for healing a mind that is haunted by the past is this one Scripture statement "Forgetting the past and looking forward to what lies ahead, I strain to reach the end of the race . . ." Isn't it significant that every evening darkness comes down to black out the day? And every morning is a new beginning, yesterday past, a future ahead. Move ahead with it.

How to get husband to slow down

Q. [To Dr. Peale] My husband's job is very demanding. Insurance is not the easiest sales work. He is a manager with 49 people under him. He's under great pressure from within and without. He has high blood pressure and is under medication. I've tried suggesting he exercise every day — also to try not to always push, push!! But how can you stop a person who loves his work, loves a challenge? How do you reach a goal-oriented person and slow him down? Believe me, it's hard for me to watch. I could live with a lot less money and more husband.

A. (Dr. Peale) I like that "less money and more husband." But there is no reason why you cannot have both. The problem is that your husband's body cannot keep up with his mental drive. Tell him to slow down and let his body catch up with his mind.

I live a rapid-paced life myself but believe I've learned to run my daily schedule instead of letting it run me. One method is to pass quieting, peaceful words through the mind daily, saying them aloud — such words as tranquility, imperturbability, peacefulness; and then to really practice the great success principle of "easy does it."

Taught that sex was dirty

Q. If you can find an answer to this it will be a miracle! I was one of those who was brought up to think sex was dirty, and if you did it you should be ashamed. Both my father and brother treated me as if I shouldn't have been a girl. My parents never told me the facts of life and as a result I think men are only after one thing. I don't want to feel this way! How can I learn to trust men?

A. It is no miracle to find an answer to your question. When you have been taught a fiction, start unlearning it. Know what is the truth; then believe it and live accordingly.

God made male and female with the capacity to understand and to love one another. Sex is made dirty only by the dirty-minded. On the high level of love and marriage, it is of God. If you show a man that you can be lots of fun and still be straight morally, you will stimulate respect and trust in him, which then can turn into deeper love. There are lots of men in this world who are on the up-and-up; really good guys not on the make.

Q. Would you tell me if we should fear God? A relative of mine said we should. But I think God looks after us if we are right and He'll never leave us when family and friends will. Even though at present I don't go to church I'm trying hard to live the right way. Please help me with my question.

A. The concept of fearing God means that we are to honor and respect God. It does not mean we are to fear Him in the sense of being afraid. You see, the Bible tells us that God is love, and of course you never need fear love.

Also we are told that God is our Father, and it is natural for a father to love his child. So whenever fear comes into your mind cancel it out by this positive affirmation: God loves me and I am not afraid.

Red Cross Is Finally Exonerated

The American Red Cross behavior during World War II has finally been explained by Ann Landers, in her daily column in many newspapers.

A soldier had written to her berating her for some kind words expressed about the American Red Cross. The G. I. had said the soldiers had to pay the Red Cross for coffee, doughnuts, meals and overnight lodging while the Salvation Army had supplied them free. She instigated a search for the truth and came up with the following explanation.

Ann Landers wrote to top officials of the Red Cross for an explanation and received what she termed as an "eye-popping response."

It was documented by a copy of a letter dated March 20, 1942, from Secretary of War Henry L. Stinson, to Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross.

It seems all English and Australian men in uniform had to pay for off-base food, lodging because voluntary giving (which is characteristic of the United States) is not the pattern in other countries.

The Red Cross, which has never accepted a dime from the U. S. government (and to this day relies totally on voluntary contributions) was asked to establish club facilities for U.S. servicemen overseas where troops from all allied forces would be welcome. The Salvation Army did NOT have this responsibility.

The British High command then made an official request that U.S. servicemen be required to pay for whatever they received, just as their men had to pay. The Red Cross was adamantly opposed to the concept and protested vehemently. They lost the fight, however, when a "request" came from Secretary Stinson. His letter was tantamount to a command.

Allegations have persisted since World War II that the Red Cross made a profit overseas. Nothing could be further from the truth. The clubs operated at a loss and represented a heavy financial burden to the Red Cross. Moreover the public image of the Red Cross was badly tarnished when they were forced by Stinson to go along with the British High Command.

How unfair that this splendid organization has had to take the rap for a decision made by the United States Army, said Ann Landers. She added that today, 35 years later, the truth is known by only a few persons.

OPEN LINE

By,
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

What is being done to control inflation?

I continue to feel that inflation is directly related to the level of government spending and the size of the federal deficit. Therefore inflation cannot and will not be controlled until such time as government spending is controlled and the budget moves in the direction of overall balance. I have voted against the public debt ceiling, and I have introduced a balanced budget constitutional amendment in an effort to address the root causes of inflation.

Does the government publish any information on saving energy?

The consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado, currently has two free booklets on home energy conservation. "Save Energy, Save Money" outlines simple do-it-yourself projects to insulate your home. "Tips for Energy Savers" outlines ways to conserve energy in household heating, cooling and appliance use.

Please tell me your views on busing.

I have always opposed busing to achieve racial balance in our schools. The answer to racial discrimination lies in improved schools in all political jurisdictions. Forced busing has yet to show any results in improved education, but it clearly has disrupted the neighborhood concept of schools on which our educational system has been based.

How big a business is agriculture in our State of Maryland?

According to the Maryland Department of Agriculture, our state's 14,000 farms sell more than $400 million worth of products each year. All the operations in the productions, processing and distribution of the food, fiber and forestry products provide over 14 percent of the Gross State Product — more than $2.3 billion. Agriculture in this sense is one of our largest industries.

Do you have any information on the Supreme Court — how it works, who are the Justices, etc.?

My office has limited copies of an educational booklet entitled "The Supreme Court." Interested citizens need only write me, care of 1730 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. 20515.

When will the next Social Security increase occur?

Social Security payments rose 6.4 percent in July of this year. Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments are linked automatically to the rise in the consumer price index between the first three months of successive years. There are nearly 37 million recipient of the two programs.

Does your office have any information on the Fair Credit Reporting Act?

A leaflet describing the Fair Credit Reporting Act is available without cost from the Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colorado 81009. The booklet outlines the consumer's right to learn his own credit rating and how to dispute incorrect information and have it removed.

Who can I get in touch with at the Commerce Department to discuss some fire prevention ideas?

The National Fire Prevention and Control Administration assists in the development of fire safety standards and conducts an education program on methods of fire prevention. You should contact Joseph E. Clark, Administrator, National Fire Prevention and Control Administration, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C. 20230.

Judgment Verdict Of $96,283 Given Local Cyclist

A judgment verdict of $96,283.36 was awarded to Darrell O. Martin, Jr., of the Oakland area, by a Circuit Court jury last Friday for injuries sustained more than four years ago when the Motorcycle he was operating was struck by an automobile near Southern High school. The verdict holds Mr. Uphole responsible for the amount.

Mr. Martin, employed as a construction inspector by the State Highway administration, brought suit against Woodrow P. Uphole, Jr., Deer Park, for injuries sustained July 31, 1972.

The plaintiff was operating his motorcycle west on old route 135 in front of Southern High school about 7 p.m. July 31, when he was struck by the eastbound automobile operated by Mr. Uphole. Witnesses said that the automobile crossed the center line of the road and struck the cycle.

The main artery in Mr. Martin's left leg was almost severed in the impact. He was taken to Garrett County Memorial hospital and after about 45 minutes of emergency treatment, was transferred to the West Virginia University Medical Center in Morgantown where he was a patient for about 100 days.

The plaintiff underwent three operations the last in February, 1974 resulting in the amputation of his left leg at Sacred Heart hospital in Cumberland.

Thomas N. Berry, Cumberland, was attorney for Mr. Martin. Fred H. Anderson, Cumberland, represented the defendant. Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill presided at the trial. The jury deliberated about 40 minutes before returning its verdict.

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

North Carolina

From a low coastal plain, with Cape Hatteras, Cape Lookout and Cape Fear jutting into the Atlantic Ocean, North Carolina rises to a central Piedmont Plateau region and, in the west to scenic Blue Ridge and Great Smoky Mountains. Mt. Mitchell 6,684 ft. (one mile and one fourth above sea level) is the highest peak east of the Mississippi.

This was first state to seek independence. On April 12, 1776, North Carolina became the first colony to instruct the delegates to vote for independence in the Continental Congress. In 1774 because of the high British tax, ladies of Edenton endorsed a revolution against drinking tea.

The first successful powered airplane flight took place December 17, 1903, by the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk.

During the Civil War North Carolinains supposedly threatened to put tar on the heels of other troops so they would stick better in the next fight. Since then North Carolina has been called the "Tar Heel State."

The heart of the coastal plain is known as "tobacco-land." But farmers in most parts of the state raise tobacco. This is the leading tobacco state in USA. They grow it, cure it, transport it, market it, manufacture it and some smoke it. It was only until 1969 that the state adopted a tax on cigarettes.

The state also leads US in production of textiles, household furniture and in the number of cigarettes made. The state raises many turkeys and chickens.

Among attractions are the Great Smoky Mountains (half in Tennessee) the Blue Ridge Parkway (partly in Virginia), Cape Hatteras and Cape Lookout. Although its islands, reefs, and sand bars make its shores some of the most treacherous in the world. Many ships have been wrecked at Cape Hatteras by the rough seas and difficult currents. This cape is called the Graveyard of the Atlantic.

Morehead Planetarium at the University of Carolina on Chapel Hill is one of the nations better-known plantariums. Spectators can watch the movement of stars and planets across a 68-foot dome. I have visited there, and this is really spectactular.

Other large cities are Greensboro and Winston-Salem. About one of every four North Carolinians is black. Baptist make up the largest religious group.

Handicraft skills are part of the heritage of many persons who live in the mountain areas of the western part of the state.

Rev. Billy Graham and David Brinkley are her favorite sons.

Famous men and women include Virginia Dare, James K. Polk, Andrew Johnson, Dolley Madison, Gaylord and Jim Perry, Jim (Catfish) Hunter, Enos Slaughter and Senator Sam Ervin.

The next state in this series will be North Dakota.

USING THE MOON

In India a radio telescope spends most of its time tracking the moon. By doing this, it observes occultations, the moon passing in front, of radio galaxies and quasars. In this way the positions and sizes of these remote objects can be determined. Several hundred of these weak sources have had their radio brightness distribution measured during the last few years.

Sunday the moon passes through its Last Quarter phase at 10:00 a.m. This week moonrise varies from 8:59 p.m. tonight to 2:11 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Visible planets this week are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. Venus dominates the west sky after sunset for about two hours. Jupiter rises shortly after sunset with the stars of Taurus. Saturn is among the stars of Cancer rising before midnight. On Sunday and Monday Saturn, Regulus and the moon form an interesting display an hour before sunrise.

Daylength is reduced by eleven minutes by Wednesday. Sunrise was at 6:57 a.m. Ten hours eight minutes later the sun will set at 5:05 p.m. Wednesday the sun rises seven minutes later and sets four minutes earlier than today.

Lions Told Of Court House Additions

W. Marshall Rickert, county administrator, presented a program on the proposed Court House additions for Oakland to the Oakland-Mt. Lake Park Lions club at the meeting Monday in the new Broad Ford Elementary School.

Mr. Rickert pointed out that some of the considerations in the planning involved a reduction in the amount of rent that the county is now paying for different offices; the consolidation of the various offices, court and law enforcement facilities in one place, and the fact that the county jail had been condemned several years ago.

The present proposal is for financing the new construction under the provisions of the recently enacted public works program of the Federal government. County Commissioner Wayne Hamilton presented Mr. Rickert to the club.

In an induction ceremony, Earl Clark welcomed Kenneth Richmond, administrator of the Garrett County Memorial Hospital, as a new member, sponsored by Dave Green.

Service pins were presented to the following Lions: 10 years, Courtney Tusing; 15 years, Earl Clark; 25 years, Harold Ashby. Reports on several projects were given, including the chicken barbecue at the fair; activities during Autumn Glory festival, the refreshment stand at the football games and the Halloween celebration.

Several guests were present, including a delegation of four members of the Westernport Lions club. After the meeting, the members and guests were given a tour of the new school building by principal Wayne Johnson.

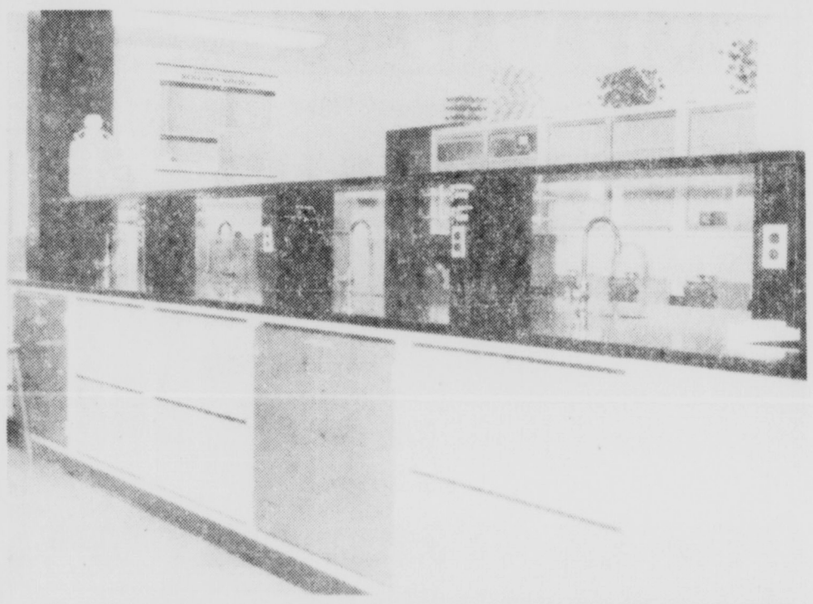
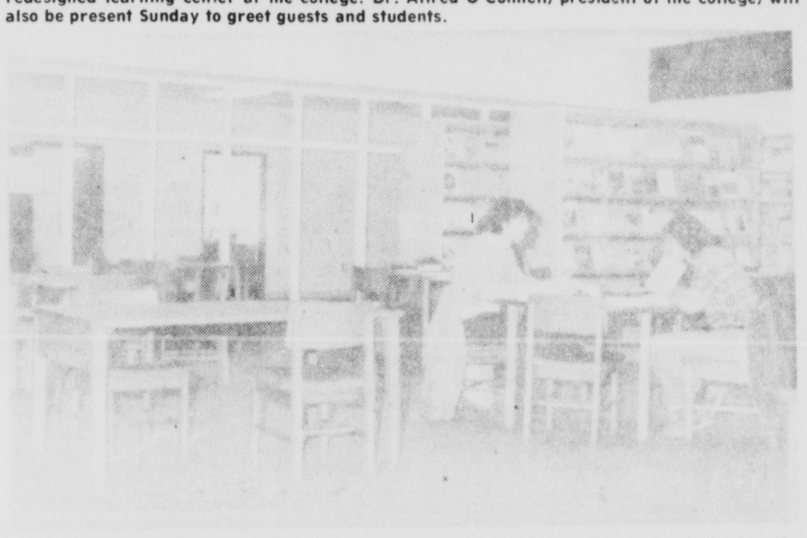
Looking like any class diligently studying for Dr. Lillian Mitchell, psychology teacher, these people are actually helping show the enclosed classroom, one of several completed this summer at GCC which eliminated the open learning areas. Visitors are invited to view the changes this Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m., along with a tour of the Vo-Tech Center just completed this fall.

Dean Robert Trantham, right, discusses school curriculum with Fred Learey, left, business division chairman and assistant professor of business. Dean Trantham will be one of the hosts during Sunday's open house to display the school's Vo-Tech Center as well as the redesigned learning center at the college. Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president of the college, will also be present Sunday to greet guests and students.



The newly remodeled and redesigned chemistry classroom at Garrett Community College features all new equipment in an ultra-modern classroom. The chemistry classroom is part of the learning center which underwent a total facelift this summer, enclosing classrooms and offices in what was open space.



The redesigned library facilities at GCC grew approximately 2,000 square feet when the learning center underwent radical changes this past summer. The library area is under the direction of Stewart Jackson, head librarian, and also contains the audio-visual materials for the school.

IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING SCHEDULE OF SWINE FLU VACCINATION IN GARRETT COUNTY

Important Information About Swine & Victoria Influenza (Flu) Vaccine (Monovalent & Bivalent)

The Disease

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have adequate protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in the past 45 years. You may or may not have adequate protection against Victoria flu, although many Americans had this flu last winter. It was responsible for over 12,000 deaths.

The Vaccine

The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some other vaccines, flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

One shot will protect most people from swine and Victoria flu during the next flu season; however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

Possible Vaccine Side Effects

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Special Precautions

As with any vaccine or drug, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions exists. However, flu vaccine has rarely been associated with severe or fatal reactions. In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- Children under a certain age should not routinely receive flu vaccine. Please ask about age limitations if this information is not attached.
- People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.
- People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who have received another type of vaccine in the past 14 days should consult a physician before taking the flu vaccine.

Below Is The Form You Must Fill Out Before Receiving The Vaccine Registration Form

REGISTRATION FORM

I have read the above statement about swine and Victoria flu, the vaccine, and the special precautions. I have had an opportunity to ask questions, including questions regarding vaccination recommendations for persons under age 25, and understand the benefits and risks of flu vaccination. Huskies Defeat Rams

Northern captured the Garrett County football championship by defeating the Southern Rams 12-0. The cold and icy conditions were unable to stop the Huskies. Although Husky offense gained only 29 yards, N.H.S.'s penetrating defense was able to snare two crucial plays in the 2nd and 3rd periods. Dave Frazee scored the Husky's first touchdown by intercepting a Steve Liller pass and scrambling 15 yards. Then, in the 3rd quarter, Terry Brenneman blocked a Ram punt and two plays later, leading rusher Tony Artice scored on a 5 yard plunge.

Artice led the Huskies in rushing with 21 yards. The entire Northern defense was credited by Husky coach Mike Sines as turning in a standout performance.

Rocket Derby Held By Cubs From Aurora

Blast Off! Out of Sight! What a Sight! Whoosh, pop, and Ah-as a brightly colored parachute returns a boy's rocket gently to the ground. So it was as the Aurora Cub Scouts, now a part of Potomac Council, first Rocket Derby held Saturday, November 7, during snow and cold winds.

The rocket derby was the finale of two weeks of study and preparation. What was to have been an exploration of the solar system snowballed into the world of rockets.

Den 2, under Mrs. Jeanne Whitehair, made a trip to the Oakland planetarium. Cubs and their families met James Hart, director, who presented a multi-media lecture which was the catalyst needed to spark the excitement that followed.

Mr. Hart attended the derby and served as judge. He taught the boys how to load their own rockets, established safety rules and gave pointers on how to improve future projects.

Each boy had a successful launching. Awards for outstanding rocket performance went to Eric Alexander with Monte Wiles, second. Medals and scout good luck pieces went to David Whitehair, Danny Roth and Dale Shaffer. After two hours the cubs returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitehair for the awards ceremony and covered-dish supper.

Attending were Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Shaffer and children, Dale, Allan and Laura; Don Roth and children, Danny, Charlotte and Arlene; William Wiles and son Monte; Mrs. Dayton Alexander and son Eric; Jeff Hamill; Hayward Baker, Becky Watts, Mrs. Nina Schmidt, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Whitehair and children, David, Nancy, Elizabeth and Jennifer; and James Hart.

Mr. Hart donated prize rockets, his time and expertize. Eugene Shaffer assembled the electric starter, Don Roth assembled the launch pad, and parents offered encouragement and support.

Eighteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed five were drivers, four were passengers and nine were pedestrians.

Bell Motor Sales Is Dream Come True For Local Brothers

By Carol Canan

A 16-year-old dream has been realized in the past few weeks for a native of Oakland who has brought his family here to live and started a new business.

Fred A. Bell, Jr. is the second generation bearing that name to find car dealing fascinating — his father, Fred Bell, Sr. sold cars for a local dealership for 27 years before his retirement.

Calling his business Bell Brothers Motor Sales, Fred included younger brother Terry who also is interested in car sales and trades. The two will buy and sell used cars as their business, augmented by a Homelite franchise. They say they also offer the only Homelite chain saw service in Oakland.

Fred, a furniture salesman in Dayton, Ohio for ten years and a member of the U. S. Air Force six years before that, has long cherished a dream of his own business located in this county.

He and his wife, the former Joyce Groves, and three children recently purchased a home on Broad Ford Road. Joyce, who attended Sinclair Community College in Ohio, taught for four years as a teacher's aid for retarded children, and now will assist her husband and brother-in-law in their venture, primarily as bookkeeper.

Headquarters for the company is a 26 by 40 block building containing two office spaces and two large working stalls in the shop, presided over by Robert Shahan, full-time mechanic for warranty work. The building shell was erected by a local contractor and finished by Fred and Terry.

The brothers Bell are planning a grand opening of their business this Friday and Saturday, November 12 and 13, at the premises on Route 219 one mile south of Oakland.

Fred, a 1961 graduate of Southern High School, was a scoutmaster in the Dayton area in his spare time. He also enjoys playing tennis. Terry Bell, a 1962 graduate of Southern and a graduate of Frostburg State College, is employed by the Garrett County Board of Education as a math instructor at Southern Middle School and is an adjunct professor of mathematics at Garrett Community College.

He has done graduate work at the University of Maryland and at West Virginia University as well as FSC. He previously taught at Northern High School for ten years, and enjoys sailing and skiing almost as much as car dealing. He is a former member of the Oakland town council.

The business is located on 3½ acres of the former Weber property, and the Bell brothers plan to expand into other businesses, most notably a furniture store, in the spring. Reality will have to move fast to keep up with the dreams and hopes of these two native countians.

The sinking British Pound was said dragging the dollar down.

Decorate A Holiday To Remember

When you think of your most memorable holidays, chances are they were the ones in which you took special pains with homemade gifts and decorations. Each gift was made with a special friend or relative in mind. Each decorative touch was created to make that and future holidays extra festive.

This year, recreate that special feeling, with some new decorative ideas and gifts to make from your kitchen. The decorations are made with fresh California-Arizona oranges and lemons and materials you can pick up at a florist supply shops. Spirals of peel from the lemons and oranges are made into roses and sprayed with glitter. As the roses dry out, they take on that quaint antique feel that gives your creation an heirloom look. The beauty of this idea is that it lets you use the inside and the outside of the fresh citrus, so nothing goes to waste. And once you have made your initial investment, the arrangement can be used year after year. The dried Glittered Citrus Flowers will probably even last from year to year, if stored properly. But if they don't you know you'll always be able to find fresh citrus in your favorite store — whatever the season.

You will need: 1 tube (3 ounces) silicone adhesive, flower stamens (1 pkg. makes 6-8 flowers), 1 can (12 ounces) glitter glue, 1 container (4 ounces) diamond dust, California-Arizona lemons and oranges (each makes 2 flowers) wooden florist picks.

1. With sharp knife, use up and down sawing motion to remove peel in continuous spiral. (Save the insides to squeeze or slice into salads or other recipes). 2. Cut spiral in half to make two roses. 3. Loosely coil peel with colored side to the outside, forming a rose. 4. Secure in rose shape with silicone adhesive. 5. Fill center of rose with silicone adhesive; add a bunch of lower stamens. 6. Insert pointed end of wooden pick in end of rose. 7. Set rose aside to allow adhesive to set. 8. When all roses are dry, spray with glitter glue and sprinkle with diamond dust.

To make Glittered Whole Lemons: Insert wooden pick through peel to inside of lemon. Spray with glitter glue and sprinkle with diamond dust. To make Glittered Lemon Slices: Cut thick slices of lemon and blot thoroughly on paper towels. Insert pointed end of pick in outer peel. Spray both sides with glitter glue and sprinkle with diamond dust.

What's New?

A three-in-one utensil cooks exotic Chinese, Japanese or Spanish dishes to delight the practical-minded gourmet. The "International Cooker is a Wok, Tempura, Paella Pan and much more. The anodized aluminum Wok and aluminum Fire Ring make for easy stir-frying. A chrome-plated Tempura Rack drains deep-fried meats, seafoods, vegetables. The generous-size Paella Pan doubles as a fry pan, casserole or roaster pan — it's porcelain-coated. Simple care instructions for sudsy washings and suggestions for tempting recipes are included with the cooker.

A new cookware finish, patented by the company that introduced Teflon, is called "Silverstone; and has the look of burnished pewter — the smoothness of polished metal. Fuse-bonded to heavy aluminum, it is advertisted as the premium non-stick surface — stronger than other non-sticks and more resistant to scratching, chipping and peeling. The release properties of the surface make it the easiest-to-clean finish yet, the manufacturer reports. Silverstone is scheduled to be applied to cast and heavy gauge cookware of 7 manufacturers by November/December.

Washable comforters, sleeping bags and matching pillows for the younger set, depict favorite characters from such series as Popeye, Bullwinkle and Planet of the Apes. A Wrangler screen-printed slumber bag is also available. The ensembles are made of either cotton or brushed-nylon tricot outside; brushed-nylon tricot inside.

Washer, and dryer models feature energy savers:

A new line of washers uses less total water and less hot water than other brands of like-sized washers, according to the manufacturer, and controls are more versatile and easier to use. All washers are equipped with a cold-water rinse for every wash temperature. Since "25% of today's washer loads use bleach," Maytag has added a bleach dispensing system to the washer models as well as fabric softener dispensers.

The dryers dry comparable-sized loads "10 - 15%" faster, using no more energy than before. Both gas and electric models operate on a new air-flow principle called the Stream-of-heat pattern, which is fast, gentle and efficient. Featuring 26% greater drum capacity, interiors are coated with heat-fused epoxy powder-coat finish that will not chip and the drum opening is bigger — a full 15 inches in diameter.

How To Treat Nail Polish Stains

A nail polish bottle can easily be knocked over, or the applicator brushed onto a favorite garment as you stroke fingernails. For prompt attention, it is wise to have a bottle of nail polish remover handy. The first step in removal is to place the stain face down on paper towels and sponge the area with remover (acetone). Moving the stain to a clean part of the paper towel frequently, continue sponging until the stain disappears. When at home, launder the garment immediately. Do not use nail polish remover on acetate or Arnel fabrics — send these items to the dry cleaner.

C&P Asks New Rate Schedules

The C&P Telephone Company of Maryland asked the Public Service Commission November 5 to approve new intrastate rate schedules which would help meet the rising costs of furnishing telephone service.

The revised tariffs will result in an overall increase of 12.7 per cent in total revenues.

The proposed rates will mean that an Oakland (334) residential customer having private unlimited service will have a monthly increase of $2.00.

After 24 years at the rate of 10 cents, local coin phone calls will be 20 cents each.

C&P Vice President Thomas M. Gibbons said, "We regret the need to request this increase in rates, but it is absolutely essential if we are to continue to meet our commitment of providing high quality telephone service to present and future customers.

"Despite our successes in holding down costs through the use of new technology and increased productivity, we have not been able to offset the total effects of inflation on the cost of providing telephone service. As an example, next year we will invest over $210 million to expand and modernize. If it weren't for the inflation which has occurred since 1970, that amount would be $80 million less.

"While the cost of virtually everything we buy has been increasing continually, there has been only one increase in basic monthly rates for telephone service in Maryland in almost five years. The time has come when the rates for telephone service must keep pace with the cost of providing that service."

Several of the rate schedules filed by C&P reflect a "usage sensitive" approach. The result is that customers who cause additional costs to be incurred in providing service will be the ones to bear those costs.

"Public phone service is a good example," a C&P spokesman said. "It seems fair for the users of coin phones to pay for the service, rather than to continue to place the burden on other Maryland rate payers. In fact, the alternative to a 20-cent coin phone rate would be an additional 35-cent increase in the monthly rate for every customer."

While the Company does not propose an increase in the monthly rates for basic business telephone service, the message unit allowance will be reduced from 90 to 50 message units per month. As part of the restructuring of business telephone service to achieve greater uniformity, all additional business lines and trunks will be rated the same as main lines and will have the same 50-call allowance.

The proposal has been made to begin timing business local calls when the facilities are available, probably in about two years. One 8-cent message unit would then be charged for each 5-minute period of a conversation from a business phone. Until the timing capability is available, the business message unit rate will be 9.9 cents.

Other changes in rates to more closely reflect the cost and relative value of the service include:

Elimination of the $4 charge for color sets, a 15-cent increase in the residence monthly extension rate, an increase of 25 cents in the monthly Touch-Tone charge, elimination of the $5.50 nonrecurring charge for Touch-Tone lines, overall increases of about 35 per cent in one-time charges for connecting or rearranging service, bringing the rate of semi-public service to the same level as that of the main business line, recognizing the similar benefits of the two services.

A monthly charge of 50 cents for each business line arranged with the line hunting feature, restructuring channel service rates so that they are consistent with basic service provisions, increases for PBX, Centrex, auxiliary, and other services, recognizing the costs and demand for these services.

Changes in rates for long distance calls within the state include: increases of 15 to 20 per cent for customer dialed calls and about 35 per cent for operator assisted calls, reflecting the additional costs associated with operator handled calls..

Other changes for long distance calls are a one-minute initial period for all customer dialed calls, increased discounts for customer dialed calls at off-peak time periods, becoming 35 per cent during the evening and 60 per cent for nights and weekends, and increases for Wide Area Telephone Service in line with those for customer dialed calls.

The following exchanges and zones will be reclassified to a higher rate class, reflecting the increased number of phones which customers can call in their local area: Cardiff, Catonsville, Frederick, Galena, Kiefer, Mt. Savage, North Beach, Pikesville, Stewartstown, and Terra Alta.

In applying to the Maryland Public Service Commission, C&P said that it required additional annual revenue of $82.3 million (approximately $41.7 million after taxes) to meet its commitment to provide customers with the best possible telephone service. To be able to compete for the necessary capital, the Company said that 10.1 per cent rate of return on its investment is necessary.

The proposed tariff changes are on file at C&P's public business office and at the Maryland Public Service Commission.

Share Distilled Spirits Tax Given

A wide variation in the buying habits of consumers of distilled spirits across Maryland affected the revenue currently being distributed to Baltimore City and the 23 counties as their share of the tax for the first quarter of fiscal 1977, according to Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller.

Checks totaling $1,263,485.50 were distributed and the amount is two tenths of one percent less than the return for the same period last year.

The counties and Baltimore City receive 50 cents of the $1.50 per gallon state tax on distilled spirits. The report showed that 11,153 net gallons were delivered in the county, providing $4,576.50 for the county, an increase of 25 cents over the last year report. Just two counties, Caroline and Somerset, received less than Garrett County.

Baltimore City received the largest amount at $277,314.50,

More Gambling, Assault, Misuse Cases Heard

More gambling, assault and battery and misuse of the telephone cases drew heavy fines in District Court Monday. Some pleaded guilty and other were found guilty by Judge Lewis R. Jones. Several persons were involved in the same incidents.

Robert Wayne Johnson, Alder street, Oakland, and Thomas Richard Whiteman, Oak Grove Tavern, Crellin, both pleaded guilty of betting, wagering or gambling at Oak Grove Tavern as of October 1. At Monday's trial both were fined $200 and costs. Whiteman also pleaded guilty of selling or permitting the consumption of alcohol after hours, 2 a.m., October 2. Whiteman was fined $50 on this count.

Three men pleaded not guilty of assault and battery on Paul D. Thayer at a cabin on Mayhew Inn road on October 21. Raymond Spiker, Mt. Lake Park; Ronny Ball, Mt. Lake Park, and David Hinebaugh, Oak street, Oakland, were all found guilty of the charge and fined $100 and costs each. Hinebaugh pleaded not guilty of an additional charge of assault and battery but was found guilty and fined an additional $100. A plea of not guilty of destruction of property by each was sustained. A plea of not guilty of breaking and entering the cabin by Hinebaugh was also sustained.

Michael Allison, Mt. Storm, W. Va., pleaded guilty of misuse of the telephone on four days, September 24, 26, 30 and October 5, so as to annoy the David Bowman family. At Monday's trial, Allison was fined $100 and costs.

Three were charged with disorderly conduct at the Garrett County Liquor Dispensary, October 16. The case of Gary Hardesty, RD 3, Deer Park, was stetted. Dave Hardesty pleaded not guilty and the plea was sustained. Albert Paugh, Oakland, pleaded not guilty but he was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. A 30-day jail sentence was suspended and Paugh was placed on probation for one year, under supervision. Paugh is also to consult the Alcoholic Services and to follow the program.

Charles Robertson, RD 2, Swanton, pleaded guilty of assault and battery on Thomas Lancaster, RD 2, Swanton, at Swanton, September 4. Robertson was found guilty and fined $250 and costs. A 3-month jail sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year under supervision.

John Wilburn, Star Route, Grantsville, has been charged with child abuse of his son on October 25. As the result of a preliminary hearing Monday, the case was forwarded to Circuit Court.

John Miller, Mt. Lake Park, pleaded not guilty of disorderly conduct, July 9, at Mt. Lake Park, and the plea was sustained.

Attend Convention

The Maryland Federation of Republican Women held its 54th annual convention at the Hilton Hotel in Annapolis last Friday and Saturday. The Southern Republican Women's club was recognized by receiving the Bicentennial patch and blue ribbon. These awards were given to the three top clubs that participated in the bicentennial quilt made by the clubs across the state. The Southern club's quilt square had been designed and embroidered by Miss Glenna DeWitt, Oakland. Miss DeWitt had designed a map of Garrett County with the bicentennial emblem in the right, lower corner. Plans are being made to display the quilt in the state house in Annapolis.

Attending the convention from this county were Mrs. Brenda Butscher, Mrs. Ireta Callis, Miss Glenna DeWitt, Mrs. Wilma Calhoun, Mrs. Hazel Margroff, Mrs. Orpha Miller and Mrs. Mary Kight.

The apathy of the average American citizen was proven wrong when 80 million voted in the recent election.

Garrett Community College's new Vocational-Technical Center will feature an open house this Sunday, November 14, so those interested may view the structure and its many features. The building, which was begun last May, was completed in time for the opening of the fall classes.

Merchants Will Name New Officers

Officers for the coming year were nominated at the Tuesday meeting of the Downtown Oakland Merchants Association held at Fireside Inn.

Nominated for president were incumbent I. Robert Rudy, Jr. and Mrs. Sandy Flanagan; vice president, incumbent Phil Davidson, Carl Cathell and John Kurilla; secretary, Lois Friend; and treasurer, incumbent Mary Naylor Bennett, Mrs. Dee Raynovich and Rev. Manning Smith.

New officers will be chosen by mail ballot before the January meeting. Members will receive the ballots through the mail in mid-December.

Fifteen members were present to hear reports by Mary Naylor Bennett, John Kurilla and Terry King. The Christmas parade was discussed and alternatives to the use of the Center Street playground were aired. The members agreed that it would be more safe and convenient if popcorn balls were distributed downtown if at all possible. Parade date is November 26.

In other business presided over by president Bob Rudy, John Kurilla and Ben Ridder were named to solicit merchants to donate prizes for the popcorn balls this year.

Christmas shopping hours, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily, will go into effect Friday, December 10, according to the calendar drawn up by the group earlier this year.

Guest speaker was James (Smokey) Stanton, chairman of the planning commission and chairman of the zoning appeals board, who requested input for the HUD development block grant for rejuvenation of Oakland, and who also asked that a committee be formed to ask merchants to prepare their thoughts and ideas for future development in Oakland.

Appointed to the committee were this year's officers, I. Robert Rudy, Jr., Phil Davidson, Lois Friend, and Mary Naylor Bennett, along with Rev. Manning Smith. Any others who would like to serve on the committee may contact Mr. Stanton or Mr. Rudy.

UNICEF Realizes Over $200 In First Phase

The UNICEF drive for Garrett County has completed the first part of its campaign with over $200 contributed so far, according to Rev. Martin E. Feild, area chairman.

The traditional Halloween theme centered on children "Trick or Treating" for other children around the world. UNICEF is a shortened title for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund. It supplies aid to extremely poor children on a non-political basis.

Reports have been submitted by Bear Creek Church of the Brethren; Oak Park Church of the Brethren; St. Mark's, St. Matthew's, and St. Peter's Churches. Several of these churches raised money by the joint effort of teenagers who sponsored a "haunted house." Ryan's Glade 4-H Club assisted by spreading out into the Southeastern area of the county. Funds also were received from donation boxes placed in several Oakland stores by members of the Acorn newspaper of Southern High School.

A second collection phase at Thanksgiving time will complete the drive for this year. As American families give thanks for blessings their children enjoy, the opportunity is given to provide food, water, education and health care for other children less fortunate.

D.A.R. To Meet November 15

The next meeting of the Youghiogheny Glades Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will be Monday, November 15, at 7:30 p.m. in the cafeteria at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

William Nace, district manager of the Garrett Soil Conservation District, will have the program on "Wise Use of Our Resources."

Early Winter Storm Covers Area Monday

An early winter storm blanketed the Mountain Top with up to ten inches of snow Monday. The intensity of the storm diminished as it moved from west to east. The mercury dropped to the lowest so far this season, with 8 degrees Tuesday morning.

Thursday afternoon skies began to cloud up and remained cloudy with snow flurries beginning Friday afternoon. These deposited .3 inch of snow. Variable cloudy conditions existed through Saturday and Sunday. About 11 p.m Sunday the snow began to fall, although a few flurries had been flying earlier.

Fresh winds later Monday threatened to cause some drifting but settled later in the day when skies cleared. Temperatures began to rise Tuesday with variable cloudy skies becoming clear in the afternoon. Clouds gathered later in the day with rain near midnight. About a quarter inch of rain fell by Wednesday morning. Yesterday skies were partly cloudy becoming cloudy and continuing so into this morning.

Temperatures averaged 5.5 degrees below normal for the week. Highs averaged 43.3 degrees or 7.3 degrees below normal. The highest was Sunday's 47 degrees. Lows averaged 24.7 degrees or 3.8 below normal. Tuesday's 8 degrees was the lowest with Monday's 16 next lowest. Sunday and yesterday were the only two days that the mercury stayed above freezing.

The 10.3 inches of snow already puts November 3.1 inches above normal.

Bloomington Man Injured In Mine

Paul Melvin Streets, 29, of Bloomington, was injured in a mine accident yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock, when a rock fell on him while he was at work on a coal seam of the Delta Mining company property, four miles south of Grantsville, on route 495.

He was reported to be in "stable" condition at Memorial hospital in Cumberland.

State Police said the man, an employe of Smeltzer Auguring company, Swanton, was doing auguring work and was up against a wall at the time of the accident.

The Frostburg Police department was notified and called the civil defense emergency communication center at Constitution Park. In turn the center alerted the Northern Rescue squad.

The largest marijuana seizure ever occurred in Florida.

More Than Our Pity

Saturday, October 23, 1976, marks the twentieth anniversary of one of the heroic, and at the same time the most tragic, of all events in mankinds's long, agonizing struggle for freedom. It was on that day that the people of Hungary, goaded to desperation by persecution, torture and terror, turned against their Communist oppressors. For fifteen magnificent, history-making days, Hungarian men, women and youth fought, and died, against overwhelming odds. In the end, they were crushed beneath the treads of thousands of Soviet tanks and tens of thousands of Red Army troops.

Wrote Archibald MacLeish at that time: "We should not forget, in all the suffering and pain, that we owe the people of Hungary more than our pity. We owe them also pride and praise. For their defeat has been itself a triumph. Those Hungarian students and workers and women and fighting children have done more to close the future to Communism than armies or diplomats have done before them. They have given more and done more. For what they have done has been to expose the brutal hypocrisy of Communism for all of Asia, all of Africa, all the world to see. So long as men live in any country who remember the murder of Hungary, Soviet Russia will never again be able to pose before the world as the benefactor of mankind. The Hungarian dead have torn that mask off. Their fingers hold its tatters in their graves."

Today, the people of Hungary still live under the oppressive heel of their Soviet masters. With an area only about the same as the State of Indiana, Hungary is occupied by four full divisions of Soviet troops, each composed of 12,000 to 16,000 men, two of them tank divisions with over 650 tanks, plus armored cars and a vast array of weapons. In addition, the Hungarian people are kept in line by one of the most vicious secret-police syetems of all the captive nations. The AVH — also known as "Avos" — has done much to earn the hatred, as well as the fear, of the people. This contemptible organization was formed by the USSR immediately after Soviet occupation following World War II by simply switching the armbands of the Hungarian Fascist Arrow Cross Party which had earned its reputation by the killing of Jews. The ranks of the Fascist Arrow Cross-AVH units were then filled by common criminals who were released by the Communists from the jails on the promises that they would serve the Reds as informer-enforcers. Those who love freedom must never forget the courage, and the sacrifices, of the people of Hungary. —U. S. Press Association.

Letters To Editor

Dear Mr. Hanst:

For the past several weeks there have been letters and paid advertising in The Republican from citizens, clergy and church groups declaring God's judgment, His wrath and final days. Though I do not deny these elements within the Christian Faigh, I do wonder about the fear that such letters and advertising create. I also wonder about the image of the Christian Church in our community. It seems to me that the main, central task of the Christian Church is to proclaim, declare, preach and otherwise shout the GOOD NEWS - the Gospel.

Jesus Christ stands for hope, for love, for new life and for forgiveness. I personally am weary of the amount of "hell fire and brimstone" that has been so prominent in our newspapers and radio. I think it high time for Christians in our county - citizens, clergy and churches - to begin proclaiming and advertising some Good News - news that we have hope. . .news that we are loved. . .news that we are forgiven. . .news that we can rejoice. . .news that Jesus Christ is our Savior! What a difference it would make in people's lives to hear some Good News for a change.

Sincerely,
The Rev. Manning L. Smith

Dear Sir:

I would like to make a public comment on the decision by the H-P Store in Oakland to be open on Sundays. As one who voted for the amendment "to keep Garrett County as it is," I am deeply disappointed in H-P's response to the referendum. I do not question the store's "right" to be open according to the law. I do question whether voters were expressing a desire for merchandizing on Sundays to grow in our community.

I would ask the H-P management to reconsider opening the Oakland store on Sundays. I would also remind the community of our opportunity to influence the decisions made by the management of retailing establishments in our community.

Sincerely,
Pastor R. A. Seaks
Oakland,Md.

THE FIRST DOLLAR EARNED

Today Donald arrived. Not at the zenith of success. Just at the threshold of opportunity. He made his first dollar . . . and put it where it will keep on working for his future.

Up to now Donald has depended on an allowance. That means living on money given. Now Donald will be moving toward financial independence. That means living on what you have earned.

Spiritually we arrive the same way. Our parents, if they are wise and caring parents, give us faith. They bring us to church. They encourage our Christian growth. They set moral standards in an atmosphere of religious conviction.

On the day that we do arrive . . . we begin providing for our spiritual needs voluntarily! Only then are we ready to be spiritually independent. That means living by the faith you have gained.

Ultimately we have to make our own decisions about our principles and convictions. There is no substitute for early religious training in preparing for that day.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON DETECTING A CHRISTIAN

Lesson for November 14, 1976

Background Scripture: Romans 12
Devotional Reading: Romans 12:1,2,19-21

A popular Christian folksong says:

"And they'll know we are Christians By our love."

It is probably the best way to detect a Christian, although it is hardly a universally-accepted standard. Recently I attended a neighborhood church for a Sunday morning service. The sermon title was "Who Is A Christian?" and the answers proclaimed by the preacher were all oriented to belief: "A Christian is a person who believes in God...Jesus Christ...the Holy Spirit...", etc. While I would not discount the importance of belief, I was disappointed that not one of the answers from the pulpit that morning said anything at all about "love," for I am convinced that this is the chief means of detecting a Christian.

Rev. Althouse

Members one another

But what do we mean by "love"? Certainly, "love" is one of the most dog-eared, misunderstood, and misapplied terms in the English language.

In Romans 12 the Apostle Paul spells it out quite clearly.

On the one hand, "love" must certainly have some effect upon our relationships with other followers of Christ. We can hardly be Christian if we do not practice "brotherly affection" (12:10) with those who are our brethren in Christ.

Of course, we all know that!

Ah yes, we "know" it, but is it evident to the world about us? Can the world "know we are Christians by our love" when they find the Church so disunited? When they see how we avoid each other and stick to our own private parochial worlds, when they witness our denominational and sectarian jealousies and squabbles, when they behold Protestants and Catholics maiming each other in Northern Ireland and Christians slaughtering Moslems (and vice versa) in Lebanon, can we wonder why the world might be confused about who and what a follower of Jesus Christ should look like?

To use Paul's analogy of the human body with many parts, the Church often appears to be a person who is totally un-cordinated, the parts of the body not only going their own way and doing their own thing, but also not even recognizing that the other parts of the body even exist!

No repayment necessary

Secondly, Paul indicates that a Christian will be one who also expresses love to enemies as well. Even if we master the art of loving our brethren, we are not truly Christian until we have extended that love to those who abuse us. For example, when did you last "bless those who persecute you"? "Bless and do not curse them," says Paul (12:14). (Go ahead, I'll wait while you search your memory on that question.) Actually, have you ever blessed anyone who treated you unkindly?

And, in case you're not sure what it means to "bless," Paul goes on to say: "Repay no one evil for evil..." (12:17)! How do you stock up there? Don't think this is some odd-ball idea of Paul's, for he got it directly from Christ himself. Jesus not only said it, he demonstrated it in his own life... and...death.

How can you detect a Christian? I think the song best captures the answer of our Lord and his apostles:

"And they'll know we are Christians by our love."

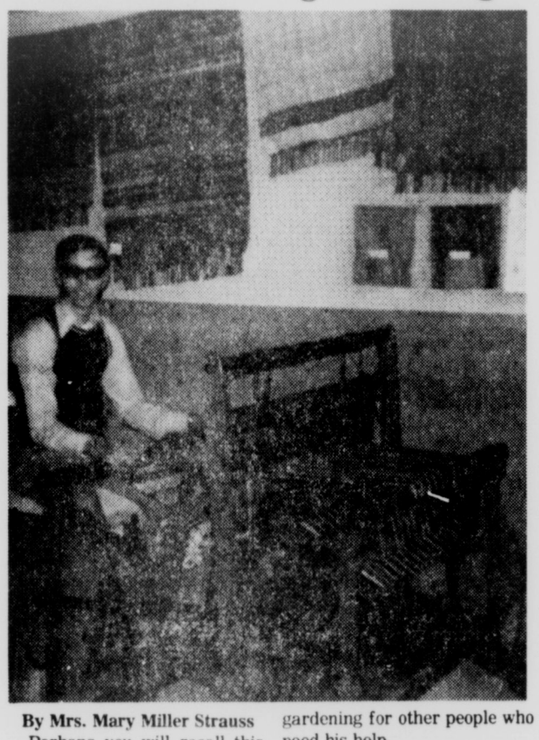
George Haenftling Masters Fine Art Of Rug Weaving



By Mrs. Mary Miller Strauss

Perhaps you will recall this young man at the Garrett County Bicentennial Harvest Festival which was held during the middle of September.

He took over his mother's craft of weaving rugs and today has become an expert on the loom.

George Haenftling lives near the Hoyes Community and is the youngest in a family of four children. He is the only boy in the family, rating a very important role with his parents.

George attended the Accident Elementary School and is now a senior at Northern High School. He is especially interested in math and for several years took much interest in the agricultural course offered at the school.

Young Haenftling is an active member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident, attending Sunday School, the church services, youth choir, Luther League and participating in the Youth Sunday services.

George helps to mow three church cemeteries and does gardening for other people who need his help.

George also worked with a corps of boys during the summer at Camp Hickory under the leadership of James Teats and the director, Charles F. Strauss, Sr.

Local Educators Attend Meeting

The Early Childhood Conference sponsored by the Maryland State Department of Education was held on November 5, at the YMCA Building in Frederick.

Attending from this County were Harold Garrett and Lewis A. Domenick, Elementary Supervisors, Francis Harris, Coordinator of Title I, and David Miller, Title I Home-School Coordinator. Also attending were Mrs. Charlene Thomas, Principal of Route 40 School, and Mrs. Dorothy Minnick, Kindergarten teacher.

Mr. Harris and Mr. Miller were discussion group leaders. Mrs. Thomas and Mrs. Minnick presented to the group a detailed explanation of the unique early childhood program which is being successfully implemented in the Route 40 School. Presentations were also made by Cecil and Frederick Counties.

The conference was attended by school supervisors and administrators from twelve Maryland counties as well as educators from the various colleges throughout the state.

The meeting was one of a series being held to inform teachers about curriculum for kindergarten and grades one, two and three. Presentations were made by educators from Cecil, Frederick and Garrett counties.

Dr. Eileen Steele, education department, Frostburg State college, accompanied the team.

The importance of articulation in early childhood education and the major forces that help or hinder the process was the theme for the day.

Members of the Route 40 staff and Dr. Steel will take the Center presentation to the Mineral County school system on November 16.

Quartet To Appear

The Jubilators Quartet will be at the Bloomington United Methodist church on Friday evening, November 12, at 7:30, to participate in a Gospel Sing, it was announced by Rev. Frank Johnson, pastor.

Firemen's Group Plans Training November 13, 14

The Allegany-Garrett Counties Volunteer Firemen's Association plans a training session November 13 and 14 at Westernport.

Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. each day at the Potomac Fire Company hall and 25-men teams will attend the session each day.

After classroom discussions at the fire hall in Westernport, the volunteers will go to the Moran property along Rt. 135 between Westernport and McCoole to receive training on auto fires.

On November 18, the communications committee of the fire radio network will meet at 7:30 p.m. at Civil Defense headquarters in Constitution park. The Bowling Green Volunteer fire company will be the host.

At an executive committee meeting held last Sunday at the Bowman's Addition fire hall, various topics were discussed. The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad requested an application to join the two-county association. Present by-laws now specify fire companies only and in order that others may join there must first be a change in the by-laws during the association's convention in June at Bowling Green.

Proceeds from the firemen's ball show a profit of $441 with additional ticket money yet to be returned. The regional firemen's ball will be held at the Clary Club on April 2 with music by the Chinese Bandits.

Donald Ware, Baltimore Pike, was named association coordinator for the state unit.

The 65th annual convention will be held June 4, 1977 in Bowling Green. The Potomac Fire Company at Westernport has requested being host for the 1978 convention.

Residents of Little Orleans are seeking information about the formation of a fire company in that area. A meeting will be held on Friday at 7:30 p.m. with Flintstone firemen who now serve the Little Orleans area.

Need For Utility Rate Relief Noted

Rep. Goodloe Byron on Monday called for utility rate relief for the elderly and poor and recommended the Public Service Commission conduct a special study solely addressing this problem.

Byron submitted his views in a letter to the Public Service Commission noting the hearings on electric rate design which are being held this week in Hagerstown, Frederick and Cumberland.

"During this past year many of those on a fixed income have expressed deep concern to me over rising utility rates and their ability to afford such increases", he said.

"Obviously utility service is a necessity and electricity must be available to such citizens under some form of rate plan."

Byron noted one plan calling for lower rates for users of small quantities of electricity but feels it would unnecessarily burden the poor and elderly since low income does not always mean low electricity use. He cited the example of low income families having inadequate home insulation and senior citizens spending more time at home in retirement.

"I, for one, do not think it is socially conscionable to penalize our elderly because they spend more time at home resulting in a greater use of electricity than the average citizen may use," he said.

Byron indicated he is planning to set up a task force to explore the plight of those on a fixed income. A plan to help underwrite part of the heating bill for low income groups will be considered.

Women Urge Peace In Ireland

Signatures urging peace in Northern Ireland were given at a meeting of Church Women United during observance of World Community Day at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Accident last Friday.

The action was the result of a telephone call from Mrs. Linnea Dittmar, of Snow Hill, Maryland state president of CWU which came to Mrs. Martha Glotfelty, newly elected president of the Garrett county group, requesting a statement supporting a peace movement in Northern Ireland to be read and acted upon. The peace movement began after citizens there witnessed the death of a number of children. Catholic and Protestant women cooperated.

Thirty-nine women signed the statement and names were mailed to Dorothy C. Wagner in New York.

The statement: "We, as Church Women United in the USA, Protestant, Catholic, Orthodox, gathered on World Community Day, November 5, support the people of Ireland as they put their signatures on the Declaration of the Peace People, and exert their efforts to end the violence and build together a new community of love, peace and justice in Northern Ireland."

Schools Review Closing Plans On Snow Days

Members of the county roads department, state roads department and state police participated in a meeting with school officials in October to review procedures used for closing schools in inclement weather. Participating from the Board of Education were Eugene Flinn, supervisor of transportation, Dr. Jerome Ryscavage, assistant superintendent for administrative services, and Dr. William H. Buser, county superintendent of schools.

Essentially, information is gathered by the school system for making the decision between the hours of 5:00 to 6:00 a.m. Information is obtained from the county and state roads departments and in some instances the state police prior to making a decision which is announced by 6:00 a.m. Dr. Buser stated that decisions must be made by 6:00 a.m. if the decision to be adequately communicated to all bus drivers, students, employees, and the public. He also indicated that rapidly deteriorating road conditions due to changing weather conditions sometimes raise questions about the decision.

While schools are open or closed on a county-wide basis, exceptional local school conditions may be considered. Individual bus drivers are also permitted to modify their route if road conditions are extremely bad by clearing this through the Supervisor of Transportation. Where students have extremely long walks to catch buses under severe weather conditions parents may elect to keep children home.

Dr. Buser indicated that even with severe weather conditions in the county as well as many miles of rural roads, Garrett County students maintain better attendance than students in many other counties in the state.

Patrons and the public are asked to listen to their local radio station for word on school closings rather than call the Board of Education Office, roads departments, the radio station or employees of these agencies, tying up telephones which are needed for other calls.

Deer Management Seminar Scheduled

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College, McHenry, will sponsor a one night seminar on Deer Management in Western Maryland, Past, Present and Future, on Monday, November 22, at 7:00 p.m. in the college auditorium.

According to Ed Golden, Wildlife Biologist for Garrett County, who is coordinator of the program, the guest speaker will be Robert Miller, Director of Forest Wildlife Programs in Maryland.

Aside from Mr. Miller's presentation there will be a discussion, question and answer period included. There will be no admission fee for the program and the public is invited.

Woodmen Present Flag To Troop 45

Ernest Savage was a special guest of Boy Scout Troop No. 45 on Friday, and presented the troop with an American flag from the Woodmen of the World.

Howard Ross led the pledge of allegiance and Ricky Baker recited the oath. Charles Ross was in attendance to present his son Howard with his physical fitness skill award, coin collecting merit badge and second-class rank badge. Howard is the first scout to achieve this rank in the newly-formed troop.

Plans were made for the Veterans' Day ceremony, swimming on Friday and possible troop participation in the turkey shoot on Sunday.

Scouts were assigned skill award activities to complete. Archery competition was won by Mark Bennett.

Attending were Howard Ross, Mark Bennett, Jimmy House, Ricky Baker, Ernie Nazelrod, Randy Nazelrod and Todd Saunders.

Violations On Mining Laws

The Water Resources Administration has taken enforcement action on various violations of the State's Water Quality Laws occurring in Garrett County between September 20 and October 26.

Potomac Mining, Inc. has been issued a complaint for not installing the sediment control measures and the haul road that needs to be completed and has been ordered to cease and desist further construction of the deep mine until the haul road is completed and all ponds and sediment controls are to be installed before mining begins.

Delta Mining, Inc. has also been issued a complaint for sediment deposition to Cherry Creek and has been ordered to remove the fire clay stockpile within 90 days and to install a sediment basin. The Delta Mining is now in compliance on both complaints.

Faculty Forum

By Kristin Milne,
Public Relations
Garrett County
Teachers Association

The role of the public school teacher is as multi-faceted as any actor's part for the stage. Many changes in teaching have transpired with the passage of time, and these changes demand flexibility on the part of everyone in the profession. Mrs. Dorothy Frame, a respected member of both the community and faculty of Southern High School, has witnessed these changes and comments below.

When I decided to enter the ranks of teachers in this country, the decision was not altogether my own. Several members of my family before me were teachers which certainly influenced me somewhat to follow suit. The major persuasive factor, however, was peer attitude: most of my friends were planning careers in education, and it seemed only logical that I join the crowd. It never occurred to me that I might seriously question the step I was taking — of the 17 of us who began college together in the teaching program, only eight have finished as teachers.

Dorothy Frame made the same decision — that is, to become a public school teacher — but in contrast, life was quite different from today when she graduated from high school. Chances are that peer attitude among the majority of her classmates did not coincide with her own. Things were so different then that most young people did not finish high school with a diploma. Eighth grade, or its equivalent, was considered by many as adequate schooling. After all, why did one need a diploma to marry, work the farm, or take over a family trade?

Only those who planned to attend college and become a professional of some sort were among the graduates, which in Mrs. Frame's class numbered only 19. As a matter of fact, she recalls that there was no eighth grade class in Grantsville High School which has since become Grantsville Elementary, housing grades kindergarten through six.

Born Dorothy Edwards, she moved with her family from Crellin to Grantsville and has always considered Grantsville her hometown. Upon high school graduation, a rare honor for most young ladies at that time, she continued her education at West Virginia University in Morgantown, West Virginia.

Miss Edwards prepared for a teaching career by majoring in Physical Education and minoring in Science. She also accumulated sufficient credits in English to accredit her in that field as well. In 1933, she was graduated with a B.S. degree. Approximate cost of total education from 1929-1933 equalled $2,500. That amount of money would almost cover my expenses for one year between 1971-1975. One must consider that the years between 1929 and 1933 were part of the Great Depression, $2,500 was a considerable sum to raise during such financially difficult times.

The Depression affected the area of education as it did all other kinds of employment. Upon college graduation, Miss Edwards was faced with the grave problem of seeking and attaining employment as a teacher; with virtually no monies available for building new schools, the available teaching positions were coveted.

With no job openings in teaching, Miss Edwards returned to this area and found employment as a field worker (case worker) in Social Services. The following year proved more equitable for those searching teaching jobs, and Miss Edwards began her teaching career in Oakland High School where she remained until 1938. Her first paycheck amounted to $103.00 for the month.

While teaching in Oakland High School, presently the offices of the Garrett County Board of Education, Miss Edwards taught Science and girls' Physical Education. The principal at that time was Mr. F. D. Bittle. A favorite story which arises from this period is that Mr. Carl Everly, recently-retired vice-principal of Southern High School, began his teaching career on the same day as Miss Edwards.

In January of 1938, Dorothy Edwards became Dorothy Frame. Mrs. Frame had met her husband, Jim, while working in Scoial Services 4 years earlier. In June of the year 1938, the Frames moved to Kingwood, West Virginia where Mr. Frame held the post of director of what was then entitled the Department of Welfare.

It seems that during that time, married teachers were required to live in the community in which they taught. Mrs. Frame began a four-year leave of absence from teaching after moving to Kingwood.

In 1940, a daughter, Linda, was born. Two years later, Mrs. Frame resumed teaching in Preston County—first in Masontown-Valley Senior High for two years, and later in Kingwood High School for 17 years. Part of those 17 years on the Kingwood High School faculty were shared with my father who has since retired from teaching; perhaps Mrs. Frame was not surprised when I arrived for my first teaching assignment, following a family tradition!

In 1961, Mrs. Frame again returned to Oakland to teach. At Southern High School she has remained 14 years under three different principals: Kenneth Johns, Robert Rodeheaver, and Luther Parrack. She taught one year (1968-1969) in Charles County but returned again to Garrett County.

How has her role as a teacher changed since beginning in 1934? What are the major differences in students from then until now? I must have thrown hundreds of questions in her direction similar to these, but Mrs. Frame summarized it all quite well by saying:

"When I began teaching, the money situation was very tight. There were certainly none of the federal grants and programs then as there are now."

"Many of the things that we take for granted today were non-existent then as I began teaching. There was no transportation by county school busses. There was no hot lunch program, no prom, no extra-curricular activities, and no band. The only sports we played were soccer for boys and volleyball for girls."

"There were no big discipline problems to speak of, but in the last 15 years, that has changed. I have seen a change for the better coming, but the sixties were trying times."

"Kids and parents were more respectful toward teachers. Students didn't make so many demands. They had a greater sense of responsibility that went along with receiving their rights in due time rather than when kids began demanding their rights."

"Many problems that we teachers face today are relatively new. For example, the dress code is a recent form of discipline. Before the '60's, there was no need to establish rules on how to appear during school hours. No one questioned school authority or 'made waves,' but like everything else, attitudes changed."

"The teaching profession is becoming much more difficult to learn and practice well. There are many more roles we must now contend with that were not considered when I was being trained to teach. Now we are not only expected to be classroom instructors and disciplinarians, but mothers, fathers, psychologists, and guidance counselors as well.

There are many more differences than can be mentioned in the space of this article. There are even recently required tasks that I was not prepared to undertake since my graduation in 1975. I concur with Mrs. Frame's opinion on the additional roles required of us, and I admire her for the apparent ease with which she adapts to these changes.

I am not alone, I'm sure, in my admiration of Dorothy Frame. She has dedicated many years to the service of teaching others, a service which is often hastily overlooked, at times unappreciated, and generally taken for granted by students.

One rarely considers the efforts by the teacher behind every lesson being taught when one is on the student's side of the desk. I am confident in saying that I join fellow faculty members and past, present, and future students of Mrs. Frame in applauding her for her constant service in the teaching profession and in extending a sincere thanks for a job well done.

Speed Tickets Continue High

Although traffic violations, in general, are on the decline, tickets for exceeding the posted speed limit continue high. One person stood trial while all others forfeited collateral for the week ending November 8, as noted in District Court records.

The only one standing trial pleaded not guilty but Judge Lewis R. Jones placed Dwight L. Frankhouser, Jr., Westminster, Va., on probation before judgment and he paid costs.

Over 60 forfeited collateral.

Huskies Trim Southern 12 To 0

Despite a total offense of only 29 yards and two first downs, Northern High School Huskies braved a bitter cold and near one-inch layer of snow to emerge with a 12 to 0 victory over Southern High School Rams last Friday night on the Oakland gridiron.

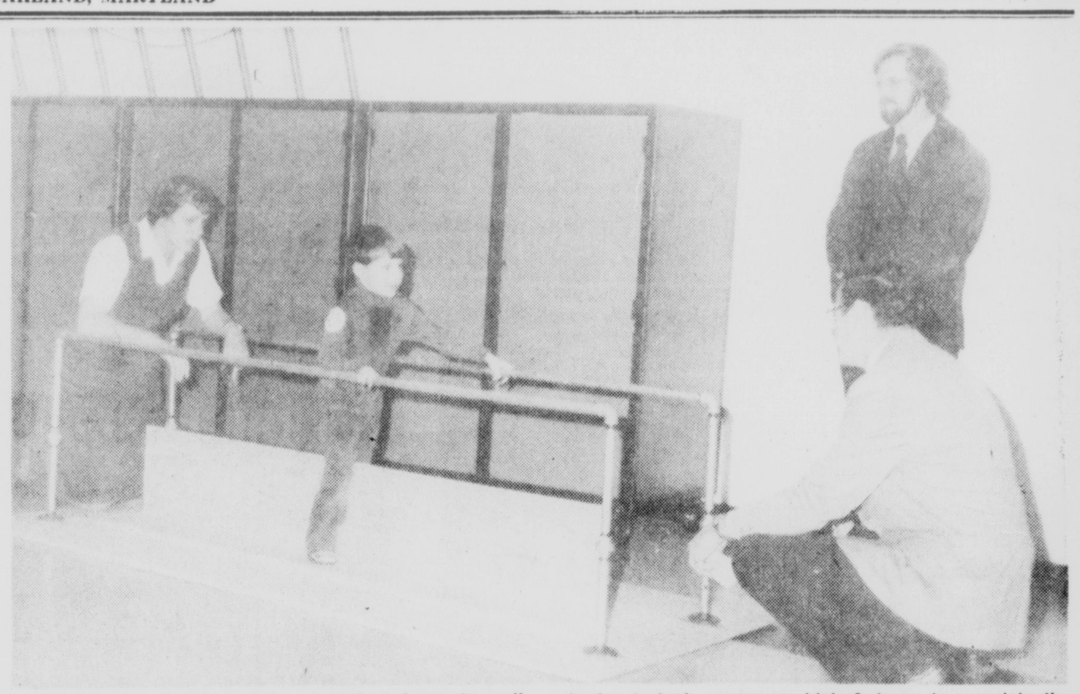
The Huskies capitalized on a pair of crucial opportunities on both the second and third periods, scored as a direct result of Southern turnovers while the Rams played the ball control game but just couldn't maintain any momentum as they neared Northern's goal line. Southern had only 76 yards total offense.

Dave Frazee got the Huskies on the scoreboard in the second period when he snared a Steve Liller pass and raced 15 yards for a touchdown. Then, in the third period, Terry Brenneman blocked a Southern punt and two plays later Tony Artice plunged through the line for a five-yard touchdown run.

Artice led Northern rushers with 21 yards and Kurt Lear went the distance as quarterback. The entire Northern defense was credited by Huskies coach Mike Sines as turning in a standout performance.

Southern's nearest scoring opportunity occurred at the beginning of the second half when the Rams took the kickoff and in 14 plays were at Northern's 20 yard line. Keith Kamp then came through with an interception of a Steve Liller aerial and the Huskies assumed possession.

Southern defensive standouts were John Wolf, Tom Harsh and Eric Cvetnick. Southern had nine first downs to 2 for Northern. Liller completed only one of 18 passes and had four intercepted. Southern had four fumbles and lost two of them. The Huskies had two fumbles but lost none.



PARALLEL BARS to help youngsters learn to walk properly were constructed with funds donated by local charitable organizations for the Broad Ford Elementary School. Above, Mrs. Holly Doppel, physical therapist who works at Broad Ford one day a week, and Wayne Johnson, school principal, encourage Link Swinson to complete the tedious walk down the bars. Looking on is James Smith, who presented Mr. Johnson with a $400 check from the local Elks Lodge 2481 for the project.

Bountiful Harvest . . .

The tradition of giving thanks for the season's harvest is one that all can readily participate in this year. It has been a bountiful year for Americans. A sagging economy is recovering. Our heritage of free elections has once more shown its strength. We are returning to the basics of good economy — supply and demand — and it is working, according to John A. Knebel, undersecretary of agriculture. The American farmer is again free to produce to capacity and taxpayers are no longer burdened with $4 billion in subsidies to keep farmers from growing crops. Less than five percent of the population feeds the country and is able to export freely.

Thanksgiving, 1976, therefore, is an appropriate time for us to give special thought to the democratic system of government, which has brought us so far and enabled all to improve the quality of our lives over the years.

Of course, problems remain but the most crucial fact for all to remember is that it will be the way in which we deal with those existing economic problems that will either strengthen or destroy the precious system that has created America's harvest.

Among other prayers for the coming year, we might include one for all elected officials, that they will focus on policies which will make it possible for American industry to grow to its full potential and create more and better jobs for all Americans.

May these bountiful harvests continue to be the rule for many Thanksgivings of the future.

Named To Board

Don Friend, manager of Elkins Foodland, was recently named to the Board of Directors for the West Virginia Association of Retail Grocers, at the group's 77th convention held in Huntington, W. Va.

Theme of the convention was "This Is My Store," and Mr. Friend was part of the program as he narrated a slide presentation which dealt with the operation of Browning's Foodland markets at Oakland, Westernport and Elkins. Some 2,500 persons attended.

A native of Oakland, Mr. Friend nad worked for the G. C. Murphy store, A and P Tea company and the H-P Stores, Inc., prior to joining Browning's market in Oakland in 1969. He later transferred to the market in Westernport. In February, 1975 he transferred to Elkins as store manager of the then newly built Elkins Foodland on Beverly Pike.

Don and his wife, Betty, reside at 220 Buffalo street in Elkins and are involved with several civic and service groups.

Ice Causes Double Mishaps On Rt. 48

Two identical accidents occurred late last Thursday on U.S. 48 just east of the West Virginia state line due to ice. There were no apparent injuries.

Connie Ann Gordon, Charlottesville, Va., was traveling west on Rt. 48 when she lost control of her car on an icy bridge surface. The car went onto the median area and struck the bridge and guard rail. Following, 15 minutes later, Joseph P. Sinnott, Arlington, Va., did the same thing. Tfc. L. R. Rosage investigated both.

One person was slightly injured last Friday afternoon when his pickup went over an embankment and into a stream off of Devil's Half Acre road. Daniel V. Redman, RD 1, Oakland, was driving west on Devil's Half Acre road just east of Griffith road. He failed to make a left turn and went off the embankment. The mishap was investigated by Tfc. C. D. Skidmore.

A passenger in one car and driver of another were slightly injured in a head-on collision on U.S. 219 just north of Silver Knob road early last week. Michael Viragh was injured when a passenger in the car driven by Alfred T. Marucci, II. The driver of the other car was Trong Bui Thi Hebb. All involved were from the Oakland area. Marucci was southbound while Hebb was northbound. Hebb crossed the center line and the two collided head-on. Tfc. E. J. Upole investigated the 6:35 a.m. mishap November 8.

Baby Is Born At Squad Hall

James Uphold of Friendsville was rushing his wife to Meyersdale Community Hospital on Sunday, November 7th, when his wife realized that their child would arrive before they could reach the Hospital. Guided by an unknown CB radio operator they found the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad Headquarters in Grantsville.

With the assistance of Mrs. Shirley Baker, a five pound ten ounce baby girl was born on the davenport in the squad room just five minutes after Mr. Uphold carried his wife, Tammy, into the room. Wanda Beal and Jim Wilburn were on hand to help Mrs. Baker with the delivery. Mother, and daughter were transported to the Meyersdale Community Hospital in the ambulance after conditions were stabilized. Dr. Martin indicated the crew performed a marvelous job of delivering the baby.

Mr. Uphold took his wife and daughter home on November 12th. Mother and daughter were reported just fine. Mrs. Uphold is the former Tammy Oakes of Meyersdale, Pa.

This is the first baby delivered by a member of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad since the birth of the Squad just four years ago.

Holiday Bazaar Set For Friday

Members of the Loar Auxiliary of the Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland, are having a Christmas bazaar on Friday, November 19, in the social room at St. Mark's Lutheran church, South Second street. Hours will be from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., it was stated by Mrs. Frances Riley, chairman of the project.

Mrs. Mary K. Lawrence, president of the auxiliary, said crafts, baked goods, Christmas decorations and other items would be on display and for sale. Net proceeds will be for the benefit of the hospital. The auxiliary is working toward the purchase of an embosser for use at the hospital.

Commissioners Adopt Several Zoning Changes

Several amendments to the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning ordinance were adopted by County Commissioners George Edwards, Don Bender and Wayne Hamilton during their regular meeting Monday. A public hearing had been conducted at the previous Monday's meeting on the proposed amendments and deferred final action until this week's session.

Amendments to the Zoning Ordinance were proposed by the Garrett County Planning Commission on the recommendations of Jim O'Neill, county zoning administrator. Mr. O'Neill had pointed out that certain clauses of the ordinance were ambiguous in wording and that these changes were necessary to correct the technical deficits.

The amendments eased setback restrictions for water front properties on Deep Creek Lake and lessened the provisions for conversions of dwellings into apartments and for expanding nonconforming structures.

In addition, adopted amendments added wording regulating the conditions under which travel trailers and campers could be used on lake properties. Previously the zoning ordinance had not addressed this use, and the Planning Commission had received numerous complaints about groups of campers locating on lots in the Deep Creek Lake area.

The remainder of Monday's business was routine with the morning being devoted to the regular monthly staff meeting and most of the afternoon to tabled business from previous meetings, commissioners said.

Christmas Parade Scheduled Next Friday, Nov. 26

Santa Claus will make his annual appearance in Oakland next Friday evening, November 26, at 7 p.m. during the annual parade sponsored by the Downtown Oakland Merchants Association.

Several local bands, the Northern Gar-ettes, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad and local fire companies will appear in the parade.

Popcorn balls will be distributed to youngsters after the parade in the lower parking lot of the First National Bank of Oakland, on Liberty Street. Some of the balls will contain the names of local merchants, and these slips of paper will be redeemable for prizes when taken to the stores.

Approximately 20 members of the Oakland Barbershop Chorus, under the direction of Dr. Charles Springman, will be performing immediately following the parade downtown.

Oakland merchants will begin the Christmas shopping season December 10, when stores will begin staying open until 9 p.m. every evening.

Wesleyan Gets Partial Bequest

West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon has received $30,000 partial settlement of a bequest to establish an endowed scholarship in the name of the late E. Ray Jones, prominent Oakland attorney and a member of the board of trustees at Wesleyan for 27 years.

Jones served as president of the board from 1956-59 and was instrumental in bringing Dr. Stanley H. Martin to the campus as president of the United Methodist supported institution. As Chairman of the building committee, Jones was in charge of the erection of a new residence hall for men, the Loar Hall of Music and Fine Arts, and the Annie Merner Pfeiffer Memorial Library.

He was a graduate of the Seminary course at Wesleyan in 1908 and received an honorary doctorate degree in 1953 from his alma mater. His wife, the former Maud Bowman, graduated from the Seminary in 1907. One son, Judge Lewis Ray Jones, graduated from Wesleyan in 1936, and another son, Thomas S. Jones, attended the institution in 1948.

A 1910 graduate of Ohio Wesleyan, Jones received his LL.B. degree from the University of Maryland in 1913 and he began practicing law in Oakland that same year. He served as state's attorney for Garrett County from 1916-19 and as Maryland's Secretary of State from 1936-39.

Prior to his retirement, Jones served as a member of the Board of Education, Board of Missions, and in the 1952 General Conference of the West Virginia Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church.

Hearings Held In Larceny, Restitution Made

Hearings were held Tuesday for a Friendsville man involved in a charge of grand larceny and an amount of payment of restitution of property destruction in Circuit Court.

Russell L. Shafer, pleaded not guilty before a jury at a trial July 1. The jury found him not guilty on a charge of assault but guilty of malicious destruction of property. Bond was continued pending the filing of a motion for a new trial. July 29 a hearing was held at which time the motion for a new trial was denied. Shafer then received a one-year suspended sentence and placed on probation for one year under supervision. One requirement was that he make restitution for damage.

September 20 the Parole and Probation Department requested a warrant for violation of probation. October 5, Shafer made a payment to the Court of $5800. At the hearing Tuesday the Court set the amount at $5700. This amount was paid to the State's Attorney's office and $100 returned to Shafer. The case stemmed from destruction of a pick-up of the Bridgeview Coal Co., near Friendsville March 23.

250 At Annual Pig Roast Dinner, American Legion

Approximately 250 members of the American Legion and guests of Proctor Kildow Post 71, attended the 45th annual membership dinner and pig roast at the American Legion home in Oakland last Friday evening. The attendance was cut by the inclement weather but various state officers of the Legion and representatives from various legion posts of the area were present.

Guest of honor and principal speaker was James Wagonseller, past national commander from Ohio. He was introduced by Robert E. L. Eaton, also a past national commander, from Maryland. Daniel Burkhardt, another state officer, spoke of the American Legion aims, Americanism, Children and Youth work, and rehabilitation.

Among other state officers in attendance were Dave Wade, Doug Johnson, department commander; Clarence Bacon and John Sloan.

A proposed expansion program was announced, with plans to add a 60 by 70 foot area to the present dining room.

Members of World War I were recognized and extolled for their organization of the American Legion which has remained active for fifty years.

William Goldsborough post commander, gave a welcoming message, an invocation and benediction were provided by Rev. John A. Grant, department chaplain. R. Thomas Thayer served as master of ceremonies. The dinner was prepared and served by members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Post 71.

Postmaster Lists Mailing Deadlines

Suggested Christmas mailing deadlines for domestic parcels and letter mail have been advanced because of an exceptionally high mail volume, according to Postmaster Guy Wm. Hinebaugh, at the Oakland office.

The suggested Christmas mailing deadline is now December 3 for domestic parcels and December 10 for letter mail and greeting cards intended for delivery by Christmas.

"The impact of greatly increased mail volumes generated by the 15-state United Parcel Service strike in the East and South, and its residual effect on other parts of the country compels us to ask the public to mail even earlier than normal," Postmaster Hinebaugh said.

Parcel volume has already more than doubled in the strike area and is up significantly nationwide, and letter mail is also on the increase, according to Postmaster Hinebaugh.

He said that while letter mail will continue to receive priority treatment, the increase in mail from the general public, on top of the unprecedented business mail volume generated by the strike, could result in the use of many postal facilities normally dedicated to letter mail to prevent an unmangeable backlog of parcels.

James Wagonseller, Lancaster, Ohio, was the special guest speaker Friday night at the annual Legion pig roast in Oakland. Some 250 members attended the membership meal.

Jennings Family Home Destroyed By Fire Saturday

A Jennings family escaped their burning home with only the clothes on their backs when fire claimed their one-story frame home about 3:35 a.m. Saturday.

Paul Moore and his wife escaped through the front door of the house with their 14-month-old baby and their four-year-old. Four other children, ranging in ages from 11 years to five years in age, escaped through a bedroom window.

Robert Shimer, fire investigator for Allegany and Garrett counties, said the family had moved into the house, which was partially built by Mr. Moore, a little over a month ago. The house was located on Route 495 about five miles from Grantsville. The fire is believed to have started in the area of a hot water tank.

Mr. Moore told firemen that one of his children woke up, smelled smoke and went to tell his parents. Mr. Moore also said that flames were coming through the roof of the house as he and his family fled from the building. Mr. Moore ran to a neighbor's house to call firemen.

Mr. Shimer said that when Grantsville volunteer firemen arrived at the scene all that remained of the house were portions of the outside walls. Grantsville responded with five pieces of equipment under the supervision of Herman Yoder, fire chief. The firemen were at the scene about three hours.

The family is staying with Mr. Moore's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Moore, in the Midlothian area.

Christmas Clubs At Local Banks Pay $628,225

Area families received a total of $628,225 in Christmas club accounts this fall, according to reports from the Garrett National Bank in Oakland and the First National Bank of Oakland.

This amount is $14,267 more than the total paid last year to 5,968 accounts.

I. Lynn Beckman, public relations officer for the First National Bank, related that some 3,204 persons had Christmas accounts with that institution over the past year. Total amount of checks mailed November 1 was $315,878.50. Last year there were 4,115 members with checks totaling $329,344.50.

New accounts will be accepted until next spring with FNB, he said, and also predicted there would be a boost in new accounts since the First National is now offering five percent interest paid on Christmas club accounts.

According to Milford Beckman, vice president at the Garrett National Bank, there were 1,926 accounts with that bank this past year. Some $312,346.50 was paid out in checks mailed October 30. New accounts will be accepted until next February. At the Garrett National, the bank pays the final payment in each account.

Last year at GNB there were 1,853 accounts with checks mailed totaling $284,613.50.

Special Meeting Of School Board Set This Evening

The Garrett County Board of Education reminded the public again this week of a special meeting to be held this evening, Thursday, November 18, at 8:00 p.m. in the Northern High School cafeteria. The Board will be taking no action from planned agenda items but will be giving the public an opportunity to state concerns which they may have relative to the programs and operation of the Garrett County schools.

At an earlier meeting of a similar nature at the Southern Middle School about thirty persons were in attendance and six or eight individuals expressed their concerns to the Board about the operation of the school system.

At the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education the Board adopted the Annual Financial Report and the Audit for the Fiscal Year Ending June 30. They also took official action for recommending bids on the Northern Middle School construction project and the sewage treatment plant to the Maryland Interagency School Construction Committee. While the cost of the total project is over the allocation, the Board felt that the Interagency Committee would look favorably at the project since the re-bidding included compromised suggestions between the IAC and the Board of Education for revising bid specifications prior to this last bidding.

In other action, the Board of Education also approved a report of the Transportatio Feasibility Study Commi which is studying compar costs for establishing ways in the Oakland-Mt. Park area as oppose providing bus transportat this area. The study, agreed upon by the local Bd. of Education and the M State Department of Education at a meeting earlier this year when the state indicated the county would not be p penaliz for transporting these st ud during the school year 19

Holiday Inn To Be Built Near Grantsville

A new Holliday Inn motel complex is to be built near Grantsville next summer.

Following feasibility study, the 115-unit complex is to be constructed on a 7-acre tract on the south side of U.S. 48 at the U.S. 219-N interchange. The motel will have inside corridors, dome-type swimming pool, meeting room, restaurant and cocktail lounge.

The franchise has been acquired by Thomas E. and Patricia A. Schroyer of Grantsville. The feasibility study was conducted last fall by Laventhol and Horwath of Silver Spring for Holiday Inn Inc., of Memphis, Tenn. The architect is Medcaff Crump of Memphis, Tenn. The contractor is the Thomas E. Schroyer Co., Inc., of Brentwood, Pa.

The survey indicated that it is to be the largest such complex in the county and will employ 25 to 30 persons.

Willis To Face Grand Jury In Shooting Death

Francis Willis, 40, Oakmont, accused in the fatal shooting October 25 of 18-year-old David Lee Willis, Elk Garden, was ordered held for action of the Mineral County grand jury after he was given a hearing Saturday before Justice of the Peace John W. Whisner.

During the hearing, which was postponed from an earlier date at the request of the state, bond for Willis was set at $25,000 cash or $50,000 property.

Unable to post bond, Willis is being held in the Mineral County jail at Keyser. The grand jury will hear the case when it convenes January 11.

The victim, a freshman at Potomac State College, reportedly was a cousin of the man being held in jail.

Ernie Pyle And The Sad Sack

"Ernie Pyle and the Sad Sack," was the title of Rev. John A. Grant's November message in the Free State Warrior, of the state American Legion. Rev. Grant is the department chaplain.

It follows:

Recalling the absurd antics of Sad Sack are guaranteed to bring a chuckle to any G.I. who served during World War II. How about the time that Sad Sack was given a Jeep in Italy, and he ended up carrying it on his back. Remember the glove that shook the hand of the Captain's wife after seeing the V.D. movie. Who can forget the famous "dream."

Sad Sack typified the worst kind of "Stumble Bum" in the service. He was always in trouble; but he made us laugh. The reason why we laughed was that no matter how bad things got in the service, everybody was better off than Sad Sack.

Much of Ernie Pyle's writing was of the same gender as the Sad Sack cartoons. He wrote of frustrations, discouragement, laughter and joy of the G.I's in the service. The difference between the newspaper column of Ernie Pyle and the cartoon was that Ernie wrote about real people. There were constant references to Pvt. Joe Smith, or Corp. Jim Brown, with the names of their hometowns included.

Throughout all of Ernie Pyle's writing was a deep concern for humanity. He was the G.I.'s correspondent; living the same life and dying the same death. When he was killed in 1945, G.I.'s all over the world mourned his death as the passing of a great buddy. Although many had never read his writings, the word was passed that he was "their kind" of a person.

Much in the same manner, we find that the writers of the Bible had the same concern for humanity. The poignant conversation of Sisera's mother about her son's delay in returning. A reader of the book of Judges finds out that he died as a result of the Hebrew's victory over Jabin's army. Or the lament of David over the death of King Saul and Jonathan in the battle with the Philistines. The book of Nehemiah records the fear of the workmen as they rebuild the walls of Jerusalem in the face of the Arabs antagonism. The valor of the Maccabees is inescapable when one reads of their fight against the crumbling empire of Alexander the Great.

Yes, deep within the pages of the Bible one finds a concern for men who have to fight the battles for freedom. Ernie Pyle wrote about this concern; the Sad Sack put it into pictures: the constant striving that must take place so that mankind can remain free.

Have you read the Bible lately?

Sen. Charles McC. Mathias

Unemployment: An Intolerable Waste

One of the most troubling aspects of life in our society today is the rate of unemployment, an enduring problem, and one that often affects most those who are least prepared to cope with it.

I wish that our problem of unemployment were being overcome, but the recent jobless increase demonstrates that such is not the case. We cannot tolerate the present 7.9% unemployment rate, for although most of us hear about unemployment, too many know about it from sad personal experience.

Statistics tend to be cold, and sometime defy understanding, but the jobless numbers are harshly real. They are men and women who want to work, who are looking for work, and who need an income to put food on the table for their family. They are also disillusioned young people, many of minority groups, unable to find a job, denied an opportunity to prove what they can contribute to this country.

We should look at unemployment for its harmful effect on individuals and our society. It is a waste of energy, a waste of creativity, and a waste of a national resource.

Though I would rather not dwell on negative themes, there is a group that appears to suffer disproportionate unemployment. For over a year and a half now, Vietnam veterans between 20 and 24 years of age have suffered a jobless rate that persistently exceeds 15%, virtually double the national average. This past quarter it increased to over 18%. We must not countenance that kind of abuse of those who fought for us. Though the war was controversial and unpopular, these men and women deserve our respect and gratitude. Vietnam veterans deserve an equal chance at employment.

We of Maryland may see a somewhat less bleak picture, since our state jobless rate remains slightly under the national average. But, it still represents more unemployed people than any of us can accept. And, we will not accept it.

The Important Job Before Us

One of your most important jobs lies just before you. On November 2nd, each registered American citizen has an opportunity to express an opinion and to help make the choice of the next President of the United States, as well as decide who is to represent us in the United States Senate and in the House of Representatives.

These are substantial choices that have to be made, and you are the only ones who can do that job. No one can or will do it for you; so, I am counting on every one of you to come and vote on the 2nd of November in the 1976 Presidential and Congressional elections.

Now, we also ought to remember that an election campaign is more than just the choosing of officers for the next term. It also is registering some judgment and some opinion on subjects that are of importance to the Nation and to you. I identified those issues which I thought were important to the country in a letter I sent to the President of the League of Women Voters. In thanking the League for sponsoring the Presidential Debates, I asked them to try to elicit as much information as possible on this vital check-list prior to election day.

My list included the issues of jobs, because most people agree that a 7.8 percent unemployment rate is absolutely unacceptable, and we need to elect a candidate for President, and a party, which will give us the most reasonable and efficient expectation of full employment in the country.

And then, no issue is of greater long-range importance than the issue of energy. Everything depends on our ability to make our factories run, our ability to move workers to and from the factories, our ability to move raw materials and finished products to markets, from coast-to-coast and around-the-world. Without a better assurance of a supply of energy we are in terrible trouble, and one of the issues that will be decided by your vote is the direction we take towards solution of our energy problems.

The question of health insurance affects every American family. None of us is able to escape the threat and burden of substantial medical costs, and we must insure that every American is able to receive health care at a price that he or she can afford to pay. That again is an issue which will be affected by your vote on November 2nd.

The cities of America, these great and wonderful communities that have contributed so much to the strength of our country, are in trouble. Our cities deserve the support and concern of every American.

Foreign policy is, of course, not very foreign any more. It's very domestic when a foreign government can push a button and send a missile our way which will arrive in 30 minutes, or when the price of milk, or bread, or meat in America can be affected by what is happening in markets thousands of miles away. So, foreign policy is in a real sense a very personal and domestic policy for us, and it is an important issue which will be determined on November 2nd.

For these and many other reasons, I urge you to vote on November 2nd. It is one way we can do our part in making the choice for our next President, for members of the Senate and the House of Representatives.

A Peek At The New Congress

It's too early, of course, to predict with accuracy what the philosophical makeup of the newly elected Congress will be. There were many turnovers among the 435 members of the House, and 17 of the 100 Senate seats will be held by newcomers when the 95th Congress convenes in January.

What is apparent, however, is that the political balance of Congress remains about the same. That is, Democrats enjoy a margin of 62 to 38 in the Senate, and a cool two-to-one majority in the House. In the statehouses, meantime, Democrats likewise have overwhelming strength of about three governors for every one GOP governor.

Many observers regard the 94th Congress which ended last month as one of the sorriest on record. Filled with a huge freshman class of Democrats elected in 1974 in the wake of Watergate, the 94th will be remembered for its profligate spending — including a pay hike for itself cynically tied henceforth to the cost of living — and repeated scandals involving violations of both personal and public trust. It was the Congress that fiddled while the nation's most serious problems, including energy, continued to burn out of control.

The stalemate that persisted, with a spendthrift Democratic Congress on one hand and a determined Republican President on the other, was by no means ideal government. It was better, however, than the national bankruptcy that some irresponsible members of the 94th seemed determined to bring upon the country.

We now shudder a bit to contemplate the fact that a similarly balanced Congress will be faced by fellow Democrat Jimmy Carter in the White House. Whether he will have the desire or courage to check the excesses of Capitol Hill remains to be seen.

On a positive note, Americans concerned about the nation's solvency and its defense posture couldn't help be pleased by the defeat at the polls of some very liberal members — such as New York's Bella Abzug and Hawaii's Patsy Mink, who lost in the primary, and Democratic Senators John Tunney, Vance Hartke and Frank Moss who lost in the general election.

We can only hope that the men and women of Capitol Hill, regardless of their political affiliation, will put such differences aside and act responsibly over the next two years for the best long-range interests of the nation as a whole. —U. S. Press Association.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How did you vote on the tax revision amendoent which strengthened the minimum tax requirements on individuals who pay little or no taxes because of various tax loopholes?

I supported this amendment to strengthen the minimum tax. The amendment passed 314-107.

Please explain your "Truth in Government Accounting Act."

The purpose of this proposed legislation is to give the public and the Congress a unified, meaningful and simplified summary of just how the federal government stands financially. In addition to publishing the amount of money the government is taking in and paying out, the bill would require an indication of the liabilities for which the federal government has committed itself that may not be funded out of current revenues.

Where can I get a copy of the gas mileage figures for 1976 cars?

Citizens interested in receiving the 1976 "Gas Mileage Guide for new Car Buyers" should write Fuel Economy, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

I read recently that the Congress had passed a bill concerning metric conversion. Will you please tell me what this legislation entails?

The bill would establish a National Board to coordinate voluntary conversion to the metric system of measurement in the United States. Specifically, it would help coordinate voluntary metric plans developed by industry and other groups, and it would undertake education programs to aid public understanding of metric units of measurement. The board would not have the power to compel conversion to the metric system nor would the bill set any target period for completion of the conversion process.

I understand that retired persons do not have to pay entrance fees to our national parks. Is this true?

You are probably referring to a Golden Age Passport which provides a free lifetime entrance permit to national parks and recreation areas. The passport is issued free to citizens who are 62 years or older and admits the permitholder and carload of accompanying people. You may obtain your Golden Age Passport at most federal recreation areas or by visiting the National Park Service Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

What were the results of your survey, earlier this year, as regards to the Panama Canal?

By a 4 to 1 margin, the 15,000 survey respondents opposed giving control over the Canal Zone to Panama.

I understand Congress has released some impounded soil conservation funds. What are the funds to be used for?

Several weeks ago Congress freed up $18 million in budget authority for emergency watershed and flood prevention operations of the Soil Conservation Service.

Last year you sponsored legislation to provide for the research and development of solar energy heating and cooling units. What is the status of this project?

According to the Energy Research & Development Administration, 4,000 solar demonstration residential units will be put into operation by the end of 1979.

Why does only the woman pay for sexual sin?

Q. I had a four-year affair with a man who was separated from his wife. I helped him financially during a time when he was ill and couldn't work. When I became pregnant with his child he walked out and left me with all the responsibilities of pregnancy. He had promised to marry me, but he never came back.

Now I'm so depressed it is hard for me to exist. Also I resent the baby I have by this man. I don't feel normal when I look at my own baby and almost hate him because of what his daddy has done to us. How can I rid myself of these burdens of resentment and hatred? It seems in a situation like mine that no one suffers but the woman and child. Does not God hold the man responsible for his part? I admit I did sin and am probably paying for my sin. But why isn't the man also paying? Help me, please. I'm at the breaking point.

A. Of course a man is equally responsible for such a mess as you have gotten into. Why modern, intelligent women fall for the old, hackneyed "he promised to marry me" bit we'll just never know. How dumb can one get?

But that is now gone by. Don't add to your mistakes that of resenting the child. He is not responsible for being alive. And if the heel who fathered him has ducked out, then it is up to you to love the child and give him every opportunity for a good life. To rid yourself of "the burden of resentment and hate," just stop resenting and hating and take it from here with God's help. And He will help you, that is for sure.

How do I get rid of fun-killers?

Q. I just read your booklet, "How to Get Some Real Fun Out of Life," and enjoyed it very much. I haven't been getting much fun out of life lately. My question is, "How do I get rid of the fun-killers like resentment and fear?" These really keep me tied up and are getting the best of me. Can you give me any help?

A. The word resentment means to hurt and rehurt yourself. So, stop hurting yourself by emptying your mind of all thoughts of ill will, grudges and hate.

You can think the kind of thoughts you want to think by training yourself to do so. Next time a resentment thought comes to mind, immediately cancel it with a love thought. Keep practicing that process and you will get the hang of it.

And as for fear, remember that verse of Scripture: "I sought the Lord and he heard me and delivered me from all my fears." If our readers would like the booklet, "How to get some Real Fun Out of Life," write to us at Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564 and we will send you a free copy.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

LOOKING FAR

In everyday experiences we observe objects at a distance to appear smaller. However, according to Einstein's theory of relativity this does not happen at very large distances. At distances greater than five billion light-years the size appears constant or even to increase. Indian scientists have observed this effect with a radio telescope at Ootacamund in Southern India.

Sunday, the moon passes through its New Moon phase at 10:11 a.m. This week the moon sets at 2:51 p.m. today and at 8:24 p.m. next Wednesday.

Only 357,490 kilometers (222,180 miles) separate the earth and the moon on Saturday at 8:20 p.m. This is the closest the earth and moon will be during the month.

Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are visible during the week. Venus is the dominant object in the west for two hours after sunset. Jupiter rises at sunset with the stars of Taurus. Saturn rises about 11:00 p.m. with the stars of Cancer.

Nine minutes less daylight will be available Wednesday than there were today. Sunrise was at 7:05 a.m. and sunset will be at 5:00 p.m. Wednesday there will be nine hours forty-six minutes of daylight with sunset three minutes earlier and sunrise six minutes later than today.

Six Inducted Into Business And Professional Club

Six new members of the Garrett County Business and Professional Women were inducted at a dinner meeting held Thursday in the Sitzmark Room, Will o' the Wisp.

Inductees were Kim Calhoun, Elsie Slagle, Nancy Trimble, Barbara Paugh, Linda Sherbin and Jean Yantz. Helen Harman was chairman of the committee, assisted by Sara Jane Kuhn and Joyce Pendergast.

Each new member received a yellow silk rose, a certificate of membership and a gift, presented by Mildred Dunbar, club president, and Mrs. Harman.

Dr. Jean Shaw gave a resume of the planned Individual Development program which will begin in January. Barbara Flinn, Wilma Calhoun and Joyce Pendergast are in charge of the Christmas party to be held December 9. A gift auction will be featured, with gifts to be brought unwrapped.

Eleanor Deal gave a slide presentation on the National Foundation of B.P.W., which awards scholarships for education, job training or career advancement to deserving women. In the 20 years since its inception, the Foundation has assisted 1,527 women.

Local scholarship winners were Mildred Dunbar, last year, and Mrs. Esther Yoder. Women need not be B.P.W. members in order to receive such assistance.

Seventeen members were present. The next meeting will be the Christmas party on the 9th.

Week's Best Buys

Thanksgiving is turkey time and this year should be a big one for turkey consumption. Turkey prices are low and supplies are plentiful, says Georgia L. Stevens, Consumer and Food Economics Specialist, Cooperative Extension Service, University of Maryland.

Consumers will also find a number of other foods offered at bargain prices. The United States Department of Agriculture reports that rice, beef, broiler-fryer chickens, frozen chicken livers, onions and potatoes are in special promotion because of plentiful supplies.

Consider apples, Anjou pears, and cranberries for that special fall salad. Oranges and grapefruit are being specialed and can be enjoyed at savings.

Turkey will probably be the meat consumed by most families for the holiday. If the turkey weighs 12 pounds or more, allow ½ to ¾ pound (ready-to-cook weight) per serving. If the turkey weighs less than 12 pounds, allow ¾ to 1 pound per serving. Buying 1-½ to 1-¾ pounds per person provides cooked turkey for another meal.

Comparison shopping for turkey is smart when deciding what form of turkey to serve. Figure the cost per serving for each turkey form with three ounces of cooked, edible meat considered to be a standard serving. To find the cost per serving, divide the retail price per pound by the number of servings to expect in a pound. Figure two servings per pound for ready-to-cook (bone-in) turkey. Boneless ready-to-cook turkey will provide three to four servings per pound. Cooked and boneless turkey roast will provide four to five servings per pound.

Individuals and smaller families should consider the economy in purchasing a boneless, cooked turkey product. Figure about 25 percent boning losses and 25 percent cooking losses for the standard ready-to-cook bird. One could pay about double the price per pound of a ready-to-cook turkey for a boned and cooked turkey roast with about the same meat value. The convenience of no left-overs from the boneless, cooked turkey roast is worth the price for smaller families.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Mrs. Minnie B. McKean, from Kitzmiller, Md., who died June 8, 1975.
Thanksgiving and Christmas are drawing near
How we miss you, Mother, dear.
Your memories live with us every day
Although you are so very far away.
We would give anything to have you now
To give you loving care,
To hear your voice and sweet smile,
And to comb your dear gray hair.
God took our loved one to rest,
But she will never be forgotten
By those who loved her best.
You left us with memories so proud to own.
On earth you worked but in Heaven you rest.
God bless you Mother dear,
You were one of the best.
Sadly missed by her family,
Mildred, Jean, Pauline,
Bob, and their families

Sunday Mishap Injures Two

Two persons were injured when the car in which they were riding skidded on an icy spot on U.S. 219 a short distance north of Oakland and overturned Sunday.

Mrs. Pamela Ray Ashby, 24, Third street, Oakland, and her 4-year old son, James, were treated and released from Garrett County hospital where they were taken by the Southern Rescue Squad.

Mrs. Ashby was northbound on Rt. 219, just north of Foster road when the car hit an icy spot. The car went out of control, struck an embankment and overturned.

The accident was investigaged by Tfc. J. E. Foley.

The operator apparently escaped injury when his pickup overturned on U.S. 219 south of Oakland, Sunday morning. A trailer he was towing broke loose and was the apparent cause of the mishap.

Fred Nelson Saint Clair, Beltsville, was towing a large utility trailer traveling northbound, just south of Mansfield road. Bolts holding the tow hitch to the truck broke causing the trailer to break loose. The operator attempted to stop the trailer with the truck but lost control. The vehicle ran off the right side of the road, struck a utility pole than came to rest on the left side of the road, overturned. Tfc. L. N. Smith made the investigation. Electric current in the area was interrupted for several hours.

An Oakland woman apparently escaped injury when her car overturned on U.S. 219 at Fourth street, just north of Oakland, Saturday evening.

Wilma R. Stemple, Crook street, driving north, lost control of her car when she attempted to avoid an animal in the roadway. The vehicle went off the right side of the road and overturned. Tfc. L. R. Rosage investigated.

Several other weekend mishaps involved a deer, with no personal injuries.

Procedures For Handling Animal Bites Are Given

Current procedures for handling and reporting animals suspected of having rabies were described this week by Edgar Harman, director of Environmental Health Services for the county health department.

These procedures have recently been improved to respond to increasing reports of rabies in animals and because of the death this year of a woman from rabies after being bitten by a rabid bat.

Bats were first recognized as a rabies threat in Maryland in 1959. During the past ten years over 100 rabid bats and this year 43 laboratory confirmed cases have been recorded, two of them being in Allegany county. It was pointed out probably less than two percent of bats were infected with rabies. No confirmed rabid bats have been reported in this county.

In 1975 a new Maryland law requiring all dogs over four months of age be vaccinated against rabies. Precautionary measures for proper rabies control were suggested by the health department.

Report all animal bites to sheriff's office of health department, as required by state law. Biting animal should be confined while awaiting health department instructions. Dogs and cats must be quarantined for ten days after a bite.

All bats and wild animal species which have bitten a human, are to be killed and submitted to health department for testing. Do not shoot animal in the head as brain must be undamaged for testing.

Kill any wild animal acting strangely. If bitten by an animal and he escapes the person may have to receive the series of 23 rabies immunizations.

Submit any animal which has bitten another animal or which shows signs of rabies but has not bitten a human to the animal health laboratory on Third street in Oakland.

CARD OF THANKS

I would like to express my thanks and appreciation to all my friends and relatives for the many cards and flowers I received while I was in the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. A very special thanks to Dr. Johnson and all the nurses on 2nd and 3rd floor for being so wonderful to me.

Also I want to thank Kenneth A. Richmond, the Administrator, for the nice letter I received from him when I got home.

May God's blessings be with you all.

Health Planning Council Under New Grouping

The Executive Board of the Health Planning Council met on November 15, at its office at 134 North Mechanic Street, Cumberland. John G. Rupprecht, Acting Vice-President, presided.

James A. Carlisle is the Council's new Grants Administrator under the realignment of health planning and program development functions for Western Maryland. The realignment was necessitated by new planning legislation.

The health planning function was previously conducted by the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland, Inc., for Garrett, Allegany, and Washington Counties, and by the Frederick County Comprehensive Health Planning Council for Frederick County. The program development function as related primarily to the Appalachian Regional Commission was also conducted by the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland as an ARC designated Section 202 Health Demonstration Agency. Frederick County was not qualified under the Appalachia legislation and was thus not involved in this function.

With the advent of Public Law 93-641, the Federal Government dictated an initial separation of the health planning and program development functions. The Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland was created to deal with all health planning for Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick Counties under this new national legislation. However, the current interpretation of the law precludes management of the Appalachian Regional Commission function by the new agency. Therefore, the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland has selected to remain in existence to assure region-wide continuity of this financial health resource to the three qualified Western Maryland counties.

After the current realignment, the staffs of the HPCAM and the HSAWM (formerly the staff of HPCAM) will work in the same quarters, each performing its portion of the separated functions. Reuniting under a single organization/structure within one to three years is a distinct possiblity.

During the November 15 meeting, the Council's Executive Board approved:

1. the Western Maryland Dental Disease Prevention Program continuation with the stipulation that this year's application feature appropriate maximum funding for fluoridation match for the cities of Oakland and Friendsville;

2. the Regional School Health Education project continuation;

3. the banding together of its advisory committees to form one working committee to expedite project review and analysis;

4. services of the same auditor with the HSAWM; and

5. the recommendation of Mrs. Eugene Baumgartner, Council President, to appoint John G. Rupprecht, Hagerstown, the Council's Vice-President.

The Health Planning Council's next regularly scheduled quarterly meeting will be at 11:00 a.m. on December 13 in Cumberland. Its Executive Board will meet at 10:00 a.m. that same day.

Frankfort Upends Southern 31 to 0

Frankfort High concluded its season Monday night with a 31 to 0 victory over Southern High Rams.

On the Falcons first possession of the ball after losing a fumbled punt moments before, Leo Day went to the air and found Mike Shay at the 22 yard line and he won the race to the end zone in the opening period.

The Falcon defense limited the Rams to a total offense of 14 yards. On fourth and one at the one yard line the Rams, led by Eric Cvetnick, rose up and halted Day short of the goal. The Rams jubilation was shortlived however, for on first down, quarterback Jim Simms was knocked loose from the football and Fisher fell on it for a score with 41 seconds to play in the opening quarter.

Midway through the second period Frankfort started on its 22 yard stripe and had a 78-yard drive sparked by rushes of Fridley and a 21 yard strike from Day to Moreland to get the next score. The Falcons dominated the play in the third period with the Rams getting off just five plays. The winners got inside the 20 yard stripe on three different drives. The opening drive of the second half was halted on the 15 on fourth down when Moreland was halted for a one-yard loss. The second drive was more fruitful, ending with a 25 yard field goal by the winners. Frankfort's final possession of the period resulted in the game's final score. The fourth quarter was scoreless.

Simms was tossed for 61 yards in losses in 13 attempts, most of the minus yardage coming from futile attempts to take to the air. The Rams had a minus 26 yards on the ground. Simms and Steve Liller did manage to complete eight of 14 passes for 40 yards. Simms was the passer doing most of the damage. Liller played a flanker spot when not under the center and hauled in several of the successful attempts. Liller also turned in a strong defensive effort for the Rams.

The Falcons are the apparent PVC champions and narrowly missed out in a bid for a spot in the West Virginia AA playoffs finishing fifth.

It was learned that Keyser had protested an ineligible player being used by Bishop Walsh and if the protest is upheld by PVC appeals board Keyser would be declared the champion of the PVC.

Southern had a total of four first downs to 15 for Frankfort. The Rams had seven fumbles and lost four while Frankfort had two fumbles and lost one. Southern also had one pass intercepted.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Elva Liller, who passed away November 15, 1973.

Our Mother

Mother, we know as a young girl,
You had a long hard pull,
Then you got married,
Had four children, it's true.
One son died as a baby,
And left this beautiful world,
Another passed at the age 29,
He left his mother and two sisters behind.
You took in another,
A granddaughter they claim,
But to you Mother,
I was a daughter just the same.
You worked out and did your share,
Some people noticed and some didn't care,
But we knew in our hearts, Mother,
You were a dear.
Maybe we didn't speak it, in so many words,
But Mother, we loved you dearly,
While you were in this world.
As the years lingered on,
Fate struck again,
This time God asked for your daughter's hand.
We knew it was hard,
For you had lost three,
That left you, Mother,
With Helen and me.
Five years have passed since that fate,
In those five years, you suffer again,
This time in health,
Which seems to be a sin.
But God knew what he was doing,
And Mother, we knew he would win.
Then one day, God did speak,
He wanted our Mother, at his feet,
That's okay, you suffer no more,
But it's a loss to us, forever more,
And we love you Mother, it is true,
So don't forget us till we're with you.

Her granddaughter,
Janice Upole

Bloomington Ends Bicentennial Year With Special Event

A Thanksgiving service and covered dish supper in the Bloomington school cafeteria, concluded the many activities of the Bicentennial committee of that town on Tuesday, November 9, after participation in numerous events during the year.

Thanks to the committee and community were expressed by Mrs. Iola Guy, chairman, and a resume of projects and events was given by Charles Pattison. Checks were presented by Mrs. Frances Green, treasurer to the Bloomington U. M. church, Bloomington fire company and Tri-Towns rescue squad, closing out the committee's bank account.

Guests at the dinner introduced by Wayne Goff included Harris LeFew, director of public relations for Westvaco and Mrs. LeFew; Malcomb Kight, president Upper Potomac Television company and Mrs. Kight; Gary Galloway, Bloomington school principal; Russell Yocum and Mary Wildman, teachers. Colored slides of some of the activities for the year were shown by John Price with comments by him and Donald McDowell, and a tape recording of part of the Memorial dedication was given by Kenneth Kooken.

The event climaxed the Bloomington bicentennial committee activities. The committee had served since the spring of 1975. Serving on that committee in addition to Mrs. Guy, were Frances Green, treasurer; Phyllis Marsh, secretary. The committee became official July 23, 1975, when Bloomington was designated an American Revolution Bicentennial community, first in the county to have this recognition.

November 16, 1975, flags were presented at a ceremony in the Bloomington school and raised on the Garrett National bank grounds.

Early in 1975 committee members began to gather information from Cumberland and Oakland courthouse records, Piedmont Herald files, obtaining photographs and other information on the town, Savage river, Backbone mountain areas, for a book. The completed book surpassed all dreams and sales were brisk. Books were mailed to places as far away as Alaska and California. There were three printings of the book for a total of 1,200 copies with 140 still left to sell, which may be obtained from the Bloomington fire company.

The committee also sold 125 commemorative plates with a picture of the Bloomington bridge on them, also 100 packs of writing paper with a picture of Brydon's mansion on it. All projects and events are being registered in the National Archives in Washington for a permanent record. The committee received $200 in federal money on becoming a bicentennial community and later was allotted $250 from the Maryland bicentennial committee.

Vegetation Map Of State Available

A vegetation map of Maryland detailing existing natural forests, the first of its kind published in the state, is now available from the Department of Natural Resources.

The 3-foot-by-5-foot, full color map, may be purchased for $4 plus 16 cents sales tax at DNR headquarters in Annapolis, any of the DNR Regional Service Centers, or by sending a check for $4.16 made out to the Department of Publication Sales, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

Three years in the making, the map is the product of a study contracted for by DNR's Power Plant Siting Program with the Department of Geography and Environmental Engineering of The Johns Hopkins University.

By means of color coding, the map shows what groups of tree and shrub species are found in the various parts of the state.

The map was compiled to aid in environmental aspects of siting power plants and transmission lines. Similarly, it will be useful for siting of other major facilities and planning corridors such as highways and pipelines.

Also, it has value as an educational tool.

The Tawes State Office Building is at 580 Taylor Avenue, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

Jaycees Sponsor Cub Scout Pack

The Grantsville Jaycees have agreed to sponsor Cub Scout Pack #49 in Grantsville, according to Ed Shunk, Jaycee President.

Cub Scouting encourages good sportsmanship and pride in growing strong in mind and body. It helps improve understanding within the family and provides fun and exciting new things to do while fostering a sense of personal achievement, Mr. Shunk said.

Volunteer leaders of the Grantsville Pack are Cubmaster Bob Diehl, Den Mother Julie Hasenbuhler. The Pack Committee Chairman is Sig Benson. Other volunteer leaders who have expressed an interest in the Pack are James Wilburn, Leon Beitzel, Gary Finzel, Mary Kamp, and Barry Beal.

The Pack will hold its first meeting in the middle of December with a Pack Christmas party. The first training session for adult leaders will be held on Monday, December 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grantsville Elementary School. Chester "Chip" Mosser, the areas Cub Scout Training Leader, Oakland, will preside.

Any parent who has not as yet enrolled his boy in the Pack may do so by contacting Julie Hasenbuhler.

Scout Troop 45 Has Busy Holiday Week

Boy Scout Troop No. 45 had a busy week beginning Veterans' Day, according to scoutmaster Floyd Baker. Activities began with a flag lowering ceremony at the new Elementary School, with Jimmy Fox playing taps while the scouts all saluted in honor of all who gave their lives in service of their country.

Thursday evening the troop met with James House receiving his swimming skill award, Howard Ross and Mark Bennett passing their sports merit badge and Ricky Baker passing his cooking skill award and sports merit badge.

Friday evening the troop went swimming at the Village Inn, with the help of Darrell Bennett, who supplied transportation. Participating in the swim were Howard Ross, James House, Mark Bennett, Ricky Baker, Todd Saunders, Ernie and Randy Nazelrod. Ken, Fred and Ronnie Green and Cub Scout Mark Saunders were guests. Todd Saunders and Randy Nazelrod passed their swimming skill award.

The week concluded with the scouts attending the Rod and Gun club turkey shoot, where, not unlike hunters of the past, they came home cold and without the gobbler.

Foley Woodworking Talents Grow Into Profession

By Carol Canan

Curly maple is a wood not commonly found these days, and Miss Frances Steyer of the White Church area had this hutch built by Larry from wood cut over 40 years ago in the Steyer area. Larry will now construct a table for Miss Steyer, who lives near White Church. Also shown is a dry sink, a bedside stand, and a lamp table.

Woodworking has grown from a hobby into a life's work for Larry Foley, Accident, who at 27 is established in his own business and works primarily with his first interest, furniture making.

From the age of 6, when he put together his first pieces of wood, until now, Larry has nurtured and developed his talents with carpenter's tools.

Now owner of Foley's Woodworking, a five-year-old business, he is doing remodeling and builds kitchen cabinets, but still finds time to create colonial furniture reproductions along with bookcases, gun cabinets, blanket chests and other home furnishings of wood.

In his remodeling work, he renovated the health center in Friendsville, and built the altar rail at White Methodist Church.

A graduate of Southern High School in 1967, he is a son of Floyd and Lavada Foley, Gorman, who encouraged him in his carpentry efforts. He won the vocational building trades award at SHS upon his graduation.

Following a two-year stint in the Navy as a damage controlman repairing boats, he then worked for one year in a local hardware store before leaving to set up his business.

He and his wife, the former Patty Ault, and their four-year-old daughter Amy live with her mother, Mrs. Helen Ault, at Accident. Mrs. Foley, a graduate of Frostburg State College last May, is a first grade teacher at Dennett Road School.

Although theirs is a large home, space is still at a premium since Larry's woodworking tools require a great deal of space. For the past ten years, he has been gradually accumulating the tools needed for his trade. His next goal is to build a workshop large enough to house his router, drill press, lathe, jig saw, jointer, table and radial arm saws, sander, and recently-ordered band saw. All machinery is presently housed in the basement of the Ault home, which limits the size of the pieces he can make, a restriction he finds chafing. His dream also includes a showroom for furniture display.

Cherry is his favorite wood, as it is ready to work with and takes a nice finish. Wood is hard to find, he says, and he is glad to find a job such as the one he is presently completing, with the customer providing the wood.

Of all his work, his favorite is making colonial furniture reproductions, using pictures as a pattern, or sometimes adding his own imaginative touches. He also recently completed a Victorian-style lowboy for his only brother Dwight, who lives in Virginia and who is also interested in antiques. Dwight, a local historian, enjoys looking at and owning antiques, but the creation of such reproductions he leaves to brother Larry.

In his spare time, Larry enjoys hunting and playing his guitar. He was formerly with "Road Angel," a rock group which played locally until one of the members suffered a severe back injury in a fall. He says although he enjoyed playing with the band, he now has more time to devote to his family, and his growing business.

Larry's shop helper is four-year-old Amy, shown here holding a hammer and watching for her daddy's word on what to do next. Larry is presently building furniture in the basement of the Ault family home near Accident, but hopes to soon build a shop and display room in the area.

Eight Killed On State Roads

Eight persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed four were drivers, one was a passenger and three were pedestrians.

Two of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

This year could end with a lower highway death toll, but it could quite easily show an increase over last year, the Lieutenant pointed out. Earlier this year it looked as though we had a fighting chance of meeting the challenge of lowering the death rate in Maryland.

Last January got off to a good start and at the end of March a minus of (57) below the previous year was shown. With a steady decline and recent multiple death crashes, the totals shot up sharply. A minus (4) was reflected in November. As this is written, we have again dropped behind last year's record with a minus of (24) below the previous year.

Persons killed through November 14 totaled 575 compared to 599 for the same period last year.

IMPORTANT NOTICE REGARDING SCHEDULE OF SWINE FLU VACCINATION IN GARRETT COUNTY

Important Information About Swine & Victoria Influenza (Flu) Vaccine (Monovalent & Bivalent)

The Disease

Influenza (flu) is caused by viruses. When people get flu they may have fever, chills, headache, dry cough or muscle aches. Illness may last several days or a week or more, and complete recovery is usual. However, complications may lead to pneumonia or death in some people. For the elderly and people with diabetes or heart, lung, or kidney diseases, flu may be especially serious.

It is unlikely that you have adequate protection against swine flu, since it has not caused widespread human outbreaks in the past 45 years. You may or may not have adequate protection against Victoria flu, although many Americans had this flu last winter. It was responsible for over 12,000 deaths.

The Vaccine

The vaccine will not give you flu because it is made from killed viruses. Today's flu vaccines cause fewer side effects than those used in the past. In contrast with some other vaccines, flu vaccine can be taken safely during pregnancy.

One shot will protect most people from swine and Victoria flu during the next flu season; however, either a second shot or a different dosage may be required for persons under age 25. If you are under 25 and a notice regarding such information is not attached, this information will be provided to you wherever you receive the vaccine.

Possible Vaccine Side Effects

Most people will have no side effects from the vaccine. However, tenderness at the site of the shot may occur and last for several days. Some people will also have fever, chills, headache, or muscle aches within the first 48 hours.

Special Precautions

As with any vaccine or drug, the possibility of severe or potentially fatal reactions exists. However, flu vaccine has rarely been associated with severe or fatal reactions. In some instances people receiving vaccine have had allergic reactions. You should note very carefully the following precautions:

- Children under a certain age should not routinely receive flu vaccine. Please ask about age limitations if this information is not attached.
- People with known allergy to eggs should receive the vaccine only under special medical supervision.
- People with fever should delay getting vaccinated until the fever is gone.
- People who have received another type of vaccine in the past 14 days should consult a physician before taking the flu vaccine.

Below Is The Form You Must Fill Out Before Receiving The Vaccine Registration Form

REGISTRATION FORM

I have read the above statement about swine and Victoria flu, the vaccine, and the special precautions. I have had an opportunity to ask questions, including questions regarding vaccination recommendations for persons under age 25, and understand the benefits and risks of flu vaccination. I request that it be given to me or to the person named below of whom I am the parent or guardian.

Frostburg Man Hurt In Crash Sunday Morning

A Frostburg man was listed in "guarded" condition Sunday at Sacred Heart Hospital in Cumberland with multiple contusions and lacerations sustained in a one-car accident on the west side of Meadow Mountain early Sunday.

Raymond A. Myers, 31, was pinned in the car and the seats had to be cut from the vehicle to free the driver. Mr. Myers was discovered about 3 a.m. by some girls who were driving by the area and who called state police.

Mr. Myers was taken to the hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

The state trooper who responded to the call said that Mr. Myers was westbound on Route 40 when his car left the road after crossing the top of Meadow Mountain. The vehicle struck some large rocks and then hit two trees.

WILL YOU BE A PROPERTY OWNER OR A PROPERTY HOLDER??

Are Bureaucrats Dictating What You Can Do With Your Own Property??

Right this minute the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) controls 11,000 acres of private land along the Youghiogheny. Owners (holders?) of property in the so-called Youghiogheny scenic corridor are required to submit a plan (written) and obtain approval (written) from DNR before they can do anything with their own land and their own buildings.

These tax-paying land owners must submit a written plan to the Secretary of DNR (a non-elected official) explaining to him the purpose and nature of what he wants to do with his own property (land, buildings, trees, bushes, vines and grass). He must describe verbally (on DNR forms) in relation to existing landmarks and then graphically locate the area on a map (map provided by DNR on request). The property owner (holder?) wanting to construct, alter, modify, paint, or replace any building or structure on his land must provide a schematic scale drawing and describe the materials and colors to be used, the type and amount of vegetation (grass, vines, trees, bushes) to be disturbed, the type of operations to be employed, the provisions for stabilization and re-vegetation, any proposed access routes. ALL OF THIS must be approved by 6 DNR agencies in Annapolis: (1) Capitol Programs Administration, (2) Water Resources Administration, (3) Forest Service, (4) Park Service, (5) Soil Conservation Service, (6) Fisheries Administration. The request, if approved by the 6 agencies, is sent to a DNR local advisory board in Garrett County for approval. The tax-paying owner could possibly know within sixty days if he can or cannot do what he wants to do with his own property.

The Scenic and Wild Rivers Act passed by the Maryland Legislature gives three non-elected officials (Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources, Secretary of the Department of Planning and the Secretary of Agriculture) the power to, "...recommend for inclusion in the scenic and wild rivers system, rivers, streams, portions of rivers, streams, tributaries and the related adjacent lands which fall within the following description: (1) Trout streams and wetland areas the DNR designates; (2) Spawning and propagation areas the DNR outlines; (3) Streams and rivers with scenic and aesthetic value of statewide significance the DNR outlines; (4) Existing or proposed public lands adjacent to the rivers and streams in the State; (5) Sections of any river or stream where no development exists on either side of the river or stream for a distance of one-quarter mile from the mean high water line of the river or stream; (6) Sections of any river or stream where limited development exists but is compatible with the wise use of the resources; (7) Sections where encroachment is imminent and would lead to degradation of the river or stream, to some form of pollution, or adversely affect the intent of this subtitle; or (8) Sections of any river or stream as food production areas, areas supporting migratory waterfowl, and spawning areas for shellfish..." The Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources (a non-elected official) with the power vested in him by this legislation could very well control 70% or more of the land in Garrett County. Every property owner in areas designated by the DNR would be subject to the regulations pointed out above which are now in effect in the Youghiogheny corridor. You property owners would also be property holders. You will not have a chance to vote on this matter since it is already law. Our legislators are the only people who can correct this situation. They are the gentlemen who have thrust this immense power on the DNR and they are the ones who must take it away by repealing the law.

We in the Youghiogheny River Association, Inc., are working hard to correct this situation. We have formed this non-profit organization:

"To promote and preserve the lawful constitutional rights of the property owners in Garrett County, Maryland, and to foster, protect and promote the rights of private property under the laws of the Federal Government and the State of Maryland..."

We believe that John Locke (1632-1704), one of the great influences on the development of the U. S. Constitution, is correct in stating "...there can be but one supreme power, which is the legislative, to which all the rest are and must be subordinate, yet the legislative being only a fiduciary power to act for certain ends, there remains still in the people a supreme power to remove or alter the legislative when they find the legislative act contrary to the trust reposed in them..."

If you wish to help our fight for your right to be a property owner instead of a property holder we invite you to join the Youghiogheny River Association, Inc. Any property owner in Garrett County or any U. S. citizen interested in preserving property rights in Garrett County is eligible for membership. Our membership fee is $20.00 per year. Contributions are welcome from any legitimate source. All fees and contributions will be used to protect property owners' constitutional rights.

Jimmy is looking at a miracle. The more science learns about us, the more marvelous we are discovered to be. The complex structure of our eyes . . . the infinitely delicate balance of our hearing . . . the unequalled functioning of our brain . . . hundreds of smaller miracles that combine into one great miracle — a human being!

No man on earth can create another. We are God's handiwork, and we are most wonderfully made.

But there is a lot more to Jimmy than can be seen in a mirror or under a microscope. There is that determining factor . . . character. He needs church guidance to help him build the kind of character that will sustain him throughout his life.

The Christian religion has one main purpose . . . to mold men in Christ's likeness . . . the perfect image of God.

THE ACCOUNTING

Lesson for November 21, 1976

Background Scripture: Romans 14 through 15:6; I Corinthians 8
Devotional Reading: I Corinthians 8

There is a story about a man who went about the country selling tickets for reserved seats in the courtroom of the Last Judgement. The tickets were eagerly purchased by people who had a keen desire to be present when the "just deserts" would be meted out. As they stood in line waiting to be admitted to the courtroom, however, they began to compare their tickets. The Christian who had purchased a ticket marked, "Good for one admission to the Judgement of the Jews," found that the Jewish man standing in front of him had a ticket that read, "Good for one admission to the Judgement of the Christians." The Fundamentalist who was there to witness the judgement of the Liberal was no less shocked to find that the Liberal held a ticket of admission to the judgement of the Fundamentalists.

Rev. Althouse

Unwelcome disputes

It wasn't long before all the people waiting in line discovered that each person holding a ticket would be both part of the audience and part of the company of the condemned. Everyone was to be called to account in this Last Judgement. Too late they remembered the words of Jesus: "Judge not, that you be not judged. For with the judgement you pronounce you will be judged." (Matthew 7:1,2.)

The Apostle Paul had many occasions to reiterate this teaching of our Lord. In writing to the church at Rome, he asks, "Why do you pass judgement on your brother? For we shall all stand before the judgement seat of God." (14:10). No one shall be spared an accounting.

To the modern reader Romans 14 may seem quite irrelevant for it seems to focus on two problems that are of no consequence to the Christian today: what is valid to eat and when is the right time to worship God? These are seldom, if ever, cause for disputes in Christianity today. To us it may seem quite inconsequential if someone wants to be a vegetarian. (There was also another "food" problem: meat offered in pagan temples as sacrifices was usually resold in the market place for home consumption and some Christians refused to buy or eat such meat.) From our present perspective, Romans 14 seems "much ado about nothing."

For the sake of food

Yet, though we might not dispute with each other over the use of meat or of the proper day upon which to worship in our church there are many other issues over which we do dispute with each other. To us today they seem much more important, but from Paul — and perhaps even the church at Rome to whom he wrote — these issues would probably bring the same response: "Do not, for the sake of food, destroy the work of God." (14:20) and in place of "food" we might as easily write style of church government, ritual and liturgy, "debtors" instead of "trespassers," mode of Holy Communion and many others.

Those of us who become so adamant about this form of worship or that, this creedal statement or another, need to hear Paul saying to us as he did the church at Rome: "For the kingdom of God does not mean food and drink (or you fill-in the blank), but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." (14:17). There is lots of room for differences of practice and opinion in the Church of Jesus Christ, but not for him "who disputes over opinions" (14:1).

So "let us no more pass judgement on one another," for on the day of the Accounting, God alone will sit in judgement.

PHARMACY INTERNS WHO ARE THEY?

Before pharmacy school graduates can practice their profession, they must have served an apprenticeship under the observation of a registered pharmacist. Here under the watchful eye of the experienced pharmacist, they learned at first hand how to carefully check each prescription, counsel a patient on their medication, consult with a physician and all the other important duties they must perform.

In our pharmacy we try to give a pharmacist intern an added ingredient, a sense of pride and a dedication to helping people in need.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

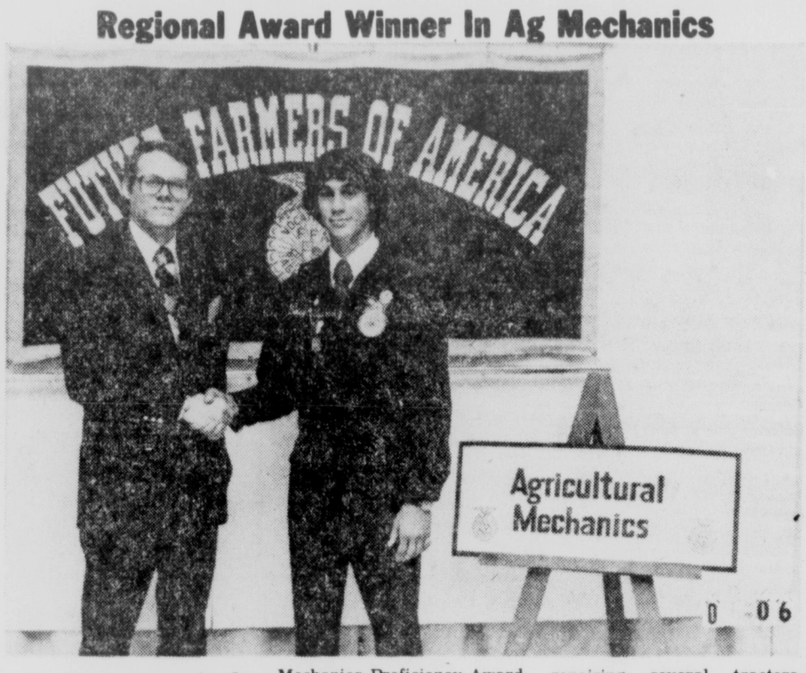
Regional Award Winner In Ag Mechanics



George A. Lipscomb, Jr., Aurora Chapter, Future Farmers of America, is one of four members of the FFA named as regional recipients of the FFA Agricultural Mechanics Proficiency Award, sponsored by International Harvester of Chicago, as a special project of the national FFA foundation, Inc. One of the four was slated to be named national winner, at the national convention in Kansas City. Lipscomb was winner of the eastern region.

The award is one of 19 proficiency awards presented annually by the National FFA foundation, Inc., to recognize accomplishments of FFA members pursuing careers in specific areas of agriculture. Applicants for the mechanics proficiency award must describe projects they have completed which demonstrate their knowledge and ability in the application of the mechanical theories and technical skills to agriculture.

To participate FFA members submit an application in which they answer questions in eight areas related to their supervised experience program in mechanics. Requirements include listing of achievements in the care, maintenance or repair of agricultural machinery or in the construction or repair of agricultural structures. Participants must also list mechanical skills learned.

Mr. Lipscomb has a father and grandfather who are accomplished mechanics, so he became interested at an early age. He was soon tearing down small engines in the tool shed at home. His vo-ag instructor for four years, Thomas Glotfelty, said, "I've met boys with as much talent as George but none that has done so much or worked as hard."

Projects completed in vo-ag include overhauling and repairing several tractors, salvaging and restoring a two-ton wrecked truck, building corn cribs, repairing a barn, plumbing, body work and constructing livestock feeders. He also assists his grandfather who owns a wrecker service.

After graduation from Aurora High school he plans to attend Nashville Auto-Diesel college than farm at home while being employed as an agriculture mechanic. In FFA activities he was on the state milk judging team which took 2nd place; member of nominating committee for state officers, exhibited crops and livestock. In other activities he played on baseball and basketball teams, was in 4-H youth group as president and was in church activities.

Tree Seedlings Now Available

Maryland Landowners can now purchase tree seedlings from the Maryland Forest Service for conservation purposes. This includes soil erosion, watershed protection, fiber production, windbreaks, sound barriers and wildlife habitat development.

Generally, the minimum order is 250 seedlings. Two hundred and fifty seedlings will plant approximately one quarter acre. All planting sites must be examined by a representative of the Department of Natural Resources, Forest Service prior to ordering seedlings.

In the past, seedlings have been available for reforestation at no charge from the Forest Service at Buckingham Tree Nursery in Harmans. Maryland has provided the seedlings free for twenty-five years. Production costs have substantially increased in that time, thus necessitating a nominal charge for the seedlings.

The Nursery, which produces between four and five million seedlings annually is selling the seedlings at a cost well below retail value. Seedlings available range in price from $12.00 a thousand (1,000 or more) for loblolly, Virginia or black pine, etc. to $35.00 per thousand for black walnut, tulip poplar, black cherry, etc., with other varieties and prices available. A transportation charge must be added, if seedlings are not picked up at the Nursery.

For more information about purchasing trees for conservation purposes, contact the Regional Forester in the Department of Natural Resources Regional Service Centers in Cumberland or contact the Annapolis office of the Maryland Forest Service.

The Grantsville Elementary School P.T.A. will meet on November 29 at 7:30 p.m.

Auxiliary Meets

The Ladies Auxiliary of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department met at the fire hall. Among those participating were Mrs. Gertrude Sebold, chaplain; Mrs. Cleda Baker, president; Mrs. Cecil Sebold, secretary; Mrs. Robert Diehl, treasurer, and Mrs. Emmons Warnick, chairman of the health committee.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas dinner party to be held at the fire hall Sunday, December 12, at 6 p.m. Those attending will be the firemen and their families; members of the ladies auxiliary and their families, and those who have assisted in the kitchen or the dining room during the year. The auxiliary will furnish meat, rolls and beverage, and each family will bring a covered dish and table service.

The firemen will present a program.

$22,000 Awarded To Garrett County

Maryland Transportation Secretary Harry R. Hughes announced, last week, an award of a $22,000 grant to help pay operating costs of Garrett County's bus system.

The grant is part of the Maryland Department of Transportation's program to assist public transportation in non-urban areas of Maryland.

Secretary Hughes commented, "Although we are trying to hold down operating expenditures wherever possible, this sort of program must be supported. It brings public transportation into the rural areas, where it is badly needed."

The county bus system operates three buses on routes throughout the county. The buses are owned by the State and leased to Garrett County.

Children's Home Begins Fund Drive

The annual Christmas fund drive for the Burlington Children's home, near Romney, will be conducted again. Many families of this county will receive through the mail, a letter from the home, to provide information about the work and needs of the home and give its recipients an opportunity to become involved in the work of the home through direct support.

The Burlington Home has some 36 children between the ages of 8 and 18. It has been ministering to homeless children since 1913. Various churches, church groups, social and civic organizations, individuals and others have joined in support of the ministry of the home. Some funds are received from the West Virginia State Department of Welfare. The annual Christmas fund drive is an important source of income for the Home.

Foreign reaction to the recent election was mixed.

Four-H Club Meets

Charlotte Roth, president, called to order the November 8 meeting of the Eglon Mountaineer 4-H Club in the Eglon Memorial Building. J. Roy Lipscomb was guest speaker and presented a penmanship demonstration and also an exhibit of some of his framed writings and paintings.

Devotions on the Thanksgiving theme were presented by Arlene Roth and Sheila Delaney. Plans were made to have a Christmas party and gift exchange at the regular meeting time, December 13. Arlene Roth led the recreation and refreshments were served by Charlotte and Arlene Roth at the close of the meeting. There were fifteen members, leaders and guests were four, in attendance.

Eglon Homemakers Meet

The November meeting of the Eglon Homemakers was an all-day affair on Tuesday, November 9, in the Eglon Memorial Building. The morning was spent in business and preparing the new Year Books. A craft event is being planned in cooperation with the Aurora Homemakers with a tentative date of November 30. More details will be announced at a later time. Mrs. Nina Layman, chaplain, led the devotions using two short passages of scripture along with Thanksgiving poems. The building was decorated in a Thanksgiving theme by the hostess, Mrs. Barbara Hauser.

Following a covered dish luncheon, work was begun on clothes to dress five dolls which are being given to underprivileged children in this county. The lesson, "The Art of Listening', was presented by Mrs. Jean Winters who stressed the fact that a lot of bad habits in listening are acquired and can be overcome by learning some new skills in the communicating process. Special features were Christmas make-it-yourself gift ideas brought by several club members including a decorated basket, pin cushion from jar rings and nitie of handi-wipes, a man's leisure suit and shirt, sock toy, doll cover, wall bag to receive incoming mail and crocheted doily.

Attending the meeting were Nina Layman, Mergil Fike, Lectie Bonner, Lela Roth, Linda Lewis, Julie and Emily Lewis, Avenell Roth, Florence Minnig, Jean Winters, the hostess and a guest, Opal Myers.

The next meeting of the Eglon Homemakers will be December 7 with a family dinner at 7:15 p.m. in the Eglon Memorial Building. Each family is asked to bring gifts for exchange.

Brief Items

The Farmers' Wildlife Club is sponsoring a Shooting Match at the park near Horse Shoe Run on November 20 beginning at 12:30 p.m. Turkeys, hams and bacons will be awarded and refreshments sold.

Wedding Planned

The engagement and approaching marriage of Debbie Lynn Rizer to Gary Lee Lewis is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Rizer of Cleveland, Ohio. The wedding will be at 11:30 a.m. on November 27 in the Stemple Ridge Church with the Rev. Harding Nelson officiating. The custom of open house is being observed both for the wedding ceremony and for the reception which will follow at the Hunt Club near Old Trail's Inn at 1:00 p.m. Friends and relatives are invited.

Miss Rizer is the granddaughter of William Rizer, Sr., of Old Trails Inn and of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Clark, Kempton. Mr. Lewis is the son of Cecil Lewis, Aurora, and Mrs. Nina Wallace, West Lafayette, Ohio, and is employed as a welder at Brilliant, Ohio.

Local Items

A special service was held last Sunday afternoon, November 7, at 2:00 p.m. in the Amboy Church to honor Roy Durst for his fifty-three years of service as Superintendent of the Sunday School. Congregational singing and a history of the church by Ernestine Sisler and Barbara Lee with a presentation of a plaque to Mr. Durst and a dried flower arrangement to Mrs. Durst preceded a refreshment and social hour. The table was centered with an especially decorated cake and punch and coffee were also served. About one hundred registered in the guest book.

The Old Fauber house in Aurora, which has been occupied by Mr. and Mrs. John Shahan, was damaged by fire on Friday in which the Shahans lost most of their personal possessions. It was suspected that the fire was due to an over-heated flue.

Mrs. Martha Crowe of Aurora accompanied her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Crowe of Reedsville, to Charlotte, N.C., last week where they attended the November 6 wedding of Mrs. Crowe's granddaughter, Brenda Crowe, to Michael Cook. Maid of honor was Kathy Maust, of Grantsville. Bridesmaids were Sharon Barefoot, Friendsville, cousin of the bride; Joyce Wolfe, Markleysburg, cousin of the bridegroom; and Diana Turner, Markleysburg, sister of the bridegroom.

Dane Burnworth, Markleysburg, was best man. Ushers were Jamie Workman and Phillip Workman, both of Friendsville, and brothers of the bride. Also included was Bryan Fike, of Dinner Bell.

Letters To Editor

Courthouse Addition

In checking around I find that I am not the only one who is opposed to building an addition on the historic landmark, Garrett County Courthouse. I am opposed to the extravaganza for the following reasons: Although most people are convinced that federal and state money is free, I am convinced that it comes out of the taxpayers' pocket. I am also convinced that the bureaucracy is growing like a malignant cancer and unless more people oppose expansion and extension of federal, state and local programs, we are soon going to be gobbled up. Parking is a serious problem in the town of Oakland, and the building will not only create more parking problems, but more congestion. The county has additional ground just north of Oakland where it could house some of the unnecessary bureaucracies. More importantly, is the destruction of the appearance of the Courthouse and grounds. Contrary to the architect's plan, it is my opinion that the beautiful landmark will be partially destroyed by adding to it. Couldn't we move the state employees out of the Courthouse, let them find their own housing and thereby allow the squeezed departments to expand? Please give us a break.

A taxpayer,
Thomas E. Doyle

Dear Mr. Hanst:

Sincere thoughts and questions flooded my mind after reading the two clergymen's letters last week.

Granted, "spread the good news" is optimistically appreciated. Realistically is it being spread beyond the church walls to a society where the mind and spirit are subjected to extreme strain and pressure?

Are not people coming to feel that the only thing that can save them is an explosion of spiritual energy that can raise them above the level of their fears and doubts? Do the churches not feel these vibrations? Why not? Are many too busy with business? Are many too politically involved? Are many too proud to be humble? What segments of society really count? The wealthy — elite?

Jesus dealt with no abuse of religion. He should be the foundation of our Christian churches—not expensive mortar. Jesus walked among ALL people with reverence and was moved to compassion by their hunger and weariness. He chose disciples to carry on his works — yes, to perform miracles!

Do theologians teach Jesus will return? A beautiful description of the New Jerusalem is at the end of the Book of Revelation, but what is revealed in the book before the end?

Sincerely,
Geneva Rentschler

P.S. Spontaneously I read the Bible—just a citizen.

Dear Editor:

In reply to Preacher Smith's letter in last week's paper, I would like to say, I am very glad for all the many good blessing in God's word. However, to dwell on only those things would be very lopsided. No Bible scholar can preach Heaven without hell, or blessings without obedience, or law without judgment or promises without warnings. One could only read half of the first Psalm. The last verse would have to be cut right in the middle. Preacher Smith is either not familiar with the 33rd Chapter of Ezekiel or he is ignoring it. Let us be honest with ourselves.

America has stepped down from its high Christian standards. Since this nation has sunk to the present level, judgment is in store. Only time will prove this. The Bible also says, "Know the truth and the truth will make you free". When all the facts are in God opens His record of all truth, modern social gospel may be the main reason for the decline in Christian standards. Mr. Editor, these warnings are timely and in order. God will bless both the writers and the printers for their good works.

Your truly,
Homer Mellott

Dear Sir:

On Saturday evening, two weeks ago, we had the great pleasure of serving quite a number of young people from this area. They had dinner, and then went on to their Homecoming dance, at Southern High.

All the other people who were here including the personnel and other patrons were so impressed with them that we wanted to share the feelings with your readers.

It was so refreshing to see such well groomed young men, and beautifully gowned young women, but much more than that, their manners and charm throughout the evening made their visit with us a real joy.

Even though we didn't know any one personally, we do know that a lot of parents and teachers in Garrett County can be very proud.

We all agreed that if this group is an example of tomorrow's leaders, our country will indeed be a great one.

Sincerely,
Bob and Gerry Bobo,
Cornish Manor

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

North Dakota

Capital, Bismarck; governor, Arthur A. Link; flower, wild prairie rose; bird, western meadowlark; tree, American elm; song, North Dakota Hymn; motto, "Liberty and Union, Now and Forever;" nickname, "The Flickertail State;" entered union November 2, 1889; largest city, Fargo.

North Dakota lies in center of North American continent, about 1,500 miles from Atlantic, Pacific, Arctic oceans and Gulf of Mexico.

Scotch and Irish families made first attempt to settle in Pembina in 1812. Before that only Indians and white fur traders lived in the state. Dome shaped lodges of the Mondan Indians have now been restored.

The state suffered severe drought during the 1930s. Entire nation was hit by depression. Today it is nation's most agricultural state and leads nation in durum wheat. Petroleum industry began in 1951 when oil was discovered near Tioga. It quickly became most valuable mineral.

Hugh Garrison dam north of Bismarck is one of the largest in the world. It forms a reservoir 178 miles long. Beginning in 1946 it took seven years to build.

In 1964 the Democrats won control of the House of Representatives for the first time in state's history.

"When you head west," says North Dakota travel division, "Go north to Dakota." Not only is it home of Custer and Sitting Bull, it is where Teddy Roosevelt learned skills of a cowboy. It is cowboys and Indians; a home where the buffalo roam. It is everything connected with the wild west. There are many Indian reservations throughout the state.

Sitting on western quarter of state are the Badlands, the region that captivated Teddy Roosevelt. Theodore Roosevelt National Memorial Park is at Medora. State capital in Bismarck is 18 stories high. Red River Valley lies along Minnesota border. State was the first to hold a presidential primary, 1912. Coal beds have been burning in the state for hundreds of years.

U. S. air force gave a boost to economy during the 1960s. It built strategic air command (SAC) bomber bases near Grand Forks and Minot. About 17,000 workers and families live on each of the two bases and in nearby communities.

North Dakota's crisp autumn days attract thousands of hunters and fishermen to streams and lakes where migrating waterfowl pause on their way south. Sportsmen also shoot grouse, pheasants and other game birds.

Famous Dakotans include Vilhjalmee Stefansson, Maxwell Anderson and Eric Sevareid.

Ohio is the next state in the series.

Maryland Farm Bureau To Meet December 2 to 4

C. William Swank, executive vice president, Ohio Farm Bureau Federation, will be featured speaker at the 61st annual meeting of the Maryland Farm Bureau December 2-4 in Pikesville.

Swank, along with Jack Griffin, an olympic track coach, and Richard Owens, administrator, American Farm Bureau Federation, will join Maryland Secretary of Agriculture, Y. D. Hance, Louis Goldstein, Comptroller of Maryland, and Richard Chilcott, senior vice president, Nationwide Insurance, on the list of convention speakers.

The convention meets for the serious purpose of establishing official Farm Bureau policy for 1977.

Swank, who is known for his somewhat unusual approach in speaking to FB audiences, has been executive vice president in Ohio since 1968. He will speak at the annual banquet Friday evening, December 3.

A native of Darke County, Ohio, he earned a doctorate degree in agricultural economics from Ohio State University in 1962.

Swank has received national and state recognition for his accomplishments in agriculture. These include: appointment by President Ford to the summit conference on inflation and the economy in 1974; received the Ohio FFA VIP in 1973; the college centennial award of Ohio State University; and was a member of the national advisory committee on grains for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Young farmers' and women's committee programs are again a part of the convention this year along with three commodity conferences.

A special film presentation, luncheon and business session will comprise the annual women's committee meeting at the convention.

Courtesy of the Maryland Bicentennial Commission, the film is entitled "At the Risk of Our Lives and Fortunes."

Business session of the meeting will include election of directors in three districts.

Directors whose terms expire in 1976 include: District One: Mrs. Joyce Bishoff, representing Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties.

POLICY STATEMENT

Over the past 18 years, we have attempted, to the best of our ability, to serve the residents of Garrett County and the surrounding areas with honesty, truthfulness and integrity. We have always presented, to the best of our ability, both sides of controversial issues such as the one over the Blue Laws now facing Garrett County. At NO TIME have we ever refused comparable time to responsible spokesmen with views differing from those of the management of this station or those expressed by programs which have been aired over our facilities. We have always been, and will continue to be, objective, truthful, honest and straightforward with our listeners. We shall continue to welcome the opportunity to serve all segments of the community and to uphold the principles which are the foundation of our American Heritage.

Many of us do not admit to being artists. When asked to draw anything, we stammer, look puzzled, and surrender by drawing stick figures. Not to worry! Randy Tusing, an art teacher in Northern High School, has taken groups of students who believed themselves to be anything but budding Picassos and Norman Rockwells and produced some rather amazing results.

Mr. Tusing does not have a classroom, in the strictest sense, but reports each day to a modified gallery/studio. The only element which smacks of structured education is the presence of desks, but these do not detract from the ambiance of the room. Once inside, one is totally secure in the artists' world, knowing that all those paintings, sketches, and sculptures have been created by adolescent imaginings. And if a 13-year-old can draw a bird which looks as though it will fly from the wall and perch on the bookcase, then anyone can do it, right?

Wrong. It's hardly as easy as that. Keep in mind that art does not bloom overnight from simple stick figures to sophisticated pointilism. Nine weeks' worth of effort prefaced the displays in this classroom, but even in that short period of time, some substantial concepts in art were achieved. Light and shade, line, perspective — all are artists' terms for the basis of all artistic approach. They are not easily defined and, therefore, no easier learned.

Mr. Tusing's patient approach has been rewarded in abundance. He has papered every square inch of the room with students' efforts. Tables and bookcases groaned with the weight of what one might label "pun art," for want of a more appropriate term. These pieces were modeled of clay, and many awaited the finishing touches. Nevertheless, they were quite amusing contributions in the name of Art: a knuckle sandwich was represented by a doubled fist situated between two slices of bread; a cup of tea was simply a teacup with the letter "T" placed inside. Additional study and experience will enable the students to create more intricate artwork using even greater technical expertise.

Art is a convenient "catch-all" which encompasses far more than drawing, painting, and sculpting. More generally stated, it is the conscious use of skill and creative energy toward a greater understanding of aesthetics. Creative energy may be channeled into dance, drama, writing, or any form which strives to capture and enhance a concept of beauty.

Mr. Tusing has expanded his art curriculum to accommodate dance as part of a creative outlet available to students. Having witnessed an instructional session of part of his Dance Troupe, two immediate thoughts occurred: dance is justifiably a work of art, and it is just that — much work and rehearsal.

The Dance Troupe has attracted the talents of 27 students, both male and female. This is the first active dance performing group ever organized in Northern High School and has been met with a favorable reaction by both student body and faculty. The troupe assembles during club period every two weeks, but further practice time is achieved by after-school rehearsals. Much of the success of the troupe has greatly depended on peer teaching — that is, students coaching other students under Tusing's supervision.

The Dance Troupe is currently preparing for a show that is tentatively slated for mid-December. The presentation is a combination of dance styles utilizing movements from modern dance, jazz, and ballet. The dancers will be accompanied by a variety of music, ranging from solid classical strains to the best of Bette Midler. Jesus Christ Superstar will come to life via choreography during the spring show which is scheduled for May.

Mr. Tusing is hardly a candidate for stage fright. His theatrical experience reads like an entry from Who's Who in American Theatre. While majoring in Art and Speech/Theatre Education at Frostburg State College, he participated as an actor, director, choreographer, or technical producer in such productions as The Boyfriend, Three Penny Opera, Good and Faithful Servant, Stop the World, I Want to Get Off, Of Thee I Sing, and many more.

His talent in directing, choreography, light and set design won him a place in dramatic competition in College Park. He was awarded Best Actor in a Supporting Role and Best Director for his role in The Boyfriend, as well as awards for children's theatre. He was the charter president for the Alpha Psi Omega drama honorary in college.

Tusing's career as an educator commenced in January, 1975, at Northern High School. His classload includes grades 7-12, most of which are general art classes. He is developing a new art program for next year which will introduce mini-courses and studio classes.

Tusing is not a native of Maryland but has lived in this state for most of his life. Born in San Antonio, Texas, the son of an Air Force officer, he travelled extensively with his family before settling in Bladensburg, Maryland at the age of six and later at Oxon Hill. Even while attending Bishop-McNamara High School, he was determined to teach art and theatre; this determination led him to play the lead actor in Mame, his first role for the stage.

Randy's lead has apparently been followed by those at home. A younger brother is a student at the University of Maryland and, by all reports, excels in music, dance, and athletics. A 13-year-old sister, whose musical prowess has that same impressive quality of accomplishment, has been studying the flute for three years and will be performing at the Kennedy Center for Fine Arts very soon.

Tusing enjoys living in Garrett County because ". . . the people, at least the ones I work with and know, seem to be friendly, not at all what you find in the city. Teaching here is so much different than teaching in a city school — everything is more relaxed and it's easy to teach in that kind of environment." His fiancee must share his opinion of this area, for after their June wedding, they plan to make Garrett County their home.

The special atmosphere that Garrett County possesses is easily enough felt by remains stubbornly elusive to define. Some have testified that it's the country life which appeals to them most, some have enjoyed meeting the people here, and some just aren't sure. Whatever it is, we should hope that it continues to attract individuals like Randy Tusing.

Admissions Tax Money Received

Checks totaling $2,402,476 were mailed to Maryland's counties, cities and towns covering their admissions and amusement tax revenues for the first quarter of fiscal year 1977, have been mailed by Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller.

Public Safety Act May Also Benefit Volunteer Firemen

The Public Safety Officers' Benefits Act, which was signed into law by President Ford on September 29 of this year, will have some impact on volunteer firefighters as well as paid law enforcement personnel.

The Act authorizes the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration to pay a benefit of $50,000 to specified survivors of state and local public safety officers who have died as the direct result of a personal injury sustained in the line of duty.

Coverage is intended for persons involved in crime and juvenile delinquency control of reduction, or enforcement of the criminal laws, including police, corrections, probation, parole, and judicial officers. Paid and volunteer firefighters are also covered.

The Internal Revenue Service has ruled that the $50,000 benefit is not subject to federal taxation.

Claims for benefits under the Act should be submitted to the Public Safety Officers' Benefits Program, Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, 633 Indiana Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20531.

Two Nurses Will Work In County Schools This Year

The Garrett County Board of Education announced today that two nurses, Mrs. Norma Bolding and Mrs. Carol Clark, from the Garrett County Health Department will be working in the school health program this year. They will be visiting all the schools on a regular basis to provide assistance with any health problems that may occur.

The Board of Education and the Health Department will be doing a school health screening program for all children in Kindergarten, First, Third, Sixth, and Ninth grades. Each child will have his vision and hearing checked, height and weight measured and brief oral inspection. All of the screening tests are important to identify early any problems that may interfere with the child's ability to learn in school, it was pointed out.

The nurses will be meeting with the School P.T.A. Groups and the children to explain the screening program. The children will bring a letter home from school approximately two weeks before the screening will begin in each school. If any problems are suspected, the school health nurse will send a letter to the parents. The Screening Program will begin December 1st and continue through April.

Drug, Larceny, Destruction Cases Heard

Several were found guilty of drug possession, larceny and property destruction by Judge Lewis R. Jones in District Court during the week ending November 15.

Kimberly Sue Schroyer, Friendsville; Donald William Coddington, Greenbelt, and Edward Lee Parker, II, Newport News, Va., pleaded not guilty of possession of Marijuana on U.S. 48 at Friendsville on September 8. They were all found guilty and a presentence investigation was ordered.

Dave Albert, Bradley Manor, Oakland, had been charged with two counts of larceny and one count of assault. Albert pleaded guilty of larceny of a battery from Clayton Metheny on Herrington Manor road October 25. He was fined $50 and costs. A 60-day jail sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year under supervision. He is to continue the program with the Alcoholic services. The charge of larceny of a battery from Hutton Exxon was stetted following the plea in the other case. Albert pleaded not guilty of assault on Jack Treasure in October at Bradley Manor and the plea was sustained.

Gary Hardesty, RD 3, Deer Park, pleaded not guilty at Monday's trial of destruction of property of B and J Taxi in Oakland, October 16. He was found guilty and fined $25 and costs. A 30-day jail sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation for one year under supervision and ordered to make restitution. Hardesty also pleaded not guilty at the same trial of petty larceny of jewelry at Proudfoots Pharmacy in Oakland the same day. He was found guilty and sentenced to jail for 60 days. Forty days of the sentence was suspended. After serving 20 days, he is to be released December 3. He is then to be on probation for one year under supervision.

Abelle Dove (Annabelle) Perando, RD 4, Deer Park, pleaded not guilty of two charges of destruction of property of the Garrett County Jail October 24 by breaking two windows and downspout. She was found guilty on both charges and fined $25 and costs each. She was also charged on motor vehicle violations.

Leonard Cutter, Midlothian, was charged with making a 'stop payment" on a check supposed to pay a bill. The case was stetted and restitution is to be made.

Carl Shiflett, Jr., Mt. Lake Park, had been charged with assault and battery on Martha Shiflett on the Loch Lynn School playground October 15. Last week, Shiflett prayed a jury trial in District Court.

Two were charged with passing worthless checks: Linda O'Brien, Mt. Lake Park, and Charles Ferguson, RD 2, Swanton. Both cases were stetted and restitution to be made.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Hamilton (Ham) Weeks who passed from this life nine years ago, November 13, 1965.

A Man "Ham"

There once was a man
A big sort of guy
He was kind to all
His name was "Ham".
He was my Dad.
But not in the usual way
He took me in
When I had no place to stay.
He taught me much
He always gave a hand
To most all people
He was their friend.
He passed from this world
Without an enemy
But the way things are now
He could have had many.
We know you are at rest
With no pain or sorrow
But we miss you dearly
In this time we borrow.

Missed, but still thought of Donald and Janice Upole and family

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

The Garrett County Sanitary Commission requests proposals for the following work:

MISCELLANEOUS WATER LINE CONSTRUCTION WORK BY HOURLY HIRED EQUIPMENT

Sealed proposals are due no later than 3:30 p.m., Monday, November 22, 1976 at the office of the Garrett County Sanitary Commission on Bonnie Boulevard in Loch Lynn, Md. (mail address: Box 61, Oakland, Md. 21550) at which time all proposals will be publicly opened and read in a designated room.

Proposals shall be in letter form and shall state the proposed hourly rate for each machine with operator. Each machine shall be identified by make, year built, serial number, and size or model. Buckets, blades, booms, dump bodies, etc. attached to machines shall be identified by capacity or size. Hourly rates for laborers and supervision should be stated also.

Note: Unless otherwise specified by the bidder the hourly rates shall be considered applicable only to the number of hours worked, thus it is important that proposals shall specify all conditions of the proposed rates such as minimum daily charges, moving charges, terms of supervision, availability, billing periods, etc.

Also, unless otherwise specified by the bidder, the rates shall be considered applicable for one full year from the date of the opening of the proposals.

Hourly rates are specifically requested on the following machinery and services: backhoe, front end loader, dump truck, small bulldozers, labor and supervision. Hourly rates on other machinery will be considered also.

The Sanitary Commission plans to select contractors for this work as the need arises in conjunction with water main construction in Mountain Lake Park and Loch Lynn Heights. Said selection will consider, but not be limited to total cost; availability; types, sizes and combinations of equipment and labor; and contractor's expertise. The Sanitary Commission reserves the right to waive any informality in any proposal, to hire anyone or more machines or other items at any time and to terminate the employment of any machine or other item when the Commission considers such to be in its own best interest.

Deer Season To Open Nov. 27th

Maryland's week-long firearms deer season comes up this month.

This year, the firearms season is from November 27 through December 4. Sunday hunting is prohibited in Maryland.

It is expected that more than 80,000 hunters will take to wood and field in pursuit of deer this season. Annual deer harvest in Maryland averages about 9,000 head, enough to keep the state's herd at a healthy level of approximately 60,000 animals.

During the firearms season, deer hunters must wear fluorescent orange. While the law does not specify where the color must be worn or how much, Chief Charles H. Milton of DNR police's Inland Division suggests "at least a fluorescent orange cap and even more desirable a cap and a fluorescent orange vest."

DNR reminds hunters that to hunt deer you need an $8 statewide hunter's license if you are a resident of the state plus a $5.50 deer-turkey stamp. For residents 65 or older, the license is $1.25 and the stamp, $1.00.

To hunt on public lands, an additional $2 stamp is required if you are over 16 and under 65.

Here are some regulations concerning the types of weapons which may be used for deer hunting:

Deer hunters using shotguns must use a pumpkin ball or rifled slug. Buckshot may not be used to hunt deer. The use of shotguns smaller than 20 gauge for deer hunting is not permitted.

Rifles used for deer hunting must use ammunition giving a muzzle energy of at least 1200 foot pounds.

Muzzleloaders used for deer hunting must be at least .40 caliber in size and use not less than 60 grains of black powder. It is permissible to hunt deer with a muzzleloading firearm in all counties.

Student Education Received Board's Attention Nov. 11

A major part of the November 11 meeting of the Board of Education was spent discussing the educational program for students in the local schools, it was announced by Dr. William Buser, county superintendent of schools.

The board approved a Title I incentive grant designed to provide some educational experiences for Title I students, heard reports on the Accountability Program from Albert R. Ringer, assistant superintendent for Curriculum and Instruction; and were given an analysis of the items missed most frequently on the Iowa Test of Basic Skills from Dr. Eugene Hall, from the Regional Education Service Agency which serves the county schools. Principals and supervisory personnel will be working with classroom teachers in developing understandings related to items most frequently missed and how instructional programs can improve areas where deficiencies exist, Dr. Buser pointed out.

The board also received reading curriculum materials designed for kindergarten and first grade students, developed this past summer in a reading curriculum workshop. Mr. Ringer indicated that as a result of reading being the highest priority in the local schools, the staff would be working to develop similar materials to be used by teachers with students through grade eight in the next two years.

Herbert Harman, board president, expressed concern that the county schools, as well as those in the state are not making progress with students in grades seven and nine at the rate they seem to be making in grades three and five. He asked the superintendent to work with appropriate staff in giving specific suggestions which will be used in helping to resolve this problem.

The League of Women Voters presented a preliminary concensus report developed by the league via the league's president, Mrs. Dorothy Leighton, with members Mrs. Dayle Dabney and Mrs. Marianne Flinn present. The league's study included concensus recommendations for quality education in the county as they relate to curriculum, pupil services, teaching and supervision, and parental and community involvement.

Point To Remember . . .

We often hear it said that economic freedom is the foundation for all the other freedoms we enjoy — but do we really understand that concept? Perhaps it will be clearer if it is put in terms of how private enterprise protects a newspaper's freedom — and vice versa.

A newspaper has the strength to resist pressure groups — of all kinds — because of its business strength in a free market economy. Jerry Friedheim, executive vice president and general manager of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, made the connection in a recent talk to a group of journalism students.

He put it this way: "Free enterprise permits good newspapers to be economically independent. And that permits a free press to exist so that it may monitor big government, expose corruption, bring diverse views to a mass electorate — and safeguard free enterprise against the constant probings of the government interventionists who say they know better than any of the rest of us what is best for all of us."

This underscores the indivisibility of our freedoms — a good point to keep in mind when you hear someone rail against one of them.

American Legion Plans Expansion

Proctor Kildow Post 71, American Legion in Oakland, has finalized plans for a 50 by 70 feet addition to the present structure. The expanded facility will be made available to the entire area for use as a meeting hall, according to P. Waller Hoye, Legion manager.

The addition will comprise two floors to be added at the rear of the building. A contract for the expansion will be let after the first of the year, with construction to begin as soon thereafter as is feasible. Estimated costs of the renovation will be in the neighborhood of $150,000, including furnishings. The building will be of cement blocks with steel roof trusses.

Also planned is a 150-car parking lot on the west side of the building, facing Fourth Street.

The meeting room, which will open off the present dining and meeting area, will feature a 12-foot ceiling. The addition will be completely air conditioned and smoke controlled by equipment to be placed on the roof. The room will have a hardwood floor and a band stage as well as two fire escapes, one at either end of the structure.

The room will be made available to civic organizations and groups for meetings or dances upon a rental basis. There will be seating for approximately 600. The basement or lower area will also be available to groups for meetings or other activities.

Funds for the building will be raised through such Legion activities as dinners and dances, along with other projects.

Committee members are Lonnie Marsh, Alfred Kight, William Goldsborough, Post commander; Dayton Alexander, Jim Helbig and Mr. Hoye. William Shirer is ex-officio member of the committee.

Reassessment In County Is Now Complete

In compliance with a court ruling implemented three years ago, the third and final physical reassessment was completed in election districts 2, 4, 5, 8, 12, 13, part of 6, and Deep Creek Lake, it was revealed by Jerome K. Moyer, supervisor of assessments for the county.

The Assessment Department is now required to review all assessments on an annual basis, he pointed out, and reassess each year such properties as that review indicated a change in value, using 50 percent of market value, he said.

Since a large volume of property notices will be mailed by December 1, property owners who feel the assessment recommended is inaccurate, should return section 5 of their notice and a letter of appeal within 30 days from the date of their notice, he concluded.

Northern Band Boosters Sponsor Calendar Project

The Northern High school Band Boosters are again sponsoring a birthday-activity calendar. This year a new feature is being added. This is in the form of a color portrait of the senior band.

The calendar also features birthday and wedding anniversary dates, memoriam and service dates, organizational meeting dates and advertisements of business concerns. The calendar is now in the hands of the printer.

Due to additional time needed for color work this year's calendar will extend from March, 1977 through February, 1978. They are expected to be ready for distribution by February, 1977.

Two Planes Forced Down At Keyser Ridge Tuesday

Two single-engine planes were forced to land near Route 48 only 13 minutes apart Tuesday morning, due to a snowstorm and high winds in the Keyser Ridge area.

According to a report by Maryland State Police, neither plane or pilot sustained any damage.

At 10:10 a.m., the first plane, operated by Gregory Hendrix, 22, of Stover, Missouri, was forced to land on a farm field south of Route 48. He was owner and operator of a 1946 Luscumbe aircraft, and had left Cumberland at approximately 10 a.m. enroute to Evansville, Ind.

At 10:23 a.m., a 1946 Cessna single engine craft was also forced down at Keyser Ridge, this time landing on the entrance ramp to Route 48 east of Route 219. Operating the plane was Boyd Craig Birchler, Evansville, Ind., aged 24. He was piloting a plane belonging to Judith Ann Ernfpriger, Evansville, and had also left the Cumberland airport at approximately 10 a.m.

The first plane was left at the scene, while the second craft was removed to the former Homer Reichenbecher property.

Better Entrance, Exit Urged At Finzel Area

Two meetings have been scheduled to discuss plans for better exits and entrances to the Freeway from Route 40 from the Finzel Interchange west.

The first meeting is set for Sunday afternoon, November 28, at 2 o'clock at the Finzel community building. Plans resulting from this meeting are to be presented to the county commissioners at a second meeting on Monday afternoon, November 29, at 2 o'clock at the court house in Oakland.

Additional exits and entrances are being desired by people of the Finzel area, one at the Finzel interchange and one at the Green Lantern road interchange. It was being asserted that the Freeway has isolated all businesses on route 40 from Finzel to the New Germany road.

Woman In "Fair" Condition After Mishap Tuesday

Mrs. Raymond (Betty) Karlstrand, Swanton, is in fair condition this morning in Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a one-car accident on the New Germany Road shortly before 11:30 Tuesday morning.

Mrs. Karlstrand sustained severe injuries to both legs when her vehicle, a 1974 Chevrolet Blazer, slid from the icy roadway, traveled down a slight embankment and struck a tree, pinning her inside.

The Karlstrand's two and one-half-year-old daughter Vickie Lynn was slightly injured but was not admitted to the hospital.

According to Tfc. Charles Hinnant, who investigated for the Maryland State Police, Mrs. Karlstrand was northbound on New Germany Road when icy road conditions caused the vehicle to slide into the tree. The door on the driver's side was the main point of impact, crumpling inward and pinning her legs.

The Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad was called to the scene with auto extrication equipment and worked approximately 35 minutes to free the woman. Mrs. Karlstrand then spent over fours undergoing emergency treatment at the hospital.

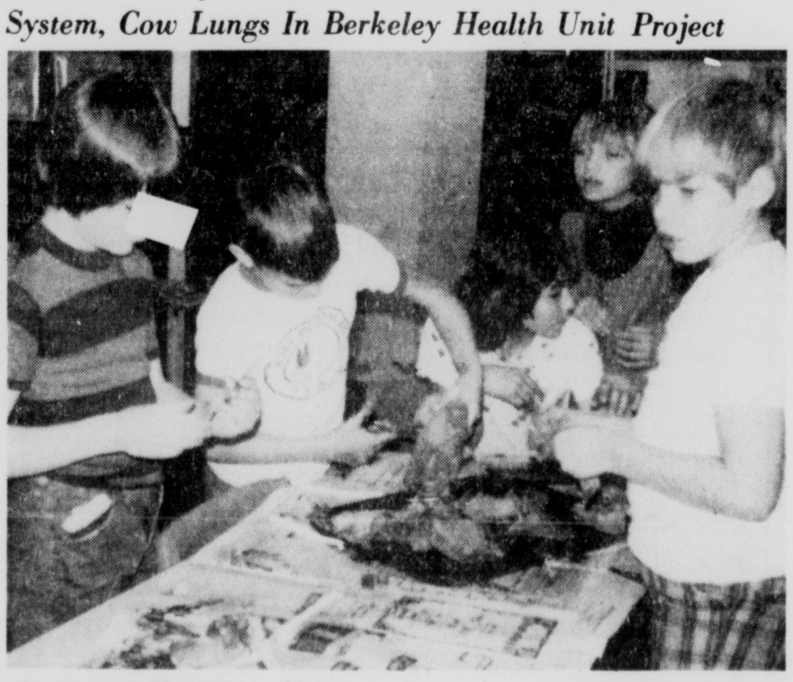
Broad Ford Fifth Grade Students Study Respiratory System, Cow Lungs In Berkeley Health Unit Project



Broad Ford Elementary School fifth graders have been learning about the respiratory system as part of their Berkeley Health unit.

The students were given "hands on" experience with the main organ of the system, the lungs. Cow lungs were brought to class as part of the project, and students were able to see the trachae and bronchial tubes as well as the pair of lungs.

Microscopes were used to see the many small air sacs, alveoli, in the lungs. Students also viewed the very thin walls of the air sacs and their network of tiny blood vessels called capillaries.

Pumps were used to blow the lungs up, allowing students to see the elasticity of the lungs.

Mrs. Pam Biser, student aide, and Mrs. Dot Rudy, school nurse, helped Miss Doris Opel, teacher, with the project.

Above, students cut pieces of cow lung and blow up each piece to see the elasticity of the lung. Pictured are Chip Frederick, Bill Beckman, Mary Clatterbuck, Wendy Beitzel and Tracy Zimmerman.

OAKLAND V.F.D. GETS LARGE CONTRIBUTION — Mrs. Hilda Pritts, right, of Oakland, presented the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department with her second $500 check last week. Accepting the money is James Rook, president of the company. The money will be used to help pay off the $48,000 fully equipped truck recently purchased by the Oakland company. Approximately $16,000 remains due on the vehicle, and donations are acceptable any time, according to Mr. Rook.

Some Oyster Harvest Insights

Can you imagine the Chesapeake Bay without oysters? Can you imagine a Maryland menu without an oyster on the half-shell, a fried oyster, or a broiled oyster? Perish the thought, but we are confronted with a seriously diminishing oyster harvest.

Lsst winter, the state-wide oyster harvest was 2.5 million bushels. To the average layman, that may sound like a lot, but 75-80 years ago, winter harvests ran 10-15 million bushels. This year, if projections prove correct, Maryland watermen may bring home less than 1½ million bushels. It is beginning to appear that oyster reproduction has almost ceased around the Chesapeake Bay, but some initiatives towards solution of this problem provide us a ray of hope.

In an article published by the University of Maryland, George Krantz claims that the oyster harvest is poised to go downhill. But, he is involved in some important research to overcome the diminishing yield. Mr. Krantz is research associate professor at the Horn Point Environmental Laboratories. Horn Point is one of the five regional laboratories of the University's three-year old branch, which is called the Center for Environmental and Estaurine Studies.

An encouraging, and perhaps promising, project underway at Horn Point is the development of a production-size oyster hatchery. With it, scientists can spawn, grow, and plant oysters on oysters bars around the state.

The University's Chesapeake Biological Laboratory at Solomons Island has been in the oyster business, as a laboratory, for 15 years. Drawing on what has been learned there, the hatchery at Horn Point may be able to replace one-tenth of the Bay's natural harvest.

This is but one of the steps, and an important one, in determining whether oyster hatcheries can be made on a scale large enough, and at a cost within reason, that the entire natural harvest could be duplicated if that should become necessary. The University of Maryland, all of us, should be proud that we are preparing to meet a potential oyster crisis.

But, how did we get into this predicament? As I've said before, there has been too little regard given the protection of our waterways in this country. The dumping of heavy metals, detergents, petroleum, and pesticides are bound to change the quality of any water system . . . as they have done to the Bay. Hurricane Agnes proved to be a disaster of long-range impact, for it changed the salinity and temperature of the Bay's water. And, these factors influence change of the chemical and life cycles in the Bay.

As a result, the oyster spat, the tiny beginnings of an oyster, simply are not present this year in quantities which assure us of a normal commercial harvest. We are preparing to reap the harvest we have sown; but, that harvest is not only reaped from the insults we have perpetrated on our waterways. We are also reaping a harvest of knowledge and insight to meet such problems, a harvest that has been made possible by support of scientific research and study, exemplified by the University of Maryland and its Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies.

Needed:
A New Energy Policy

Predictions are always uncertain, but, I'll go out on a limb and predict that energy will be a serious problem for us in 1977, if only because it will begin to cost even more than it does today.

The era of abundant supply of cheap energy ended when we had the first energy crunch as a result of the five-month Arab oil embargo. The effects of that embargo are mere samples of the problems that all of us will suffer for the next generation, unless we develop and implement a comprehensive, far sighted energy policy.

The solutions to these problems are neither easy nor inexpensive. The energy crisis, in the making for decades, is not going to be resolved in a few days. We'll need years of effort and enormous input of technology and resources to begin solving the energy problems of the world.

Unfortunately, there is a tendency among many Americans — and this was obvious in the speeches of the campaign that just ended — to believe that solutions can be made painless to American consumers of energy. Too many of our policy makers are gambling that they can substitute mere expectations of OPEC benevolence or future technological breakthroughs for politically distasteful decisions which are necessary to ensure continued availability of adequate supplies of energy.

The result has been a triumph of rhetoric over reality. A hodge-podge of energy programs makes this nation vulnerable to tremendous risk, and was adopted, I believe, in an attempt to avoid telling the American people that they must face the problem squarely, and that they will have to make some sacrifices. These are not truly sacrifices of the quality of life, but are savings that we can accomplish through a reduction in our waste of energy resources.

America's energy problems were analyzed by the International Energy Agency, which concluded that the American program must overcome its historical pattern of extremely high per capita energy consumption, and must become comprehensive and strong to be effective. At the present it is neither. We currently depend almost entirely on voluntary programs, voluntary research and development and public education.

In comparison of per capita energy consumption in the United States and West Germany, the Federal Energy Administration found that the total energy used in the United States, in relation to national income, is about 50% greater than in West Germany. This large disparity between the two countries suggests that continued economic growth and improvement in the standard of living in the United States should be possible without a proportinate increase in energy consumption. This means that we simply have to become more efficient in our use of energy, and more careful in our conservation of it.

The Congressional Office of Technology Assessment reviewed the Energy Research and Development Administration's national goals and programs, and concluded that ERDA is pursuing a narrow hardware-oriented approach, one that overemphasizes the importance of increasing energy supplies through complex new technologies and largely ignores the possibilities of conservation and small-scale technical solutions. It further states that, ironically, the Agency's program could lead to an increased dependence on foreign energy sources between now and the year 2000.

All of this boils down to one short rule: every one of us is going to have to learn to save energy, to use it more efficiently and effectively, if we are to bring our country through safely in the years ahead. This is an individual contribution that we must each make.

EPA Should Reject DuPont's Ocean Dumping Request

The Environmental Protection Agency has had an application from duPont Company for a three-year ocean dumping permit. This is a question of great concern for all of us in Maryland, and really to every American, because the question of what we do with the great oceans of the world is going to be of vital importance in the years ahead.

I'm concerned about the practice of dumping all sorts of polluting materials into the oceans on the questionable theory that the oceans are big enough to absorb them all. The fact is that the oceans are beginning to show the wear and tear of ocean dumping.

The Maryland portion of the Atlantic coastline is of particular value to the people of Maryland. We have a short ocean frontier and it is of highly concentrated utility. The northern portion of our shoreline is devoted to intense recreational use at Ocean City, with more and more people availing themselves year-round of all of the opportunities for recreation there. The southern part of our shoreline is preserved through the National Seashore System and the Assateague National Seashore. It is one of the great jewels in our crown, an important part of our natural heritage that is of enormous importance to us. Taken together, both facets of the Maryland shoreline depend upon a high degree of water quality which is imperiled by continued ocean dumping.

I've written to our fellow Marylander, EPA Administrator Russell Train, and pointed out the potential damage to marine life and to the ocean ecosystem. The toxic heavy metal waste that would be dumped by duPont is ingested by marine organisms and can end up on our dinner tables. The accumulation of toxic heavy metals in shellfish around the dumping site has also been documented, and is simply a known fact.

Beyond these significant dangers, I find it disturbing that another ocean dumping permit might be issued when there are alternative means of disposing of the waste. Evidently, the disposal methods which are environmentally, technically and economically feasible have not been sufficiently considered. The neutralization of acid waste by adding lime or some similar substance is one alternative which has been suggested, with the resultant compound then applied to a land-fill.

In my judgment, there is no justification for continued ocean dumping, and I have urged Russell Train very strongly to reject this application for a special permit. I believe this to be on the front-line of safety, not only for the preservation of our natural resources, but for the purity of our food supply and for the preservation of the ocean as the great potential farm of the future.

Irwin-McClellan Wedding Held At Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home

In recent years the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland has been devising new activities for the patients. A first for the home was held this past weekend when a young woman decided to have her wedding in the home so her grandmother could be a part of the event.

Miss Dixie Lee McClellan, granddaughter of Mrs. Causby Lusk, and Mrs. Peggy DiSimone, activities director for the nursing home, coordinated the wedding with the approval of the groom, Maxey Irwin.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the dining room November 20 by a close friend of the family, Rev. Charles Mercer, Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Keyser, W. Va.

The bride, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Eugene McClellan, St. Paul, Va., formerly of Oakland, wore a floor-length beige dress and dark brown picture hat. Gretchen Houck, niece of the bride, was flower girl and the only attendant for the bride.

The bride attended Williamson High School in West Virginia and is a graduate of West Virginia University. She taught English and drama at Northern High School, Accident, from 1967 to 1969 and is presently employed with the Appalachian Regional Commission in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Irwin is a son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Irwin, Sparta, Tenn. He attended Vanderbilt University and had been affiliated with the House Appropriations Committee in Washington, D. C. and recently accepted the position of editor of the Shelbyville Times Gazette, Shelbyville, Tenn.

The tiered wedding cake was made by the Watergate Bakery in Washington, D. C. Champagne and other refreshments were served. The couple left for a honeymoon trip to Hot Springs, Va. before assuming residence in Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Lusk, who at 84 years of age has been a resident of the home for nine years, is in ill health and could not be moved from the nursing home for the wedding. She appeared to enjoy the event very much, and seemed grateful to spend time visiting with friends and relatives.

Mrs. Causby Lusk, seated left, was the honored guest at the wedding of her granddaughter, Dixie Lee McClellan, center, held at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home on November 20. Other family members in the picture with the bride are, left to right, Mrs. Albert McClellan, mother of the bride; Maxey Irwin, groom; and the bride's father, Albert McClellan. Gretchen Houck, front right, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

Traffic Count At McHenry Drops

The traffic count at McHenry for September showed a decrease from the same month last year.

This past September showed a count of 126,060 vehicles whereas the count for the same month in 1975 showed 131,310, a decrease of 5,250, or 4 percent. Of the other three points checked all showed an increase. They were U.S. 40 at Town Creek, 32.5 percent; U. S. 40 at Clarysville, 6.7 percent, and Md. 36 at Lonaconing, 20.3 percent.

Declining enrollments was one reason for the Montgomery County School system to pare its budget.

Korea, Cuba And Senator McGovern

Richard Nixon can be faulted for many things during his presidency. But Americans can be grateful for one thing he did: He kept Senator George McGovern from becoming President by defeating the South Dakota Democrat in 1972.

Senator McGovern consistently is in the forefront of American liberals, urging friendship toward this country's Communist enemies and enmity toward its friends. His latest "cause," judging from a lengthy speech he delivered on the Senate floor shortly before Congress adjourned recently, is the normalization of relations with North Korea.

This is the same North Korea, under the iron fist of Dictator Kim Il Sung, that brutally murdered two U. S. officers at the 38th parallel in August. In ordering the ax murders, North Korea might well have believed they would cause some soul-searching in the United States which would lead to a lessening of our resolve to resist further Communist expansion in Southeast Asia.

All such a strategy required was the "conversion" of a few key U. S. leaders who would rather switch and run than fight. They found one in George McGovern.

"The recent killing of two American officers at the 38th parallel in Korea," said McGovern, "should lead the Congress and the Executive Branch to reexamine the purpose and meaning of our commitment there." The Senator says that the August slayings should make Americans demand that "we shall make peace rather than continue toward war." If that sounds like Munich-style appeasement and surrender, you've got the picture.

It will be remembered that it was this same George McGovern, and his fellow Senate liberals, who last year at this time were screaming for normalization of relations with Communist Cuba. But then Fidel Castro failed to follow his part of the script and had the audacity to send his troops off to fight in Angola, where they remain to this day.

The George McGoverns in America's government circles, for all their supposed learning, haven't yet learned the clear fact that no Communist dictator respects weakness. We can only hope that the wishful thinking of these individuals doesn't become the cutting edge of U. S. policy. —U. S. Press Asso-

American Lung Association Gives Luncheon Tuesday

John C. Heavener, Jr., program consultant for the Allegany-Garrett Advisory Council of the American Lung Association of Maryland, presented tokens of appreciation to several in Garrett County following a luncheon Tuesday at Cornish Manor.

Mrs. Charles Briner received a framed letter of appreciation for the work of her late husband contributed in his years as Christmas Seal campaign chairman.

Miss Mary Kathryn Speicher, director of nursing for the county health department, was presented a ten-year pin in recognition of her work for the council.

Wayne Hamilton, county commissioner, has accepted the chairmanship of the Christmas Seal campaign this year, and was a special guest at the luncheon.

4-H Jr. Leaders' Goal: 'Save Our Church'

CHICAGO—"Save our church building" is the rallying cry this summer for more than 12,000 4-H junior leaders throughout the state of Indiana.

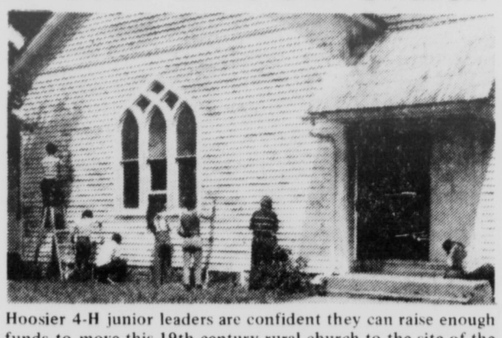
A white frame church now on land adjacent to the Indiana 4-H Center near West Lafayette has been donated to the Center provided it is moved by fall.

Used by Hoosier junior leaders for the last 12 years, the building will be a much-needed addition to the developing 4-H Center. So, with the approval of the Indiana 4-H Foundation, junior leaders have launched a drive to raise $12,000 to move the church.

4-H clubs throughout the state have been conducting fund-raising projects—bake sales, fish fries, car washes—to support the junior leaders' drive. With the added contributions of individuals, organizations, churches and businesses, $7,500 of the $12,000 goal had been raised by June 15.

Said Dr. R. L. Kohls, Purdue University's dean of agriculture and a Foundation board member: "Not one teenage member of the state 4-H Junior Leader Council expressed a moment's reservation about the eventual success of the mission. Their only concern was the best method of doing the job—not could the job be done."

These Indiana 4-H'ers demonstrate the self-confidence and enthusiasm typical of the young people nationwide who assume leadership roles in 4-H.



Hoosier 4-H junior leaders are confident they can raise enough funds to move this 19th century rural church to the site of the Indiana 4-H Center. Used by junior leaders for 12 years, the church was donated to the Center on condition it be moved. The project typifies the enthusiasm of teens involved in 4-H leadership activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. Reader's Digest encourages 4-H members through its sponsorship of awards in the national 4-H leadership program.

4-H projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service give boys and girls 9-19 opportunities to identify and understand the roles, attitudes, tasks and functions necessary for effective leadership.

Junior and teen leaders play an important part in strengthening and expanding local 4-H clubs. They encourage other 4-H'ers to assume leadership responsibilities. And, as they work with adults in leadership positions, 4-H juniors and teens actively participate in program planning, development and implementation.

Since 1973 Reader's Digest has encouraged 4-H'ers through its sponsorship of awards in the national 4-H leadership program. Incentives include medals of honor to as many as four 4-H'ers per county and an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago, to one boy or girl in each state.

$800 college scholarships go to nine national winners. Of these, the high-ranking boy and girl receive silver trays presented in the name of the President of the United States.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

Additional information on the program is available from county extension agents.

UNPRODUCTIVE GROWTH INDUSTRY . . . REGULATORS

When the Gross National Product goes up, it means more jobs, less unemployment, and prosperity. When it goes down, it means there is less production, greater unemployment, and the country is in a condition of recession or depression.

For this reason, when we hear of an industry which is enjoying a really substantial growth rate from one year to the next, most Americans take it as a good sign. However, the fastest growing industry in the United States during the 1970s is not producing prosperity . . . it is having the exact opposite effect. The growth industry we are talking about is the industry of government regulation.

In 1975, there were 74,000 people employed by Federal regulatory agencies. That industry is growing at a rate of 9 percent each year, which is just another way of saying it doubles its expenditures every 8 years. In 1975 there were 1267 Federal advisory committees, employing 26,000 people to help advise the 76,000 who make and enforce the regulations which are now costing the American consumers $130 billion each year. (Office of Management and Budget).

In 1974, Congress passed 404 new public laws. That same year, Federal regulatory agencies enacted 7,406 new and amended regulations.

Old Words With New Meaning

"He has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance." Those are words contained in the reasons why 13 Colonies fought a bloody war to stop such practices of encroachment on the freedom of the people 200 years ago. Today, the American people are faced again with the same sort of dictation from our own government. Theses shackles of tyrannical regulation by the Federal government and its swarms of regulators must be thrown off our back if this nation is to survive and maintain our freedom.

I See by the Dailies

New York's only afternoon daily newspaper has been sold to an Australian.

Inflation continued a cooling trend in October.

Philadelphia's Bellevue-Stratford Hotel closed, a victim of 'Legionnaires' disease.

Thanksgiving

We have many things to be thankful for during this Bicentennial era. The most cherished of our nation's blessings . . . freedom . . . has given Americans the right to a life rich in liberty, justice, happiness.

Faculty Forum

Garrett County Teachers Assoc.

If the letters PTA mean only Public Transportation Authority to you, then what follows may come as somewhat of a surprise. PTA is probably more famous for its niche in the educational process than for operating busses and trolleys. The Parent-Teacher Association has co-existed with schools for so many years that it has practically become a household word.

Education, like charity and its relative virtues, begins at home. By revising this slightly worn but still-effective maxim, the primary objective of PTA is readily seen. Education is a virtue that has foundations, however weak or strong, within every home where there are potential or active students. By bonding parents and teachers, an alliance of parental and educational values has been achieved.

The achievement, however, is hardly complete and will remain a constant struggle until all parents and teachers have at least confronted each others' values honestly with hope of identifying a common cause between themselves.

The Parent-Teacher Association acts as a uniting force between the home and school, two separate factors often seen at dire odds with each other. It often serves as an effective resource in solving issues which may otherwise never find resolution or recourse. The very act of organizing parents and teachers is in and of itself a positive approach to acquiring a greater understanding of attitudes.

A definite casual relationship exists between parental attitude and student achievement. Whatever memories and experiences a parent has of his or her school days is surely to be instilled in some form of attitude within each child. All too often a parent who believes his child is having some problem at school either over-reacts by calling the superintendent of schools for assistance or fails to respond in any manner, hoping the situation will somehow heal itself.

The Parent-Teacher Association can provide input to problem-solving of which parents may not be aware. In a sense, it may act as "preventative medicine:" through active support in PTA, parents and teachers can create a valuable communication with each other to prevent minor problems from developing into major battles.

One excellent source of information would be the Media Review Complaint Committee. Questions concerning textbook or film selections in the schools should be directed toward this committee through your local PTA chapter.

The Parent Volunteers Committee is vital for success in both the PTA organization and school curriculum. A very major concern is the enlistment of help from parent volunteers for the Volunteers in Reading Program now being organized in Garrett County. This program requires the talents of interested persons who would volunteer as tutors in various schools to aid teachers in teaching children to read.

Current statistics of test results indicate an alarming drop in reading ability for students in this county. For this reason, any and all persons who are interested in helping improve student reading ability are invited to participate in this project. Interested volunteers should contact the chairman of the Parent Volunteers Committee in your local PTA chapter, or Mr. David Miller at the Board of Education.

PTA also serves as an invaluable link with legislative areas. Members prepare to lobby for their position on upcoming school issues each year. Every attempt is made by them to keep the public interest level high in school legislative issues by keeping the public informed on both actions and outcome.

How can you become involved in PTA? Each school in Garrett County with a PTA chapter solicits for membership at the beginning of each school year. Membership enrollment forms are usually sent to each home with a student.

The cost of joining PTA is minimal: $1.00 carries the membership for the entire school year. A certain amount of each dollar is allocated in the following manner: 20 cents goes to the National PTA for maintenance of the national office in Chicago, publications and membership forms, and presentation of the national annual convention; 30 cents is given to the state PTA for offices, state convention, workshops, leadership training, a scholarship fund, and a legislative program; 10 cents is absorbed by the County Council of PTA, leaving 40 cents for each local school chapter.

This 40-cent allocation does not go far in providing books, resource aids, or supplementary materials which are sorely needed in many schools. Because of these needs, PTA functions largely as a fund-raising group. How each chapter spends its money depends on which areas in the school need help most. A teacher representative, aside from acting as a liaison between parents and teachers during PTA meetings, assists in determining, which materials a school needs to better meet the demands of education.

The Parent-Teacher Association Chapters urgently seek your help. Fund-raising activities can not succeed without the active support of community members. Without these additional funds, students and teachers will be forced to wait yet another year for materials that are needed now. The face of quality education is changing, and with it, the costs — always increasing. Even with the great amount of tax dollars paid annually toward education, someone is always slighted — perhaps your own son or daughter.

To volunteer or enroll as a member, contact your child's school, the school nearest you, or Mrs. Bobbie Genco, president, County Council of PTA.

The VISTA [Volunteers In Service To America] project of the Garrett County Community Action Committee will be in the hands of these people. Standing left to right: Dwight Harvey, Youth Worker; Jack Parsons, Housing Organizer; Cecil Martin, Housing Organizer; Randy Bennett, Project Supervisor. Seated, same order, Susan Marley, Housing Organizer; Lynda Helbig, Marketing Specialist,; and Suzanne Plum, ACTION Training Officer. Ms. Plum reported she was "pleased" with the training she monitored.

Program To Aid Low Income Group Being Started

A program designed to assist low income citizens to help themselves to rise out of poverty has been started by the Garrett County Community Action committee, Inc., it was announced by Randy Bennett, project supervisor.

Using resources of the Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA), program of "Action," Community Action will undertake efforts with young people, in housing, and to assist craftspeople and business.

The Volunteers, who receive about $4,000 in living expenses, are: Dwight Harvey, Youth Worker; Jack Parsons, Cecil Martin, and Susan Marley, Housing Organizers; and Linda Helbig, Marketing Specialist. All Volunteers are residents of Garrett County. The Project Supervisor is Randy Bennett, Community Action's Deputy Director for Program Planning and Evaluation. The Volunteers will be undergoing training and orientation through November 29. Six additional volunteers are expected in mid-March.

The project itself, it was explained, will focus on assisting the self-help efforts of the low-income in each of the areas. The Youth area will emphasize year-round recreation, tutoring and odd-job clearinghouse. These will aim at increasing future employment prospects of the youth through work experience in the private sector, administrative experience by administering the recreation program, and by discouraging drop-outs. Through each emphasized area juvenile delinquency should be discouraged, Bennett said.

Housing will include the development of rental units for the County's elderly, handicapped and low-income citizens. In addition, groups of low-income citizens will be assisted in beginning a self-help housing program, where they reduce the cost of their homes by building the houses themselves. Advisory, counseling and referral services involving housing will also be available.

The Marketing/Business area will focus upon developing employment for low-income, elderly and handicapped through assisting in the development of small businesses and a crafts marketing cooperative. In addition, the organization of a Credit Union and the expansion of business support services will be undertaken.

Any person or group desiring additional information, or to participate in the project, may contact Community Action in Oakland.

Two petty larcenies, a grand larceny and several destruction of property cases were investigated during the past week by the Garrett County Sheriff's Department.

Joseph Edward Sidebottom, Route 2, Oakland, was arrested November 16 in connection with destruction of property of the Garrett County Solid Waste Bureau.

Sidebottom has been charged with $274 damage to a trash dumpster on the Ben DeWitt Road earlier that evening. The dumpster had been set afire, and the Oakland Volunteer fire department was called to put out the blaze. The young man was arrested shortly after the blaze along Route 560, driving a borrowed car which had burn marks on the back.

Tools and a toolbox belonging to Owen Frazee, Oakland, were reported missing November 15. Value of the tool box and equipment, which were housed in a workshed, was set at $550.46.

Two mailboxes in the Deer Park area were reported destroyed November 13. Donald W. Tucker reported that his mailbox had been demolished, possibly by a motor vehicle. Anna May Miller, also Deer Park, notified police that her mailbox had been demolished, probably by a motor vehicle. Value of the Tucker mailbox was set at $40, of the Miller mailbox at $12.

Hugh D. Cady, McHenry, reported that someone shot through a window on his property November 14. No estimate of damage was given.

Two petty larcenies were reported in the Mt. Lake Park and Loch Lynn areas.

Clothing valued at approximatley $41 was taken from a clothesline on the property of Mr. and Mrs. Keith Cannon, Mt. Lake, on November 14.

A larceny occurred at the home of Marvin Lee McCloud, Loch Lynn, November 15. Miscellaneous items including a coat were taken. Total amount of loss was set at $34. A basement door had been left unlocked at the home, according to the department report.

Salmon Gets All Dressed Up For The Holiday Season

Remember your old mealtime treat salmon? You know, the perfect fish for lunch box sandwiches or for those fancy salad platters when your friends come to lunch? And how about the many times you've fixed yourself a quick diet-conscious lunch of salmon with lettuce and tomato?

Well, just because it's holiday time, you shouldn't forget about your favorite everyday foods. At this busy time of the year, when its hard to control your family's intake of important vitamins and minerals, look to salmon dishes. Salmon is high in protein and has significant amounts of niacin, riboflavin, calcium and phosphorus.

For this holiday season you may want to try two delightful appetizers which dress up your old friend salmon. Now, before the family sits down to festive feasts or when friends drop in for drinks and snacks, you can serve them something a little special. Salmon dip is great with chips or your favorite cracker. For an extra colorful treat, cut up carrots, celery, white radishes, cauliflower and other raw vegetables. Arrange them around a bowl of dip and watch your family and friends dig in. Party Salmon Spread is scrumptious on crackers or party slices of French, Rye or Whole Wheat bread.

Try these special recipes or just whip up a big bowl of salmon salad for your hungry tree trimmers. Holiday time is certainly no time to forget an old friend.

Appetizer
Party Salmon Spread

2 envelopes unflavored gelatin, ½ cup water, 1 can (16 oz.) Salmon, 1 cup coarsely chopped onion, ½ cup dairy sour cream, 2 Tbsp. lemon juice, ½ tsp. garlic salt, ¼ tsp. dill weed, ¼ tsp. pepper, 4 sprigs parsley.

Soften gelatin in water. Dissolve over hot water. Place remaining ingredients in blender container. Run on low until smooth and well blended. Mix in gelatin. Pour into 5-cup mold. Chill until firm. Turn out on serving dish; garnish with additional parsley, pimiento and sliced green onion, if desired. Serve with assorted crackers.

Approximately 3 servings.

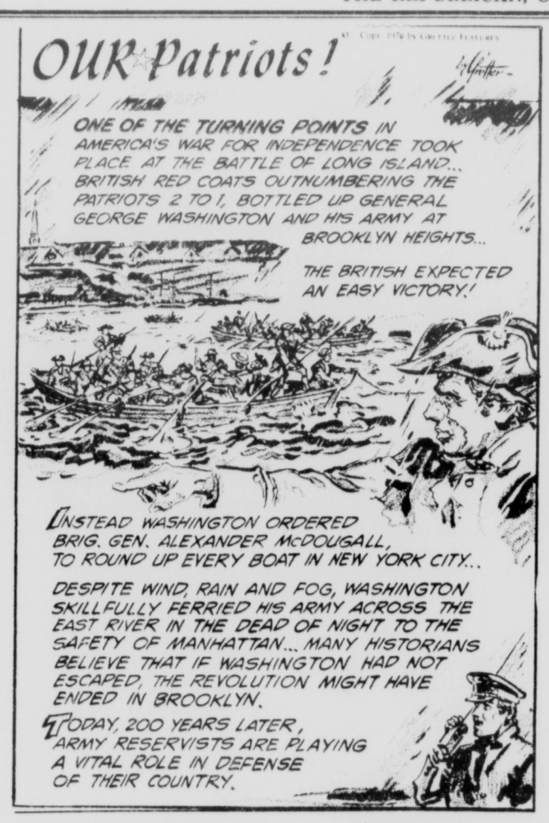
Salmon Dip

1 can (7-¾ oz.) Salmon, drained and flaked; 1 pkg. (3 oz.) cream cheese, softened; 2 Tbsp. milk, ¼ cup Sweet Pickle Relish, 3 Tbsp. chopped green onion, 2 tsp. lemon juice.

Combine ingredients; mix well. Chill. Serve with chips, crackers or assorted raw vegetables, as desired.

Approximately 1 cup.

Beef prices may set a record next year.



A Handout Is Not A Job

It is to be hoped that one ill-advised proposal of the last Congress — the so-called "Humphrey-Hawkins" or "Full Employment" bill — will be quickly, decisively and permanently laid to rest when our legislators return to Washington. Of all the possible measures that might be taken to "help" our economy, the Humphrey-Hawkins proposal is the very worst.

In essence, the idea is that the government will "create" jobs and thus put people to work — financed by the taxpayers. The trouble is, we already have thousands upon thousands of people on the government payroll who are filling "jobs" of highly dubious value. And there can be no question but that our overblown bureaucracy is not helping, but seriously harming our economy.

Senator William Roth of Delaware, in a recent article (Reader's Digest, November 1976) points that under the broad umbrella of "domestic assistance" Congress has created 1,030 separate programs, administered by 52 different agencies which are costing us not millions, but billions of dollars — and only the Lord knows how many thousands of bureaucrats to shuffle paper. In the health field alone, reports Senator Roth, we have 302 programs administered by 11 different agencies; while in "community development" we have no less than 259 programs!

One could concede that Congress might create one agency to handle water-pollution research and development (although it could be strongly argued that this should be left to the individual States). But no; our spend-thrifts in legislative clothing created twenty-five bureaus in 14 different departments to decide how to launder water. And the list goes on and on.

By now, even the most mentally incompetent member of Congress (we'll leave it to others to decide who that might be) must know that a "job" that is dependent upon a government handout is not a job. Putting everybody to work for the Federal government is not "full employment;" it is a combination rip-off and shell-game.

There are, of course, some absolutely essential tasks to be performed by the Federal Government. Our national defense is one of them. Oddly enough, while adding people to the Federal payroll, Congress has been putting people out of work in defense industries. Crazy!

It's time for our Congress to wise up and get back on the right track. —U.S. Press Asso-

Cold Weather Causing Higher Gas Consumption

Unusually cold temperatures that have prevailed throughout western Maryland in recent weeks are resulting in unseasonably high gas bills this month for many Columbia Gas customers.

And gas company officials warn these higher bills may be only a prelude to what's in store later this winter as a result of actual and anticipated increases in gas rates.

William C. Deems, manager for Columbia Gas in the Oakland area, said temperatures in the local area during the past few weeks have averaged 60 per cent colder than normal and more than twice as cold as last year when the weather was unusually mild.

Looking ahead to the coming winter, the gas company warns that customers can anticipate gas bills that are 25 per cent higher than those received last winter, possibly even higher if the long range projection of the National Weather Service for colder than normal temperatures over the next few months is accurate.

Mr. Deems said many customers are finding that the best way to help offset the rising cost of all forms of energy is to reduce usage through conservation.

"For example, setting thermostats at 67 degrees instead of 72 degrees will reduce consumption 15 to 18 per cent according to national studies," he said.

Thanks for making America great.

Tagged Deer Being Sought

The Maryland Wildlife Administration has eartagged deer in Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Kent Counties and will pay a $20 reward to each individual who takes a tagged deer and returns the tags and half the lower jaw to the Wildlife Administration.

The aim of this study is to determine the proportion of deer taken by hunters compared with the proportion dying from other causes.

By comparing the number of harvested tagged deer with the number of deer originally tagged, the percent of deer on range that ultimately wind up in the hunter's bag can be estimated.

A reward will also be paid for tags and jaws from deer killed while damaging crops, by vehicles, or by other means provided the deer was not taken illegally.

The tags and half the lower jaw should be sent to: Deer Project, The Maryland Wildlife Administration, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

Upon receipt of the tags and jaw, a check for $20 will be sent to the individual returning the tags.

Some Comforting Words About Growing Old

by Harriet Miller

Most Americans know Alex Comfort as the author of the best seller, The Joy of Sex, and its equally successful sequel, More Joy. Many may have also read his earlier novel, Come Out to Play, a new edition of which was recently released.

Harriet Miller

Among his fellow scientists, however, this British author, who now lives and works in California, is recognized as an eminent medical biologist and one of the world's leading authorities on aging.

Aging is the subject of his latest book, A Good Age. Similar in both style and tone to Dr. Comfort's two previous volumes, A Good Age has already been nicknamed "the joy of aging." While it follows the same mini-encyclopedic, alphabetical format of its two predecessors, and is profusely illustrated with blue-gray inkwash drawings of active older people, the "joy" reference might also apply to the book's basic philosophy.

Old age, Dr. Comfort maintains, can be as joyful or joyless as any other period of life. It's up to the individual. A person's later years need not be a time of pain and deprivation — if he or she is willing to challenge the arbitrary limitations society has imposed upon its elders.

"Aging has no effect upon you as a person," he insists. "Remember that aging is not a radical change. You will not become a different person. Your physical and social needs will not alter, your sources of value will not change. But you will have been assiduously trained by past indoctrination to think that aging is a change in yourself.

"Except for limited physical alterations, it isn't. It is much more like a peculiarly shaped social hat which you are required to put on so that you may become identified as a statutory unperson. It is a hat which can't be refused, in present circumstances, but it can be taken off and jumped on if you don't like the look of it."

This strategy for survival, which Dr. Comfort calls "bloody-mindedness," is essentially a combination of standing up for one's rights and refusing to stand for any unnecessary guff. There are times when a lack of tolerance is definitely in order, he argues, advising older people to have little or no patience with anyone who would treat them patronizingly, as in the following incident.

"A well-meaning young Senator was showing a party of seniors around the Senate Chamber. He treated them a little like schoolchildren, explaining the legislative process in words of one syllable and shouting in case they were deaf. Finally, turning to one of the group, the Senator asked, 'And what used you to be?' The old man fixed a beady eye on him and replied, 'I still am:' "

Now, that's "bloody-mindedness!" And Dr. Comfort is not alone in recognizing its virtues. In recent years, researchers have repeatedly discovered that older persons who dig in their heels and refuse to "go gentle into a breadline, into a rip-off nursing home or into a state of fatuous senior Uncle Tomism" tend to fare far better and last longer than their more compliant contemporaries.

This basic theme permeates the book's 80 descriptive entries, such as agism, arthritis, bereavement, centenarians, creativity, diet, euthanasia, folklore and nonsense, intelligence, loneliness versus being alone, mobility, pets, quackery, wrinkles, and youth. As in his previous works, Dr. Comfort — who has also written several college textbooks on aging — takes relatively complex subjects and renders them readily comprehensible to all readers without stooping to over-simplification or superficiality.

Unfortunately, most of the sketches of active older persons are of famous individuals. I would have liked to have seen more examples like the one of Harold and Bertha Soderquist who joined the Peace Corps in 1974 at the ages of 80 and 76, respectively. Vital, involved older people — who are not famous — exist in great numbers, and would have been easy to locate.

Like most good books, A Good Age is not for only one reading age group. The book is particularly pertinent to those who are yet to achieve the distinction of later life.

"Unless we are old already, the next 'old people' will be us," warns Dr. Comfort, who will be 57 in February. "Whether we go along with the kind of treatment meted out to those who are now old depends upon how far society can sell us the bill of goods it sold them — and it depends more upon that than upon any research. No pill or regime known, or likely, could transform the latter years of life as fully as could a change in our vision of age and a militancy in attaining that change."

(Miss Miller is the executive director of the non-profit, nonpartisan National Retired Teachers Association and American Association of Retired Persons).

Seal Campaign Seeks One Million

The 70th Christmas Seal campaign officially opened this month as more than 383,000 Marylanders received Christmas Seals from the American Lung Association of Maryland.

More than $1 million dollars is needed this year in order for the association to continue to offer the numerous services to the community and to maintain its current medical education and research program.

Christmas Seal contributions allow the Lung Association to offer fellowships and scholarships to medical personnel to increase the number of Marylanders with expertise in the treatment and care of pulmonary disease.

The seal this year features one overall holiday scene which occupies the entire sheet. The design, conceived by Robert Hungerford, artist, represents scenes of rural America. Each seal bears the legend: "Christmas Seal Memories."

The nation's largest school systems are asking for more federal money.

Patricia Hearst has been freed on $1.5 million bail.

Can you afford not to examine our medical/surgical coverage closely?

An injury or illness usually means doctors' bills. To help meet these costs, and because people have different kinds of health care needs, Blue Shield of Maryland offers several levels of medical/surgical coverage. There's Plan B, with benefits up to $340 depending on the surgical procedure. Plan "I", with benefits up to $800 depending on the surgical procedure. And for groups, there's Plan C, offering coverage in full (on a usual and customary basis) for most surgical services. Blue Shield of Maryland provides benefits for hundreds, even thousands of medical/surgical services under any of these plans. Benefits to help meet the cost of a doctor's services received in a hospital, or surgical care in a doctor's office or hospital, as well as maternity care, consultations, emergency X-ray services, radiation therapy, anesthesia, etc. In fact, Blue Shield covers more than three million medical/surgical services received by its members each year. It's another way we return 90% of your subscription dollar. It's a percentage that's unique among health care companies. So you can enjoy the kind of medical/surgical coverage you want at the lowest possible cost.

When it comes to health care benefits, can you afford less than a 90% return on your dollar?

Mountain Top Is Blanketed With A Six-Inch Snowfall

A six-inch snowfall blanketed the Mountain Top the first part of the week. The heaviest fall was late Sunday through Monday. Road crews managed to keep all roads open but there were slick spots at times. The coldest thus far this season was yesterday's 6 degrees.

State and County roads crews started out about 6 p.m. Sunday and remained on the job continuously until about 4 p.m. Tuesday. A full force was not necessary all of the time. The little drifting that did occur was easily taken care of. The county roads department reported its main problem was slick roads. The snow emergency plan went into effect at 10:30 p.m. Sunday and was lifted at 3 p.m. Tuesday.

Skies were mostly clear last Thursday and Friday. Clouds began to gather Saturday and continued so with snow flurries beginning Sunday afternoon. The heavy fall began Sunday evening and continued through Monday. This fall accounted for five inches. Occasional flurries continued through yesterday morning accounting for about another inch. Clouds did break some Tuesday and early Wednesday. Snowfall for November now totals 21.8 inches which is already three times the normal for the entire month, that being 7.2 inches.

Temperatures have averaged 9.6 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 39.5 degrees or 11.1 degrees below normal. The mildest reading was Friday's 57 degrees. Lows averaged 20.5 degrees or 8 degrees below normal. The mercury dropped below the freezing mark every morning with yesterday's six degrees the coldest. Temperatures remained below freezing from late Sunday through early yesterday.

Fresh breezes were blowing last Friday and Monday during the storm.

Ralph Arnott Is Hospital Patient Following Accident

Ralph Edward Arnott, Route 3, Deer Park, remains in satisfactory condition at Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was admitted Saturday evening following a two-car collision on Route 560.

Mr. Arnott, in a 1974 Toyota pickup, was northbound on Route 560 when a southbound 1965 Oldsmobile operated by Bushrod Junior Hardesty, Deer Park, made a left turn into his path.

Tfc. E. J. Upole, who investigated for the Maryland State Police, filed charges against Hardesty.

Mr. Hardesty and his two passengers, Betty Hardesty and Calvin White, were also injured but were not admitted to the hospital.

Mr. Arnott was transported by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, suffering from injuries to his right arm and leg and lacerations of the face and head.

Two other accidents involving motor vehicles occurred over the weekend. About 12:45 a.m. Saturday, a 1965 Nova operated by Donald Lincoln Stewart, Oakland, struck an embankment in the Rosedale area after the left front ball joint broke, causing the driver to lose control of the vehicle. The incident occurred on Route 39 and caused considerable damage to the vehicle.

At 7:10 p.m. Sunday, November 21, Randall Thomas Clemens, Route 1, Swanton, was operating his 1962 Chevrolet north on Route 560 when he lost control of his car on the snowy road and sideswiped another vehicle. The second vehicle, a 1976 Plymouth, was operated by Barbara Ann Dumire, Silver Spring.

Mr. Clemens was charged with failing to keep right of center. The accident occurred in Loch Lynn on Route 560. No one was injured in the mishap, according to the police report.

The GI bill becomes a self-help operation in 1977.

Maryland's jail population was expected to be up 50 percent in the next nine years.

Effects of TV To Be Discussed

In response to what is felt is a mandate for action from 6½ million membership and the general public, National PTA (NCPT) is launching a project, first of its kind, to determine the effects of television violence upon children and youth.

Kicking off on November 30 in Pittsburgh with public hearings on the subject, the project will directly involve PTA members at the grass roots level. The hearing in Pittsburgh which begins at 9:30 a.m., will be the first of eight such hearings to be held throughout the country. Through Membership in NCPT, Garrett County PTA members have been asked to present testimony on November 30 in Pittsburgh concerning their feelings and opinions on the harmful effects of certain TV programs on children and youth. Any person in the county who has an opinion or feeling about the quality of the programs is welcome to submit testimony or attend the hearing. More information is available from Bobbie Genco.

"Lost" Cavers Found

A report of persons being lost or trapped in a cave near the Savage River Dam Sunday were unfounded, as the missing persons were seen walking along the roadway as the emergency vehicles were enroute to the scene.

The Civil Defense Emergency Communications Center, Constitution Park, Cumberland, said a call was received from a woman Sunday evening that the individuals were in the cave.

The Tri-Towns Rescue Squad and Bloomington Volunteer fire departments were notified at 7:42 p.m. and were enroute when they saw the missing persons along the roadway.

Listen Americans!

PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM

WILL THE U.S. SURRENDER TAIWAN?

A big question is being asked these days by China watchers. That question is simply . . . "Is the United States about to abandon the free Republic of China on Taiwan to the communists of mainland China?"

The reason the question is being asked is basically because most of the American people, including members of Congress, are never told what is in the mind of our Secretary of State Henry Kissinger. There are some who are asking if Kissinger even knows what the foreign policy of this nation is? Whatever the answer is, there is a great deal of unrest among American allies in the far East and elsewhere in the Pacific. This is why.

In 1954 the United States and the Republic of China on Taiwan signed a legal, mutual defense treaty which was ratified by the U.S. Senate. That treaty calls for the United States to defend Taiwan in the event of an attack from the mainland. It also calls for economic aid to the tune of about $4 billion a year. In the years since that treaty was ratified, Taiwan has become a prosperous nation under the free enterprise system and affirmed American aid no longer needed. Mainland China was torn by economic privation and internal struggles for power over the masses of Chinese people trapped behind the bamboo curtain. Average per capita income on Taiwan rose to four times that of Mainland China.

Then . . . .

Trouble along the Manchurian border with Russia massing troops. China suddenly invites the President of the United States to visit. He does and signs the Shanghai Communique along with Chou En-lai for Red China. It does not commit the United States to abandon Taiwan. But, then in rapid succession, Red China enters the United Nations, with Taiwan kicked out of the Security Council. The United States deserts South Vietnam. South Vietnam, Cambodia and Laos fall to communism. On June 2nd and 15th, 1976, the United States withdraws its military advisors from the Islands of Quemoy and Matsu.

What is the policy of the free United States toward Red China . . . and the free Republic of China on Taiwan?

Americans Sow Seeds Of Hope

As America heads into its third century, opinion surveys indicate there is a healthy degree of optimism among its citizens.

Potomac Associates, a Washington-based research organization, for example, has just issued results of such a survey in a booklet entitled "America's Hopes and Fears — 1976." Survey information was gathered earlier this year for Potomac Associates by the Gallup Poll.

Respondents to the survey were asked to rate their personal lives — past, present, and future — on a scale of 1 to 10, with 10 being the best possible life for them. The average respondent rated his life currently at 6.7, five years ago at 5.7, and estimated that five years from now it will be at 7.7 on the scale. In other words, most citizens believe their life today is better than it was five years ago, and that it will get better yet in the coming years.

Citizens, however, were more restrained in a similar rating of their country. They said it stands today at 5.5 on the scale, was 6.0 five years ago, and will be at 6.1 five years from now. ". . . The anticipated gain," notes Potomac Associates, "is only great enough to bring the nation back essentially to where it was five years ago. Over a ten-year period, in other words, no net improvement is expected by Americans."

At any rate, while Americans feel we have lost ground in recent years, they also believe the country will improve.

"The persistent and deep contrast (between hopes for themselves and hopes for their country) suggests a people not fully at peace with themselves. Individual citizens feel their lives are not in harmony with the national life. This condition cries out for leadership."

Will President-elect Jimmy Carter provide that leadership? Only time can tell. —U. S. Press Association.

Thirteen Killed On State Roads

Thirteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed ten were drivers, two were passengers and one was a pedestrain.

Seven of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officers could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Still not using your seat belt when you drive? The cold, hard facts prove you should be, Lt. Morgan advised. No one would carry eggs as poorly protected as the children in most family cars. Children are much more valuable and harder to replace, he said. A child riding in a vehicle without a restraint to keep him in place during a sudden stop, or crash, is in as much danger as if he were playing in the street. Whether the bumper of a car hits the child at 30 miles an hour, or the child hits the dash of the car, the impact is still there.

Since October 20, three children under the age of four-months have died in Maryland traffic accidents. It is possible these young children, with proper restraints, could have survived and lead a happy fruitful life.

Persons killed through November 21 totaled 588 compared to 610 for the same period last year.

$2,000 Check Presented For Grantsville Park

At the regular meeting of the Grantsville Rotary Club at the Hill Top Inn on Wednesday evening, November 10, a check for $2,000.00 was turned over to Mayor Fred Holliday, left, of the Town of Grantsville, to help with the local share of monies needed to complete the Grantsville Community Park. County Commissioner George C. Edwards, center, who is chairman of the Grantsville Lions Club Community Park Committee, was present at the meeting and spoke about progress on the park project and plans for the future. President Kenneth L. Hardesty, right, of the Rotary Club, appointed a Rotary park committee consisting of himself, Mayor Holliday, Charles C. Bender, and Thomas O. Bender to work with the Lions park committee and the Town of Grantsville in future endeavors. Both Commissioner Edwards and Mayor Holliday expressed their appreciation of the Rotary Club's contribution and their desire to join with the Lions Club and the town in this worthwhile community project.

Vandals Strike Southern High

An unknown person or persons threw rocks through several second floor windows of Southern High school, Oakland, sometime prior to the morning of November 18, it was reported this week by Luther Parrack, principal.

Mr. Parrack indicated that damage to the windows and newly purchased blinds could run as high as $1,000. The Board of Education officials reported that this is the most recent reported incident as the sometimes unprotected school buildings offer inviting targets to vandals.

Earlier this school year incidents of vandalism were also reported at Bloomington elementary; the old Friendsville elementary, and the new Broad Ford schools. Board of Education officials have requested further assistance from both the Maryland State Police and the county sheriff's department to patrol school areas during non-school hours, but pointed out that should any member of the public make note of these type activities outside school buildings, they should contact the sheriff's department or the State Police as soon as possible.

Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of schools, indicated that due to the wide ranging nature of these acts, their continuing frequency and the costliness of repairs all citizens have a basic responsibility to report any information which be known about these acts. Last fiscal year $4,265 was expended on vandalism type repairs. Dr. Buser also reported the school system makes every effort to collect vandalism repair costs from students, their parents, or members of the public when individuals are found responsible for these acts.

He said cooperation from everyone in this area would assist in keeping the county schools in better condition and would keep the school budget down in the area of vandalism repairs.

San Quentin, California, prison guards recently located a 77-foot long escape tunnel.

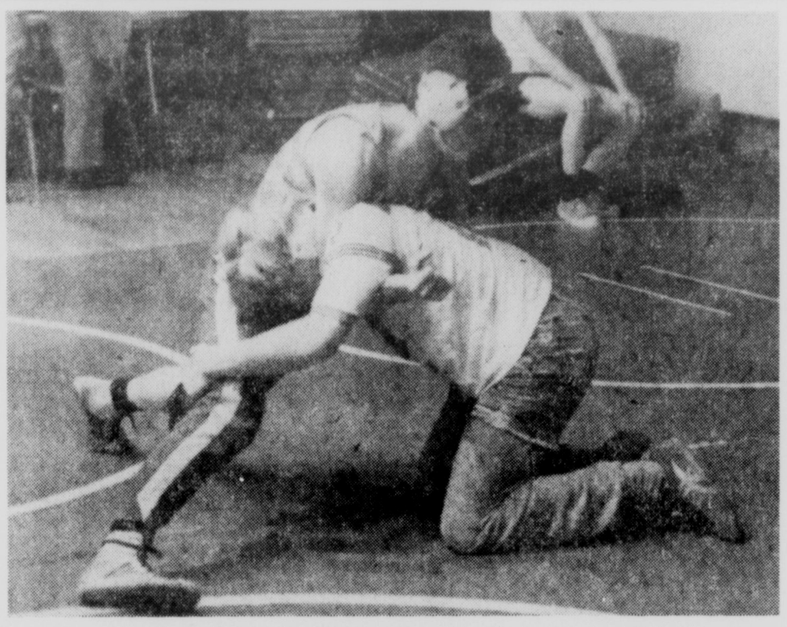
Letter To The Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

This year's Thanksgiving season is now upon us and it finds many of us raising our prayers and thanks to God for His many abundant blessings. Such feelings are an integral part of my life as I remember what happened exactly one year ago. It was then that I was taken seriously ill. Without the profound efforts of our local hospital and fine staff, the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, the West Virginia Univeristy Medical Center, and all the thoughts and prayers of family and friends, I would be unable to raise my thanks this season. To each and everyone this applies to may I again express a sincere and loving 'Thank you'. My God's richest blessings be upon you.

Sincerely,
Kimberly Liller Thomas,
Annapolis, Md.



DETERMINATION, ANTICIPATION, AND OPTIMISM characterize the Husky matmen as they look forward to their first match of the season. The Huskies will be led by Tony Artice, who is aiming for his third consecutive undefeated season [he suffered a single loss in his freshman year]. Other returning lettermen are: Dwane Bittinger, Brent Brenneman, Randy Broadwater, Jack Garlitz, Kurt Lear, Bob Thomas, Keith Kamp.

Repeating last year's 9-3-1 record will be the main goal for the 1976-77 team when they open their season December 6 at Southern. Practice began November 15 with a good turnout. Head coach Dale Garlitz is stressing the basic fundamentals of wrestling. In the photo are Tony Artice and Greg Gillum, practicing for the opening of the season.

New Packaging For Bicentennial Silver Coins Available

The silver Bicentennial uncirculated coin sets are now available in new crimson and white gift packaging in time to celebrate the holidays and the close of the nation's 200th birthday year, Mrs. Mary Brooks, Director of the Mint, announced this week.

"The Bicentennial silver uncirculated sets, featuring a scenic view of Independence Hall on the new packaging, are quality keepsakes for today — historical treasures for tomorrow," Mrs. Brooks said. "And they are the only current United States quarters, half dollars and dollars available in silver."

These historically significant coins are dated 1776-1976. Their reverse designs are winning selections from a nationwide competition and portray a colonial drummer on the Washington quarter, Independence Hall on the Kennedy half dollar and the Liberty Bell and moon on the Eisenhower dollar.

The United States Congress authorized the production of the special 40% silver coins emblematic of the Bicentennial of the American Revolution. Congress further instructed the Mint to make them readily available to as many people as possible.

To help the Mint meet its legislated commitment, financial institutions in this country and around the globe are making the uncirculated Bicentennial silver coin sets easily available to their customers.

Additionally, in a further departure from custom, the Bicentennial silver coin sets are available over-the-counter at Mint outlets at the Treasury Department in Washington, D. C., the U. S. Mint at Philadelphia and Denver and at the Old Mint in San Francisco.

The Mint has produced the 45 million Bicentennial silver coins ordered by Congress in both proof and uncirculated condition and packaged them in three-piece sets. The proof set is priced at $12 per set. The uncirculated set is $9 per set.

After October 1 and through December 31, 1976 all orders for the uncirculated sets will be filled and delivered in the New Holiday packaging.

Grantsville PTA To Discuss New School Building

Dr. Yale Stenzler, educational consultant for the Interagency Committee for Public School Construction in Maryland, will be the speaker at a meeting of the Grantsville Elementary school Parent-Teacher association scheduled for Monday, November 29, at 7:30, it was announced by Penelope T. Balcom.

Dr. Stenzler will speak on the different types of schools being built within the state and will show slides of some of the newer concepts in education. There will be a question and answer period. The Planning committee for the proposed new Grantsville Elementary school is expressing the hope that many interested citizens of the community will attend. Paper will be provided for suggestions and recommendations to the planning committee.

The new school will be designed to function as an elementary school and also as a community center, it was pointed out, to provide space for meetings, adult education classes, senior citizen activities and other projects.

Classrooms will be open at 7 o'clock and all are being invited to visit the rooms and meet the teachers. Student work will be on display.

Radiation Risk In Use Of Smoke Detectors Slight

The risk of radiation from a smoke detector is negligible, according to Howard D. Tipton, national fire prevention and control administration administrator.

Pointing out that the risks of failing to purchase a detector or of removing one already installed, are very real, Mr. Tipton said of the 12,000 persons who die from smoke and fire each year, and of the 300,000 persons who are seriously injured, the great majority fall victims at home during the night.

"Smoke overcomes them before they can awaken and escape. Where people are not protected by smoke detectors, the likelihood of fire-deaths and injuries is increased," he added.

The comments were made in response to claims of some individuals and organizations that radiation exposure from the ionization-type detector is dangerous.

According to the Nuclear Regulatory commission, radiation exposure from the ionization detector is far below the normal radiation a person receives each day from the sun.

Blue Cross, Blue Shield Ask For Rate Increases

Blue Cross and Blue Shield have asked the Maryland insurance commissioner to allow them to nearly double rates for Comprehensive and Medicare Supplemental programs.

If granted, the increases would affect some 162,000 subscribers and would be the largest Blue Cross - Blue Shield rate hikes in more than a decade, according to Nicholas G. Greaves, a spokesman for the companies.

Under the proposed rates, Medicare Supplemental coverage for 147,000 subscribers would jump from $5.34 to $9.78 per month. The plan covers costs not paid by Medicare.

Proposed monthly rates for the 14,830 subscribers to the Comprehensive program would rise from $27.14 to $50.36 for individuals, and from $72.62 to $129.22 for families.

Rates for the Comprehensive plan have not gone up since January 1975, when it was introduced, but the medicare Supplemental program cost was boosted 6.8 percent last January.

The insurers say the increases proposed are needed to cover rising hospital costs and more frequent policyholder claims. Last month, Blue Cross reported hospital care payments in the state went up 17.9 percent in the year ending September 30.

In addition, the companies say they need the increases to offset a federal government decision increasing the deductible portion of Medicare coverage.

Greaves says the Medicare Supplemental program may lose $1.4 million this year while the Comprehensive plan may lose $1.9 million.

The proposed increase would bring in $17.2 million for the Medicare plan and $11 million for the Comprehensive plan, according to Greaves.

A rate increase of 18.6 percent was granted for 63,000 non-group subscribers in other programs last month by Edward J. Birrane, Jr., state insurance commissioner.

He granted a 35.4 percent hike for 53,000 subscribers in two non-group Blue Shield plans in September.

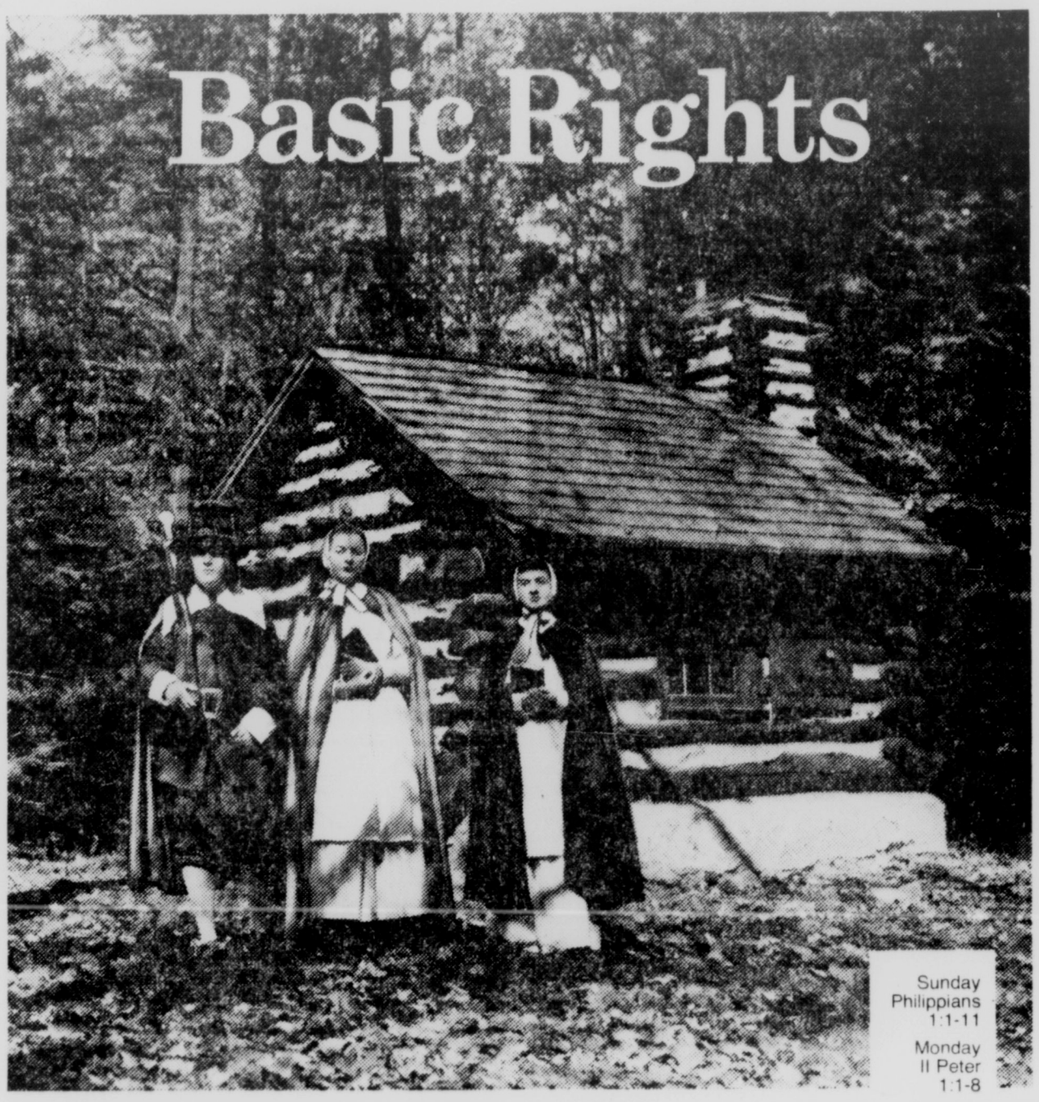
Basic Rights



The Pilgrims came to America for more than land. They risked their lives and possessions to gain the right to worship freely and to live democratically. On these basic principles—liberty and equality—America was founded.

The Pilgrims left us another heritage—thanksgiving. Newly arrived in this alien land, they gave thanks to the benevolent God who guided them across the sea and who would sustain them through their first harrowing years in America.

The meaning of those early days is sometimes lost to us today in affluent America. We may forget that this prosperity is not entirely the product of our own labors, but is also the result of the beneficence of God.

Let us then celebrate our good fortune—in church and at home. Let us give thanks!

GENTILES '76!

Lesson for November 28, 1976

Background Scripture: Romans 1:16; 15:7-33
Devotional Reading: Colossians 1:21-29

To the Christian today the term "Gentile" has an archaic ring. It speaks to him of a distant era when the issue of "Gentile Christianity" was crucial for the Church of Jesus Christ. But the issue was resolved in the earliest days of Christianity when, largely through the work of Paul, it was determined that Jews and Gentiles (non-Jews) alike could share the "good news of Jesus Christ."

Rev. Althouse

So, today, for all practical purposes, the term "Gentile" seems quite irrelevant and whatever the New Testament has to say about them seems equally obsolete.

The hope of the Gentiles

Yet, perhaps we need to see this term from a new and different perspective. In Paul's day, the Gentile was a person quite outside the Jewish religious heritage. The Apostle was convinced, however, that the salvation of God through Jesus Christ was intended every bit as much for the Gentile as for the Jew. Citing various Old Testament passages, Paul reminded the church at Rome of God's purpose:

"Therefore I will praise thee among the Gentiles..." (4:9) "Rejoice, O Gentiles, with his people" (4:10) "Praise the Lord, all Gentiles, and let all the peoples praise him" (4:11)

Furthermore, Paul believed that God had singled him out to pursue a special ministry of reconciliation to these people who many regarded as being beyond the grace of God. Instead of writing-off these pagans, Paul called for Christians to join him in extending the Gospel to them also, "so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit" (4:16).

So, Paul spent the better part of his ministry, traveling from Jerusalem to Rome itself, winning the Gentiles to the Gospel of Jesus Christ and, in time, Christianity became a Gentile faith.

And also to the Greek

Thus endeth the Gentile concern.

Or does it? When we understand who were the Gentiles in Paul's day, can we not look about us and see that there are Gentiles of another kind today? Are there not people today who are quite outside the Christian religious heritage? Are there not Gentiles in our jails today, in our hospitals, in our mental institutions, in our ghettos, in our factories, in our governmental and educational institutions, in our neighborhoods? Are there not multitudes of people who are alienated from God and each other? Is there not still just as much a need for a ministry of reconciliation today as in the time of the Apostles?

Take a look at your own community. Where are the Gentiles of today and who are they? What are you and your church doing to bring reconciliation to them? In your community does Christianity stand for reconciliation, or is it just another factor that contributes to the alienation?

The problem today is often as it was in Paul's time: we tend to write-off the Gentiles. Oh, we may let them in if they come to our churches "hat in hand," but we would hardly set forth any great effort to go out and minister to them, to bring them the gospel of reconciliation.

But until or unless we do, neither will we be reconciled either.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

I have been reading the letters in your paper before and since the election on the blue laws. I feel I should write how I feel about them. I don't believe in doing anything more than necessary on Sunday. We who call ourselves born again Christains will not open our businesses on Sunday and if others feel that they should be opened, who are we to judge them. We only answer to God for what we do ourselves. I believe we as Christians should live our lives each day in such a way that others might see Christ in us, and help others along the way. It is more important to win souls to Christ and by doing this everything else will work out for ourselves and our community.

Sincerely,
Lena Steyer

Unusual Number State Legislators Are Attorneys

Maryland exceeds the National average in number of attorneys in its legislature.

According to the Insurance Information Institute, about 30 percent of the state legislature in the United States are attorneys. In Maryland 39 percent of the 47-member Senate and 28 percent of the 147 member house of Delegates have legal educations.

The study said the highest percentage of attorneys in a state legislature was in Virginia where 57 percent are attorneys. In contrast only 2 percent of Delaware's lawmakers are lawyers.

Aside from lawyers, realtors and other businessmen are most numerous in the Maryland General Assembly. There are 11 businessmen, three farmers and two teachers in the Senate. The senate also has a bail bondsman, a professional fundraiser and an optometrist.

Chairmen Report At Agency Meet

The Governing Body of the Health Systems Agency of Western Maryland met on November 17, at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Several advisory committee chairmen reported on organizational aspects of the Agency. Robert Barrick, By-Laws Committee Chairman, described attendance requirements for body members, which are being closely adhered to. Jesse Burall, Finance Committee Chairman, reported that the Agency's auditor has recently begun work, and the monthly financial statements will start with the December meeting. Sister Margaret James, Plan Development and Data Collection Committee Chairman, reported that the Committee is developing a plan outline and method of presentation consistent with both interim statewide agreements and local needs to permit an early start on the new regional health plan. Moreover, sub-committees are reviewing the two current area plans to select the most pressing elements to provide a basis for the plan under development. Philmore Fleming, State and Federal Certification Committee Chairman, made committee recommendations which the Governing Body approved for recommendations to the Maryland State Comprehensive Health Planning Agency as follows:

1. the Washington County Hospital's C.A.T. Scanner, Hagerstown;
2. the Homewood Retirement Center with conditions, Frederick;
3. the Goodwill Mennonite Home Addition, Grantsville;
4. the Thomas B. Finan Center's Recertification, Cumberland;
5. the Washington County Hospital Association's Air Conditioning of Pang Born Hall, Hagerstown; and
6. the Frederick Memorial Hospital's Stage I, Phase II, Renovations.

Moreover, the Governing Body, chaired by Luther Phillips, Hagerstown, requested the State and Federal Certification Advisory Committee to present a definite recommendation at the Body's December meeting on Sacred Heart Hospital's Replacement of Computer Equipment project.

Mr. Phillips announced that the National Health Planning and Resources Development Act orientation sessions for Allegany and Garrett counties have proved most successful, and the sessions for Frederick and Washington counties will be held in December. The next regularly scheduled public meeting of the Governing Body will be on December 15 in Hagerstown.

Present from Garrett County were Mrs. Ann Englander, Mrs. Marilyn Filemyr, Mrs. Mary Friend, Col. J. Haig Jackson and Dr. Gilcin Meadors III.

Garrett Community College will open its 1976-77 basketball season under new Head Coach Paul Holzshu on Saturday, December 1, against ACC (South Campus) of Pittsburgh, Pa. The Lakers have a 24 game schedule, 13 home and 11 away.

Paul Holzshu, the new Laker coach is a graduate of Clemson University. He previously coached at Penn Hall Academy in Monroeville, Pa., Indiana University of Pennsylvania and Slippery Rock State College. As assistant Varsity Coach, his 1974-75 Penn Hall team posted an 18-6 won-lost record and a tie for the WPIAL Section 5 championship. As Head Junior Varsity Coach at Slippery Rock State College, he guided the Rockets to 13 wins against 5 defeats. Holzshu will replace Bill Camp, now Head Basketball Coach at Davis and Elkins College, Elkins, W. Va.

Coach Holzshu stated that he was looking forward to the beginning of the season and competing in the tough Maryland JUCO Conference. Although, Holzshu will floor a young team of 10 freshmen and 4 sophomores he feels that with hard work and dedication this year's squad will be a contender in the National Division of the Maryland JUCO Conference. Last year the Lakers finished runner up on the Maryland Class A JUCO tournament and had an overall record of 16-11. Returning from last year's squad are Southern Garrett's Tom Panther (all Maryland JUCO Tournament Team) along with Mike Grove, Edward Danel and Tom Comiskey. Numbered among the 10 freshmen are Garrett County's Allen Lewis and Mark Russell.

Again this year the college will hold its Third Annual Rotary Christmas Tournament on December 17-18. Teams appearing in the tournament are: Hagerstown Junior College, Allegheny Community College, South Campus, Pittsburgh, Beaver (Penn State) and Garrett.

In addition to ACC South Campus the Lakers outside opponents include: Potomac State College, Beaver Community College and Fayette (Penn State).

Art Exhibit Is On Display At GC College

Included in the Garrett Community College "Open House" which was held on November 14 was an art exhibit. This exhibit was seen by many in the community and seemed impressive. The exhibit will be on view through Thanksgiving and the original art work by the college students is for sale.

The exhibit "Reproductions and Originals" includes the work of five students of the college, Ruth White, David Gaither, Robert Moore, Barry Domenick, and Ireta Sweitzer. Most of these students already have their work represented in private collections in the area.

David Gaither, in his first year of Art Workshop, completed a sculpture in welded steel and carved stone which was purchased for $300 by a private collector. Barry Domenick, a G.C.C. alumnus and presently attending Frostburg State College, recently had a painting purchased for the price of $75. Ireta Sweitzer, whose work was recently on view at a private showing in New York City, where purchase prices were requested. The aesthetic value of her work has been recognized. Michael Logsdon, Instructor in the Math-Science Division of the College, has purchased two of Ireta's paintings. One of the paintings purchased by Mr. Logsdon is of the "West Virginia Farmer." Mr. Logsdon, who is from Phillippi, West Virginia, said he much appreciated the familiar face of "The West Virginia Farmer."

According to Michael Zuckerman, Instructor of Art, "It is an established economic fact that art is a wise investment. What could be more of a challenge and more of a satisfaction to the potential investor in art than helping to establish the career of an artist in this area at the grass roots. The best advice that can be given for the purchase of art is to buy what you like."

There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

48 years old and a poor memory

Q. How can I have a good memory? I'm 48 years old, and I can't remember anything. I quit school in the 8th grade, and I have a good opportunity to go back to finish high school. But when I read anything I can't tell you what I read. I wish I could tell all these youths that drop out of school how important an education is. Please give me some suggestions. This means a great deal to me.

A. But you can remember! In your question you remember that you quit school in the 8th grade. Your problem is just to remember better.

Concentration is important in cultivating memory. Fix your mind on what you see and hear. Form a definite mental picture of it. Then believe your mind will retain it. Your mind will do your bidding if you learn to believe in yourself.

Finish high school and every day affirm, "I have a good mind and it is remembering what I am taught."

Our Foundation for Christian Living has published a booklet prepared in response to inquiries such as yours. The title is YOU CAN OVERCOME ANY PROBLEM, and a copy of it is on its way to you. If others reading this column would like to have a copy at no cost, send your request to us: Dr. and Mrs. Norman Vincent Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

What makes you think there's a God up there?

Q. [To Dr. Peale] I'd love to know what in the world makes you think there's a God up there? God, the Bible, and any stories could be one big fairy tale, and we're all playing the roles we're supposed to play. I mean how can you believe in God, get his messages, and generally relate to him when he doesn't answer back? He can't talk to you and tell you what to do. I'd like to believe he's there and that he's watching me and telling me to try new things and not be afraid. I'm 16 years old and in need of advice.

A. [Dr. Peale] Many persons ask the question you have — especially in the teen years when all standards and beliefs must be figured out personally.

While probably no one can dictate an answer, there are guides to help you discover God's reality. For instance:

You cannot see the wind, but you know it is there.

You cannot see love, but you can feel the love of your parents and friends.

The marvelous plan of our universe shows a master mind.

I suggest you read the Bible, starting with The Living New Testament (a paraphrased and modern version). Try the edition called Reach Out published by Tyndale.

Husband having affair

Q. I want to die. My husband is having an affair. We've had a happy [I thought] marriage, a little girl and a lovely home. Once I found out about it, my husband made no attempt to conceal his affair. He says he does not plan to leave me, but I must accept his way of life. He advised me to seek out male dates and have sex. I will never do these things. I love my husband and desperately want to save our marriage. He says he doesn't love the other woman, in fact, perhaps will seek out others besides her. Should I leave him or demand that he leave? Or should I [can I] suffer on?

A. It is not normal for a man to suggest his wife have sex with other men. Also, from your question we deduce that you yourself need help. Our suggestion is that you both seek a marriage counselor.

Losing a six-year battle

Q. I am an intelligent, capable 34-year-old woman, but I seem to be losing my fight for life. This has been the pattern my life has taken since my marriage ended in divorce six years ago. After an emotional disturbance that culminated in five weeks in a hospital I finally managed to get back into the mainstream of life and a new job. Yesterday my job was terminated and, again, I'm in a time of trouble. I'm losing my six-year battle and need help. What direction can you give me?

A. Your use of the words "fight" and "battle" could seem to indicate that you are perhaps a bit too rigid and uptight.

Life is full of troubles. Everyone has them. People who succeed are those who develop an unruffled attitude and who just keep on doing the best they can and trust in God, whatever happens. Believe you will find a new job and a better one. Then quietly and unemotionally give it all you've got.

Should he marry a woman with a serious kidney problem?

Q. I met this woman a year and a half ago, not knowing she had a kidney problem. She needs a transplant when one becomes available. Now I like her, and maybe I love her. She wants me to move to her town and get work. When I'm with her I think I want to, then when I go home I wonder. She says she'll be all right when she gets the transplant. I've talked to some professionals and they said she has a 20 to 50 percent chance of having a normal life. I like her very much, but I don't want to quit my job and marry her if she's not going to have a long life with me. Please tell me what to do.

A. The attitude you express is certainly no basis for a successful marriage. No one should ever get married who says, "Maybe I love her."

Where a "maybe" enters the picture, in our opinion it indicates a certainty that you should not marry.

If you really loved the lady you would marry her, kidney problem and all, whether your life together would be long or short. With your doubt, better not do it.

Hatred for dog-owners

Q. I'm an elderly woman living alone in a city. Between ill health and other people's dogs, I am almost fit to be tied! We have dog-walkers, some two or three dogs on the leash, some almost as big as ponies. I get terribly upset emotionally whenever I see dog litter in my yard. I talked to one woman who came by with three dogs and asked her to please walk her dogs elsewhere. She let the dog finish his job, turned around and pulled all three dogs up the street as much as to say, "there it is — clean it up." To this day she regularly comes by for pure spite work — between 7:15 and 7:40. This is like waving a red flag in front of a bull. It doesn't seem fair for me to have to clean up after other people's dogs. And I don't seem to be able to have love or respect for people who take advantage of others. Any suggestions?

A. Meet this situation with sure-fire strategy. Perhaps it will not be easy, but adopt the policy of taking no notice. You have worked yourself up to an obsession; so work yourself down to a rationality.

Just take it as it comes. If you do, after awhile the annoyance will stop. Get acquainted with the dog walkers and be pleasant to them.

We once saw a very effective sign in French-speaking Switzerland. It pictured a dog on a leash about to perform as you suggested and there was the good-humored legend, "S'il vous plait." During our strolls every day we notice that everything was in perfect order. The good humor in the sign did the trick.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER. If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Fines Upheld In Appeal Cases

Four appeal cases were heard in Circuit Court last Wednesday. Jail sentences were suspended but fines levied in District Court were upheld.

Willard Merle Ashby, Monte Vista Road, Oakland, had been found guilty of three charges of driving while his license was suspended or revoked September 14. He was sentenced to 6 months in jail and fined $250 in each case with five months of the jail sentence suspended. He appealed the case. At the hearing before Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., Ashby pleaded guilty and the fines were upheld but the 30-day jail sentence was suspended. Ashby was placed on probation for two years under supervision and is to refrain from the use of a motor requiring a license to operate until his license is reinstated.

Frederick A. Elsey, Yough Mt. Lake, Oakland, had been found guilty of operating a motor vehicle while his license was revoked at a trial in District Court September 27. He was sentenced to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail and immediately appealed the case. At last week's appeal hearing, Elsey received a 30-day suspended sentence, having pleaded guilty. He was placed on probation under supervision for one year.

William Ray Welling, Gorman road, Deer Park, was found guilty in District Court May 11, of attempting to elude a police officer and fined $155. Welling pleaded not guilty of the charge in Circuit Court but Judge Hamill found him guilty and sustained the fine and costs.

John Cameron McClure, Mt. Lake Park, was found guilty of driving a motor vehicle in an intoxicated condition and fined $200 and costs. Part of the fine, $100, was suspended. McClure pleaded guilty in Circuit Court and the fine and suspension were sustained, and he is to attend the DWT School.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

Is a miner eligible for Black Lung benefits if an x-ray shows no sign of Black Lung?

An x-ray is only one of a number of examinations which may be used to decide total disability due to Black Lung. A negative x-ray by itself does not make a miner ineligible.

Do you really feel that citizens want the government to forego new programs to cut back on federal spending?

Yes I do. Based on letters, phone calls and face-to-face meetings in Central and Western Maryland, I sense a heightened feeling among our citizenry that Congress must reduce federal spending and seek to balance its budget. In fact, a solid majority of Sixth District citizens have voiced this very viewpoint on every questionnaire sent them over the past five years. In short, I believe families want Congress to stop voting for expensive new programs and to tighten their fiscal belts.

Did you vote against increasing the national debt to $597 billion?

Yes. It seems to me that one way we can curb spending is to stop expanding the U.S. public debt.

Has the increase in U.S. energy consumption generally followed our increase in population?

No. The increases in U.S. energy consumption are much more rapid than the growth of population. For example, between 1960 and 1968, The U.S. population increased by 11 percent while energy consumption rose 38 percent in the transportation sector, 45 percent for residential uses and 52 percent for commercial purposes.

What does our government spend on welfare programs each year?

According to HEW, the total public spending for major welfare programs reach $22.6 billion in fiscal 1975, a 20 percent increase over the previous year.

Can you tell me if Congress has increased the ceilings on federally insured loans for the purchase of mobile homes?

Yes. The house has passed legislation allowing the FHA to insure loans up to $12,500 for regular mobile homes and $20,000 for double-width homes.

I have been following the pension reform legislation passed by Congress and keep hearing about "vesting." What is "vesting" in relation to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act?

When you become eligible for participation in a pension plan, you start to earn credits towards your pension. After you have worked a specified period of time with an employer under a pension plan, the Act requires that you be given the right to certain pension benefits you have earned, which you will receive on retirement — even though you leave that job before retirement. This right is called "vesting."

Aurora-Eglon

A craft workshop will be held November 30 in the Eglon Memorial Building which will open to anyone interested in learning the following crafts: bargello, macrame hangers, yarn dusters, eggshell pins and broomstick lace. There will be an afternoon session 1-3 p.m. and an evening session, 7-9 p.m. The eggshell pin class will be held only at the evening session, the other crafts at both. There will be a cost charge only. If interested in attending, contact either Opal Myers or Linda Lewis so that materials may be supplied.

If interested in a "Sewing With Knits" class to be taught by Lenora Flowers at Aurora High School, contact Mrs. Gladys Snyder after 5 p.m. Also, if there are other fields of interest contact Mrs. Snyder, community coordinator.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Teets and Mrs. Teets' brother, Dennis Faw, all of Eglon, made a business trip to Winston-Salem, N.C., last week and enroute home Mr. Faw fell, breaking his arm. He is now a patient in the Preston Memorial Hospital.

The club also received a blue ribbon for their achievements during the past year.

Man Injured In Crash On Rt. 48

A Garrett County man was hospitalized last Thursday night with injuries he received when the pickup truck he was driving struck a pulpwood truck at the Finzel exit on route 48.

Paul Ivan Maust, 28, of route 2, Grantsville, was admitted to Memorial hospital in Cumberland and was listed in "satisfactory" condition.

Tfc. G. A. Resh, of the state police, said Maust was eastbound on route 48 when he struck the rear of the pulpwood truck operated by Edgar Elliott Augustine, Jr., 51, of Addison, Pa., who was not injured.

Tfc. Resh said Maust apparently was traveling at a high rate of speed when his vehicle struck the pulpwood truck, traveling in the same direction. The accident occurred at 6:41 p.m.

Maust was taken to the hospital by Eastern Garrett County firemen's ambulance.

Protection Bill For Farm Land

In an attempt to stem loss of farm land in Maryland a General Assembly committee is putting together a bill that would help the state acquire development rights to the land.

The state Senate Finance committee is drafting a measure creating a one cent tax on non-returnable beer and soda containers to raise funds for farm preservation.

The bill would allow the state to acquire the development rights to farm land, ensuring that it would not be sold for development and would continue in farm use.

Goal of the program is to protect two million acres of the existing 3.5 million acres of farm land in Maryland, according to Senator James Clark, Howard county Democrat, chairman of the Senate Finance committee.

Clark declared "It is important to retain farm land in Maryland." The farmer puts all his money into his farm and when he gets ready to retire it is only human nature for him to try and sell it at the best price. The state must not lose this valuable resource because we will always have a need to raise food and maintain open space for scenic and environmental purposes.

Happy Birthday, Mama, in a

We miss your sweet smile and all your precious love
But we all know you're with

But even though you are gone

FIFTH GRADERS AT BROAD FORD Elementary School had their attention captured by lung dissection during part of their Berkeley Health unit on the respiratory system. Cow lungs were brought to class to give students an opportunity to study that organ first hand. Above, Jeff Bernard, David Lewis and Rodney Sweitzer blow up sections of the lung to help them understand how these organs fill blood with oxygen and remove carbon dioxide.

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

Ohio

Capital, Columbus; governor, James Rhodes, Republican; flower, scarlet carnation; bird, cardinal; tree, Ohio Buckeye; song, "Beautiful Ohio; entered union March 1, 1803; motto, "With God All Things Are Possible;" nickname, Buckeye state; largest city, Cleveland.

Ohio is one of the leading industrial states, ranking third behind New York and California in total value of manufactured products. Leads U.S. in a wide variety of products: tires, machine tools, business machines, bus and truck bodies, truck trailers, glassware, cutlery and dishwashers.

Benj. L. Goodrich began manufacture of rubber goods in Akron in 1870. First permanent white settlement was established in 1783 by General Rufus Putnam, called the "father of Ohio."

Ohio claims title of "Mother of Presidents." Seven presidents. In historic order they were Ulysses S. Grant, Rutherford B. Hayes, James K. Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, William Howard Taft and Warren G. Harding. William Henry Harrison was living in Ohio when he became president.

Astronaut John H. Glenn, Jr., first American spaceman to orbit the earth, was born in Cambridge and grew up in New Concord. Many inventors also came from Ohio: Thomas A. Edison, developed his scientific curiosity about electricity as a small boy in Milan. Orville and Wilbur Wright made a test flight in power driven airplane from field near Dayton. Charles F. Kettering, Dayton, developed a self-starter for automobiles in 1911. Aluminum refining process was discovered by Charles M. Hall of Oberlin.

Ohio has hundreds of historical, recreational and scenic attractions. Every year more than 26 million visitors go there. Historical points include Indian burial mounds and forts dating back to prehistoric times; most famous attraction is the annual boys' all-American soap box derby with contestants from Canada, Europe and South America. It is held in Akron the first Sunday in August.

National Professional football hall of fame is in Canton, honoring outstanding professional football players; includes museum of equipment worn in former years. Wright Patterson air force base, near Dayton, is largest U.S. air force research center in the U.S. New and experimental aircraft equipment are tested there.

Ohio ranks among leading hog producing states. Dairy farming is state's second ranking agricultural activity. Cheese is a valuable by-product of dairy industry. Tuscarora county is called "America's Little Switzerland," because of great Swiss cheese production. All Liederkranz cheese is produced in Van Wert. Ohio also has been important fruit producing state since pioneer days when Johnny Appleseed roamed countryside planting apple seeds. He distributed apple seeds and sprouts in central and northern Ohio. He was a strange mixture of plant nurseryman, herb doctor, military hero and religious enthusiast. He accepted almost any object or amount of money in payment for seeds and sprouts.

Since founding of Republican party during 1850s Republicans have generally controlled Ohio politics. No Republican president has ever won without carrying state of Ohio.

Famous Ohioans include Grant, Hayes, Garfield, William H. and Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft, Harding, Sherman, Rickenbacker, Edison, Orville Wright, George Bellows, Ambrose Pierce, John Glenn, Paul Lawrence Dunbar and Sherwood Anderson.

Oklahoma is next state in this series.

Council Aids In Getting Grants

The Tri-County Council for Western Maryland is a local resource base for information pertaining to Federal, State, and Private Foundation Grant Programs. The council through its membership in organizations such as the National Association of Regional Councils and as an agency funded by the Appalachian Regional Commission and the Economic Development Administration has access to current information regarding grant programs. The staff monitors on a regular basis the "Federal Register;" publications such as the Appalachian Regional Commission's "Federal Resource Service" and the National Association of Regional Council's "Washington Report;" The "Maryland Register;" and computer printouts available through the state planning department. All are examples of sources of current up-to-date information regarding Grant Programs, their status in the legislative process and the rules and regulations relative to receiving grants. A Hotline is also available through the National Association of Regional Councils in Washington where information can be received or an almost instantaneous basis.

Two full-time staff members work in the area of Grants-Manship. Chief of Grants Benjamin "Bud" Berry has total responsibility for the Grants Program and is assisted by Regional Grantsman Raymond Carignan. Either staff member can be contacted at 722-6885 for information on Grant Programs, filling out applications and, in general, to provide any type of guidance regarding Federal and State Grants.

CASE NO. 7025

WHEREAS, on November 5, 1976, The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland filed with the Commission an application for authority to increase and restructure its rates and charges and revised rate schedules designed to produce $82,256,000 in additional gross annual revenue, to become effective December 6, 1976; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to Section 70 of The Public Service Commission Law, the Commission by Order No. 61987 entered in this proceeding on November 10, 1976, suspended the revised rate schedules and instituted proceedings to determine the justice and reasonableness thereof.

IT IS THEREFORE, this 15th day of November, in the year Nineteen Hundred and Seventy-six, by the Public Service Commission of Maryland,

ORDERED: (1) That persons, who can demonstrate sufficient interest and desire to produce direct evidence, may request leave to intervene in this proceeding, through their own counsel, by filing with the Public Service Commission, 301 W. Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland 21201, eight copies of a Petition Requesting Leave To Intervene by no later than the close of business on Monday, December 13, 1976.

(2) That a prehearing conference be, and it is hereby, set before the Commission on Wednesday, December 15, 1976, at 10:00 o'clock, a.m., in the offices of the Commission, 904 State Office Building, 301 West Preston Street, Baltimore, Maryland, at which time petitions seeking intervention will be considered and the evidentiary hearing dates set.

(3) That additional hearing sessions, in the service area of the Company, providing opportunity for the general public to present comments to the Commission on the application of the Company for increased rates and charges, will be specified in an insert to be included with customer bills mailed prior to such additional hearing sessions.

PROVIDED, The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Maryland shall cause a copy of this Order to be published in four newspapers in general circulation in the Baltimore City Metropolitan Area, in two newspapers in general circulation in the Maryland portion of the Washington, D.C. Metropolitan Area, and in one daily or weekly newspaper in general circulation published in each of the twenty-three counties of the State of Maryland at least one time in each newspaper during the week beginning November 21, 1976, and at least one time in each newspaper during the week beginning November 28, 1976. Wisp Preparing To Open Slopes December 4, 5

Snowflakes skimming through the air are bringing ski fever to many, and Wisp Ski Resort at Deep Creek Lake is in the final stages of preparation for the coming season. season.

Several changes have been made at Wisp this fall, including the addition of a new ski school director and of four new airless snowmaking machines. If all changes have been completed, the season should open December 4 and 5 at Wisp.

Dieter Baer has joined the Wisp staff this season as full-time ski school director, to be assisted by Ludwig Grimm. Both men are experienced and certified instructors and are also Tyrolian musicians and entertainers.

Mr. Baer takes over from Yens "Marty" Hansen, who had been director for the past two years on a parttime basis after Karl Gumhalter returned to his native Austria.

Dieter, 36, a native of Innsbruck, Austria, attended a sport school for five years, taught gymnastics in a private club in Austria and worked with a bank for four years before his first winter season as a ski instructor in America.

He spent two seasons with The Homestead in Hot Springs, Va. then a season with Bryces Resort in Virginia before advising the opening of a new area in North Carolina, Sapphire Valley.

He later worked at Sky Valley, Ga., the southernmost ski area in the U. S. Most recently he was affiliated with the Sugar Mountain Ski School in North Carolina as co-director.

Other items of interest about his past include the fact that he ski raced from 1950 to 1960. He and his father, who has taught seven seasons at Cataloochee Ski area in North Carolina, have made a ski film entitled, "Ski Devil" in which Dieter plays the major character (this film was shown on Austrian television and in 1968 to the Olympic participants). He has also been a real estate salesman. Besides skiing, he has won several prizes in gymnastic competition. He also enjoys water skiing and ice skating.

Mr. Grimm, born in 1950 in St. Jakob, East Tirol, came to the U. S. in 1970 to work with Mr. Baer at Georgia's Sky Valley as instructor and musician.

He also is certified by the P.S.I.A. He is accomplished with the accordion, bass guitar, clarinette and the singing saw.

He and Dieter worked together during the summers at various country clubs and also at Oktoberfests throughout the south.

Mrs. Grimm, Liesl, is also from St. Jakob and will teach in the ski school. She is also a professional waitress.

Season passholders are invited to a get-together at the Bavarian Room this Saturday, November 27, from 8:30 to 11 p.m. to meet the new instructors.

If the weather is at all cooperative, the season should begin at Wisp next weekend. The addition of the four airless snowmaking machines has necessitated the installation of additional electric lines and water lines, which will double the snowmaking capacity.

Wisp also installed a new rope tow which is longer than before and which will extend the amount of beginning ski area.

Employes are now preparing to extend the lighting for night skiing which begins in January and continues through February. Night skiing is on Wednesday and Friday nights, and this year Dieter and Ludwig will provide musical entertainment in the Bavarian Room following night skiing.

Also added this year have been 200 sets of GLM (graduated length method) skis at the rental shop.

BIG BANG

Observations of distant radio galaxies indicate that some distant galaxies are smaller than predicted by some models of the universe. These models predict uniform distribution of galaxies. That older radio galaxies are observed to be smaller indicates that the density of intergalactic matter at earlier ages of the universe was higher. This observation supports the theory of the Big Bang type cosmology.

No Work — No Pay . . .

No work, no pay, is a law in Congress, but it is evident that the regulation is not carried out. We are indebted to Dr. George S. Benson, president of the National Education program and author of "Listen Americans!" that is used from time to time in The Republican, for this knowledge.

He quotes the following, "The Secretary of the Senate and the Sergeant at Arms of the House respectively, shall deduct from the monthly payments of each member the amount of his salary for each day that he has been absent from the Senate or House, respectively, unless such member assigns as the reason for such absence the sickness of himself or of some member of his family." (2 USC Sec. 38, derived from R.S. Sec. 40, enacted August 16, 1856).

Most Americans, including the more than 500 members of the United States Congress, apparently are not aware of the above law, Dr. Benson says. It appears reasonable that if they were aware of the law

A prominent Oakland attorney, Thayer will fill out the unexpired term of Judge Stuart Fairfax Hamill, Jr., whose retirement is effective January 1.

Recommended by the Judicial Selection Commission for the Fourth Circuit, Thayer must run for election to a full term in 1978. He is a former State's Attorney for Garrett County.

He was recommended by the commission on October 27, and in a letter to the governor J. Markleysburg Girl Improving From Gunshot Wound

Kathy Umbel, 20, of Markleysburg, Pa., remains in the intensive care unit of Uniontown Hospital following a shooting mishap Monday which severed an artery in her thigh.

Miss Umbel, a beautician in Addison, Pa., was hunting with a brother on the family farm which straddles the Mason-Dixon line when the mishap occurred. She had been driving deer out of the woods when a shot fired by her brother apparently richocheted and struck her in the back of the thigh.

She was rushed to the hospital by the Henry Clay ambulance and is presently in satisfactory condition, according to her mother, Mrs. William Umbel. Mr. Umbel is a teacher at Northern High School.

Surgeons removed part of a vein in Miss Umbel's other leg to repair the artery.

Group Talks With D.O.T. Head About Finzel Interchange

Approximately 400 residents in the Finzel and Long Stretch sections of this county have asked the State Highway Administration to correct what they believe is a poorly designed intersection on the National Freeway.

This is the second consecutive year that the residents have complained about the intersection from U. S. Route 48 to State Route 546 and U. S. Route 40.

Fifteen of the residents met Monday with Maryland Secretary of Transportation Harry R. Hughes at the court house and presented him with a petition bearing 400 signatures concerning the problem intersection.

Mr. Hughes was told that the design of the interchange makes it virtually impossible for westbound vehicles on the Freeway to exit at Finzel for traveling west on Route 40.

The residents also said that the resulting confusion is causing seven businesses and numerous citizens in the area to suffer inconvenience and financial hardship.

Garrett County Commissioners George C. Edwards, Wayne B. Hamilton and Don S. Bender also complained about the intersection, noting that the county's development plan had pointed out the bad intersection more than three years ago. They asked that action be taken immediately to alleviate the problem.

State Sen. Edward J. Mason and Del. DeCorsey Bolden also were at the meeting and noted that constituents have contacted them about the intersection.

Mr. Hughes said that studies are under way to correct the problem but that the SHA is hampered by federal highway safety guidelines which may prohibit modification of the interchange. Adding to the state's problems is a shortage of highway construction funds, he asserted.

He did promise that the state will complete the design work on the new interchange system within the next three months and then seek federal funds for the project.

Over 75 Percent Voted November 2

The Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors announced this week that over 75 percent of the registered voters of the county voted at the general election on Tuesday, November 2.

The breakdown showed 75 percent of the Democrats registered, or 3,297; and 76 percent of the Republican voters, or 4,643. Among the other categories, 63 percent or 189 persons voted. The total number voting was 8,129. Official registration as of October 4 was 10,776.

Lost Hunter Brings Home His Deer

A deer hunter from Towson walked out of the woods about 1:35 a.m. Sunday after having been lost for at least 12 hours in the Snaggy Mountain vicinity west of Swallow Falls.

Gary P. Richardson, 36, was in good condition when he was found by volunteers from the sheriff's department, forestry department, Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, and the Vacationland CB Search and Rescue unit, and he still had with him the body of the three-point buck he had killed earlier in the day.

The sheriff's office had received a report of the missing hunter about 7:30 p.m., from the man's brother. The two had become separated early Saturday morning and Gary had not been seen since 7 a.m.

Various units traveled up and down the roads in the Cranesville-Swallow Falls area, as the forestry department would not allow search units to enter the heavily wooded area for fear that others would become lost or injured.

Mr. Richardson heard the voices and saw flashing lights and walked out on his own. He was reported in good condition by the sheriff's department.

SANTA CLAUS made his first appearance in this county last Friday during the annual Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association parade held in Oakland. Balmy temperatures lured many to town to view the parade and to receive free popcorn balls for children following the arrival of Santa.

Land Owners Get Notice Of Reassessment

All Garrett County Property owners are receiving their proposed new assessment figures or have already gotten them, according to Dennis J. Colaw, of the State Department of Assessments and Taxation.

All properties are reviewed annually for assessment purposes including an actual physical review of at least one-third of them, as a result of court action aimed at achieving greater equalization among assessments, Mr. Colaw said.

He pointed out that the assessor must assess all real property at the full cash value less an allowance for inflation. The current allowance is 50 percent of market value. An increase of an assessment does not necessarily cause an increase in the property tax dollar, he said, but the property tax dollar is determined by the expenditures of government and not by the level of the assessment.

Upon receiving the assessment notice, each property owner has 30 days in which to protest the proposed assessment if it is believed that the valuation is inaccurate. The protest must be in writing.

He advised that persons read carefully the notice which explains the proper procedure for filing a protest. Upon receipt by the department of protest, the property owner will be notified of the time and date to appear for a hearing. Hearing dates for protests received are generally in January, February and March, Colaw indicated.

County Gets Training Grant

Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr. (R-Md.) this week announced the third-year funding by the Appalachian Regional Commission of a Garrett County project to provide individual and group training to the mentally retarded and handicapped. The project prepares them for the functional requirements of a sheltered workshop, and will serve an estimated 30 clients between now and October 31, 1977. The continuation grant, awarded to the Garrett County Community Action Committee, is for $89,586 of the $142,339 total project cost.

The Mental Retardation Administration of Maryland will fund $7,012 with the remaining $45,741 contributed by local sources.

Firemen Called

Oakland firemen were called twice on Monday, one to a flue fire at Hutton, at the home of M. Kisner, and the other supposedly to extinguish an automobile fire. The calls came near noon for both.

There was no damage in the first instance and firemen were unable to find the location of the automobile, in the second instance.

Christmas Treat Plans Complete

Plans for the annual Christmas Treat for the young children of the community have been completed by the Mt. Top Chamber of Commerce. Santa Claus is scheduled to be on hand on Saturday, December 18, at 1 o'clock.

Distribution of a bag of candy, popcorn, oranges, etc., will be made on Second street in Oakland, between Green and the post office. Merchants and individuals have been contacted by letter seeking contributions to bear the expense of the treat which normally costs around $800.

The committee for the treat includes William Hesen, chairman; members of the Maryland National Guard, Pat Fischetti, members of Boy Scout troops and Verna Harvey.

May Put Branch Loan Office Here

The First Federal Savings and Loan association, Cumberland, has filed an application with the Federal Home Loan Bank board for permission to establish a branch office in the vicinity of route 135, Oakland.

Deer Harvest Hits High Of 609

The first four days of buck season proved to be more than successful with 609 deer being slain in the county during that period. This total is well ahead of the same period for the past three years. Last year there were 539 listed, with two years ago 408 and in 1973 466 were harvested the first four days.

As usual the heaviest kill was on Saturday, the first day of the season, when the total was 440. This dropped considerably on Monday when 62 were slain. Tuesday 59 were counted and yesterday the total was 48.

These figures were released by the Natural Resources division of the Wild Life Administration.

There are five checking points and their total was as follows: Paul's Mt. Top Tire, Oakland, 118, 17, 16, 19, total 170; Johnny's Bait House, Deep Creek, 73, 3, 5, 4, total 85; Hetz at Grantsville, 145, 21, 20, 8, total 194; Walt's at McHenry, 85, 5, 10, 6, total 106; Savage River Inn, 19, 6, 4, 11, total, 40. Four were also tagged in Allegany County, for a grand total of 609.

The season will continue through today, Friday and Saturday.

Three Injured In Grantsville Area

Three persons were injured in two different accidents in the Grantsville area, one Friday and the other Saturday. The injuries were apparently not serious.

The operator of a motorcycle was injured in a mishap on the Dorsey Hotel road near Miller street in Grantsville last Friday afternoon. Sue M. Bowers, Dorsey Hotel road, was northbound and making a right turn. David A. Beiler, Main Street, Grantsville, on his motorcycle, was to the rear of the Bowers car and then started to pass on the right just as the Bowers car turned and the two collided. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland investigated.

The following morning the operators of two vehicles were slightly injured in a left-turn mishap on U. S. 40 at U. S. 219 north. John L. Elligson, Millers, Md., was westbound on U. S. 40 as Lyndon V.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How can our community obtain federal land under the Surplus Property Program?

Under the Legacy of Parks — Surplus Property Program, states and political subdivisions may obtain for public park and recreation use, federal properties that are declared surplus to the needs of the federal government. Such property is normally available without cost. Interested communities may wish to contact the Regional Office of the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation for further details. The address is Federal Building, Seventh Floor 1421 Cherry Street, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania 19102.

How can I find out the amount of money credited to my Social Security account?

Interested citizens should fill out the postcard form entitled "Request for Statement of Earnings" and mail it to the Social Security Administration, Post Office Box 57, Baltimore, Maryland 21203. The form may be obtained from your local Social Security office.

What is your position on solar energy research and development?

I was one of the original cosponsors of legislation to create a solar heating and cooling demonstration program and was a strong supporter of this authorizing legislation. I have also undertaken active support of the ocean thermal solar energy project being developed by the Johns Hopkins Applied Physics Laboratory in Howard County. Meetings have been held with other Members of Congress, the Administration, the Federal Energy Administration and ERDA in order to expedite funding of this important solar energy project.

How did you vote earlier this year on legislation establishing a Young Adult Conservation Corps?

I supported the measure which would employ persons between 19 and 24 in federal public works projects. The bill passed 291-70. Incidentally, I have been a long-time advocate and co-sponsor of legislation to expand and extend the Youth Conservation Corps which provides summer jobs for teenagers in our National Parks.

Are refresher courses covered under GI educational benefits?

Veterans who have already qualified in a program of education may receive educational assistance for up to 6 months to pursue refresher training to update skills acquired prior to or during service. Your local VA office can provide you with more details and the qualification standards for the program.

A while ago you voted to prohibit the issuance of citations under the Occupational safety and Health Act [OSHA] against firms with 25 or fewer employees. What was your reasoning?

I have been repeatedly contacted by small businesses in Central and Western Maryland concerning the administrative burdens of OSHA and its impact on small firms, many of which are family businesses. I feel the present direction in federal regulations and controls will lead to the decline of the small business with resulting employment losses and a gradual decrease in competition. In short, exempting these businesses from OSHA coverage is a sound economic policy and certainly does not threaten the lives of employees in these family businesses.

Cotton Growing Attempts Widespread In Early Days

Experiments in cotton-growing were widespread in early America.

As early as 1736, cotton was being grown on a garden-scale in Maryland's Chesapeake Bay area and as late as 1826 it was still being grown in three of the state's counties.

Colonists in New Jersey, Delaware, and Pennsylvania also grew small amounts of cotton for home-spinning. By 1776, Pennsylvania grew enough to supply its own domestic needs. And during the Revolutionary War, cotton was raised in all these areas for army use.

A New Yorker writing in the American Farmer in 1822 tells of successful attempts at growing cotton on Long Island, the seaboards of Connecticut and New Jersey, and along the Wabash River in Illinois.

"These new proofs I hope will encourage some of our farmers to make experiments that will decide whether cotton can be safely cultivated as a regular and profitable crop," he stated.

Indiana farmers also tried their hand at growing the crop, and in 1850 produced all of 14 bales.

The Mormons in Utah were somewhat more successful in their experiments, according to the National Cotton Council. In 1855, they began cultivating the crop in what became known as "Utah's Dixie," a semi-tropical area in the southwest corner of the state. A cotton factory established at Washington, Utah, in 1866 produced cloth intermittently until 1900.

Meanwhile, Kansas had also been briefly in the column of cotton-producing states. In 1890, it turned out 212 bales of cotton.

Cherokees Grew Cotton In Georgia

Cotton was a primary crop for Georgia's Cherokee Indians in the early 19th Century.

David Brown, a tribe member, wrote in 1825 that "almost every family in the Cherokee nation grows cotton for its own consumption" and some individuals produced enough to export it by boat to New Orleans.

Groce Considered Father of Texas' Cotton Industry

Spanish missionaries in San Antonio were reportedly growing wild cotton for fiber in 1745, says the National Cotton Council.

Introduction of cultivated varieties into Texas was made by Col. J. E. Groce, who signed with Stephen F. Austin as a member of the "original 300" for the trip from New Orleans to Texas.

In 1822, he established a cotton plantation on the east bank of the Brazos River near the present town of Hempstead. His first big crop four years later netted 100 bales which were hauled by oxcart to Harrisburg (now Houston) for export to New Orleans.

Groce, who helped establish the forerunner of the Houston Cotton Exchange and began the first steamboat line operating out of Texas ports, is considered the father of the Lone Star State's cotton industry.

Home To Christmas

Riding through snowdrifts in a sleigh to the family Christmas gathering must have been the high point of the year, an ineradicable delight. But modern days have a gaiety, too, for you can drive home in warmth, perhaps listening to some carols or next-to-heavenly music, on Christmas eve or Christmas morning. And mostly watching the pines get thicker and sometimes, the snow getting driftier, if you are one of Nature's children, going west to that home on the Appalachian Plateau.

Gifts that have been neatly packaged and bowed are hiding by families in their wrappings, with special care for the fragile one. Balancing the cake plate or pan of baked apples is the only problem, as it must arrive intact and there is no room in the rear for it. Now you just fill your mind with anticipation, the real apex of life, as you envision Uncle Nat in his new red shirt or Cousin Tom with that special pair of initialed golf balls you had to order last July.

In imagination you see the faces of old and young, hear the laughter of babies and giggles of a jokester, as you eat Christmas dinner. For many years there has been tucked in my case an old entreaty, "Touch Hands," which I courageously vow to read before the Christmas grace. But since it has a sad note, "for who may say that Christmas Day may ever come to host our guest again," it remains folded away, and I doubt that I can read it aloud, ever.

Harold Munro has a stanza for those who are welcomed home: "All their hands are out to greet us, and the gentle blankets seem purring and crooning: 'Live in us and dream.'"

A Marylander is fortunate, as he has so little distance to travel going home if he lives within the confines of his home state. But many people go farther, cherishing that tradition, as did Orville Wright when he wired to his father in 1902. "SUCCESS FOUR FLIGHTS THURSDAY MORNING. HOME FOR CHRISTMAS."

An unknown writer tells us this way: "The truly poor at Christmas are those who have no one with whom to share its spiritual joys and its material happiness." Christmas is a giving time, but it is not confined to giving something physical. When you see the door pushed open or the light switched on, and next catch the smile of welcome with a sparkle of the eye, you know that you have had the privilege of joy, and that your body and spirit are in the exact place where you need to have come, home to Christmas.

No Excuse For Economic Ignorance

Syndicated columnist Ralph DeToledano recently cited a Gallup poll which showed that students polled in 57 colleges (colleges, mind you — not high schools) estimated that American business earned an average after-tax profit of 45 percent.

The truth is, according to the last available yearly statistics, U. S. industry earned 4.3 percent profit, while retailers earned only 1.2 percent profit.

Outspoken publisher William Loeb of the Manchester Union-Leader (New Hampshire) commented: "The difference between the reality and this crazy estimate by the college students is simply explained by the fact that the students' minds have been poisoned by leftist professors, many of whom spend their time in high schools, colleges and universities attacking and running down the free enterprise system. Students are constantly being told that American industry makes huge profits."

Mr. Loeb might have added that many public school textbooks are also loaded with extreme, left-wing and disparaging attacks against our American economy and way of life.

However, to this Mr. Loeb added the following comment — and this, we believe, is worth pondering:

"American businessmen are also to blame for the spreading of this misinformation, because they sit like dumb zombies while they are being attacked . . They are to blame for never intelligently telling their side of the story to the American people.

"If the truth is not told to students or to the general public, how can you blame them for being misinformed and misled?"

Mr. Loeb has a point — and a good one. It is indeed time for business leaders and for business firms, both large and small, to stop acting like "dumb zombies" and make sure that factual information is made available through booklets, pamphlets, brochures, films, newspaper advertisements, and whatever it takes to do the job. Public schools textbooks containing false and misleading information should be junked. Left-wing professors who lie about America should be fired for exploiting academic freedom. And businessmen need to reflect that they — not the government or "the other fellow" — are responsible for the atmosphere in which they function. There is absolutely no excuse for economic ignorance, either on the high school or the college level. –U. S. Press Association.

Modernization Project Set By Kelly-Springfield

The Kelly-Springfield Tire Company is spending approximately a million dollars to modernize its fabric coating equipment at the Cumberland plant, according to Karl R. Feise, plant manager.

"This will bring about greater efficiency in the time it takes to produce a tire, and it will increase our calender room capacity," he said.

"In addition, we are also revamping our current cooling system so that we have controlled humidity and temperatures in the calendering operation," the plant manager said.

As a result of this major modernization project, a curtailed production schedule, from 11 p.m. last night until 7 a.m. Wednesday, will be in effect in some areas of the plant.

"With some exceptions, curing and building of single and dual bead truck tires, truck airwheel, bias ply and radial passenger tires will be affected by the shutdown," Feise said.

No Work - No Pay . . .

they would insist on being law-abiding citizens. But only a handful of members of Congress are presently being paid their monthly salaries in keeping with the law.

Back in 1856 there were 234 members of the U.S. House of Representatives. Frequently there would be less than 150 members present when the nation's business was being enacted. Some were out campaigning for re-election, others were just not present. This was considered "a great and increasing evil" which had to be cured. In the first place, it was then considered dishonest to take money for work not done. It was considered dishonorable to be elected to represent the people back home and then take a salary for doing other things which required their absence from the job they were elected to do.

And so, Representative James L. Orr authored the above law — and it has been the law of the land ever since. Boiled down, it simply means that each month the Sergeant at Arms in the House and Secretary of the Senate shall deduct a day's pay for every day a member of Congress is absent from Congress, unless properly excused. The member was required to answer "upon his own conscience and honor" concerning sick days when he presented himself for each month's salary.

If Congress really wants to reduce federal spending and cut out the fat in the federal budget, it can start by enforcing the law regarding its own salaries. Some think that docking the Congressmen for days absent from Congress would alone cut the immense cost of running the Congress by about 15 percant.

It is something to think about and an abuse that should be corrected.

Listen Americans!

. . . by Dr. George S. Benson
PRESIDENT — NATIONAL EDUCATION PROGRAM
Searcy, Arkansas

THE DANGER OF LAW BY EXECUTIVE ORDER

Most Americans believe that our laws come into existence by a Bill being introduced in the Congress of the United States. If it is passed by both the House and the Senate, it is still subject to a Presidential veto and must then be passed by a two-thirds majority in both Houses of the Congress. Even so, a law is still subject to yet another check. That check is the possibility of a citizen challenging the constitutionality of that law before the Supreme Court.

This way of acquiring our laws may be a little slow, but it is far more safe than some other methods now in existence. We are speaking of laws by Executive Order. We have just had a new such law passed by one man . . . the President of the United States.

On June 15, 1976, President Ford placed in the Federal Register, Executive Order 11921. The Congress had a certain number of days to object to that Order before it became the law of this land. All that is necessary for that law to come into effect is for the President to declare that a state of national emergency exists in the United States. He then would have total power over all human life, all food, all weapons, all water and natural resources, all means of production, and resistors would be subject to the force of a gun or a prison camp.

Garrett Downs ACC-South 69-56

Bill McGarvey, a 6-6, 195 pound freshman, dumped in 17 points and turned in some good defensive work to spark Garrett Community college to an easy 69 to 56 victory over Allegheny Community college, South Campus, of Pittsburgh, last night at McHenry.

It was the first win for the new head coach Paul Holzshu. The Lakers, in their season debut, held the visitors at bay during the first half, taking a 36 to 32 lead and then opened a ten to fifteen point gap which they maintained throughout the second half.

McGarvey had seven field goals and three of six from the foul line, and his constant rebounding prevented ACC mounting a sustained attack. Mike Grove and Allen Lewis got 12 and ten points respectively for Garrett with Grove converting eight of 11 foul attempts.

Coles was high scorer for ACC with 20 points, Westbrook also had 12. Garrett outgunned ACC from the field 24 to 21 and the Lakers converted 21 of 40 tries from the foul line. ACC was 14 for 27.

Cotton Spinner Was Early Day Folk Hero

America's cotton industry provided history with an early-day Evel Knievel.

His name was Sam Patch and, when he wasn't tending the spindles in his Rhode Island cotton mill, Sam was out jumping waterfalls and bridges — without the aid of a motorcycle.

He became a national hero after his 90-foot jump into the Passaic River from a Paterson, N.J., bridge in the late 1820's.

Patch's next spectacular achievement was a drop into Niagara Falls from the highest point on Goat Island, a leap more than half the height of the falls.

His battlecry was 'There's no mistake in Sam Patch!" However, a fatal flaw cropped up in 1829 when he attempted a 125-foot jump in the Genesee Falls in western New York and fell to his death.

His life was dramatized in a play called, "Sam Patch, the Daring Yankee," one of the smashing hits on the early American stage.

Household Hints

Too-dry Air Can Cause Serious Problems

If the air is your home this winter is too dry, all sorts of problems — including health — can easily develop.

Dry air draws moisture from everything in the house including furniture, plants, plaster and people.

How can you tell? Well, these symptoms will show up — loose-jointed furniture, cracked plaster, squeaky floors and static electricity in upholstery and rugs.

In humans, it's eye, nose and throat irritation.

You can move to another climate, but according to the experts, there's a need for humidification (putting moisture into the air) in all but a few parts of the country.

One solution is a furnace-mounted or portable humidifier.

Furnace-mounted humidifiers can add as much as 25 gallons of moisture in a day in forced-air heating systems. These units operate by pulling heated, dry air from the furnace and forcing it through a water-saturated medium before it is circulated around the home.

Portable models can supply 17 gallons of moisture per day. A fan pulls in dry air and forces it through a belt which is constantly revolving through the unit's water tank.

And, another plus in proper moisture control is your personal comfort. You'll feel more comfortable when temperatures are low if the humidity level is higher.

Snow-covered Roads Cause Minor Wrecks

A number of non-injury accidents, apparently caused by snow-covered roads, occurred last week.

Jerry W. Kestner, RD 5, Oakland, was northbound on the Oakland-Sang Run road last Wednesday afternoon. A car operated southbound by Cheryl Ann Stottlemeyer, High Street, Oakland, began to slide on the icy road, forcing Kestner off the road. Kestner then struck an embankment on the right side of the road. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant made no charges.

About an hour later, Robert L. Patillo, Star Route 1, Oakland, was stopped for traffic on U.S. 219 just north of Mayhew Inn Road. Norman G. Dobish, Baccaria, Pa., following, was unable to stop on the icy road and struck the rear of the Patillo pickup. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland made no charges.

Timothy R. Wilhelm, Morgantown, W. Va., was southbound on Mattingly Hill road about a mile north of U.S. 219 just past midnight last Tuesday. Traveling upgrade around a slight left curve the car ran off the snow-covered road to the right and struck a tree. Sgt. H. W. Graham charged Wilhelm with operating without snow tires or chains during a snow emergency, also driving without proper registration and tags.

The morning of Monday, the 22nd, Lawrence L. Kessler, Pittsburgh, was southbound on the entrance ramp to U.S. 48 when he encountered ice-covered roads. He lost control, went over an embankment and overturned. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore investigated.

Raisins for Holiday

Rains during the critical fall drying season caused the loss of at least 75% of this year's raisin crop. Anticipating shortages, many consumers bought more raisins than they usually need. This introduces the question — how best to store raisins and avoid unnecessary waste of these precious morsels?

It is perfectly safe to store raisins for an extended period of time. Like honey, raisins are high in natural sugar which prevents spoilage when properly stored.

How long raisins stay moist and flavorful is up to you, however. Three conditions are villains — air, humidity, and heat. Exposure to air allows moisture to evaporate, leaving raisins hard and dry. Exposure to humidity and heat cause the natural sugars to crystallize, creating a gritty texture. And this "sugaring" condition tends to attract common household bugs. So the way to beat these villains is through cool, dry, air-tight storage.

If you plan to store raisins for a long period, it is best to store unopened packages in the refrigerator. Never store raisins in cabinets near major appliances. Once opened, the package should be tightly wrapped in a plastic bag and kept in the refrigerator.

Although the shortage has pushed prices up, pound for pound, raisins are still one of your better buys. It takes approximately 5 lbs. of fresh grapes to make a 15 oz. carton of Seedless Raisins. And as you may remember, fresh grapes ranged from 59 cents to 79 cents per pound at retail this summer. That means you're getting $2.95 worth of grapes (5 lbs. X 59 cents) for around $1.40 to $1.50 the current price of raisins.

Carrot-Raisin Stuffed Eggs

Early in the day —, cook 6 eggs in the shell — slice the eggs in half lengthwise. Gently remove yolks and place in small bowl; with fork, finely crumble yolks. Stir in ¼ c. mayonnaise, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash pepper, 2 tablespoons grated carrots, 1 tablespoon chopped raisins, ¼ teaspoon ginger if desired and ¼ teaspoon sugar. Stir until smooth with spoon, pile into egg centers.

Refrigerate, covered. Makes 12 stuffed egg halves.

4-H'ers Star In Home Management Roles

The spotlight this year is on 114,000 girls and boys 9-19 in the national 4-H home management program sponsored by Tupperware Home Parties. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H'ers learn by doing to set realistic goals, put their plans into action and evaluate the results—all steps to starring roles in the management scenario.

CHICAGO—"Americans tend to think of money as their only valuable resource," says Carolyn Gaddis, family resource management specialist with the Louisiana Cooperative Extension Service.

"However," she says, "It's important to look closely at another resource that we seem to have less and less of as we become busier and busier. That resource is time."

Use resources to advantage

Time, money, energy, skills, material things, brain power: all are valuable resources. Learning to mobilize them to reach specific personal and household goals are 114,000 girls and boys from 9 to 19 in the national 4-H home management program.

4-H'ers will be aided this year by "Spotlight on Management," a new 32-page member manual in "lights, camera, action" format. The manual was developed jointly by the Cooperative Extension Service, the National 4-H Service Committee, and Tupperware Home Parties. It focuses on the four steps to effective management: setting a goal, planning how to reach it, acting to put the plan in motion, and checking up on the results.

Learning by doing

4-H members learn that decision making is what management is all about. They might tackle family food bills and come up with cost-cutting techniques. Or organize personal work schedules that set realistic goals and conserve time and energy.

Whatever projects they choose, 4-H'ers can earn awards donated by Tupperware Home Parties and arranged by the National 4-H Service Committee. Eight outstanding 4-H'ers are awarded national college scholarships of $1,000. One top program member from each state receives an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. And four members per county are eligible for medals of honor.

All winners are selected on the basis of their records of accomplishment by the Extension Service, which conducts the 4-H program. Additional information is available from county extension agents.

The American Way

That many textbooks commonly used in our public schools contain all sorts of negative and denunciatory material about our American system of freedom, including free enterprise and private ownership, is a notoriously documented albeit unhappy fact. Why some of the largest and most affluent book publishers in the land continue to print such claptrap by egg-headed idiots is a mystery. We do know, however, that when teachers, concerned parents, or schoolboards protest, the cry of "bookburning" is raised to prevent the removal of the ugly material from the schools. (We suspect that the reason is not "book-burning," but that the publishers are afraid that they will lose money.)

In any event, since it seems difficult to remove poisonous propaganda from our national education system by direct means, the next best answer is to contradict and correct the record by introducing public school students to "the other side" — in this case, the side of free enterprise. And, thank goodness, material teaching the other side is available.

One such source, for example, is the National Schools Committee for Economic Education, Inc., located in Old Greenwich, Connecticut. With a more than 20-year record of educational experience behind them, this year the NSCEE came up with a bell-ringing "American Way '76" program which explains, defines and describes how our system of free economy works. It is comprised of three sections: 1. "Free Choices and Enterprise" which describes the theory of our free economy; 2. "A Loaf of Bread" which shows how, in actual practice, the theory of an open and free market functions for the good of all; and then 3. "What's In A Shirt?" which explains how and why tools, machines, and capital investment are needed for increased productivity and wealth.

Using tapes, filmstrips, slides, teachers' guides and student workbooks, THE AMERICAN WAY '76 kit is designed to be at once entertaining and highly instructive and informative. It has been given high ratings by such experts as Dr. James F. Bender of Adelphi University; Dr. Paul Miller of the U.S. Office of Education; Dr. Benjamin Willis, former Superintendent of the Chicago Public School system, and others. News columnist Allan C. Brownfeld advises that information on the kit is available on request by writing to the National Schools Committee for Economic Education at Box 326, Old Greenwich, Connecticut 06870, adding: "If we do not teach our children about freedom, it is clear that no one else will." —U.S. Press Association.

Funeral Home Here 15 Years

The end of November marked the fifteenth anniversary of the Durst family serving the area as a funeral home.

John O. (Jack) Durst came to Oakland in 1961 to become associated with Herbert C. Leighton, after being affiliated with the Hafer funeral homes in Cumberland for more than twenty years.

Mr. Leighton had served the community since 1933, opening a business in Mt. Lake Park, later building a funeral home on Oak street in Oakland in 1935, where the business was operated until Mr. Durst joined him and purchased the former Loar property on Second street.

The business was known as the Leighton-Durst funeral home. At Mr. Leighton's death the Maryland State Board of Funeral Directors agreed that the Leighton name could be omitted from the business which has since been known as the John O. Durst funeral home, to avoid confusion with the Durst funeral home in Frostburg.

Jack Durst is a graduate of Potomac State college, West Liberty college, and the McAllister School of Embalming, and active in the business with him is his wife. Their son Mark became a partner in January of this year after being involved since 1970. He is a graduate of Southern High school, attended Potomac State and was graduated from the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science in March, 1972. His wife, Donna, also is a graduate of Pittsburgh Institute, but has taught mathematics at Southern High school for the past three school years.

Mr. Durst is active in Lions club and the Masonic order while Mark is a member of the Oakland fire department. All three are members of the Tri-State, Maryland and National Funeral Directors' associations.

Representatives Of Southern States Attend Meeting

Area Stores of Southern States Cooperative sent representatives to the association's 53rd annual stockholders' meeting at Richmond, Va., November 17 and 18.

Among those attending Walter Margroff, Donald Fratz, Accident; Edward Utterback, W. E. Harsh, Aurora; Charles Enlow, Daniel S. Wampler, Friendsville; Richard W. Helbig, Deer Park, and Charles T. Shafer, Oakland.

They heard a report that total dollar volume for the last fiscal year topped $315 million, an increase of some $27 million, but reportable net savings were down. Net savings from operations totaled $10.8 million after taxes. Feed volume reached 525,700 tons as compared to 481,500 a year ago.

Fertilizer tonnage was 627,000 tons, an increase; seed volume was $16.5 million, up slightly. Miscellaneous farm supply volume was $66.3 an increase. Petroleum volume totaled 190 million gallons, up from 151 million.

The cooperative's 75 retail branch operations had a sales increase of $11.1 percent but net savings dropped by 46 percent.

Volume of bushels of grain handled increased by 6 million bushels. Net savings increased to $944,497, enabling the payment of a patronage refund of 3.9 cents per bushel.

The cooperative's net worth totals $74.4 million, an increase of $9.1 million.

Markleysburg Man Dies While Hunting Near Friendsville

A Markleysburg man was found dead in the woods near Friendsville Monday night, the victim of an apparent heart attack.

Anadla Eugene Wable, 66, of Box 61, Markleysburg, Pa., was found about 7 p.m. by a stepson, John Dean, after he failed to return home after a day of deer hunting this county. His body was discovered in the Thomas Ridge Road area, where he had previously told relatives he would be hunting.

Dr. James H. Feaster, Garrett County medical examiner, pronounced the cause of death as an apparent heart attack. The body was removed to the James R. Williams Funeral Home, Markleysburg. The incident was investigated by the Maryland State Police.

Mrs. Wable had become alarmed when her husband had not returned home by 6 p.m. and called a stepson, who discovered the body.

Surviving in addition to his wife, Dorothy, are five children, Mrs. Mary Alice Durst, Confluence; Mrs. Berdella Fike, Markleysburg; Mrs. Margaret Crawford, Connellsville; Mrs. Sarahjane Artice, Meyersdale; Mrs. Shirley Vance, Orrville, Ohio; two stepchildren, John Junior Dean, Markleysburg, and Mrs. Clara Belle Cuppett, Bruceton Mills; 26 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren.

Services will be conducted this afternoon at 1 p.m. from the funeral home with Rev. Robert Miller officiating. Burial will be in Humberson Cemetery, Route 40, Markleysburg.

Lung Association Offering Signed Christmas Seals

The Allegany-Garrett Council of the American Lung Association of Maryland has available for collectors hand-autographed sheets of Christmas Seals, signed by Dick Cavett, television personality and talk show host, who is serving as the national chairman of the 70th annual Christmas Seal campaign.

The local council of the Lung Association says that while the number of signed sheets available is not known, it is felt that the number will be relatively small. According to a spokesman for the local Lung Association office, no other office in Maryland has requested special seals and therefore they probably will be scarce.

This is the first year that the local Lung Association has offered autographed seals, and while the Association cannot charge for the seals, it would appreciate contributions.

All requests will be honored as long as the supply holds out. Requests should be sent to "Christmas Seals," P. O. Box 404, Cumberland, 21502.

WHAT IS BEING DONE ABOUT TAXES

Justice Holmes once said, "taxes are what we pay for civilized society." Someone else has said recently, "if that is true, then the United States can't stand anymore civilization, for we are already paying more than 40 percent of our income in taxes."

Still others have said: "Taxes are like the weather . . . everybody always talks about it, but nobody ever does anything about it."

But, something is being done about taxes, both in Washington and all over America. First, in the nation's capitol the Tax Reform Act of 1976 is the most massive effort to completely rewrite our tax laws which has been undertaken in a number of years. And it offers both hope and danger. The hope is that a new tax law will really be fair and distribute the burden of government financing in an equitable manner. Most Americans will feel a great deal better about paying taxes if they know that all individuals whose resources and responsibilities are equal are taxed at the same rate.

The danger is that a new tax bill might be adopted on the basis of redistribution of all wealth. Some in Congress are striving mightily to place the major burden of taxation on business. If they succeed, they will fail . . . for the consumer will end up paying those business taxes in the form of higher prices for products and inflation will indeed destroy our nation and our system of government.

The best tax reform act of 1976 would be for the federal government to stop spending more than its income, and start moving toward a balanced budget. That would begin restoring faith in Congress.

And that brings us to what is being done about taxes elsewhere. According to Jack Anderson, a large number of Americans are refusing to pay federal income taxes. They filed a signed, blank return and apparently are now waiting for Internal Revenue to take them to court.

We must also convince our Congressmen that we strongly oppose their attempts to put a higher and bigger share of taxes on the business corporations that make the majority of our high-paying jobs, and are the heart of our nation's prosperity.

The fact that the employers do not have as many votes as the employees may be tempting to the politicians, but ignoring the interests of the employers could do for America what it has done for England. She is in very desperate straits.

Teaching of Hatred

People throughout the civilized world were understandably dismayed and angered by the brutal, inhuman slaughter of Captain Arthur Bonifas of Newburgh, New York and 1st Lieutenant Mark Barrett of Charleston, South Carolina on August 18. The two men, unarmed, were viciously beaten to death by Communist "Red Army" apes in the so-called "demilitarized" buffer zone between North and South Korea. However, there is no reason why anyone should be either puzzled or surprised by the Red savagery. After all, they were only behaving like Communists, the same as Communists have always behaved in every part of the world ever since Communism was invented.

Anti-communist experts have long pointed out that teaching hatred is an integral part of Marxist-Leninist doctrine, and that such teaching of hatred holds true whether in the Soviet Union, in Red China, in Korea—or in the United States.

In Red China and Red Korea, foreign observers have long reported witnessing kindergarten children being taught by the Communists to beat the dummies of American soldiers with sticks. In 1972 the Korean Red Dictator, Kim Il Sung, told the North Korean people: "The most important thing in our preparations for war is to educate all the people to hate U.S. imperialism."

Not only is this pattern followed in the Soviet Union, but the U.S.S.R. explains why they teach hatred (in the Small Soviet Encyclopedia, Vol. XI, page 1045):

"Hatred fosters vigilance and an uncompromising attitude toward the enemy. . . . The teaching of hatred for the enemies of the toilers enriches the conception of Socialist humanism by distinguishing it from sugary and hypocritical 'philanthropy.'"

The same pattern of hatred can be seen in the communist front and left wing groups in the United States, where we find their propaganda material saturated with hatred, scorn, derision, contempt and vilification.

Surely, among the many stipulations the United States should make before any further dealings with the USSR, one of them should be: "Stop the practice of teaching your children to hate." The teaching of hatred is certainly not the path to world peace, or to the "normalization of relations." —U.S. Press Association.

Named To Social Services Board

The County Commissioners announced during their Monday meeting in the court house in Oakland that they had recently appointed Robert E. Lee, from the Deep Creek Lake area, and Mrs. Michael Duda, from the Grantsville area, to the Garrett County Social Services Board.

In other county business this week Commissioners George Edwards, Don Bender and Wayne Hamilton met Tuesday with officials from the Environmental Protection Agency to review water and sewer projects in the county. On Wednesday the commissioners and staff attended the Maryland Association of Counties meeting in Baltimore to review proposed legislative programs of interest to the county.

With Our Men In The Service

Navy Torpedoman's Mate Second Class Russell G. Mummert, whose wife Patty is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde C. Sanner of Star Route, Friendsville, recently visited Sicily, Spain and France. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Mummert, Route 5, Oakland.

He is a crewmember aboard the destroyer tender USS Puget Sound, homeported in Norfolk, Va., and currently deployed as a unit of the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean.

Operating from Naples, Italy, his tender has been supplying spare parts, food and fuel for other Sixth Fleet ships. Recently anchoring in Augusta Bay, Sicily, the Puget Sound simultaneously provided steam, electricity and repair facilities for six other ships that rested alongside of her. These ships had been steaming continuously for several months and the Puget Sound's services enabled them to shut down their engineering plants for thorough maintenance. Enroute back to Naples his ship made port visits in Palma, Spain and Toulon, France.

He joined the Navy in April 1966.

Road Widening, Resurfacing Plans Listed By D.O.T.

Base widening and resurfacing of several local state highways were the principal topics of discussion when Department of Transportation personnel met with local officials Monday at 2 p.m. in the Court House.

Presenting a five-year projection for roads work in the county was Harry R. Hughes, secretary of transportation for the state.

According to William Goldsborough, resident SHA engineer, top priority will be given to widening and resurfacing Route 560 from the King-Wildesen Road to Gorman; Route 495 from Rock Lodge Road to Maryland 135 and from Jennings to Bittinger; and Route 39 from Crellin to the West Virginia line.

Also in the five-year plan is the resurfacing of Route 135 from the top of Backbone Mountain, at the intersection of Routes 38 and 135, to Route 219 in Oakland. Eventually, the DOT also plans to widen and resurface Route 42 in its entirety, and to work on Route 46 from the top of Savage Mountain to Finzel.

Three Garrett County road projects are listed in the state's 1978-82 primary highway program, but all three will receive only planning and engineering funds over the next five years.

The primary highway projects are U. S. Route 219 relocated from Maryland Route 135 to .7 of a mile north of Cherry Glade Run, a distance of 2.33 miles and a total cost of $6,030,000; construction of Deep Creek Lake Bridge on U. S. Route 219 relocated at a total cost of $7,510,000; and U. S. Route 219 relocated from U. S. Route 48 to the Pennsylvania state line, covering 2½ miles and having an estimated cost of $12,970,000.

Mr. Hughes also said two signalization systems will be placed in the county in the future. Those are Route 135 at Browning's Foodland and Route 135 at Route 560 at Loch Lynn.

Officials at the meeting in Oakland included State Highway administrator Bernard Evans, district engineer John Bushby, Sen. Edward Mason, Del. DeCorsey Bolden; Frank Devers and Matthew Murray, of the SHA right-of-way department, and William Goldsborough, resident engineer for the SHA. Elected officials from various towns were also present, including C. C. Bender, Grantsville, and Elmer Upole, mayor of Mt. Lake Park. Approximately 25 were present, including the three county commissioners.

Secretary Hughes and other Department of Transportation officials also reviewed the state's primary and secondary highway program with legislators and officials during a meeting in the city of Cumberland Monday evening.

The secretary had little in the way of good news, emphasizing that highway revenues are being sharply outdistanced by inflation, with the result that the state plans few road building projects in the near future.

Mr. Hughes said that construction of the final National Freeway (Route 48) link from Cumberland to Hancock may be speeded up by as much as two years, but the earliest completion date would be 1984.

He also pointed out that the accelerated Freeway program is predicated on several factors. He noted the completion can be pushed only if there is no lengthy law suit from environmentalists; there are available federal matching funds, and the state's cost projections on the job prove reasonably accurate.

If all goes well, the Sideling Hill portion of the project could be shortened by one year and the remaining 17 miles into Cumberland could be done in perhaps two years less than originally scheduled. The section that includes Sideling Hill Mountain could be built at a total cost of $24,700,000.

Program Provides Help For Senior Citizen Needs

Geriatric evaluation services to provide help for older citizens, is one the county health department's newer programs, and makes available the services of a social worker and a public health nurse to work with the family physician in evaluation of problems and situations of the elderly caused by illness and disability, according to James Stanton, department administrator.

Through consultation and home visits, the Geriatric Evaluation Services (GES) team considers such factors as: Is the home reasonably comfortable and fire safe? Are there health or safety hazards? Is transportation available for medical and other essential needs? Is the person able to cook for himself and manage his personal care? Does he have enough funds to meet essential needs? Are there special health needs that need treatment or monitoring? Is it realistic for him to stay in present living arrangement or is foster home or nursing home placement indicated?

GES attempts to keep persons in their own homes by tapping community resources such as homemaker, home health, mental health, transportation and escort services, and an available relative or neighbor to help, Mr. Stanton said. Its role is to assess the problem, make recommendations, and to the extent desired or needed, assist the individual or his family in getting the needed services.

The program also provides Consultation and Information and Referral services. These have covered a broad scope including transportation, housing, home delivered meals, used clothing, burial resource, medical assistance, social security questions and problems, costs and procedures for nursing home admissions, funds for special medical needs and equipment, companions, and live-in help.

GES is located on the second floor of the Garrett County Medical Center. Hours are from 8:30 to 4:30 Monday through Friday. Contact persons are Fran Yoder and Kathryn Speicher.

Garrett County's population includes some 3,000 persons past sixty, many of whom are living happily and productively, Stanton pointed out. Many others, however, are struggling with problems of illness; poverty (a significant number of elderly have annual incomes of $2,000 - $3,000); and loss of family, friends and self-esteem. For these, especially, GES provides a vital service, he concluded.

4-H Achievement Night December 4

The Annual 4-H Achievement Night will be held this Saturday, December 4, at the Garrett Community College Auditorium.

The program will begin at 7 p.m., and all 4-H members and their families are encouraged to attend.

Each 4-H club is reminded to bring two dozen cookies.

D. Lester White Retires As Deputy Clerk Of The Circuit Court Effective January 1

D. Lester White, above right, accepts a retirement gift from Richard L. Davis, clerk of the Circuit Court, upon his retirement as deputy clerk effective January 1.

Mr. White was honored at a party November 24 given by court house employes in his honor. He is shown above accepting an engraved Bulova watch as a gift from his former staff members. He also received a certificate of commendation for his years of dedicated service from Governor Marvin Mandel. Mrs. Amelia Wolf baked and decorated the three-tiered cake, and Mrs. White was a special guest at the festivities.

Mr. White began his career at the Court House November 1, 1937 under the late A. G. Ross, and with the exception of four and one-half years with the U. S. Army from 1941-45, has worked there continuously. He has worked with Mr. Davis since he began in December 1938.

In the years since civil ceremonies were permitted, he has performed 3,791 marriages at the Court House, uniting couples from states all over the east coast and the mid-west. Civil ceremonies have been considered official since February 1964.

His other duties at the county seat included recording deeds and mortgages.

A graduate of Oakland High School, Mr. White attended Catherman's Business School in Cumberland prior to his employment at the Court House. He is a son of the late George A. and Emily G. White, Deer Park, and still makes his home near that town.

He and his wife, Thelma May (Steyer) White, are the proud grandparents of four girls, offspring of their two sons and one daughter. One other son is deceased.

Photography is going to be his chief hobby, which will coincide nicely with his plans to travel extensively. He has had some photographic experience in the Army and is looking forward to devoting more time to this art.

He and his wife are already planning a trip to Florida and possibly to California next year. Mr. White will also do some gardening, saying he likes to watch things grow.

No replacement for Mr. White has yet been named, according to the clerk's office.

4-H'ers Improve Records With Photography

CHICAGO—It's been said that one picture is worth a thousand words, and that statement certainly holds true when it comes to assembling a 4-H record book! Clear, sharp "before" and "after" photographs of 4-H projects can add more interest and impact to a record book than a comparable number of written pages.

Using their camera skills to visualize 4-H experiences and accomplishments is important to more than 127,000 young people in the national 4-H photography program sponsored by Eastman Kodak Company. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, rural and urban 4-H'ers from 9 to 19 participate in a variety of learn-by-doing photography activities.

A wide-angle view

But photography is more than a communications tool. It's a means of artistic expression and a medium for exploring the scientific world. And it gives 4-H'ers an opportunity to benefit the community by visually recording the progress of civic action projects.

To aid 4-H camera enthusiasts, Kodak has helped produce a series of members' manuals and leaders' guides for use in the program. From the basics of camera operation to developing and printing to movie-making, there are educational materials to interest the 4-H photographer at any level of proficiency.

4-H'ers may find that their interest in photography as a useful, enjoyable hobby leads to a lifetime career as a commercial photographer, photojournalist, graphics designer or visual communications instructor.

4-H'ers can earn awards

Kodak also offers incentives and recognition to program members through awards arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee. Foremost among these awards are the $1,000 college scholarships presented to six national winners in the program.

The six are selected from 50 state winners who receive expense-paid trips to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago. Up to four program members per county are eligible for medals of honor. All winners are chosen by the Extension Service on the basis of their record books.

For the second year, the company is sponsoring a National 4-H Photo Exhibition to be held Nov. 29-Dec. 4 during 4-H Congress. The 1975 show will focus on individual photos and picture series taken by 4-H'ers that record and interpret their 4-H activities and interests.

Additional information on the national 4-H photography program is available from county extension agents.

Kitzmiller V.F.D. Has Several Calls

Kitzmiller volunteer firemen have been called out four times in the last several days, responding to three mutual aid calls for Elk Garden's company.

On November 19, at 9:30 p.m., 12 Kitzmiller firemen went to Walnut Bottom, where a small barn belonging to Foster Tasker was engulfed in flames. The structure was a total loss, and Mr. Tasker also lost a cow and several bales of hay in the blaze. The family had been watching television and smelled smoke but some time had elapsed before they investigated the cause of the odor.

The next day, November 20, at 3:25 p.m. Kitzmiller stood by with eleven men for Elk Garden as that company battled a fire at the home of Paul VanMeter on Pisgah Road near Hartmansville, W. Va. The five-room frame home was a total loss. No cause has been determined for that blaze.

At 12:40 p.m. November 27, six men and two pieces of equipment from Kitzmiller responded to a mutual aid call for Elk Garden, this time to the home of Eugene McRobie at Oakmont where an overheated flue caused minor damage.

On November 30, at 2:35 p.m. Kitzmiller took four men and one piece of equipment to the intersection of Route 42 and Route 50 at the Allegheny Front where a 22-foot camper trailer had caught fire. The vehicle was a total loss, from a fire thought to have originated in the heating system. The camper was the property of Donald Moreland, Elk Garden. Elk Garden's company responded with one truck, while Deer Park stood by at their fire hall for Kitzmiller.

Rig, Bus Wrecks Occur Recently

A tractor-trailer and a Greyhound bus mishap were noted in the northern part of the county since last Thursday. Only one injury was reported.

Leo C. Rowan, Ridgeley, W. Va., was treated and released from the Garrett County Memorial Hospital when his rig went out of control about 2 a.m. Friday morning. Rowan was traveling east on the Freeway near Friendsville when several deer ran onto the roadway. To miss the herd, he went to the right, lost control, veered off the guard rail, went to the left across the median strip and struck some more guard rail there. He continued on across the westbound lane, hit another guard rail, went on and struck a fence against an embankment. The rig was operated by Stroehman Brothers Bakers. Rowan was taken to the hospital by the Northern Rescue Squad following the accident investigated by Tfc. Dale K. Williams.

A rig owned by Marshall McFarland, Circleville, Ohio, was parked by the operator, Jimmy D. Hardman, Laurelville, Ohio, on the Casselman Restaurant parking lot in Grantsville, Monday morning about 10:30. The parking brake apparently released and the tractor-trailer coasted across Dorsey Hotel road and struck the Casselman Restaurant building. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile charged Hardman with operating an unsafe vehicle.

The non-use of snow tires apparently caused a car to collide with a Greyhound bus on U.S. 40 near Pigs Ear road late last Wednesday afternoon. The bus was headed east on Rt. 40. Randy B. Jeffrey, Alexandria, Va., westbound lost control on the icy road and struck the left front of the bus. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland charged Jeffrey with driving during a snow emergency without snow tires or chains. Robert H. Jones of Thurmont was the operator of the bus.

Liller Praised

Kevin Liller, Oakland, who graduated from Southern High school in June, is one student Frostburg State College will depend on during the current basketball season there. He is one of three persons mentioned in an article in the daily newspapers yesterday, that the college will rely on for a successful season.

Liller is 6-2 freshman student at the college. Liller led his Southern High team to the state class B finals last year while setting a host of records from his forward position. Bobcat coach Kurt Wolfe, said he believed that Liller, with his fine shooting and ball handling skills, "has potential to develop into a strong college guard," and added that Kevin would see most of his action at that position this year. The other two persons mentioned were Terry Delaney, who played at Bishop Walsh high in Cumberland, and Gary Hauger, graduate of Fort Hill High, also Cumberland.

The inauguration guest list has hit 400,000.

IT'S HIS FIRST BUCK, as anyone can see by looking at Glen Roy [Butch] Sanders' face. Glen, 13, was hunting on his family's farm off Sunnyside Road early Saturday when he bagged this 11-point, 111-pound specimen. The animal's unusual rack also included two extra points growing from the base of the horn on the left, and had several broken points from previous battles in the woods. The animal was shot with a 30-30 recently purchased by the young marksman. Butch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanders, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Rinehart, Sunnyside, and Mr. and Mrs. Russell Sanders, Freeport.

A good construction crew might be able to build a refrigerator "at the job site," if they had the tools and materials. But the average home buyer would rather have Sears do it.
More and more prospective home buyers are thinking along the same lines in regards to the entire house. Because, doesn't it make sense that a home—like a refrigerator or a TV set—can be constructed best (and most economically) indoors, under controlled manufacturing conditions, and then shipped to the building site?
We think so. We're Poloron Homes of Pennsylvania, and you can inspect one of our homes at the address below. The builder there will be happy to show you around.

Southern Band Earns Trophy

The Southern Highlander marching band of Oakland was the first organization to gain permanent possession of the William E. Jenkins Memorial trophy bowl at the conclusion of the Christmas parade sponsored in Frostburg by the Jaycees and Frostburg merchants.

The award was instituted in 1967 by Mrs. William E. Jenkins in honor of her late husband and is awarded annually to the most outstanding unit in the parade.

When a unit is judged the most outstanding entry three times, not necessarily consecutively, the unit gains permanent possession.

This year Southern Highlanders and the Tam O'Shanters of Somerset, Pa., were competing for the trophy, each having received the honor twice previously.

In the marching bands category of the parade the Highlanders received $150 first prize and Smithsburg High $75 as second prize. In the drum and bugle competition the Tam O'Shanters received first place and $125; Twirling groups, Lepley Showstoppers, first and $50.

In the fire company category Grantsville received $50 for entering the best equipment.

4-H'ers Take Shortcuts To Easier Machine Sewing

CHICAGO—Home sewing can be done more quickly and easily if some guidelines are followed.

Choose a pattern that has few details and a small number of pattern pieces, advises Marlene Odle, Texas Extension Service clothing specialist. Organize sewing and pressing equipment in one area, keep equipment in good working condition and do as much machine stitching as possible.

Shortcuts like these plus new step-by-step instruction books make sewing simpler for 4-H'ers and their leaders in the national 4-H sewing machine program. The program is in its 21st year of sponsorship by The Singer Company.

Sewing aids introduced

The new instructional literature, which includes two illustrated member manuals and a leader's guide, was developed jointly by Singer, the Cooperative Extension Service and the National 4-H Service Committee.

The first of the new 4-H member manuals, "Know the Sewing Machine," teaches the beginning sewer how to thread and operate the machine safely and efficiently and how to stitch basic seams. After completing the 48-page unit, a 4-H'er should be able to make simple clothing, accessories and craft items.

"Master the Sewing Machine," the second, more advanced member manual, covers regulation and care of the machine, and zig-zag stitching. A 4-H leader's guide accompanies the two member units.

Time and energy saving shortcuts make home sewing easier and more fun for 4-H'ers 9-19 and their leaders in the national 4-H sewing machine program. The special training course with related literature is sponsored by The Singer Company through the National 4-H Service Committee. Learn-by-doing sessions are supervised by Cooperative Extension Service professionals.

Everyone can sew

The national 4-H sewing machine program is designed to give 4-H'ers from 9 to 19 practical experience in sewing machine use and care. At the same time it offers program leaders—adult volunteers, juniors and teens—a chance to improve their teaching skills.

Under the supervision of Extension Service professionals, 4-H'ers learn that operating a sewing machine can be easy and fun. There's excitement in creating something unique, whether it's a decoratively stitched vest, new bedroom curtains or puppets for a 4-H play. And there's a sense of accomplishment in following a sewing project through to completion, from selection of pattern and fabric to cutting and stitching to applying the finishing touches.

Additional information on this and other 4-H programs is available from county extension agents.

Garrett County
Teachers Association

One of America's greatest homespun institutions is the fair: there are county fairs, state fairs, and even a world's fair. Another kind of fair is scheduled to begin in Garrett County immediately — even as you read this, the fair is already underway, perhaps in your own home.

You probably don't recognize it as most fairs go. There is no Ferris wheel, no pie-baking contest, and no livestock show. It doesn't cost a cent, and you need not worry about traveling great distances over snowy roads, or even battling the frigid temperatures for any extensive period of time. You can participate in this fair as easily as stopping at the bank or visiting a library.

This is a Book Fair which in no way resembles that celebration of country living. It is a celebration, albeit of a more conservative nature, but nevertheless an occasion to celebrate the opening year of one of Garrett County's new schools. The opening of Southern Middle School was an exciting event for both students and teachers, but a major need within this school became apparent almost immediately.

Southern Middle School's media center, heretofore known as a "library," is the center of all academic activity. It is a small warehouse of audio-visual materials of every description and dimension: televisions, tape recorders, record players, film projectors, but – alas! – very few books.

The Media Specialist, Ms. Linda Garris, and her aide, Ms. Barbara Thomas, have been steadily working at cataloging and shelving, all available books. Unfortunately, there are no more books to be stamped and filed on the many rows of shelves, resulting in a rather ill-stocked library awaiting the students. Opening a new school requires meeting several expenses, but stocking a library is not usually a top-priority item.

The Book Fair seeks to relieve this situation. Sponsored by the Southern Middle School Chapter of PTA, the Book Fairs depends solely on public donation of books and other reading material to provide a greater selection of student reading resources.

By searching your attic, basement, or other storage areas, you may discover magazines or books that have been put aside and forgotten. Perhaps you have such materials of which you've been hesitant in disposing. The Book Fair can provide a convenient and useful outlet for books or magazines that might otherwise be thrown away. By recycling these reading materials, you would be providing a valuable service to those students who use the media center.

Any usable reading material, paperbacks included, is acceptable. All donations are to be deposited at one of four locations: Ruth Enlow Library, First National Bank, Garrett National Bank, or Gregg's Pharmacy.

There is no special packaging necessary; all donations are welcome from now until the week of Christmas.

All donated materials will be carefully screened and selected for general usage by grades six through eight by Ms. Garris and members of PTA. Students will be able to check out these materials according to an exclusive system. With the assistance of PTA members, most books and magazines should be available for use by the end of January.

The Book Fair is a unique method of supplying reading resources to students. It may not be as exciting as a log rolling contest or demolition derby, but the prospect of better education is always very exciting!

Two Films Will Be Shown At Library

Two movies will be shown to children on Saturday, December 4, at the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland in honor of the coming Christmas season.

The films, which will begin at 1 p.m., will be "What Is Christmas" and "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer." There is no admission charge for the films, according to Miss Edith Brock, librarian.

New Director In Elkins Hospital

Robert Browning, personnel director of Foodland store in Elkins, is a newly elected member of the board of directors of the Memorial General hospital association in that city.

A native of Oakland, he is a graduate of Gettysburg college, Gettysburg, Pa., where he received his B.A. degree in history in 1969. He received his M.A. degree from Temple university in Philadelphia, Pa., in 1971. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald M. Browning, North Fourth street.

Browning is a member of the U.S. army reserve with the rank of captain. He has been personnel director of the Browning Foodland in Elkins since it opened in February, 1973. He is married to the former Marianne Kitzmiller, Romney, who is a graduate of West Virginia university with a B.S. degree in animal science. They are parents of two children, Harry and Patrick. They reside at Wymer. Browning is currently coaching the "Pee Wee" wrestling team for boys between ages of 7 and 15 at the Elkins YMCA.

PART OF THE MAGIC for Christmas is a chance to sit on Santa's lap to tell him what a child's heart desires. Miss Becky Roy, 6, of Bradley Manor, had an opportunity to talk to Santa in person following Friday's Christmas parade in Oakland.

Snow, More Snow Is Main Weather Topic This Week

Snow and more snow has been and still is the main weather topic for the week. Another storm started last night. Temperatures have continued to be below normal. November was one of the snowiest on record.

Snow started Sunday night as rain and sleet but piled up three inches before it tapered off. The storm of last Thursday had left two inches. Another inch fell by this morning and it was continuing to snow harder at press time.

State Highway and County Roads crews started out shortly after midnight Monday morning and continued in force until Tuesday afternoon. The snow-emergency was in effect during the time. Crews were out again early this morning plowing and spreading abrasives. No particular difficulties were encountered, other than slick roads.

There were some clear skies Thanksgiving Day. Friday and Saturday, skies were variably cloudy. Sunday was heavily overcast before the rain started late at night. Flurries and cloudy skies prevailed Monday and Tuesday. Yesterday was mostly clear until afternoon when clouds began to gather.

Temperatures have still been below normal but not so much so as normals themselves are dropping. Highs averaged 42.9 degrees or 2.5 below normal. The highest was last Saturday's mild 62 degrees. Tuesday, on the contrary, was cold with a high of only 14 degrees. Lows averaged 20.6 degrees or 3.8 below normal. The low was yesterday's one degree above zero. It was 4 degrees Tuesday morning. Saturday was the only day that the mercury did not go below freezing.

November Cold, Snowy

November was a cold and snowy month. Temperatures averaged 32 degrees or 7.5 below normal. Snowfall totaled 24.2 inches or 17 inches above the normal 7.2 inches. Paradoxically the months precipitation fell 1.41 inches below normal. This is because all but a half inch of precipitation fell as snow. The 30th was the coldest day, at 4 above.

Daytime high temperatures averaged 41.8 degrees of 8.8 degrees below normal. The mildest day was the 27th with 62 degrees. On five days the mercury remained at freezing or below. On the 30th the mercury went no higher than 14 degrees. Lows averaged 22.2 degrees or 6.3 below normal. The coldest was the 30th with 4 degrees followed by the 24th with 6 degrees. The record low for November was minus 16 degrees set in 1930. Temperatures fell to freezing or below on all but five days last month.

Precipitation for November totaled 1.73 inches or 1.41 inches below normal. The heaviest fall was on the 8th when .32 inch fell as 10 inches of snow. Only on four of the 16 days of precipitation did it fall as rain, the other days precipitation was as snow. The heaviest snowfalls, other than the 10 inches on the 8th, were 6 inches on the 12th and 4 inches on the 22nd. Last month's total snowfall for November is topped only by a 31.5-inch fall in 1950.

Fresh to brisk winds were blowing on the 10, 19, 22, 29, and 30.

Taking into consideration winds and low temperatures, the 30th was the coldest day of the month.

A New Committee: A New Warning

A new organization has appeared on the American scene whose aim is to sound a new alarm on the Soviet threat to the United States.

Called the Committee on the Present Danger, it consists of former high-level government officials who ought to know what they are talking about: Paul Nitze, former Deputy Secretary of Defense; Dean Rusk, former Secretary of State; David Packard, Deputy Secretary of Defense from 1969 to 1971; Henry Fowler, Treasury Secretary in the Johnson and Kennedy administrations; Eugene Rostow, a former Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs, and others. They will challenge President-elect Carter or anybody else who tries to cut the U.S. defense budget next year.

Mr. Nitze said the objective of the Committee is to achieve "a clear understanding by the populace of what's going on" in the world as a result of Soviet expansionism. The Committee also called for stronger U.S. world leadership and a strengthening of armed forces to meet an increasing danger from "the Soviet drive for dominance based upon an unparalleled military build-up." It warned also that the threats which the United States now faces "are more subtle and indirect than was once the case. As a result, awareness of danger has diminished" in the non-communist world.

We welcome the Committee on the Present Danger. It will add the weight of its voice to those of many other concerned groups and individuals who have not been fooled by detente into thinking that the acute danger to U.S. national security has in any way diminished.

On the contrary, the threat to this country grows almost by the hour, and that hour is now desperately late. —U.S. Press Association.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of our son, Joseph Ray Shahan, who left us to go to Heaven four years ago, December 4.

Little Angels

When God calls little children, to dwell with him above,
We mortals sometimes question
the wisdom of his love.
For no heartache compares with the death of one small child
Who does so much to make our world seem wonderful and mild.
Perhaps God tires of calling the aged to his fold,
So He picks a rosebud
before it can grow old.
God knows how much we need them,
and so he takes but few.
To make the land of Heaven
more beautiful to view.
Believing this is difficult still somehow we must try, the saddest word mankind knows
will always be "Good-bye."
So when a little child departs, we who are left behind
must realize God loves children.
Angels are hard to find.
But we know we had one once.

Very much missed by Mommie, Dad, Brothers and Sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shahan

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Hume O. Livengood who passed away December 3, 1975.

He is away, yet ever near,
His presence fills each day;
His voice, his smile are everywhere —
A memory away;
And though he is no longer seen
By family and friends,
He lives because he was dearly loved,
And love can never end!

To Show Color Film At Springs

A new full length color film from World Wide Pictures, "Corrie: Behind the Scenes with the Hiding Place," will be shown at Springs Mennonite church, Springs, Pa., on Sunday, December 5, beginning at 7:30. Filmed in Holland, the film is based on experiences of a girl who provided refuge for Jewish families during World War II.

Rev. John H. Kraybill, pastor of the Springs church, said the film was open to the public free of charge.

Ten Are Killed On State Roads

Ten persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police.

One of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officer could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Proper brake adjustment is important on slippery roads, said Lt. Morgan. Uneven braking can aggravate, or even cause, skids. Winter driving is safer if you get the feel of the road surface. It can turn slippery without warning, so test brake and accelerator response occasionally as you drive.

With regard to braking habits, the Lieutenant said he would like to point to the difference in the front-wheel-drive vehicle which is so popular in winter driving. Drivers have been instructed to let up on the gas and steer in the direction of the skid. This works fine with conventional cars, but makes a front-wheel-drive vehicle spin-out. When they start a rear-end skid, the best technique is to step on the gas. The front wheels will then pull the car straight.

Persons killed through November 28 totaled 598 compared to 631 for the same period last year.

What was he really like? We know him as the General of the Army! We revere him as our first President! We honor him as Father of his Country! But let's look on him as just an outstanding man.

And what would he think of us, now that the country he founded is celebrating its two hundredth birthday?

The changes, when you pit them against the vast span of history have been monumental. Would he, could he, join today's club? Or would he merely scowl in disapproval, and turn away?

It would be interesting to find out, fascinating to have known George Washington. And, had we lived when he did, there would have been one place where we surely would have met him.

In church.

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

HOW SHALL THIS BE?

Lesson for December 5, 1976

Background Scripture: Mark 1:1-3, Luke 1:1-38.
Devotional Reading: Luke 1:11-17.

When people of Palestine heard that a great prophet, perhaps even the Messiah, had come out of Nazareth, they were incredulous: "Can anything good come out of Nazareth?" (John 1:46).

Rev. Althouse

It was a fair question and one could hardly blame them for their skepticism. Nazareth was an unimportant Galilean hilltown and it did not have the best of reputations. No one could remember that anything special had ever happened there, nor could they recall that prophesy had ever predicted that something important would happen there either. No wonder they wanted to know: "How can this be?"

The favored one

Elias, a Palestinian Christian who has frequently served as my excellent guide in the Holy Land, has often expressed to me the opinion that, even though Jesus grew up there, Nazareth seems no more likely a home for our Lord today than it did in the days of his youth. I would have to agree that, apart from its religious significance, it is one of the least hospitable shrines I have ever visited.

This was at least one of the things that must have troubled Mary when she was visited by an angel and informed: "Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son. He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High" (Luke 1:30-32).

That had a wonderful sound to it, but she could hardly believe what she was hearing. Who ever heard of an angel of the Lord appearing in Nazareth? And to a woman of modest birth and means? But most amazing of all, how could this happen to a woman who didn't even have a husband?

No impossibilities with God

The visitor did not rebuke her question, but instead gave her an answer: "The Holy Spirit will come upon you and the power of the Most High will overshadow you; therefore the child to be born will be called Holy, the Son of God" (1:35). Her question, "How shall this be?" deserved an answer and the answer was that these seemingly impossible things would come to pass because of the power of the Holy Spirit in her.

The key to all of these questions is to be found in the angel's parting words to Mary: "For with God nothing will be impossible" (1:37). Nazareth may seem a most unlikely spot for the home of the Messiah, but God's power can overcome that difficulty. Mary may seem too lowly a vessel for the birth of the Son of God, but the power of God will magnify that vessel!

So it may be in our own lives when, having cried out in wonder, "How shall this be?" — how can a person such as I know the love of God in my life? How can my son be healed? How can my marriage be saved? How can I find a meaningful life? How can God's promises possibly be fulfilled? — we must listen once again with Mary and hear God's messenger say to us: "For with God nothing will be impossible"!

Effective December 1, al fire calls or emergency calls in the Bloomington Volunteer fire company area will be handled by the Civil Defense Emergency Communication Center, Constitution Park, Cumberland.

Anyone needing assistance is to telephone 777-7111 and give their name and telephone number as well as the location where help is needed.

They should ask for the Bloomington Fire Company or Company 36. Beginning December 6, the fire siren will be sounded in Bloomington every Monday evening by CD personnel to test the equipment.

Reduced Highway Building After Feb. 77, Obvious

Secretary Harry R. Hughes has announced the transportation program he will propose for fiscal years 1978 through 1982. In summary, Secretary Hughes stated, "Our allocation of state funds, through 1982, for both our operating and capital programs, totals $1.6 billion. This is a transportation program that lives within our income. To assure some degree of solvency for the department beyond 1982, it is a program that, with a few exceptions, includes no new primary or secondary highway projects, and no new major transit, port or aviation projects. Projects now underway will be completed."

Secretary Hughes outlined his program in anticipation of the annual twenty-three county tour he began November 23. Meetings will be held with local officials in each of the counties, concluding in January. Comments from the meetings will be considered in the final program presented to the 1977 General Assembly. He was in Garrett County on Monday.

"For several years, I have described how the combination of leveling highway user revenues and inflation have greatly reduced our ability to finance transportation projects," Secretary Hughes said. "Last year, I told the General Assembly and the people of Maryland that without additional funds we would have to curtail our capital construction program.

The year has passed and that situation has not changed. We cannot reduce basic maintenance and operating expenses any more without harming our existing transportation system. Consequently, we are shifting our emphasis from costly new construction to low-capital improvements. This shift is based on the promise that, with limited funds available, safety and preservation of our existing transportation system must take top priority."

Secretary Hughes stated that the exceptions would be those projects, esecially in highways, which earn special federal aid, such as interstate highways, Appalachian highways, and high-speed rail grade crossing eliminations.

Public Hearing Set Dec. 17th

A public hearing on an application for a National Pollutant Discharge Eliminination System and State Discharge permit will be held by the Water Resources Administration on December 17 at 9 a.m. in the Garrett County Courthouse, Grand Jury Room, Oakland.

Southern Car Wash has applied for a permit to discharge controlled wastewaters described as automobile washwater to an unnamed tributary to the Little Youghiogheny River.

The application, effluent limitations and any pertinent information is on file in the Water Quality Permits Section, Water Resources Administration, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis.

GETS FIRST BUCK AT AGE TEN — Kenneth Whitacre, Swallow Falls, ten year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Whitacre, got his first buck the first day of deer season, last Saturday morning. He got his rifle last year but this was his first opportunity to use it for deer hunting.

He went out Saturday morning with his father, and also Joe Whitacre and Mark Proulx, also of Swallow Falls. It was a seven-point buck weighing 108 pounds and it was shot in the Mt. Nebo vicinity. He was born in 1966 and observed his tenth birthday on November 13.

Nursing Home Law Protects Elder Residents

"Persons confined in nursing homes are entitled to dignified care and are protected in this matter by Maryland Law." With that declaration, Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging, says he hopes to educate the public about rights they may not know exist for nursing home patients.

The "Nursing Home Patient's Bill of Rights" became effective in Maryland on January 1, 1976. It is designed to promote the interests and well being of patients or residents of licensed nursing facilities by requiring that certain procedures be followed in dealing with their personal needs.

The State Director on Aging reports that most nursing homes in the state are adhering to the new law, but there are grievances which arise. Some of the more common issues revolve around a facility's handling of a patient's personal funds, food service and the advance notification period required prior to relocation of a patient. Other areas of concern include some physicians' failures to discuss the medical condition of a nursing home resident with the patient or his family and the fear of, reprisal if a patient does file a complaint.

To meet those challenges, the Office on Aging has a Nursing Home Advocate, in Baltimore, Mrs. Dorothy Doyle. She gives personal attention to all complaints referred to the Office and strives to reach a solution based on the Maryland Patient's Bill of Rights.

A small group of interested citizens and the coaching staff of Northern High School held a meeting at Hill Top Restaurant on November 23, to determine the feasibility of establishing a boosters' club for Northern.

Several topics were covered, including the purchase of a universal weight machine and the establishment of a Garrett County Hall of Fame.

The next meeting will be held at the Northern High School cafetorium on December 15 at 7:30 p.m. All interested persons are invited.

Know Your Country

BICENTENNIAL FEATURE

Oklahoma

Capital, Oklahoma City; governor, David Boren, Democrat; flower, mistletoe; bird, scissortailed flycatcher; tree, redbud; song, "Oklahoma;" entered union November 16, 1907; motto, "Labor Conquers All Things;" nickname, Sooner State; largest city, Oklahoma City.

Most of state a rolling plain, sloping south and east with a mean altitude of 1,300 feet. There are four mountainous areas, the Ozark plateau, the Ouachitas, the Arbuckles and the Wichitas.

State's nickname came from the fact that some people had settled there sooner than they should have, before land was officially opened to white settlers. Before that time the land had belonged to Indians. The name Oklahoma is combination of two Choctaw Indian words, Okla, meaning people, and homa, meaning red. The five civilized tribes, Cherokee, Choctaw, Creek, Chickasaw and Seminole recovered their Oklahoma lands from the federal government in 1820's "as long as grass shall grow and rivers run" in return for eastern lands.

Oklahoma is a major fuel and food producing state in the Southwest; thousands of oil and natural gas wells dot landscape. It is the only state capital with oil pumps operating on front lawn. State's output of petroleum was valued at $1.3 billion for 1974.

Oil, wheat and cattle are basic ingredients of state's economy. The rich plains produced the nation's second largest winter wheat crop in 1974, as well as large crops of sorghum, other grains and peanuts.

The $1.2 billion Arkansas river navigation system involving shipping, flood control and power dams, was completed to Catoosa, near Tulsa in 1971. It made Catoosa a "seaport," with barge shipping to the Mississippi and beyond. Will Rogers, famous Oklahoma cowboy humorist, once said, "There ought to be a law against anybody going to Europe until they have seen the things we have in this country." He may have been thinking of some of the scenic spots in his home state. Its attractions include beautiful natural settings, Indian villages and striking modern buildings. There is a natural bridge in Alabaster caverns State Park.

The Will Rogers Memorial at Claremore, has collections of the great humorist's saddles and ropes as well as trophies. His tomb is there also.

Largest religious groups are Baptists and Episcopalians. Tulsa is state's second largest city. Lawton serves Fort Sill, a neighboring military center. Indians make up some 3 percent of the population. There are 77 counties. During 1900s the farms and ranches of Oklahoma were fertile and productive. In the 1930s a long dry period and low farm prices brought disaster to farmers. Many farmers and other workers left state and population dropped. Story of state's farmers and cattlemen in territorial days is told in musical play, Oklahoma. The title song from the play became state song. John Steinbeck's famous novel, "The Grapes of Wrath," included a fictional but widely accepted description of the drought in 1930s.

Oklahoma is a manufacturing state. Oklahoma City is one of the largest U.S. cities, covers 649 square miles. Famous Oklahomans include Will Rogers, General Patrick J. Hurley, Jim Thorpe, Maria Tallchief, Kay Stark, Mickey Mantle, Allie Reynolds and Johnny Birch.

Oregon is the next state in this series.

LARGE DOUBLE STAR

Imagine two stars at least 55 times as massive as the sun, one of which is at least 50 times the diameter of the sun. Stars like these are orbiting each other in the constellation of Monoceros once each 14 days at a rate of 200 kilometers (124 miles) per second. This information was determined in a study by Drs. Hutchings and Cowley of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory.

Monday at 1:15 p.m. the moon passes through its Full Moon phase. This week moonset varies between 2:36 p.m. this afternoon and 6:54 p.m. next Wednesday.

Tomorrow at 1:00 p.m. the moon will be 405,930 kilometers (252,290 miles) from the earth. This is the greatest separation of the earth and its satellite during the month.

Visible planets are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. Venus is the bright object in the west sky visible for three hours after sunset. Jupiter is among the stars of Taurus visible most of the night. Saturn is among the stars of Cancer rising late in the evening.

Daylight shortens by six minutes during the week. Sunrise was at 7:20 a.m. this morning. Sunset follows nine hours thirty-five minutes later. Wednesday sunrise precedes sunset by nine hours twenty-nine minutes. Sunset is at 4:54 p.m. on Wednesday.

Western Maryland Crime Trend Up, State Trend Down

The Western Maryland region crime index trends for the first nine months this year show an overall increase of 10 percent in comparison to the same period last year.

Reported serious crimes in Maryland as a whole continued their downward trend, according to figures just released by the State Police Criminal Justice Information System.

Statistics are based on information submitted by law enforcement agencies of Allegany, Garrett, Carroll, Frederick and Washington counties to the Maryland Uniform Crime Reporting Index.

Index offenses in the Western Maryland region for the first nine months in 1976 and in the same period of last year are:

Murder, 11 and 9, a 22 percent increase; forcible rape, 12 and 38, a 45 percent decrease; robbery, 113 to 131, a 14 percent decrease; aggravated assault, 456 to 436, a five percent increase.

Breaking and enterings, 2,284 and 2,283, zero percent; larceny-theft, 5,596 and 4,731, an 18 percent increase; motor vehicle theft, 272 and 336, a decrease of 19 percent.

A total of all the crimes shows 8,753 committed this year in comparison to 7,964 last year, an increase of 10 percent.

The report showed that serious crime in Maryland decreased two percent for the first nine months of this year as compared to the same period last year.

An analysis of the Maryland report indicates that violent crimes decreased about 13 percent. Murder decreased 16 percent, forcible rape decreased two percent; robbery decreased 16 percent and the number of aggravated assaults decreased 11 percent. Property crimes decreased 74 percent.

The figures indicated that breaking and entering decreased six percent, motor vehicle thefts were down by 18 percent and larcenies increased four percent.

Transportation Funds Increase

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein this week announced that an analysis of revenues collected for the Maryland Department of Transportation during the first four months of Fiscal Year 1977 demonstrated a substantial growth over the amount collected during the same period of Fiscal Year 1976.

Part of the motor fuel tax which is distributed directly to the Department of Transportation has totaled $62,814,705 for the first four months of Fiscal Year 1977, a growth of $2,855,333 over the $59,959,272 distributed for the same four months of Fiscal Year 1976."

Comptroller Goldstein also cited revenues collected by and for the various segments of the Department of Transportation, including the portion of the state corporation income tax which is distributed directly to the Maryland Port Administration. "For the first four months of the current fiscal year, these revenues total $40,888,036 and reflect a growth of $6,112,052 over the $34,775,984 collected for the first four months of Fiscal Year 1976. Maryland's 9 cent per gallon gasoline tax rate is already as high or higher than every other state except Connecticut, Rhode Island, and the District of Columbia.

The Comptroller also noted that several other sources of revenue collected for purposes generally related to the Maryland Department of Transportation were running $668,735 ahead of last year's collections.

WVU Enrollment Shows Increase

West Virginia University's gain in enrollment this semester was more than twice the statewide increase in the face of an anticipated national decline.

WVU enrollment, including Potomac State College at Keyser, increased 4.8 percent to 21,969 compared to a 2.21 percent increase for all of the state's public colleges and universities.

Nationally, some experts are predicting that college enrollment may have declined about 1 percent for the first time since 1951.

Enrollment of WVU's Morgantown campuses and in courses offered for academic credit throughout the state totaled 20,964 compared to 20,007 during the First Semester last year — a 4.7 percent increase.

At Potomac State College, West Virginia's only two-year residential college that is administered by WVU, enrollment increased 6.5 percent from 943 to 1,005.

There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

14-year-old is bored with life

Q. I am only 14 and I'm bored with life. During the summer I was very depressed. There is nothing much to do except mope around the house. It seems all my friends have deserted me. I've had many good friends but they disappear. I have no ambition for life any more because I do nothing. Sure, I call people but do they call me back? No! Every time the phone rings it's for my brother. Can you help me?

A. Why don't you start by analyzing why all the phone calls are for your brother. What has he got that you haven't? If he gets phone calls and you don't, what is the reason? Use your head. Find out why. Then start changing yourself.

When a person makes friends and then they disappear, that is the time he should analyze himself ruthlessly to find the answer to the problem. It seems to me that if you would only get excited, life would be exciting.

Is it effective to teach Bible as literature?

Q. I would like your opinion as to what you think of the Bible being taught as literature? Do you think it can be effectively done? Does it create harm, considering it and studying it as just another book in the library, without teaching its spiritual aspects [which is prohibited by law]? Or does it help to at least acquaint more people with the Bible and, hopefully, get them interested in its spiritual message so they read it further on their own?

A. Many people have the mistaken notion that the Bible cannot be used in school. The Supreme Court has ruled not only that the Bible can be used in teaching about religion in the public schools, but it has urged that this be done.

You can always have confidence in the Bible. Its spiritual message has the power to capture attention and communicate itself for whatever purpose it is read.

Our Foundation for Christian Living has distributed free on request more than 4.5 million copies of One Nation Under God, a booklet describing the nation's religious roots, to public schools across the country. A copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy of One Nation Under God may write to: Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Problem among vacationing families

Q. For two years our family was invited with several other families to go on a three-day vacation at the beach. Last year and this year we were not invited, and we didn't understand why. Finally, one of the group told me that our son had been suspected of stealing money and cigarettes from one of the parents. During one of the vacations I had caught two of the other children smoking cigarettes they had taken from their relatives, and I have reason to believe my son is innocent. And he says he didn't steal. How do I treat these people the next time I see them? Should I bring everything out in the open? Or should I forget the issue?

A. You might write a nice friendly letter to each of the families involved. In the letter say you have made a thorough investigation and believe your son is innocent of any wrongdoing. If he were guilty you would discipline him and understand their feeling.

In your letter express appreciation for the pleasant relationship which existed. And then forget the whole matter, holding no ill will toward anyone. Treat the people normally.

Fearful since a boy drowned near her home

Q. Several months ago a teenage boy drowned about one-half mile from my home. My husband came home at 10 o'clock that night and told me and the children about it, and then he went and stayed the rest of the night trying to find the boy's body. I couldn't go to sleep that night and a dark gloom came over me. I realized I was afraid to die. For weeks I could think of nothing else. I cried all the time, and I lost weight. Then I started to have resentment toward God that he would want us to die. I don't want to feel this way. I want to feel normal again. Please help me.

A. Perhaps a few times during our lives we become dramatically aware of the fact of death. But this should not cause fear, because death is only a process in life, one by which we pass from a lower to a higher level.

We suggest that you read a remarkable book, Life After Life, by Dr. Raymond A. Moody, Jr. In our opinion it documents the truth that life, not death, follows life.

15-year-old lacks confidence

Q. I'm 15 years old and I lack confidence in me. I'm afraid to talk to people in case I might say or do the wrong thing, which will make them dislike me. People don't realize I'm shy and think I'm rude and unfriendly. Also, I wear glasses which make me feel inferior. In school, when a teacher asks me a question, and although I know the answer, I dare not say it in case it will be wrong and others will laugh at me. So what am I to do?

A. You are not the only one with an inferiority complex. There are thousands, in fact, millions, of them.

The only thing you can do is to get over it. And you might as well start now, for if you don't, it will plague you always. How can you overcome it?

Paint a mental picture of yourself as being strong and confident. Hold that image in mind until it takes over. Practice the "as if" principle. Act "as if" you are confident. Keep it up, for practice will make you a confident person. Try this the next time you are asked a question in class.

And ask God to help you. He will.

As to glasses, they are "in," and having them means that you are "with it."

Neighbors are unkind

Q. We have neighbors across the street who don't want to be friends with our family, and they make every effort to turn others against us too. We have always lived far away from out relatives and it helped when we could be friends with our neighbors. But no matter what we do, it just doesn't happen where we live now. I've tried to conceal my hurt when neighbors' jokes are directed at us and our way of life. We are made fun of for going to church on Sunday mornings. My husband and I are so lonely, and sometimes I just want to move away from this area. Do you have any suggestions?

A. There is a great skill for effectively handling such a situation as you describe. And it may be described in one word — geniality.

Instead of sensitively trying to cover up hurts, just act in a genial, friendly manner. Become a happy, outgoing personality. And in time people will be attracted and want you as a friend.

As the sun melts ice, so sincere geniality overcomes coolness among people.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Ben Thorn, vocational coordinator for Garrett County schools, administers a part of the comprehensive test to Ellen Wilt, a ninth grade student at Northern High School, Accident.

Guidance Man Counsels Students

Ben Thorn, vocational guidance counselor for the county Board of Education, is currently giving a counseling course to ninth graders to both Northern and Southern students. He has been at Northern for the past two months.

The course endeavors to enlighten students on the type of job they would be interested in. To accomplish this Mr. Thorn gives a test to determine where their interests lie, then allows them to experiment with equipment they would use on this type of job.

Some of the types of jobs he is able to give experience in are food services, general medical, woodworking, building trades, sewing, welding and machines. The equipment is set up on the stage of the cafetorium. Other job areas such as welding or drafting are found in other school areas.

Mr. Thorn looks at the students' test scores and their enjoyment of certain job areas and suggests school courses, colleges or vocational schools that might help a student get started in a career. He watches behavior and punctuality also to determine what a student is best qualified for.

Vocational counseling has been used with adults in rehabilitative agencies where it was found to be effective.

Ellen Wilt, shown in the accompanying photo, commented on the program. "I felt it was very educational in helping me find a career that interested me. In my case business careers was a good area and I found out a lot about it."

Feeding Program For Baby Beef To Be Discussed

Garrett County 4-H/FFA youth will have an opportunity to talk with Dr. William E. Kunkle, Beef Cattle Management and Nutrition Specialist from the Maryland Extension Service at the Garrett Community College Auditorium Wednesday, December 8, starting at 7:30 p.m. it was stated by Lawrence F. Little, Extension agent for 4-H and Youth. Dr. Kunkle will talk about the feeding and nutrition of 4-H & FFA Baby Beef project animals, according to Lee Shillingburg, President of the Garrett County Livestock Association.

Dr. Kunkle will discuss the digestion, absorption and metabolism of the basic nutrient components of carbohydrates, fats, proteins, minerals, water and vitamins.

The youth will be given an insight into nutrient requirements and how to figure out the correct balance of proteins, fats and vitamins and energy components of feedstuffs. Emphasis will be placed on assembling nutrients in the correct balance to promote maximum growth and prevent nutritional deficiencies. The discussion will also deal with how nutrient requirements can be met with different feeds.

In a similar manner, youth will learn how to use Nutrient Requirement Tables to determine if the ration presently being fed is nutritionally adequate. Using these tables, youth can also formulate a grain ration that will meet the nutrient requirements of their 4-H/FFA Baby Beef project animal.

If time permits the group will go through a simple ration formulation exercise to help them understand how to balance the feed mixture for crude protein and energy content.

The Beef Feeding meeting is open to all 4-H & FFA youth or adults.

These were two of the hundreds of children who flocked around his sleigh Friday evening following the parade in downtown Oakland marking the official opening of the Christmas season. Stores in Oakland will begin staying open until 9 p.m. nightly on Friday, December 10.

The Rams won the district 1, class B championship last season and advanced to the finals of the state tournament before losing to Gwynn Park 79 to 59. The Rams won 18 games and lost nine last season. Returning starters are 6-4 senior Ken Niner and 6-2 junior Steve Liller. The Rams' biggest loss was Kevin Liller, now playing at Frostburg State college after rewriting the Southern record book. Also departed is 6-3 Allan Lewis, who is playing at Garrett Community college, and 5-9 Bob Panther, playmaker. Niner was leading rebounder for the Rams with 325 for 12 per game and was second to Kevin Liller in scoring with 348 points for a 12.3 average. Steve Liller broke into the starting lineup as a sophomore and was fourth in scoring with 231 points for an 8.5 average and also grabbed 131 rebounds.

Three other seniors who saw limited action as reserves last season are battling for berths in the starting lineup this season. Steve Richie a 6-1 forward, Fred Griffith, 6-0 guard, and Mike Colaw.

"Meet The Squad" Night Set At SHS For Wrestling Team

There will be a "Meet the Squad Night" Friday, December 3, at 8 p.m. in the Southern High School cafeteria featuring the 1976-77 wrestling team and new coach, Mike Huddleston.

The highlight of the program will be an intra-squad match between Southern wrestlers to determine who will wrestle in the opening match against Northern.

Also on the program will be a demonstration conducted by a wrestling official on wrestling rules and how to keep score.

A takedown club involving members of the school and community will be explained by Coach Huddleston. He encourages everyone to turn out and get involved with the wrestling program. There will be no charge, according to the coach.

Returning lettermen for the Rams include John Hayhurst, Dave Browning, John Toston, Bob Wolfe, Perry Clark, Jim Clark, and Ken Stinson.

The roster is composed of Ted Wolfe, Bill Herring, and Rich Bishoff, 98 pound class; John Hayhurst, 105 pound; Bob Wolfe, captain, Fred Weeks, 112 pound; Stanley McRobie, Bill Brown, Reid King, Jim Barnes, Jeff Kennamin, 119 pounds; John Dave Browning, 126; John Toston, 132; Owen Ravenscroft, Gary Paugh, 138; Greg Skiles, Clarence Lyons, Jim Harvey, 145; Perry Clark, Chip Tasker, 155; Ken Stinson, captain, 167; Jim Clark, 185, and John Hershberger, unlimited.

The new wrestling coach, Mike Huddleston, received his B.S. in physical education at West Virginia Tech. and went on to coach at Spencer High School in West Virginia for a year. He then enrolled at Central Missouri State University where he earned a Master's degree in Safety. He is now wrestling coach and driver education teacher at Southern.

Coach Huddleston feels the biggest task facing the team will be to change the negative attitude towards wrestling in the school and the community. Wrestlers are said to be optimistic about the coming season and are certain they will better last year's 1-11 record.

The season will officially open December 6 at home at 1:30 in a match against Northern High School. Other matches include:

THE REPUBLICAN

VOLUME 100 | OAKLAND, GARRETT COUNTY, MD., THURSDAY, DECEMBER 9, 1976 | PER COPY 15c | NUMBER 41

The Real Issue - - - -

As we look ahead to a change in the presidency and a partially new Congress, all of us are urged to think carefully about the goals we want them to pursue over the next few months, and even years.

The political balance has changed drastically. No longer will there be a president who can be expected to act, through his veto power, to check the spending of an opposition party Congress. Nor, perhaps, will there be a Congress passing legislation for its political impact rather than for the real worth of the program.

The country has yet to digest and work out the vast government programs initiated in the Kennedy-Johnsons era, when we had Democrats on both ends of Pennsylvania avenue. The result today is that the tide of social welfare handouts, subsidies and boondoggles has risen to the point where an estimated 70 million taxpayers are supporting various government payouts to some 80 million individuals.

In spite of the change in political balance, the real issue of the latter half of the 20th century remains virtually unchanged — how much at what price are we willing to do for how many?

Along this line, according to an article from "Update", we would do well to consider the remarks of a spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers in a recent speech: "We must ask ourselves whether our political system has sown within it the seeds of its own destruction — whether in the name of compassion towards others, Big Government will manage to destroy the very system that makes compassion more than a hollow promise."

This, we feel, is a somber consideration all of us must come to grips with.

Youth Killed In Hunting Mishap Nr. Swallow Falls

A ten year old Swallow Falls youth was killed almost instantly in a hunting accident in that area last Friday afternoon, December 3, about 2:30 o'clock.

He was Kenneth R. Whitacre, son of Sheldon S. Whitacre and Nadean L. Lewis Whitacre, of route 5, Oakland.

Persons hunting with him said the boy was deer hunting with a group of men including his father and had been sitting on a log. When he stood up his weapon accidentally discharged, striking him in the back of the head.

The boy was a fifth grade student of Broad Ford Elementary school, Oakland, and attended Sunday School at Pine Grove Church of the Brethren, Swallow Falls.

He was brought to the Oakland hospital and the Southern Rescue squad was called. The boy apparently died while enroute to the hospital.

In addition to his parents, he is survived by a sister, Diane M. Whitacre, at home; maternal grandparents, Howard C. Lewis, Arlington, Va., and Mrs. Nora Durr, Aurora, W. Va.; and paternal grandparents, Joseph S. Whitacre and Evelyn J. Whitacre, Oakland.

The body was taken to the Stewart Funeral home in Oakland. Funeral services were conducted Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren with Rev. Donald Matthews officiating. Interment was in the Garrett County Memorial Gardens.

BROAD FORD SCHOOL GETS TWO WHEELCHAIRS — The Oakland Rotary Club and the Oakland-Mt. Lake Lions Club each presented funds for a wheelchair to Broad Ford Elementary School this fall, as part of the clubs' community projects. Cost of the wheelchairs was approximately $125 each, and these two pieces almost complete the equipment presently needed at the school for the handicapped children. Pictured above are Link Swinson, Amy Steyer, Wayne Lewis and John Chadderton, front row; and Pat Fischetti, president of the Rotary Club; Tom Kuhn, president of the Lions Club; and Wayne Johnson, principal of Broad Ford. The Harige unit of the Ali Ghan will soon be contributing funds to purchase straps for the wheelchairs and protective head helmets for the youngsters, who practice physical therapy each day in addition to their regular studies. Miss Rachel Garner is the teacher, assisted by Mrs. Vicki Plevyak, aide, and by Mrs. Charity Janssen and Mrs. Holly Doppel, with the county Health Department. Rev. John Grant is chairman of the Crippled Children's committee for the Rotary, while Dr. Porter Welch is head of the Lions Youth committee.

By-Pass Project For U.S. Rt. 219 Is Contemplated

Relocation of a section of U.S. route 219, the Oakland by-pass, is being contemplated by the State Department of Transportation, and an advertisement to that effect appears in today's issue of The Republican.

The project extends from Maryland 135 at the eastern edge of Oakland to existing U.S. route 219, seven tenths of a mile north of Cherry Glade run, a distance of approximately 2.3 miles.

The project is currently in the state primary highway improvement program for 1976-1980. However state officials said construction activity is projected beyond the program period because of time required to complete the project planning, design and right of way acquisition.

A meeting is scheduled as one of the initial steps in meeting federal and state requirements to progress the project in an expeditious manner to construction.

The meeting is set for Tuesday, January 11, at 7:30 o'clock in the cafetorium at Southern High school, Oakland.

At the meeting the project planning team will acquaint those attending with engineering, social, economic and environmental impacts of alternates that have been evaluated, including a "do nothing" alternate. The State Highway administration relocation assistance program will be explained.

Beginning December 9, maps, drawings, draft negative declaration and written views received to date will be available for inspection and copying during normal working hours at several locations: State Highway administration's district 6 office in LaVale; office of the resident maintenance engineer, South 8th street, Oakland; and the Ruth Enlow library, Second street, Oakland.

Interested persons are invited to inspect the items and present their views if desired. A brochure describing the alternatives will be mailed to all persons on the project mailing list and may be obtained by writing to Robert J. Hajzyk, director, Office of Planning and Preliminary Engineering, 300 West Preston street, Baltimore, no later than January 4.

Written statements and other exhibits in lieu of or in addition to oral presentation at the hearing will be received by the director until January 29, it was stated.

Town Decides To Keep Fluoride In Water Supply

It was decided at the meeting of the Oakland Town Council Monday night to continue the use of fluoride in the drinking water.

Fluoride has been added to the water at the Oakland Filter plant but not at the Broad Ford plant. The Garrett County Health Department indicated that some Fluoride would be better than none. It had been thought at one time to discontinue the use of fluoride in as much as it could not be added at both plants. Cost prohibits securing equipment to add fluoride to the water at the Broad Ford plant at this time. It was then decided to continue to add the chemical as it has been at the Oakland plant.

First National To Open New Branch Dec. 16

The eighth office of The First National Bank of Oakland, the Mid-Towns Office, is slated to open next Thursday, December 16, according to I. Lynn Beckman, Public Relations Officer. A week-long opening celebration is scheduled.

The new office, which is located along Weber Road, just off Route 135, east of Oakland, will feature expanded hours of service and the latest services and equipment. According to Mr. Beckman, the new office will operate from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to 12 noon on Saturday.

Initially, the new office will feature two lanes of drive-in window service, with a third lane possible as expansion is needed. One of the two initial lanes will be drawer-type drive-in service to accept bulky and heavy deposits. The other lane and the third one to be added will feature the modern Tel-Air system similiar to that operating presently at the Main Office.

It will also feature conventional lobby service inside. Provisions have been made for safe deposit box facilities, a night deposit vault, cash and securities vault, loan office, lounge and storage areas. Upon completion of the entire drive-way and lot paving, which is anticipated in the spring, customers will be able to enter the drive-in and exit into the main area of the Mid-Towns Plaza or exit back onto Weber Road.

The new office will feature every banking service including Installment Loans. Mortgage Loans will still be handled at the Main Office.

The bank is a custom-designed colonial brick structure and the decor attempts to capture the colonial theme throughout. The architect was Allen DePastino of Pittsburgh and the builder was William A. Shirer of Oakland. The LeFebure Corporation of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, furnished most of the equipment including the main vault door, night deposit vault and Tel-Air Drive-In window.

Deer Park, Local Firemen Battle Two House Fires

Oakland and Deer Park volunteer firemen spent a bitter cold night battling fires late Tuesday and early Wednesday.

Oakland's company received the first call, at 11:13 p.m., to the home of Mrs. Nola Rinehart, Rosedale. The house, occupied by Mrs. Gladys Stewart, sustained considerable damage to the kitchen and back porch.

The fire is thought to have started near the flue, and damage was estimated at $2,000. The home was of one-story, frame construction.

At 12:33, Deer Park firemen were called to the old Hotel grounds near Deer Park, where the third floor of a home owned by Mrs. Myrna Kahl was blazing. Mrs. Kahl and her son Chris live in the large, older home, once a convent for the Sisters of Perpetual Adoration, and were at home at the time of the fire.

Deer Park responded with 18 men and three pieces of equipment, and called Oakland to assist. Oakland brought a pumper and tank truck to the scene and helped fight the fire until 4 a.m.

The fire was contained to the third floor, although extensive water and smoke damage was done to the lower story. Mrs. Kahl said the last piece of carpet in their renovations of the old house had been laid just that day.

No conclusion has been reached by Robert Shimer, state fire marshal, as to the cause of the blaze. Oakland firefighter Morgan France sustained a twisted knee while fighting the fire.

A pumper and five men from the Kitzmiller VFD went to the Deer Park fire hall to stand by for that company, and five men from Kitzmiller waited in that town's fire hall on standby. Deep Creek VFD stood by for Oakland at the Oakland station.

Interested persons may leave toys or gifts at Browning Foodland, Western Auto Store or St. Peter's Catholic church or contact Ben Thorn, coordinator for the club.

He is a graduate of Maryland State Police Academy and has completed numerous job-related courses.

Mr. Browning is President of the Garrett County Board of Election Supervisors and a member of the Board of Directors, Maryland Association of Election Officials.

Southern Highlander Band To Represent State In Festival

The Southern Highlander Marching Band, under the direction of Richard D. Clever, will represent the state of Maryland at the 56th annual Festival of States at St. Petersburg, Fla. March 29 to April 3, 1977.

Permission for the trip has been granted by the Garrett County Board of Education.

While at the Festival, the band will present a public concert, compete in the Champions on Parade field competition, and appear in two parades, the Festival Night Parade and the Parade of States.

The Southern Highlander Band Boosters, Inc. unanimously pledged support of the project and committees have been appointed to begin working at once on fund-raising projects.

According to Mr. Clever, this is the biggest single honor ever accorded to the Highlanders, which now includes 96 players, eight majorettes, eight flag twirlers, a drum major and the color guard, making a total of 133 people scheduled for the trip.

Competition in the Festival of States is by invitation only, and is the biggest competition in the country geared specifically to band competition.

Until 1957, St. Petersburg's spring festival was produced by the local Chamber of Commerce, aided by a number of state tourist societies. In that year it was recommended that a festival organization be formed, and the Suncoasters, named after the Florida west coast, was incorporated.

The Festival Night parade is scheduled Tuesday evening and will feature about 25 major floats plus visiting music. Non-local bands participate, except for Largo High School. The route is one and one-half miles through downtown St. Petersburg and 100,000 persons are expected to watch this parade.

Champions on Parade was begun in 1968 for those who wish to compete in a field-type show. Bands are given five to seven minutes to perform, and are judged by nine high school level working band directors from other states. All bands are called back for a massed retreat ceremony, after which the awards will be presented for the evening's performances. The three top scoring bands will receive plaques.

Public concerts are scheduled by the Festival officer according to other activities. Concert competition is optional.

The Saturday climax is the Parade of States, when 350,000 persons turn out to watch the parade. A total of approximately 27 bands and 60 floats will participate. Only out-of-state bands will be judged for the Florida Governor's cup.

A dance for the visiting band students is held by the Festival on Thursday night, with music provided by a local rock group.

Icy Roads, Deer Cause Accidents

Icy roadways and a deer were the apparent causes of several persons being injured in accidents in scattered parts of the county the past week.

Monday, the passenger in a car was injured when the car slid on an icy road. The passenger, Ursula Bradlier, 16, was riding in a car driven by Edna E. Wheeler, both of Rt. 495, Grantsville. The Wheeler car was southbound on Rock Lodge road just south of Md. 495 about 6 p.m. The vehicle slid on the icy road, went off to the left, into a drainage ditch and overturned. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant made no charges.

A snow-covered road and driver error last Wednesday caused injury to the driver of one car in a two-car mishap on Mattingly Hill road near the Hoyes-Sang Run road. Kathryn L. Rinker, Mt. Storm, W. Va., was driving south on Md. 560. Charley F. Morris, the injured, was southbound on Gorman Street road and failed to yield the right-of-way to the Rinker car which could not stop due to the snow-covered road. Tfc. L. N. Smith charged Morris with failing to obey a stop sign.

Ice on the parking lot of Red Run Inn caused injury to the driver and passenger of a car when it slid on the ice about 2 A.M. November 30. Michael Zuckerman, Old Beall School road, Grantsville, and his passenger, Ireta D. Sweitzer, RD 5, Oakland, were in the car when it went out of control on the ice. The vehicle then struck a utility pole. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore investigated.

Last Friday the driver and his passenger were injured when their car struck a deer on U.S. 219 just south of the Mattingly Hill road. Charles E. Leckider, and his passenger, George F. Ross, both of New Carrollton, were traveling south on Rt. 219 when a deer ran onto the roadway. The car struck the animal and killed it. Tfc. Smith made no charges.

Richard R. Morgan was taken to the Frostburg Hospital by a private party following a mishap on the New Germany road sometime last Saturday. The vehicle apparently ran off the road and struck an embankment. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile obtained the information from Tfc. Lashley who had obtained it from the man previously in the hospital. Morgan of Baltimore, seemed confused as to the time and location of the accident.

The operator of a pickup was injured in a collision with a tractor-trailer on Md. 135 near Foodland, last Friday evening. Roger W. Paugh, Star Route, Accident, was driving his rig east on Rt. 135. Terry R. Sweitzer, RD 2, Deer Park, in the pickup, failed to keep to the right of the center of the road and struck the rig. Tfc. Smith charged Sweitzer with driving while intoxicated.

One Sentenced, One Acquitted By Judge Hamill

One man was sentenced on larceny and another was acquitted on a drug charge in Circuit Court last week by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr.

Wayne Ronald Casteel, Friendsville, was sentenced to five years to the Commissioner of Correction at a hearing last Tuesday. He had been found guilty of grand larceny by a jury November 3.

At the trial a motion of acquittal on a charge of auto larceny was granted. Also at the trial a presentence investigation was ordered on the grand larceny charge. The incident involved the taking of a van truck, removing some of the parts and then abandoning it. The sentence is to begin as of November 3. Casteel was delivered to the custody of the Sheriff's office awaiting transportation to Baltimore.

Steven Chester Dixon, RD 3, Oakland, pleaded not guilty of the manufacture of marijuana. The charge came from the alleged growing of marijuana near Corunna for the purpose of manufacture of the drug. A motion of acquittal was made and granted.

Youth Committed On Delinquent Charges

A 15-year-old male was committed on delinquent charges to the Custody of the Juvenile Services Administration at a hearing before Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., sitting as juvenile judge, yesterday.

The youth had been found to be a delinquent minor at a hearing November 10. At that time he was sentenced to the Maryland Children's Center for 21 days effective November 16. He was charged on five cases, with one or two counts each. The counts included unauthorized use of a motor vehicle, larceny of gasoline, two of breaking and entering, destruction of property and larceny of a dog.

The youth is to be sent to a juvenile home.

Faculty Forum

By Kristin Milne
Garrett County
Teachers Association

Mary has been having a difficult time in keeping up with the other students in her Math class. For nearly one month, she has watched her grade average drop lower than it's ever been before. She is a quiet person and doesn't like to draw attention to herself. She feels that her math teacher would never have time to give her the extra help she needs in order to catch up. The teacher sent a report home with Mary. Her parents arranged for tutoring in the evenings, and now her work is nearly up to the level of her peers.

Robert has never enjoyed reading; in fact, he can not recall ever having read a library book from cover to cover. He enjoys reading magazines but admits to looking at the pictures more than reading the accompanying articles. Lately, Robert has been a discipline problem in many of his classes. After struggling through several conferences, Robert was tested thoroughly and found to have a learning disability. Now he has been placed in a class which deals with his specific learning problem. His grades have improved along with his behavior: learning is no longer the frustrating experience it has been in the past.

Although greatly simplified, if one of these situations sounds familiar to you, then you have no doubt felt the need of someone who could offer some assistance in solving the problem.

"Everyone needs someone to talk to sometime. It often helps just to clear the air by getting a problem out in the open — just identifying the problem is often the biggest step to finding a solution," Wilda Massi explains offering this definition of her role as the guidance counselor in Southern Middle School.

Serving as a guidance counselor — or "resident" psychiatrist, if you will — can and often does call on the greatest inner reserves of compassion and responsibility. The position requires flexibility, yet accuracy, and a keen sense of perspective mixed with diplomacy. It is a difficult formula that few people ever possess or achieve but is vital in order to most competently serve the needs of others.

The needs of others are so diverse that they could not be entirely investigated in the space of one article or even one book. Ms. Massi believed that after twelve years' experience in recognizing these needs as a classroom teacher, her secondary but unofficial roles as an advisor was a talent worth developing. She now holds a master's degree from Frostburg State College (1973) in Guidance and Counseling. This year marks her debut as a counselor, and the transition has been a successful one.

There is no "average" workday in Ms. Massi's schedule. One day might find her sealed in her office, meeting with anxious parents over a set of test scores. Another day may require the admission and orientation of transper students. The remainder of the week could be dedicated to administering tests for every objective imaginable, and then deciphering the results.

Ms. Massi performs many duties personally and others through the assistance of a variety of available federal, state, and local agencies. There are situations which demand legal authority to govern the outcome but need a familiar opinion as well. Pupil Personnel, Social Services, Garrett County Health Department, and Youth Counseling Service are but a few of the contributing agencies which daily form an inter-disciplinary program in counseling.

Because of the many public assistance agencies designed to function independently, Ms. Massi has a greater degree of freedom in supplying many alternatives in a multi-dimensional approach to problem-solving. These alternatives are presented to help the individual evaluate his problem according to varying sets of values; instead of creating a solution, a list of feasible solutions can be presented, and the most appropriate one applied.

Another job performed by Ms Massi is that of public relations. For many parents, the only relationship with the school is through the guidance counselor who must act as the key representative of the faculty and policies within the school, entailing a working knowledge of both. Without this, a serious communication flaw could develop, hampering success in the delicate process of accountability.

Wilda Massi is new to the ranks of guidance counselors, but she is quite familiar in the area of education. After receiving a degree in English and German from Berea College in Kentucky, she taught from 1963-1968 in Meade County High School near Louisville.

A native of Thomas, West Virginia, Ms. Massi returned to this area in 1968 after her marriage. She began teaching at Southern High School and held a position in the English Department there until being appointed as guidance counselor in Southern Middle this fall. She and her husband, Tom, have one daughter, Maria, fifteen months old.

Ms. Massi is an active member in her church, St. Thomas Catholic Church, in Thomas, West Virginia. She is a member of the Parish Council, senior choir, teaches a high school religion class, plays the church organ during services, and is a leader in the Catholic Youth Organization chapter of St. Thomas.

Jersey 76. Flu is particularly hazardous to patients with asthma, chronic brochitis, emphysema and other lung diseases. Excess deaths in an influenza epidemic may be caused by bacterial pneumonia developing as a complication of influenza; but influenza itself can cause death. Even with the availability of antibiotic therapy for penumonia, fatalities from bacterial pneumonia continue to occur. If a large portion of Maryland's population were to be ill with influenza at the same time, there would be a severe strain on the health care system, and resources may be inadequate to care for all the ill.

"If you have a lung disorder, I urge you to consult your doctor or health department about immunization with the vivalent vaccine, which includes protection against the swine flu virus and the A/Victoria virus."

While no specific description is yet available about the population receiving the vaccine in Garrett County, the Garrett County Health Department also pointed out that with the Christmas Holidays fast approaching, the opportunities for contracting the flu are greatly increased because of possible contact through shopping and through visitors traveling around the country and the state. All persons, adults and children, are urged to take this opportunity to receive the vaccine.

There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Businessman has to start over

Q. I'm an insurance salesman. Recently I lost some of my best accounts from which I derived the major part of my income. So now I have to start all over again, and clients are hard to get. I've read many self-improvement books, including yours, but I just don't seem to be able to transform the good advice into hard cash When I'm reading I feel great but when I get out in the street to sell, things just don't happen as they should. I'm afraid I'm the kind of person who hits rock bottom and then stays there rather than springing back. How can I make the connection between the spiritual and the practical?

A. It could be that your problem is in the area of the self-image. Perhaps you are unconsciously seeing yourself as failing. It is possible to read self-help motivational literature and respond to it emotionally but at the same time to continue holding the image of non-success.

Our advice is to work with your basic concept of yourself. Affirm that as a child of God you have inherent ability and that such ability is now manifesting itself. Do this and presently, as you make contact with prospects, your confidence will come into play. Unconsciously, a failure thinker turns prospects off. But they respond to the person of normal confident attitude.

We have a booklet entitled Help Yourself With God's Help, a copy of which is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

How to get a broken relationship going again

Q. What could I do to bring back a friend who has gone away to chase another woman — without letting him know that he is welcome again? He sees his mistake now and is very shy in asking if he can come back. I'm not interested in what happened between him and the other woman. I just want to resume our relationship.

A. Forget it. Certainly you do not want a lifetime of on-again, off-again. This man will give you one re-run after another. You are lucky to have learned in time the true nature of your so-called friend. You would do well to make other contacts. Move in a new direction. And study why a man throws you over to "chase another woman." Correct whatever may be lacking in you if yourself-analysis turns up anything.

Has emotional times when she curses

Q. I can go months without uttering a single curse, but sometimes I just seem to overflow. I don't know why I do this. I was raised in a good home and I often pray about this problem. Do you have any help for me? Any answers?

A. There is a tendency, of course, for an emotional build-up to come to an explosive point. But cursing is not an intelligent outlet. In fact it is an exercise in futility.

A better way would be to go out and walk a fast two miles; hang a rug up on a line and beat the dust out of it; or ask your husband if you can blow off to him, and then just vent yourself without profanity.

Another way is to control yourself by shifting your thinking from the emotional problem which is seething within you to other thoughts of a peaceful nature. Turn on soothing music, read some poetry, open your Bible to the Psalms. Try to build peaceful and relaxing thoughts. Maybe singing or doing a crossword puzzle is your prescription.

In other words, build a peace center within. In this deep center of inner quiet heated emotional reactions are absorbed.

Afraid of storms

Q. Can you tell me how to overcome the fear of stormy weather? My fear and anxiety is just a sickness when a thunderstorm or tornado watch is announced. I can't seem to help myself. Maybe you will have a thought to help me.

A. A woman told us how she overcame the same fear. Taking all the wise precautions for the kind of storm announced, she decided to think of the storm as part of the natural phenomena of God's great world. For instance, if it was a noisy but not dangerous thunderstorm she would put on her coat and go out in a great open space to watch the storm. At first she was terrified, plagued by her old childhood fear.

But resolutely she stood up to the storm and after awhile saw it for what it was; mostly tumult and wind and rain. She realized it was simply an aspect of nature with no sinister qualities. She was released from her fear and ever afterward found a storm a fascinating part of nature.

Remember Emerson's wise advice: "Do the things you fear and the death of fear is certain."

Couple in their 60's having sex problems

Q. My husband and I are in our early 60's and have had problems all our married life. We married young and neither of us knew much about sex as that subject wasn't discussed openly then. He thinks the wife should give in to the husband when he wants sex. Whether she has a desire for it or not. He didn't even know she was supposed to enjoy it too. I bought a book about sex so he knows more about it now, but he hasn't changed much. He says he loves me. I find that hard to believe. I've been forced to give in so often it's turned me against sex. If I don't give in he sulks and makes my life miserable. I can't take much more. I can't relax or sleep at night. He sleeps like a baby. Am I to blame? I would like your advice.

A. Perhaps you should consult a family counseling service. Many communities have such an agency and the charge is usually based on ability to pay. If at first you can't get your husband interested, you can make the first step and go to such a counselor.

At your time in life you both should be drawing closer together. Granted that your husband could be more reasonable; maybe you should be less rigid. Somewhere between your attitude and his is a happy medium. Try to find it for the happiness of both of you.

14-year-old girl upset over boyfriend

Q. I have a boyfriend in the Army. He told me before he left that he loved me, but he don't act like it. He has another girl pregnant. He has never wrote to me. The other girls has heard from their boyfriends. He wanted to marry me, but I'm too young to marry. I want to finish school and college because I want to be something. I don't want to live a ragged life. I don't want to be a no-good woman. I'm 14; he's 18. Am I too young for him? What should I do?

A. He certainly does not act like he loves you. Indeed, it is quite obvious that he doesn't. You would be very smart to write him off, for this kind of boyfriend can never cause you anything but trouble and sadness and lots of regret.

Your desire to be a good woman is commendable and the way to start being that is to be a good girl. In God's own time He will bring you a good boy and you will have a good life. If you are smart, and I'm sure that you are, you will not settle for anything less.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Letter To The Editor

Robert H. Cain, St. Augustine, Fla., and summer resident of Deep Creek Lake, sent a protest to the Supervisor of Assessments on the big increase in the assessment on his lake property. The assessment was raised from $7,710 to $9,290, or 20 percent.

Portions of the letter are reprinted here:

"In 1974 the assessment was raised from $3,130 to $7,710. With this second assessment the total value of the property has been increased approximately 200 percent in two years, which I consider to be outrageous.

"If it is the aim of Garrett County to drive away absentee owners, good progress is being made in that direction. However, I would like to point out a few things: first, we do not represent an expense to the county, since we have no school-age children; we require a minimum in the way of other services and donate generously to local volunteer groups; we provide income to local merchants, business men, tradesmen and others through the money we bring with us and spend each summer, and through our personal work and income we keep the property in first class condition, thereby making it an asset to the county.

"Our property is still only suitable as a summer residence. The house is constructed of cinder block with stone veneer, there is no insulation, no basement , no closets, and no economical way of heating the house; the rooms are tiny, with no closets, hardly suitable for year-round or family living."

The man asked that his letter be accepted in lieu of a personal appearance since he would have to travel some 2,000 miles to attend a hearing.

CARD OF THANKS

Thanks to all friends and relatives who helped in any way during the illness and death of Albert Kahl. To those who sent flowers, food and cards, especially to the hospital staff, Dr. Johnson, Rev. Seaks, and the Stewart Funeral Home.

His wife,

Mr. Sweitzer's production centered around the first Thanksgiving with emphasis on the Pilgrim experience prior to coming to the new world.

Music was provided by Mrs. Lillian Reckner, music teacher at the school. Scenery was constructed by Ralph Miller, art teacher, Mrs. Marie Brenneman, aide, and Mr. Sweitzer.

Helping construct costumes were Mrs. Mary Jane Broadwater, Mrs. Helen Frantz, Mrs. Bonnie Speicher, Mrs. Marsha Swauger, Mrs. Beverly Murphy, Mrs. Penelope Balcom, Mrs. Carol Warnick, Mrs. Judy Platter, and Mrs. Diana Merrill. Flushing Shirt Factory donated material for the costumes.

Holiday Time Can Be Thirsty Time

Have you or any member of your family ever tried to sing all twelve verses of "The Twelve Days of Christmas?" Well, if you have, you know you find yourself not only out of breath but dry as dust also.

How about when you are baking away in your kitchen and can hear your husband having his annual trouble with the colored lights — the ones which are supposed to blink on and off but mostly just blink off? He'll be in in a minute looking for something to wet his whistle.

What do you answer when the kids come flying through the wreathed door from a carolling expedition — rasping, "Hey, Mom, what's to drink?"

Most of the time, you, your husband and children are satisfied with a glass of water or soda. But this is a special time of year. A festive and fun time. And these special holiday thirsts deserve something different. Nor is this any time to forget nutrition. Choose the drinks that contain Vitamin C.

Del Monte Kitchens' home economists have developed three exciting punch recipes to use when relatives and friends visit — or simply when the family takes a break from busy holiday preparations. Mulled Holiday Punch, Pineapple-Orange Nog and Honey Bunch Punch will bring smiles of satisfaction to everyone's face, including those unexpected guests who always seem to drop in just in time for a little snack.

So whether you just pour a tall glass of Pineapple-Pink Grapefruit, Pineapple-Orange or Pineapple-Grapefruit Juice Drink over ice or add them to your own favorite punch recipes, you can solve the holiday thirst dilemma deliciously, nutritiously and economically.

Mulled Holiday Punch

1 can (46 oz.) Pineapple-Pink Grapefruit juice drink, 4 cups cranberry-juice cocktail, 1 cup water, ½ cup firmly packed brown sugar, 1/8 tsp. salt, 2 tsp. whole cloves, 2 cinnamon sticks, broken in pieces.

Combine juices, water, brown sugar and salt in large saucepan. Place cloves and cinnamon pieces in cheesecloth and tie. Heat to boiling and simmer 15-20 min.

14 servings (approx. 6 oz. each)

Pineapple-Orange Nog

3 cups Pineapple Orange Juice Drink, chilled; 1 qt. eggnog, 1 pt. vanilla ice cream, softened.

Combine ingredients with mixer. Sprinkle with nutmeg just before serving, if desired.

11 servings (approx. 6 oz. each)

Honey Bunch Punch

1 can (46 oz.) Pineapple-Grapefruit Juice Drink, chilled; 1¼ cups Orange Juice, chilled; 1 bottle (28 oz.) carbonated water, chilled, ice.

Combine ingredients: serve over ice.

14 servings (6 oz. each)

Twelve Killed On State Roads

Twelve persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed five were drivers, four were passengers and three were pedestrians.

Five of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officer could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

"Failed to grant right of way" is a label which can be placed upon eight of last week's twelve fatalities, Lt. Morgan pointed out. The remaining three (3) left the roadway as a result of the dubious label of "failed to negotiate curve."

Highway safety is more than a phrase. It should be a way of life, a way to keep more people alive and unhurt, he added. It is not something someone can do for you, although thousands of people work full time to make walking and driving safer.

Persons killed through December 5 totaled 610, compared to 639 for the same period last year.

Citations Awarded In Food Services

The Continuing Education Division of Garrett Community College has been sponsoring a ten week program in Food Service. The program has been held at Southern High School and has been most successful, according to officials.

The closing session was held on November 22, and Lowell E. Bender, Director, Continuing Education Division, awarded citations of completion to those attending the program. Receiving citations were Georgia Durst, Eugene Flinn, Janet Judy, Geneva Junkins, Carrie Lohr, Frances Martin, Sylvia Snyder, Mary Teets, Ruth Cosner, Lovella Cryser, Alice Deal, Edna Friend, Colleen Ingram, Jill VanSickle, Pearl VanSickle, Mary Viragh, Barbara Bachtel, Geraldine Baker, Leona Brantner, Elsie DeBerry, Mary DeBerry, Melissa Eastman, Margaret Edgar, Bernadine Friend, Ferdellice Foy, Adeline Grier, Mary Hinebaugh, June Holtschneider, Glendean Lewis, Betty O'Brien, Vivian Tasker, Janis Uphole and Lawrence Wolf.

Those responsible for the various areas of instruction were Miss Margaret Boyle, Nutritionist with the Garrett County Health Department; Dwayne Rodeheaver, Environmental Aid with the Health Department; Mrs. Sara Smith, Manager of Food Service Department at Southern High School; and Miss Ronda Bagley, of Maryland State Board of Education. The program was coordinated by Mrs. Elizabeth Randol.

Kenneth Golberg, Chief of Labor Standards under the Division of Labor and Industry came from Baltimore to attend the closing session of the ten week program. Mr. Golberg discussed with the class the laws concerning wages and their application to certain kinds of businesses in this area.

The Food Service Program will be offered in the spring at Northern High School. Further information on registration procedure is available at the Oakland Center of the college.

29 Arrested By Sheriff's Deputies During November

John Evans, Jr., sheriff of Garrett County, has released a report of departmental activities during the month of November. A total of 144 papers were served concerning civil, criminal, juvenile, law, equity, summons and warrants.

More than 150 complaints were answered throughout the county, and 280 patrol checks were made in towns, businesses and areas of the county.

Twenty-nine were arrested, and 23 released from the county jail. There were four prisoners incarcerated at the beginning of the month, ten at the end of November.

Over 18,000 miles were added to the departmental vehicles during duty patroling, answering complaints, etc. Three trips were made transporting prisoners, one to Baltimore, one to Charles Town, W. Va. and one to Richmond, Va.

Freezing Rain Makes Roads Slick Monday

Snow, sleet and freezing rain made roads slick Monday night and then again Tuesday during a series of flurries. Not too much snow fell but low temperatures kept it from melting to any extent. Last Friday the mercury hit, what is so far, the season's low, minus 11 degrees. Temperatures have remained on the cold side.

The state and county roads crews were out from Monday evening until Tuesday morning treating slick roads. The snow emergency plan was in effect during that time. The SHA had 18 crews working. When the flurries hit late Tuesday afternoon crews were again on the road treating the slick spots. This continued until yesterday morning. The Snow Emergency was not in effect.

About two inches of snow has fallen during the past week. Monday's snow, sleet and freezing rain amounted to 1.27 inches of precipitation. Skies have been variably cloudy to heavy overcast most of the week. There were, however, clear skies Sunday and early Monday. There was some fog early Sunday morning. There was some sunshine this morning as skies cleared.

Temperatures averaged 11.9 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 34.9 degrees or 10.5 below normal. The highest reading was Tuesday's 41 degrees. The mercury stayed below freezing last Friday and yesterday. Lows averaged 11.1 degrees or 13.3 below normal. Other than last Friday's 11 degrees below zero, another cold one was the following morning with 4 degrees above. The mildest was Tuesday morning's 28-degree low.

Due to the misplacement of a decimal point in information received, November should show 1.8 more inches of snow. November 29 should have shown 2 inches of snow instead of .2 inch. November's snowfall should show a total of 26 inches.

Guilty Plea Of Destruction Entered Monday

A guilty plea of destruction of property was entered in the District Court, Monday. Judge Lewis R. Jones heard other cases, including several 'not guilty' pleas which were sustained and other cases were dismissed or stetted.

Joseph E. Sidebottom, 19, RD 2, Oakland, pleaded guilty of destruction of a trash can of the Garrett County Commissioners (Solid Waste Bureau) by burning and explosion, November 16. The can valued at $244 was located on Ben DeWitt road at U. S. 219. Sidebottom along with Timmy Schrock was charged with larceny of 20 gallons of gasoline from the Southern Sanitary Co. at Sunnyside October 14. Both charges were dismissed, as Sidebottom had pleaded guilty of the destruction charge, and Schrock had made full restitution. A presentence investigation was ordered on the guilty plea.

Five men were involved in charges of assault and battery, assault, disorderly conduct and trespassing in an incident at the residence of John Hyson, Sr., 25, on U. S. 219 north, east of Grantsville, October 30. Other than Hyson, all others involved were from Fort Meade. All pleaded not guilty of charges and the pleas were sustained. Hyson was charged with assault and battery on Douglas D. Melville. Donald Stachowiak, 25, had been charged with disorderly conduct and trespassing on the Hyson property when told to stay off. John D. Skaggs, 20, was charged with trespassing. Douglas D. Melville, 24, had been charged with two counts of assault and battery on Hyson and one charge of disorderly conduct. James Briggs, 20, had been charged with disorderly conduct and trespassing. Jeffrey Ebock, 19, had been charged with assault and trespassing.

Frank Paul Polce, Dennett road, Oakland, had been charged with assault and battery on his wife, Edith Betty Polce. Monday the case was dismissed as she refused to testify.

James M. Glotfelty, RD 1, Oakland, has been charged with assault and battery on a 15-year-old female on the Crellin-Underwood road November 11. Monday the case was stetted.

Man Gets Ten Years In Pen

A Silver Spring man was sentenced to ten years in the Penitentiary on charges of storehouse breaking by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., in Circuit Court yesterday.

Raymond Clinton Ault, Jr., pleaded guilty of storehouse breaking. A charge of grand larceny was dismissed. Ault was sentenced to the Commissioner of Correction for 10 years beginning July 3, 1976. Ault was also ordered to make restitution of $660. He was then delivered to the custody of the Sheriff.

Ault was charged with breaking and entering the summer home of John H. Crocker at Youghiogheny Mtn. Lake in November, 1974. He was charged with taking a radio, TV and similar equipment, along with other goods valued at $850. He was arrested July 6 and the case was transferred from District Court in August. Bond had been set at $10,000 at 50 percent and later reduced to 25 percent.

Carter's Debt To Blacks

As the national guessing game continues over who will make up President-elect Jimmy Carter's Washington team, it is all but certain that a good number of blacks will be on it.

It takes no genius to understand why: black voters provided the margin of his victory over President Ford, with about 92 percent of them voting for him, according to the respected Washington Joint Center for Political Studies.

In fact, even in Carter's "solid" South, the Georgian failed to win a majority of the white vote, with Ford walking away with 55 percent of it. But southern blacks won the day for Carter there, as well as in perhaps a half dozen non-southern states that were crucial to his election.

Political scientist Richard Scammon notes, however, that "If Carter had not had the black vote, he would have lost. But if he had not had the white vote, he would have lost too." Scammon's point is that Carter's obligations are to the entire nation rather than any of its disparate groups.

It can be argued, for example, that Carter would not have won without the labor vote — which is probably true. Or without the women vote. And the list could go on.

The most important thing is that Jimmy Carter was elected President by the American vote, and his primary obligation is to all of us. It is to be hoped that our nation has matured to where a President doesn't have to invoke a quota system in selecting the men and women to serve with him, and to where qualifications and character, not race or religion, are the criteria by which appointments are judged.

Jimmy Carter does have a debt to blacks, and there is no reason why he shouldn't select qualified blacks for key positions. But we hope he remembers that his first obligation is to serve the highest interests of the United States. In this, qualifications are what count. If he acts accordingly, we shouldn't worry about whom he chooses to serve with him. —U. S. Press Association.

Homemakers Celebrate

The Aurora Homemakers held their celebration of Fifty Years since their organization on Sunday, November 14, in the St. Paul's Lutheran Parish hall at Aurora. Mrs. Dean Sisler was in charge of the program. Mrs. Pearl Stemple presented the devotions.

Mrs. Anna Webster presented a history of the club and other members reminisced of programs and activities carried out over the past years.

Cookies, punch and coffee were served from a table decorated with golden candles and a golden, floating centerpiece. Serving the beverages were Dean Sisler and Maxine Hauser. Room decorations were done by Ruth Hoover, Dorothy Barr and Vera Stemple.

Mrs. Alfred (Mary) Wotring is the only charter member who has remained a member for the entire fifty years. She was previously honored both at Jackson's Mill and at the National Convention in Morgantown. Several charter members are still living but have dropped their memberships.

The club pieced and quilted a Bicentennial quilt as part of their activities this past year and it was recently given away. The winner was Mrs. Grace Wilhelm, 90, Horse Shoe Run.

Senior Citizens Meet

Union District Senior Citizens met at 6:00 p.m. December 4, for a covered dish dinner in the Aurora U.M. Memorial Building. Maxine Hauser was assisted by Dorothy Barr and Lucille Miser in her presentation of devotions centered on the Christmas story. Readings were presented by Nina Schmidt, "The Whole Life", and Pearl Stemple, "Christmas." Group singing of Christmas carols and other songs was led by Harold Holsopple, guest from Red House. The group signed a card for one of their members who is ill in the Garrett Memorial Hospital, Gilbert Sell. Forty-three were present for the evening's meal and program.

Colder weather+30 days=higher heating bills.

Unless you're taking advantage of Columbia's Budget Payment Plan, the gas bill you get this month reflects the weather we had last month. And the gas bill you get next month should remind you of the weather we're having now.

The colder the weather, the harder our home furnaces have to work. The harder our furnaces work, the more gas we use. The more gas we use, the higher the gas bill.

Everyone knows that.

Only sometimes we forget what the weather was like a month ago.

To Demonstrate This Revolutionary Way To Cook. Stop In And Taste For Yourself.

For the better, of course. No other microwave oven cooks so evenly, or so perfectly. That's because no other oven rotates your food automatically (just like a rotisserie) while it cooks. And Sharp's R-6750 also has an automatic digital timer that's easy to operate, and gives you the exact setting right down to the last second. And it has a 5-sided rotary recipe guide that's keyed to the Variable Cooking Control, another feature of the R-6750. It lets you defrost, simmer, roast or cook at full power. And that means more flexibility for you in the way you cook.

Sharp's R-6750 even comes with a free, full-color illustrated microwave cookbook of over 400 pages, to help you make the most of microwave cooking. Just come into Teets General Store and ask to see the Sharp R-6750 Carousel Microwave Oven. It'll change the way you cook.

Two Hurt In Corn Harvest Accidents

Corn harvest can prove to be a dangerous time of year for farmers, as two local men found last week when they were seriously injured in separate mishaps on Thursday.

Leroy Brenneman was working the the Lynndale section while custom corn picking when his left arm became caught in the cornpicker. He was able to shut off the tractor, and his cries for help were heard by a young deer hunter who helped free his arm. They then went to the Norman Schrock residence to call the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad, which took Mr. Brenneman to the Oakland hospital.

Mr. Brenneman is now awaiting skin grafts at the Baltimore Union Memorial Hospital, Room 521, 33rd and Calvert Streets. Damage was confined to his skin and blood vessels in his lower forearm.

The Brennemans reside on Mansfield Road, near Gortner.

That same day, Donald W. DeWitt, 22, of Route 4, Deer Park, was standing beside a loaded truck of corn on an upper barn floor when the rear of the truck fell through the floor. He was trapped between the truck racks and a floor beam by his neck for a few minutes until his brother-in-law and two neighbor young men could free him.

He was taken by the Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where a tracheotomy was performed before he was transferred to the University Medical Center, Morgantown. Tuesday he was removed from the intensive care section and is now in the third floor neurology wing.

The accident occurred on the John Berkridge farm near Deer Park, leased to the DeWitts.

Some Less Serious Mishaps Are Noted

Several less serious auto mishaps were noted the past week in various areas.

The vehicle driven by a Virginia Beach, Va., man slid on some gravel and struck a steel post on the bridge over the Potomac River at Gorman late Monday night. Richard O. Dozier, Jr., was traveling east on U. S. 50 when the car slid as he made the right turn. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant charged him with making an improver right turn.

An unknown vehicle ran into the building at Windy Knolls off Md. 135 late Saturday night and then disappeared.

Another Virginia man was traveling west on U.S. 48 when a deer ran onto the road and was struck by the car. The driver was John L. Bullock, Fredericksburg. Tfc. G. A. Berkebile investigated.

James O. VanSickle, Terra Alta, W. Va., was traveling west on the Sang Run-Cranesville road near Piney Mtn. road shortly after noon last Thursday. Robert E. Railey, RD 5, Oakland, traveling east failed to keep on the far right of the road and struck the left rear of the VanSickle vehicle. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland charged Railey with failing to give sufficient space to pass.

Michael S. Feld, High street, Oakland was northbound on Mattingly Hill road last Friday evening. The right front wheel dropped off the northbound shoulder. The car then went out of control, struck a telephone pole, veered from it, struck an embankment and overturned, facing south. The mishap which occurred on a curve near the Hoyes-Sang Run road was investigated by Tfc. Dale K. Williams.

A short time before a two-car accident happened in Grantsville on Dorsey Hotel road at Ravine street. Audrey L. Hanlin, Piedmont, W. Va. was southbound on Dorsey Hotel road. Elsie M. Ash, RD 1, Grantsville, northbound, attempted to make a left turn onto Ravine street and ran into the path of the Hanlin car. Tfc. Williams charged Elsie Ash with failing to grant the right-of-way when making a left turn.

Another deer was hit Saturday night on the New Germany road by Dennis W. Beckman when it ran into his path. He hit the brakes but was unable to avoid the animal.

Garrett College Rips Howard 100-45

Dave Frost got 24 points and four teammates also reached double figures to give Garrett Community college its third win of the season in an easy 100 to 45 verdict over Howard Community college last night in Columbia.

Coach Paul Holzshu's Lakers pulled out to an early lead and maintained a comfortable margin all the way, taking a 42-21 lead at halftime.

Frost dumped ten field goals and was four for seven at the foul line in leading the assault. Bill McGarvey got 13, Tom Panther, 12; Tom Comiskey, 11; and Mark Kane, ten. Garrett outgunned Howard from the field by a 41-23 margin and converted 18 of 22 fouls.

Coleman was high scorer for Howard with 19 points and Patterson added 10, Lewis also got 2 points, Guadagnino 2, Grove 6, Saller 5, Schuller 9, Danel 4 and Brosnihan 2.

Garrett travels to Cumberland Saturday night to meet Allegany Community college at Trojan Square Garden before hosting its holiday tournament the following weekend.

State Comptroller Gets Nat'l 4-H Alumni Award

Louis L. Goldstein, state comptroller, headed a 41-member Maryland delegation of youth and adults attending the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28 - Dec. 2, in Chicago.

A resident of Oakland Hall at Prince Frederick, Calvert county, Goldstein was honored at a dinner on Wednesday night, Dec. 1, as one of eight national winners in the 4-H alumni recognition program.

His Gold Key award and expense-paid trip to the Windy City was sponsored by the Olin Corporation, one of many national supporters of the 4-H program. The eight national winners were selected by professional 4-H workers in the Cooperative Extension Service at land-grant universities across the nation and the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington, D.C.

As a youth in southern Maryland, Goldstein was a Calvert county 4-H member for five years, specializing in poultry. He is a graduate of Washington College at Chestertown, and holds a law degree from the University of Maryland at Baltimore.

In his capacity as Comptroller of the Treasury and member of the state Board of Public Works, Goldstein is a regular attender and active participant at meetings of the university's Board of Regents.

Goldstein was elected state comptroller in 1958. He was re-elected in 1962, and he has been re-elected every four years since then, without opposition. A parttime farmer and realtor, he has served continuously in elective state government offices since 1939 — except for tours of duty as an enlisted man and officer in the U. S. Marine Corps during World War II.

Five other adults accompanied Comptroller Goldstein and 35 Maryland 4-H members to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. They included Richard R. Angus, College Park, Prince Georges county, and Norman G. Smith of the Brinkleigh area near Ellicott City, Howard county.

Angus is acting assistant director for 4-H and youth activities of the Cooperative Extension Service, and Smith is Extension 4-H and youth state program leader for agriculture. Both are associated with the University of Maryland at College Park.

Two Eastern Shore residents assisted with chaperone duties. They were Loyal C. Reger of Denton, Extension 4-H and youth agent in Caroline county, and Mrs. Bernadine M. Coleman of Elkton, his counterpart in Cecil county.

Also attending the Chicago event was Mrs. Beatrice S. C. Pfefferkorn, who resides near Cooksville, Howard county. Mrs. Pfefferkorn has served more than 50 years as a 4-H club member and local 4-H leader in Howard county.

She also spend five years during and after World War II as an assistant Extension agricultural agent in Howard county — the first woman in Maryland to serve in that capacity, and probably one of the first in the U.S.

Mrs. Pfefferkorn's neighbor, E. Scott Glascock, 18, of Cooksville, Howard county, also attended this year's National 4-H Congress in Chicago. He was one of nine 4-H members from throughout the nation to receive $800 national scholarship awards for leadership from the "Reader's Digest" magazine.

Francis Scott Key Bridge, the final link in the Baltimore beltway is to open December 20.

To Give Messiah

Bridgewater College's 90-voice oratorio choir will present Handel's "Messiah," on Sunday, December 5, at 8 p.m., at the Bridgewater Church of the Brethren, under direction of Philip E. Trout.

Two area students will sing in the choir. They are Dianne Dean, a senior elementary education major, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Dean, of Oak Park, Oakland; and Melvin Fike, a sophomore elementary education major, son of Rev. and Mrs. Galen E. Fike, Eglon, W. Va.

State Police Monitor Noise

The Maryland State Police are now monitoring noise levels on selected highways in support of Maryland's recently enacted noise abatement program. Two specially trained teams are using electronic equipment to detect offending vehicles.

Some sights, on Maryland's major roads have already been selected and more monitoring locations are anticipated. Noise levels will be monitored by Troopers assigned to the Automotive Safety Enforcement Division using hand-held decibel meters. The measuring instruments are designed to measure the total amount of noise emitted from a passing motor vehicle.

Initially warnings will be given to those motorists whose vehicles are found in violation of the noise level limits. After the initial warning phase of the program, summonses will be issued to those motorists found in violation of the noise limits.

The program is designed to help reduce substantially the number of people whose health is affected by traffic noise. Indications are that noise levels in states that have a noise abatement program are far less than in those states that do not have such a program.

Regulations require that any motor vehicle manufactured after July 1, 1974 and sold new must have a manufacturer's certificate of compliance with noise level limits. Motorists should be aware of the noise level limit of any non-stock accessory purchased for on the road use. Some non-stock motor vehicle equipment manufacturers provide noise level limit information with the accessory when it is purchased.

The new regulations apply to all motor vehicles used on the highway whether they have stock equipment or have been modified in any way.

Middle School Seventh Graders Go To University

Five seventh grade students from Southern Middle School traveled to Johns Hopkins University this past Saturday to participate in a Study of Mathematically Precocious Youth conducted by the University.

Students attending from the Middle School were Kevin Ridder, Kathryn Ryscavage, Patty Livengood, Mike Ault and Paul Warnick.

The SMPY was conducted as a type of talent search which will give students a realistic appraisal of their mathematics and verbal abilities in comparison to other students throughout the nation.

In order to have received an invitation, students must have scored in or above the 97th percentile of national norms on the Iowa Basic Skills test.

During their stay at Johns Hopkins, several hours of additional tests were given. Ten to 20 percent of the top students will later be invited to return to Johns Hopkins.

The test will help in advising these youngsters about the types of colleges their abilities test fit.

Further information and test scores will be forwarded to Mrs. Wilma Massi, guidance counselor at the school, as they become available.

Following the dinner there will be a short business meeting and installation of officers for the coming year. This dinner will be held regardless of the weather, Mr. Lee indicated.

Mathias Says GOP Should Shift Course

If the two-party system is to survive the Republican party must recommit itself to civil liberties and improving the quality of life, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., Maryland Republican, said yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal.

The brand of Republicanism practiced by Ronald Reagan, a conservative, "has taken the party into arid lands of ideology where few people dwell," the liberal Marylander said in remarks prepared for a regional meeting of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith.

Conservative talk of the need for broadening the party in the wake of President Ford's defeat is too little and too late, he said.

"Ronald Reagan opted for a cosmetic approach to the problem when he named Senator Richard Schweiker, of Pennsylvania as his running mate," he said. "But mirror games and cosmetic approaches just won't do. It takes more than two names and a hyphen to expand a party.

"If we are to have a healthy body politic, we must revive the Republican party and not just paint its face for a wake," he added.

He noted that the GOP had its roots in the anti-slavery movement. "Now if we are truly to revive our two-party system, the Republican party must rekindle its historic commitment to civil liberties," he said. "And from a renewed commitment to civil liberties will flow a concern for our cities and the people in them, a concern about jobs and health and crime and the young and the old, a concern about the quality of our life."

Wild Turkey Getting Scarce

State wildlife officials are showing concern about the apparent dwindling number of wild turkeys that are normally found in Western Maryland forests. Officials are saying the hunting season may have to be reduced next year or even canceled.

A problem is the large number of hunters, according to Joseph C. Shugars, turkey project leader for the State Wildlife Administration.

Shugars said 117 birds were killed during the two-week hunting season this fall in the three Western Maryland counties, compared to 185 last year.

He figured there may be as few as 1,000 turkeys roaming about in Garrett, Washington and Allegany counties, where fall turkey hunting is legal, compared to up to 2,500 in 1972.

Although Shugars said tropical storm Agnes hurt the crop of young turkeys in 1972 he said officials also believe the number of gobblers has dropped in Western Maryland because of both legal and illegal hunting.

Shugars said the state halted its program of introducing ranch-raised birds into the wild because the program produced "gun fodder" since the birds were not as crafty as their wild relatives.

Liller Sparks Frostburg Win

Kevin Liller, former Southern High Ram basketball player, came off the bench Thursday evening to spark life into Frostburg State college team and the Bobcats erupted to overcome a deficit and pull out a 68 to 63 victory over California State of Pennsylvania at Frostburg.

The win was the second in a row for the Bobcats, defeating York 83 to 63 on Wednesday night.

Liller, who finished with 11 points, came into the game with the Cats trailing, having been behind nearly all the first half. Liller hit some key baskets and turned in some effective defensive plays to pull his team ahead.

Wright and Scott had 15 and 14 points to lead the Cats while Liller and Nelson had 11 each.

Tri-Co. Council Gives '76 Report

Major areas of responsibility and staff members responsible for those areas were highlighted in the annual report of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, Inc.

Comprised of 21 members, seven from each of the three western Maryland counties, the council's primary purpose is to advance the economic, social and cultural welfare of the region. It accomplishes this task through carrying on a continuous comprehensive development planning program, providing technical assistance, and support to member counties, public and private institutions, organizations, agencies, groups. GEMINID METEORS

Monday is the date of the maximum of this meteor shower. These objects will be colliding with the earth on both Sunday and Tuesday to an extent greater than the normal average number of visible meteors. On any night an average of seven meteors or shooting stars may be observed in an hour. As high as 50 meteors per hour has been observed from previous displays of the Geminid Meteor Shower. The Last Quarter moon will brighten the sky enough to obscure some of the fainter meteor trails.

Tuesday, the moon passes through its Last Quarter phase at 5:14 a.m. Moonrise occurs later each evening as the week passes. The moon rises at 7:51 p.m. this evening and by Wednesday it is rising in the early morning at 1:04 a.m.

Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are visible in the sky after sunset. Mercury is the only bright object to the lower right of Venus near the southwest horizon. This planet sets within an hour of the sun. Venus is the dominant object in the west sky, visible from sunset for about three hours. Jupiter rises before sunset and is high in the south at about 9:30 p.m. The stars of Taurus surround this planet. Saturn, among the stars of Cancer, rises at about 8:30 p.m.

There are three minutes less daylight next Wednesday than there are today. Sunrise was at 7:26 a.m. this morning. Sunset follows nine hours twenty-eight minutes later at 4.54 p.m. Wednesday the sun rises four minutes later and sets one minute later than it does today.

Two Hurt, One Hospitalized In Monday Mishap

Randy D. Harding, 20, of Friendsville, was injured in a one-car accident early Monday afternoon on Maryland route 495, a mile south of Grantsville. He was reported in "fair" condition at Memorial hospital in Cumberland.

He was a passenger in a car operated by David L. Wilt, 18, route 1, Grantsville. He was treated and released at the medical center in Grantsville.

State Police said the accident occurred at 12:40 p.m. while Mr. Wilt was driving north on the highway. As the car was rounding a sharp left curve it ran off the road and skidded in loose gravel on the berm.

The driver lost control of the car which went down over an embankment and struck two trees. Mr. Wilt told police a southbound coal truck failed to keep to the right of center of the highway and forced him off the road in his attempt to avoid a collision.

Tayback Speaks At Council Meet

Dr. Matthew Tayback, director of the Maryland Office on Aging, participated in the December meeting of the Tri-County Council for Western Maryland, Inc., held yesterday in Cumberland. Joel Shoap, director of the Western Maryland Area Agency on Aging, also took part in the discussion. Business items included a review of the current ARC project status, a report on the council's effort to update its regional areawide action plan; and action on a recommendation concerning a revision of the personnel policies. Action was also scheduled to be taken on a policy statement relating to the council's "open meeting" policy.

Southern Middle School Conducting Drive For Books

The Southern Middle School is conducting a drive to collect books on many different reading levels to help stock the new library at the school.

A committee from the Middle School P.T.A. is requesting donations of used books, either hardcover of paperback, in good condition. The school librarian will chose books the school can use and the other books will be sold later in the year. Money realized from this sale will be used to buy more new books and materials for the media center.

Books may be delivered to the Southern Middle School or brought to the Christmas program at the P.T.A. meeting December 15 at 7:30. Books may also be placed in specially marked boxes at Gregg's Pharmacy, Garrett National Bank, First National Bank of Oakland, or the Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland.

Those who do not have books to donate may contribute by writing a check, payable to Southern Middle School P.T.A., and mailing it to Pauline Parrack, 1021 High Street, Oakland.

Beautiful, But DEADLY

There is a man — he's a U.S. park ranger — who spends a lot of time deliberately starting avalanches on mountains like this.

His job is to produce carefully small, controlled snowslides to prevent devastating avalanches that could wreak terrible damage and claim lives.

Going to church can be like that. It can give you solutions to spiritual problems while they are small and manageable instead of letting them build up until they're too big to handle. Like snow on the side of a mountain, unfaced problems can swell into an avalanche of monumental proportions and simply swallow up your useful life.

The strength to face your day-to-day problems is waiting for you right now — at your church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MAGNIFICAT!

Lesson for December 12, 1976

Background Scripture: 1 Samuel 2:1-10; Luke 1:39-79
Devotional Reading: Luke 1:68-79

Four miles outside the city of Jerusalem (urban sprawl keeps it from seeming that far) is the little Judean hill town of Ein Karem. From the ultramodern Hadassah Medical Center one can view the ancient town and its monuments to John the Baptist. For here according to tradition John the Baptist was born (marked by a Franciscan church and monastery). Another Franciscan monastery stands beside the hill cave where it is believed John lived the last years of his life.

Rev. Althouse

Most important for the Christian pilgrim, however, is the lovely Franciscan Church of the Visitation, commemorating the ecstatic encounter between John's mother, Elizabeth, and her younger cousin, Mary, from Nazareth. Whether or not the tradition is correct in identifying Ein Karem as the "hill country...city of Judah" in Luke 1, the pilgrim can hardly escape catching there a spiritual glimpse of that great occasion which we commemorate again each Advent season.

Filled with the spirit

Mary's quiet, uneventful life had been jolted by her own experience of God's messenger who came to her in Nazareth and told her that she was to become the mother of the Messiah. Informed that her cousin Elizabeth was also to bear a child of religious significance by the power of the Holy Spirit, Mary rushed to visit with her. She needed to talk to someone who might understand. Who in Nazareth would believe her or know how to help her?

Entering the house of Zechariah and Elizabeth, she greeted her cousin in the customary way. But Elizabeth's response was anything but customary. Without understanding what was happening within her, Elizabeth felt her unborn son move vigorously in her womb. This was no mere kicking movement experienced by many pregnant mothers - to - be, but something much more than that! A wave of pure joy seemed to engulf her and without thinking of what she was saying, she exclaimed: "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb!" (1:42). Elizabeth heard her own words with amazement and went on to explain to her cousin what had prompted this ecstatic outburst.

My spirit rejoices!

But something was happening in Mary too. Caught up in a spiritual excitement few have ever known, she exclaims, "My soul magnifies the Lord, and my spirit rejoices in God my Saviour" (1:46,47). The words come from her own mouth but their source seemed to be "Something Other." In her ecstatic song, Mary expresses her awe, her thanksgiving for what God is doing in her, and prophecys of the mighty works he will yet accomplish in the days ahead. (This "song" is known as the Magnificat, after the Latin word which we translate into English as "magnifies").

Mary "magnified" the Lord. Caught up in awe, wonder, and thanksgiving, her heart overflowed with praise and joy.

In the winter light of this Advent season let us experience our own Magnificat!

Mr. and Mrs. James Hebb and daughter, Valley Point, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Lorenza Cosner, Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. Claude Harvey, Mt. Lake Park, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. John Foster and daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. John Foster were shoppers in Morgantown, W. Va. last Saturday.

Itemized Phone Bills Are On Tap

Marylanders will soon have a little better idea of exactly what they are paying for when the telephone bill arrives each month.

The State Public Service commission has ordered the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company to begin itemizing fees that make up each customer's monthly service charge.

C & P has traditionally billed its 1.5 million Maryland customers with a single service charge that included but did not list individually, charges for basic service, extension phones, unlisted numbers and accessories such as long cords or chimes. Under the PSC order the company will have to tell customers how much they are paying for such items.

The company will begin issuing the new bills next spring. It was pointed out that all customers probably wouldn't be covered by the itemized billing system until the end of next year.

Youth Found To Be In Need Of Supervision

A juvenile was found to be in need of supervision at a hearing last week by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr.

The 17-year-old male was found to be in need of supervision because of being disobedient, ungovernable and beyond control of his stepmother.

He was committed to the custody of Juvenile Services Administration for the purpose of finding a foster home for him until he is 18 years old.

Nine Nursing Homes Cited For Fire Code Violations

Nine nursing homes in Maryland have been warned by the state regulators that they face a cut-off of Medicaid and Medicare funds unless they correct federal fire code violations within the next four months.

The homes have failed to meet federal safety standards since March 1975 when state inspectors found violations ranging from lack of fire exits to major structural building defects, state records show.

None of the facilities poses "imminent danger" for its residents, said James C. Robertson, state fire marshal, but each home could make improvements that would reduce the chance of life-threatening fires.

The nine nursing homes, which included Goodwill Mennonite Home near Grantsville, are all intermediate care facilities and have come under increasing pressure to upgrade their facilities as a result of a 1975 1974 requirement of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW has mandated that intermediate care nursing homes that hope to qualify for Medicaid and Medicare payments must fully comply with the Life Safety Code of the National Fire Protection Association by March 1977.

In the past, intermediate care homes, which provide round-the clock care, automatically qualified for the federal payments by meeting less stringent standards of the state fire marshal.

Medicaid and Medicare — federal health insurance for the poor, disabled and elderly — are considered the economic lifeline of most nursing homes. Most patients are covered by one of the government insurers.

1976 Deer Kill Compares to 1975

Although final figures are not in yet, the deer kill for the recently concluded firearm "buck" season in Western Maryland is running about as good as last year, according to officials of the Maryland Wildlife administration. In Garrett county it was better.

Last year's buck kill for the four counties of region 1 was 2,500. Broken down as follows: Allegany 1,000; Garrett, 658; Washington, 327; and Frederick 315.

"This year the kill appears to be about as good as last year," said William E. Harman, regional wildlife manager. Mr. Harman attributed the good season to continued high population of deer in the area.

According to Robert Brown of the Wildlife police, numerous arrests were made for various infractions of the game laws, but pointed out that the arrests didn't appear to be any heavier than last year.

Several hunters were guilty of checking bucks with antlers less than three inches long. A buck must have spikes at least three inches long to be considered legal game. Some checked bucks with buttons less than a half inch.

Mr. Harman stated that the bow season which continues through January 31, is turning out a record kill due to the rapid increase of the number of bow hunters and a good deer population.

Three tons marijuana were seized from a ship in the vicinity of Norfolk, Va.

More Veterans Eligible To Waive Premium Payments

The regional Veterans Administration announced more veterans are becoming eligible for waiver of GI life insurance premium payments because of physical disabilities.

VA Regional Director, Mr. John W. Rue, reminded veterans that "all National Service Life Insurance policies beginning with World War, II provide for waiver of premium payments in some instances of total disability.

"A veteran having this insurance may not be required to pay premiums if he or she becomes totally disabled before reaching age 65 and the disability has existed tor at least six consecutive months," Mr. Rue said.

But veterans were cautioned that the waiver of premiums is not automatic and must be applied for.

Mr. Rue said there are currently more than 157,000 veterans who have insurance on which the premiums have been waived due to total disability.

As the age of World War II veterans increases, more of them are becoming totally disabled. According to Mr. Rue during the year ending November 1, 1976, more than 24,000 insured veterans applied for waiver of premiums because of total disability.

"Total disability" for VA insurance purposes means that the veteran is prevented from working because of that disability.

Mr. Rue reminded veterans that they should make timely application for waiver of premiums because refunds of premiums already paid after the onset of disability are usually limited to one year prior to the filing of the claim.

For additional information and application forms, veterans should contact the nearest Veterans Administration office or write to the VA Center which handles their insurance, he concluded.

$3.5 Million Taxes Collected

The total amount collected on 1976-77 county taxes for the period ending November 30 was $3,584,679.02, according to Mrs. Arzella Parsons, treasurer.

The breakdown, including percentages, is: real estate $2,292,462.58 or 82 percent; personal property, $43,230.74 or 56 percent; ordinary business, $125,670.14 or 36 percent, and public utilities and railroads, $1,123,315.56 or 104 percent.

The percentages are based on estimates, accounting for one that shows over 100 percent.

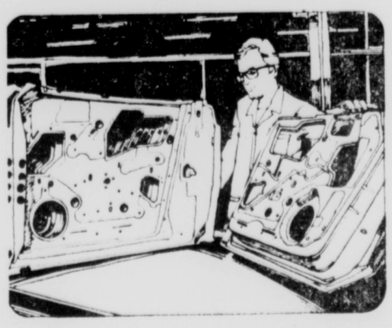
Behind the good looks of the 1977 Fords is the most advanced corrosion protection Ford has ever given its cars and light trucks.

The new Ford Anti-Corrosion System is the most advanced we've ever developed. Here's what it means to you.

Anti-Corrosion Measures

1. More than twice as much pre-coated steel as ever before.
Prior to stamping and assembly, sheet steel gets a corrosion-resistant coating that is baked on. This is followed by a zinc-rich top coating that is also baked on and cured ...for high durability. The average use per car of pre-coated steel for 1977 has more than doubled over 1976.



2. Galvanized steel where it matters.
You can't see where we use corrosion-resistant galvanized steel, but we use plenty of it in rocker panels, cowl top panels (unitized body), critical underbody parts, fuel filler doors and Pinto fenders.

3. Vinyl sealer on many critical areas.
A tough flexible material sprayed on some front fenders and the underside of rear wheelhousings. And we apply vinyl sealing compound on many body seams before they are welded together.

4. Gun-sprayed aluminized wax coating.
Goes into the lower part of doors, wagon tailgates, wagon spare tire wells, rear quarter panels and wheelhousing. We put it on thick.

5. Gun-sprayed zinc-rich primer.
We spray zinc-rich primer in hard-to-reach areas of the car body, to set up a sacrificial barrier against moisture and corrosive chemicals.

6. Anti-corrosion coating on rear wheelhousing.
On the edges of rear wheelhouse openings and in the station wagon spare tire well, all 1977 models now have a specially formulated asphalt coating to supplement the spray-applied vinyl sealer.

7. Phosphate bath for tougher paint.
Cleans the entire body. The phosphate treatment also creates a better bond between the sheetmetal and the paint.

8. Tough epoxy base primer.
Epoxy primer goes on before the final color coating. On some car lines, in various assembly plants, Ford is expanding the use of electrocoat priming in which the car body is immersed in a tank of primer and charged with electricity that draws the primer like a magnet into hard to reach areas, plating the body with protection against corrosion.

9. Three applications of finish paint.
It's actually a multiple step process: two coats of epoxy primer, then three finish coats of acrylic enamel.

10. Research.
At Ford's research facility, test cars are both sprayed with a salt solution, driven over dirt and salt-solution wetted roads, and then placed in a heated humidity chamber at 95%-100% humidity and 120°F temperature for 22½ hours. This grueling process is repeated for up to sixty cycles (three months) to approximate prolonged exposure to the kinds of road salting conditions experienced on many highways and roads.

Car bodies are selected at random from the production line at North American assembly plants and subjected to tests that insure all processes in the system are under control.

Each Ford North American-built 1977 car is subject to the Anti-Corrosion procedure appropriate to its design and manufacture. Naturally, there are differences between car lines and plants.

Overall car quality is a lasting commitment at Ford.

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

How did you vote on the $4.8 Foreign Aid Appropriations Bill passed by Congress earlier this year?

I voted against the $4.8 billion foreign aid bill.

What happened on legislation to upgrade housing programs for the elderly?

Legislation to increase funding available for housing programs for the elderly passed the House in late June 341-68. I supported the measure.

Why don't you use your column to inform readers of the importance of farmers to our national economy? I am happy to comply with your request. According to Soil Conservation Magazine, U.S. farmers comprise less than 5 percent of the population. But they have production assets exceeding $300 billion, spend $64 billion in one year to pay production expenses, pay property taxes of more than $3 billion a year, and have close to an $80 billion debt load that is expected to double within 10 years.

One out of five jobs in the United States is related to agriculture, and at the heart of this is the American farmer. Agriculture is the nation's largest industry, employing 4.4 million persons directly and supporting another 10 to 12 million jobs in machinery, chemical, public utilities and other industries, and in processing and marketing food products.

Do you honestly read all mail sent to you?

I make every effort to personally read all your letters. And thoughtful, factual letters have helped me make up my mind on issues or caused me to initiate a review of previous judgments. All letters are, of course, welcome and provide me a better understanding of your thinking. The most helpful come from citizens who give reasons for taking a stand. A letter which says, "I run a small business, and this bill will cause a great hardship for the following reasons . . ." tells me quite a bit. Maybe I didn't know all the effects of the bill and your letter will help me understand what it means to an important segment of our citizens. I represent you when I cast my votes in Washington. So please,don't hesitate to drop me a line and air your opinions.

Please explain your "Truth in Government Accounting Act."

The purpose of this proposed legislation is to give the public and Congress a unified, meaningful and simplified summary of just how the government stands financially. In addition to publishing the amount of money the government is taking in and paying out, the bill would require an indication of the debts for which the federal government has committed itself that may not be funded out of current revenues. There is an increasing awareness of the nation's financial problems, and I am hopeful this measure will alert Congress to the current trend toward ever-increasing government expenditures without adequate financial backing. It is time to restore a sound fiscal footing to our national economy and I will keep you posted on the status of this measure.

Overtime Battle Won By Lakers

Freshman Bill McGarvey took a perfect pass from John Guadagnino and put in a short left-handed hook shot with two seconds left in overtime to give Garrett Community college a 64 to 62 win over Charles Community College in a Maryland JUCO division A game Saturday night at McHenry.

It was the second win under new coach Paul Holzshu for the Lakers. They beat Allegheny South campus of Pittsburgh in the opener.

The Lakers led by four and six points throughout the contest and appeared ready to blow the Hawks out several times, only to have the visitors battle back and tie the score.

Garrett was on top 31 to 30 at halftime and the regulation play ended with the score 54-54 when the Lakers' Tom Panther missed a shot at the buzzer. The Lakers then moved ahead by four in overtime but Charles came back to knot the score at 62-62 with 15 seconds remaining. The Lakers then called time and set up a play. An errant pass almost got away but Duadagnino made a save and fed the ball into McGarvey for the winning basket.

Guadagnino, a 6-1 freshman, was high scorer for the Lakers with 12 points. McGarvey, a 6-6 center, had 12 also. Tyrone Marshall, an all-Maryland JUCO selection last season, had 27 points for the Hawks. Joe Yates added 14 and Harry King 10.

The Lakers outshot Charles 27 to 25 from the floor but had only 10 of 25 from the foul line. Hawks made 12 of 22.

Others scoring for the Lakers included Comiskey 7, Grove 2, Lewis 3, Panther 6, Frost 9, Danel 2, Kane 2, McPherson 8.

Southern Edges Valley By 56-54

Steve Liller got 22 points and Steve Ritchie added 15 to give Southern High school a hard earned victory over Valley High of Lonaconing 56 to 54 Tuesday night at Lonaconing.

Todd Liller also chipped in with ten points for the Rams who were on the short end of a 42-38 score after three quarters, but battled back in the final period to squeeze out the victory. Niner also had nine points.

Dave Spiker and Terry Dishong scored 18 and 14 points, respectively, for Valley. The Black Knights led by 13-12 score after the first period with Southern holding down a 26-25 edge at halftime.

Southern plays again Friday night at home against Beall High of Frostburg.

Lakers Drop One To Fayette Team

Garrett Community College dropped its first basketball game in three outings when the Fayette Campus of Penn State pulled away in the middle of the second half and held on for an 86 to 82 victory at McHenry on Monday evening.

The Lakers, after trailing most of the first half, held at 39 to 38 lead at intermission but fell back 12 with four minutes to play and a late surge fell short.

Chris Slelghter paved the way for the winners with 26 points. Sam Lucente finished with 18, Gary Garbutt 14, and Terry Jones 14.

Bill McGarvey topped Garrett with 17. John Guadagino had 16, Tom Panther and Mark Kane 12 each. Grove also had four, Lewis 6, Schuller 6, Frost 6, Danel 3.

Kitzmiller Answers Three Fire Calls

The Kitzmiller Volunteer fire company responded to three calls in two days last week. A trailer home near Hartmansville was completely gutted on Friday despite efforts of three companies.

A call was received at 8:55 a.m. Friday to the summer trailer of William Jackson, Virginia Beach, Va., who had been staying at the trailer the previous weekend. The Elk Garden Volunteer company first asked the Kitzmiller crew to stand by at Elk Garden, but later asked assistance at the scene.

Cause of the blaze, which gutted the structure, has not been determined. Mt. Storm also responded to the fire.

While Elk Garden was mopping up at the scene, Kitzmiller returned to the Elk Garden fire hall to continue to stand by. Immediately upon their return there, they were called to the residence of Garvey Bowley, Mt. Storm, who had a flue fire at his home.

There was no damage to the home, as the fire was confined to the flue pipes. Deer Park's fire company was standing by at their station for Kitzmiller in case additional calls had come in.

The company was again called to a flue fire at 4:30 p.m. Saturday to the Blaine, W. Va., residence of Michael A. Hicks. That fire was also confined to the flue so there was no damage to the house. Kitzmiller responded with 15 men and two pieces of equipment.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

NOTICE
AB 69 [Sub-No. 3]
WESTERN MARYLAND RAILWAY COMPANY — ABANDONMENT — HENRY, GRANT COUNTY WEST VIRGINIA TO END OF LINE — IN GARRETT COUNTY, MARYLAND

NOVEMBER 22, 1976

The Interstate Commerce Commission hereby gives notice that its Section of Energy and Environment has concluded that the proposed abandonment of the 2.4 mile Kempton Branch of the Western Maryland Railway Company between Henry, W. Va., and Kempton, Md., if approved by the Commission, does not constitute a major Federal action significantly affecting the quality of the human environment within the meaning of the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA), 42 U.S.C. ss 4321, et seq., and that preparation of a detailed environmental impact statement will not be required under section 4332 (2) (C) of the NEPA.

It was concluded, among other things, that abandonment of the subject line will not change existing environmental and economic conditions in the affected area because (1) there has been no traffic on this line since 1968, (2) the dismantling of the line should create only minimal environmental impacts, (3) there is no definitive economic development related to the line, and (4) there will be no historic impacts involved.

This conclusion is contained in a staff-prepared environmental threshold assessment survey, which is available on request to the Interstate Commerce Commission, Office of Proceedings, Washington, D.C. 20423; telephone 202-275-7011.

Interested persons may comment on this matter by filing their statements in writing with the Interstate Commerce Commission, Washington, D.C., 20423, on or before January 4, 1977.

It should be emphasized that the environmental threshold assessment survey represents an evaluation of the environmental issues in the proceeding and does not purport to resolve the issue of whether the present or future public convenience and necessity permit discontinuance of the line proposed for abandonment. Consequently, comments on the environmental study should be limited to discussion of the presence or absence of environmental impacts and reasonable alternatives.

Robert L. Oswald,
Secretary
—Adv. 41-1t.

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County will undertake the project described above with block grant funds from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, under Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The Garrett County Board of County Commissioners is certifying to HUD that Board of Garrett County Commissioners and George C. Edwards, Chairman in this official capacity consent to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect of the certification is that upon its approval the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County may use the block grant funds, and HUD will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. HUD will accept an objection to its approval of the release of funds and acceptance of the certification only if it is on one of the following basis: (a) That the certification was not in fact executed by the chief executive officer or other officer of applicant approved by HUD; or (b) That applicant's environmental review record for the project indicates omission of a required decision, finding, or step applicable to the project in the environmental review process. Objections must be prepared and submitted in accordance with the required procedure (24 CFR Part 58), and may be addressed to HUD at the Department of Housing and Urban Development, Baltimore Area Office, 2 Hopkins Plaza, Baltimore, Maryland 21201. Objections to the release of funds on basis other than those stated above will not be considered by HUD. No objection received after December 27, 1976 will be considered by HUD.

Quail Hunters Asked To Aid In State Study

Maryland quail hunters are urged to cooperate again this season in the Wildlife Administration's Quail Productivity Study.

Joshua L. Sandt, Upland Program Director, says the wing survey is an important part of Maryland's Quail Management Program. The aging of quail wings helps to determine the adult — juvenile ratio among the state's bobwhite population, an important factor in allowing biologists to assess the condition of that population.

Other information relied upon to help determine the condition of Maryland's quail population are the call counts in the spring and early summer, rainfall and temperature studies during the nesting season and brood observations throughout the summer.

The quail season opened November 7 and populations have been average in the Mountainous and Piedmont regions and below average in the Coastal Plain. Populations fluctuate according to the habitat conditions (food and cover) and weather, says Mr. Sandt, and the hot dry summers caused poor hatching success and brood survival.

The wing survey is one phase of the study where the hunter's help is vital, however. This year envelopes will be sent to all those who participated in land season's survey and anyone else who wishes to cooperate in the survey this year. If interested, write to the Wildlife Administration, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401, attention Joshua L. Sandt.

Those who participate in the survey are given self-addressed, postage paid envelopes that will hold a number of quail wings. They are asked to place all of the right wings from birds shot in one day's hunt in a single envelope and drop it in the mail.

The Metric System . . .

Like it or not we are gradually getting into the metric system of meters, liters and grams. This was brought forcibly to our attention last Thursday evening at a Rotary club meeting when Terry Bell, county school instructor, told members to "think metric." A law passed by Congress will make this compulsory within a few months.

An editorial on the system also appeared this past May in the Hampshire Review, pointing out the inevitable.

Terry also indicated that pressures from outside the United States were gradually pushing us in that direction.

Terry says the metric system makes a lot of sense. The metric system is a decimal system using units of tens, hundreds and thousands to measure weights, volumes and lengths or distances. Our monetary system has been using the metric system for years and few Americans now living have ever been able to distinguish shillings, pounds, pence, crowns and sovereigns that are so familiar to Englishmen, with any real facility.

Most of the rest of the world has long since gone to the metric system. Industry is rapidly learning that the metric system makes production of manufactured products and measurement of weights, lengths and volumes much simpler and more efficient.

Changing the system sounds like we are going to have to learn a new language, but it's not all that hard. So just tell your gas station attendant you want fifteen liters of gasoline, and watch him stare. Perhaps he hasn't been told about the coming change. Or how about 25 grams of ground beef? We better get with it before another Christmas rolls around.

Fire Destroys Friendsville Home

Friendsville, Accident and Deep Creek fire companies battled a fire last Friday shortly after noon, which gutted a home in Friendsville and seriously threatened a neighboring house.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Reed Friend and five of their children was destroyed by the fire, which is said to have started as Mrs. Friend attempted to light a fire in the coal and wood heating stove in the living room of the two story, plank house.

The fire ignited the living room rug and spread rapidly up the stairs to the second floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Harding, Jr. Mr. Harding is a member of the fire company and helped battled the blaze which consumed all his possessions. The Friends were able to salvage a few kitchen utensils and dishes.

Friendsville responded to the call with 17 men and two pieces of equipment. Accident and Deep Creek each brought two pieces of equipment.

Two families in the house next door, located only about three feet from the Friend home, moved their furniture and possessions out during the height of the fire, which threatened their home. Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Turney and their renters, Mr. and Mrs. John Ross, were able to carry their possessions back into their home after the fire. Their house sustained only smoke damage.

Firemen also managed to keep from exploding six bottled gas tanks and two fuel oil tanks between the buildings. Water in the town reservoir was used to fight the fire, and the ample supply is what saved the Turney building, according to chief James Lininger of the Friendsville company. When the fireman began, there was eleven feet of water is the reservoir; when the fire was quenched, there was five feet in the compound.

Mrs. Friend and five of her children were at home when the blaze started. The Friend family includes daughters Patricia, 19, Sandra, 15, and Kathy Jo, one; and sons, Terry, 16, and Ricky, 13. Ricky's dog was lost in the blaze.

The only salvageable item found in the rubble that was once the Harding apartment was a wrapped Christmas gift, found in a trunk in the bedroom. The Hardings are staying with his parents, while the Friends have been staying at the home of a married daughter.

Cleanup on the lot, located at the corner of Morris Avenue and Walnut Street, has already begun.

One fireman, Floyd Baker, was overcome by smoke and exhaustion during the fire, but was not hospitalized. The fire, which was investigated by Robert Shimer, fire investigator in Allegany and Garrett counties for the state fire marshal's office, was reported almost simultaneously by one of the Friend's sons at the fire station, and by a neighbor, who called the sheriff's office.

Man Gets 20 Years On Intent To Murder

A Friendsville man was sentenced to 20 years in the Penitentiary for intent to murder by Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., in Circuit Court yesterday.

Robert Earl Michaels, RD 1, Friendsville, pleaded guilty to the charge of assault with intent to murder Lois Ann Michaels on Sand Spring road October 3. Judge Hamill sentenced Michaels to the Commissioner of Correction for the 20-year term to begin as of October 3.

The original bond was $15,000, full amount. A week later it was changed to 20 percent. The case was transferred from District Court October 11. Following the trial, Michaels was ordered delivered to the Sheriff for transportation to Baltimore.

A PERFECT STOCKING STUFFER for a youngster this Christmas would be the love wrapped up in these puppies. These three mixed breed animals are just a few of the many animals available at the county animal pound on the Oakland-Sang Run Road. Dogs of all sizes and descriptions are also up for adoption, and there are also several cats and kittens looking for a home. Several of the puppies appear to have an English Setter background.

Cause Of Monday's Gas Well Fire Is Under Investigation

An investigation is currently underway at the Texas Eastern storage field near McHenry to determine the cause of an explosion and fire Monday morning which injured two men.

John Harry Croyle, 32, Indiana, Pa., suffered burns over 60 percent of his body in the explosion and was transported to the Mercy Burn Center in Pittsburgh. He is an employe of the Halliburton Corporation, a subcontractor for Texas Eastern Company.

Also injured was Bert Snair, 37, of Indiana, Pa., who was treated and released from the Garrett County Memorial Hospital. They were transported to the hospitals by members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad.

Deep Creek firemen were called to the scene about 5 a.m., and responded with three pieces of equipment. Firemen from Accident and Bittinger were also called to assist, and the Friendsville company was put on standby for Accident.

The rig is located on the Nelson Alexander farm off Bumble Bee Road. The explosion was at a relatively new well in this storage field, and had been drilled to a depth of 7,716 feet in the two months that work has been in progress.

The fire was under control by the time Deep Creek firemen arrived, and they were on the scene one hour.

Bender Gets Chairmanship Of Commission

Don Bender, Kitzmiller, was elected to serve as chairman of the County Commissioners for 1977 at the annual election this week.

The three commissioners had previously agreed that the chairmanship should rotate. Commissioners Wayne Hamilton and George Edwards have served the previous two years. Commissioner Bender will assume his new duties on January 1. His election was unanimous.

The Commission on Aging met with the commissioners this week to discuss their responsibilities in converting their portion of the Center street school into a senior citizen center. Members of the Commission on Aging also updated the commissioners on other projects, providing details of improvements in the Garrett Bus system and other senior citizen projects.

The remainder of the commissioners' day was routine with a vote taken to award bids for purchase of sheriff vehicles. Last week the Commissioners opened bids from Casselman Motors, Grantsville Ford and Oakview Motors with Casselman Motors being lowest bidder meeting the specifications and this week the commissioners awarded three replacement vehicles for the sheriff's department to Casselman Motors.

Commissioners also announced this week they would no longer pay bounty on foxes and weasels. During the last session of the General Assembly the Commissioners had requested that this law be repealed and the General Assembly voted to do so. Since July 1 this bounty has not been in effect.

Application For Sewage Facility Near Yough Denied

An application by the Garrett County Sanitary Commission to locate a sewage treatment facility in the Youghiogheny River scenic corridor has been denied by the state's Department of Natural Resources.

The application also requested permission to place an outflow line and discharge the treated water into the river. The facility would serve the Deep Creek Lake area.

The DNR, in denying the application, cited visual intrusion on the scenic corridor and the possible detrimental effect on water quality in the river.

David A. Wineland, project officer for the Yough, presented two alternative plans to the Sanitary Commission. The group may now either file an application for an exception to the existing regulations or submit an amendment to the existing application.

Present for discussion of the application on November 30 were representatives from the Sanitary Commission, The DNR, Environmental Protection Agency, Soil Conservation Service, Penelec, the Garrett Development Corporation, Garrett Environmental Health Department, the county commissioners, and the Bureau of Outdoor Recreation. Citizens from the lake were also present, along with a consultant from Rummel, Klepper and Kahl, engineering firm.

The facility was to have been placed near the intersection of Mayhew Inn and Oakland-Sang Run Roads.

The Board announced that it would accept applications for the position up until December 22.

THIS IS NOT YOUR EVERYDAY EVERGREEN Christmas tree — this is a coffee tree standing eight feet high and decorated appropriately for the season. Mrs. Hubert Martin, Bray School Road, needed a tree in a hurry so her family could observe Christmas before her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Arnold, and children left for a Florida vacation, and she came up with this idea. Mrs. Martin is shown above, holding a coffee mill in anticipation of grinding some of the boans appearing on the tree. She plans to pick the berries as soon as they are ready, roast them in a slow oven, and grind them for a fresh cup of coffee. Mrs. Martin got the tree from a fellow Homemaker club member, Mrs. Betty Beitzel, who has purchased a home in Baltimore for winter months and whose new home does not feature ceilings high enough for such a tall plant.

J. Robert Frazee Gets Farmer Degree

J. Robert Frazee, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Frazee, Friendsville, was awarded the American Farmer Degree at the F.F.A. National Convention in Kansas City, Missouri.

This is the highest award an F.F.A. member can receive. Robert, a member of the North Garrett F.F.A. chapter, is only the second member from that chapter and fifth from Garrett County to get the award.

He is a graduate of Northern High School in 1973 and is now a senior student at the University of Maryland majoring in Agriculture Education, with a "B" average. Robert has been awarded the Region 1 Star Farmer award, and was Region 1 vice president in 1974-75.

In compiling points for the American Farmer degree, he was employed by Frazee Lumber Company in the agriculture area, and also constructed a greenhouse at home and acted in the capacity of laborer, manager and salesman.

Robert accomplished a variety of leadership activities while at Northern, ranging from president of student government, yearbook editor, student delegate to the Maryland Conference of Education, National Rural Electric Tour, Counselor at Camp Hickory, chairman of the Northern tree planting committee and a number of North Garrett F.F.A. chapter activities.

At the University, he has been part-time assistant to the state soil scientist and an assistant in Dr. Lee Grant's office. He has completed eight weeks of student teaching at the Williamsport High School in the Vocational Education department.

Board Considers Discipline Policy

At the regular December meeting of the Garrett County Board of Education, Albert Coviello, Supervisor of Pupil Services, and members of his committee presented a proposed county discipline policy to the Board of Education.

Each local school currently has written discipline policy and the Board of Education has an adopted policy on the administration of corporal punishment. Based on concerns received from parents, teachers, school administrators, and students, the committee has been working for the past several months to evolve a discipline policy which would be applicable to all schools in the county and special meetings will be held via the P.T.A.'s in the two high schools in order to get additional input from teachers and parents, according to Mr. Coviello. These meetings will be announced through the local high schools. Dr. William Buser, Superintendent of Schools, indicated that in his opinion the issue in the policy which will be discussed most is whether or not to establish smoking areas for grades nine through twelve students outside the school building. These areas could not be used by students unless parents had signed permission slips granting them that privilege, it was stated.

In other action, the Garrett County Board of Education adopted a teacher transfer-reassignment policy and an evaluation policy for teachers in special areas, such as librarians, guidance counselors, and resource teachers.

In business-related matters, the Board authorized the superintendent to proceed to purchase a photocopying machine which is currently leased by the Board of Education as a method for saving additional dollars in printing costs.

The regular Board of Education meetings will continue to be held at 1:00 p.m. the second Thursday of each month. The board also took action to plan two additional special public Board meetings during the months of March and April.

Parent-Teacher Conferences Held To Be Successful

A report from Harold Garrett, supervisor of kindergarten through grade eight, related to parent-teacher conferences held in all elementary schools in December, was made to the Board of Education on Thursday, December 9.

Dr. William Buser, county superintendent, said the board had hoped that 40 to 50 percent of parents would take advantage of the conferences as planned by teachers and principals in the schools and the report indicated that about 69 percent had participated in the conferences. He said comments received from parents, teachers and students had generally been very complimentary. He added that some suggestions had been given on how they might be improved.

In other action the Board of Education decided to establish a date in February for the hearing on the K-5 Health Curriculum which has been designed for use in the public schools of the county. A hearing date was set for Thursday, February 17, in the auditorium at Garrett Community college, McHenry.

The proposed guide will be available in elementary schools for patrons to examine prior to the hearing and more detailed information will be circulated late January or early February concerning procedures to be used in the hearing.

The staff was asked by Herbert Harman, board president, and board members to investigate the possibility of obtaining American and Maryland flags for display and use in all classrooms in the county schools.

The Board authorized the Board President's and superintendent's continuance of efforts to correct what they believe to be a hazardous road condition on the Accident-Bittinger Road.

The Board received information relative to Vocational Education program plans and copies of project submittals for Title VI-B and Title VI-G designed to improve Special Education services in Garrett County schools.

A work session was held at 7:30 p.m. in the Board Room with the Executive Board of the Vocational Education Advisory Committee to plan activities which the group felt could be helpful in improving the Vocational Education program in the Garrett County schools.

MSTA To Outline Legislative Goals

The Maryland State Teachers association is requesting the General Assembly to permit the extension of the piggyback income tax beyond the present 50 percent and to institute a similar tax on corporate income.

This and other legislative goals for the coming year will be discussed this evening at a meeting in Cumberland when the local MSTA affiliates in Garrett and Allegany counties hold their annual legislative dinner. Details being presented are contained in a four-page booklet, "Target for Tomorrow," recently mailed to the organization's 36,000 members.

The piggyback tax extension proposal and other tax plans are being backed by MSTA because of "need for improvements in funding for public education programs, as well as the need for the state and local subdivisions to increase tax revenues and improve tax programs."

The group is also seeking a change in the graduated income tax to raise the level of graduation higher and increase the number of brackets.

The third tax reform calls for "a change in the formula for state funding of educational programs to encourage those subdivisions which are making a greater effort to raise revenue with limited resources."

The MSTA said the real property tax has become an unpopular revenue instrument.

Christmas Stains Need Prompt Care

Christmas stains on linens, clothing and elsewhere require prompt attention. Don't let the stain set in the fabric.

Here are some prevalent holiday stains and methods of treatment for washable fabrics:

Candle wax — Remove as much excess as possible with dull knife blade. Place stained spot between white blotters and press with hot iron. Rub gently with turpentine and wash in warm suds.

Glue — Soak in warm suds until dissolved; launder at once in fresh warm suds.

Chocolate or cocoa — Wash in hot suds, treat remaining stain with weak solution of household bleach, launder again in hot suds.

Meat juices — Soak in cool water; wash in hot suds. Gravy — Soak in cool water, wash in hot suds. Paint — Immediate treatment, using lots of suds, otherwise, apply turpentine or kerosene and wash in hot suds.

Tender loving care for thriving poinsettas

Do you know the origin of the lovely plant we have come to identify with Christmas? These colorful plants were first introduced to America in 1825, by Joel Poinsett, then serving as our Ambassador to Mexico, who brought some 16 plants back to his South Carolina greenhouse. He gave them to friends and botanists with greenhouses who nurtured them carefully.

Poinsettias moved out of doors in the early 1900's when a Swiss horticulturist, Albert Ecke, started to raise them in California for local holiday selling. Now we have come to enjoy poinsettias, not only at the Christmas holiday, but all the year round as well. The most popular is the vivid red, but there are white, pink and marbled flowers as handsome and radiant.

Poinsettias need specific care if they are to flourish, but that care is not really complicated. They are happiest kept at room temperature, near a window, in full daylight, but out of drafts. Water when the top soil feels dry to your touch, keeping the soil moist but not wet.

If you decide to move your poinsettia outdoors for the summer, it will need cutting back to help it retain its shape. To encourage a shorter, fuller plant cut it back between the middle of July and the beginning of August, and repot in a pot one or two sizes larger than the original, and bring indoors again about Labor Day.

Poinsettias are photo-period sensitive plants that flower in response to the length of the day. Ten hours of daylight and fourteen hours of darkness will start flowers on their way, but the least glimmer of light during the dark hours will abort any flowering.

From about October 1 to mid-December, the plant should be in complete darkness from sunset to sunup. It can be put into a closet, in a room that remains dark through those hours, or under a table that is skirted to the floor. If you have a large enough carton available up-end it over the poinsettia to keep light out. Unless the plant is kept in the dark it will not flower.

The colorful bracts that develop from this period will be ample reward for your tender loving care, and will add much excitement to your holiday decor.

The Miracle of Christmas

The merry rejoicing at Christmas, celebrating the Birth of Christ, seeks to recapture the glory and wonder of the Nativity. People everywhere come together in warmth and goodwill, recalling the Source of the Spirit that binds them together.

Although Christmas is celebrated all over the world, it is not really known whether or not Jesus, as a boy, ever had a birthday party. Jews of His time did not celebrate birthdays . . . such observances were for kings and other important people, who lived in palaces. With or without birthday parties, Jesus had an enchanted childhood, so say the legends.

One such story says He made mud-pie birds one rainy day, and as He finished them, they flew away. For having bowed down to give its fruit to His Holy Mother, Jesus rewarded a palm tree by having a cutting of it planted in Paradise.

The Magic of Christmas is happily contagious, transforming the world in an atmosphere of brotherhood and anticipation. Its magic brings families together, inspires a spirit of generosity and giving, and fills the heart with a heady lightheartedness long remembered from one's childhood.

For it is in childhood that the magic of the Yuletide is felt most keenly. The air quivers with excitement and the promise of things to come. Pungent smells fill the house and little ones can hardly sleep, for listening to the furtive sounds of mom and dad tiptoeing and whispering and wrapping, far into the night.

An old French proverb says "Miracles happen only to those who believe in them." Surely, we can all believe! Surely we can reinforce our faith in miracles!

WORLD CURRENCY FOR WORLD GOVERNMENT

Since the Breton Woods Agreements Act of 1944, which was largely shaped by Lord Keynes of England and Harry Dexter White of the United States who headed the forty nation delegation which wrote that Act, many people have envisioned a World Government. The establishment of the International Monetary Fund was supposed to promote World Government by creating a world currency which could be controlled by a very few minds.

The big stumbling block to this visionary world currency has been the reluctance of the people of the world to give up gold and silver as the basis for monetary systems.

H.R. 13955 and Gold Auctions

The Congress of the United States is now being asked to Amend the Breton Woods Agreement to permit the future disposal of the gold holdings of the International Monetary Fund, much of which were provided by America. The specific language is: "The new provisions of the IMF Articles of Agreement also promote the process of phasing gold out of the system — by abolishing the official price of gold and gold's role as common denominator of the system, by eliminating all requirements to use gold in transactions with the Fund, AND BY PROVIDING SPECIFIC AUTHORITY FOR FUTURE DISPOSAL OF THE FUND'S GOLD HOLDINGS."

But the International Monetary Fund is not waiting on Congress to act and give it the authority to dispose of the Fund's gold holdings. On Wednesday, September the 15th, 1976 it sold at public auction in Washington 780,000 ounces of gold, in the third of sixteen planned auctions in the next two years. The price of gold went way down all over the world as a result.

Could Russia Buy Up Gold at Auction?

The only assurance our Congress has been given that one country will not corner the world as gold supply at these auctions is a secret agreement that none of the Group of Ten nations with the largest gold holdings will be a buyer.

Even more important, the Bill Congress is being asked to approve would make the value of the American dollar dependent on the value of the currencies of 15 other countries. Our money would become less and less stable.

Do you like to see this happen when America is already in debt more than all the rest of the nations of the world, and when about $250 Billion of this debt represent our give-away programs to other nations of the world during the last 30 years.

Perhaps your Congressman would like to know how you feel about H.R. 13955 — Are you for it or against it?

Awards in the program are sponsored by Westinghouse Electric Corporation.

4-H'ers Cut Energy Waste

CHICAGO—Using an air conditioner just one extra hour wastes as much electricity—and money—as using a lamp for 12 hours, according to an energy specialist.

The difference is in the wattage, says Charles M. Hohn, extension agricultural engineer at New Mexico State University. The average window air conditioner uses about 1,200 watts of power. A 100-watt light bulb uses only 100 watts.

Conserving energy by using electricity efficiently is one of the goals of young people 9-19 in the national 4-H electric energy program conducted by the Cooperative Extension Service. Incentive awards in the program are provided by Westinghouse Electric Corporation through the National 4-H Service Committee.

4-H members learn-by-doing to select, care for and operate appliances wisely to avoid energy waste.

Tours of generating plants help answer questions about how electricity is produced, what it costs and why, and how usage is measured.

Depending on their interests and abilities, 4-H'ers can study the fundamentals of electricity and electronics, make basic electrical items, repair small appliances, and explore careers in electric and allied industries.

For outstanding achievement in electric energy projects, Westinghouse awards $800 college scholarships to six national winners and an expense-paid trip to the 55th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 28-Dec. 2 in Chicago, to one winner per state. Medals of honor go to as many as four 4-H members in each county. All winners are selected by the Extension Service.

Westinghouse also is helping produce "Exploring the World of Electricity," new educational materials for beginning members in the 4-H electric energy program. The materials are slated for publication this summer.

Additional information on the program is available from county extension agents.

Deer Statistics Given By Manager Of Wildlife Dept.

Statistics on the deer killed were provided this week by Edward J. Golden, district wildlife manager. He gave information on what occurred at the checking stations and the results that were tabulated.

Each year during the Deer Firearm Season, Maryland Wildlife Administration personnel men check stations in most counties of the State. The information gathered at these check stations is used to monitor the condition of Maryland's deer herd.

The total number of deer checked in by Maryland hunters for the 1976 deer season was 9,100 animals. The antlered harvest count was 6,100 and the anterless harvest count was 3,000. All Maryland counties, except for the four westernmost counties, have a permit system for the hunting of anterless deer.

This year, the Wildlife Administration conducted a special season for Sitka Deer on the Eastern Shore, with a resulting kill of 500 Sitkas. These deer are found only in the tidal areas of the Eastern Shore, and will not be stocked in other areas of the State because of their destructive nature to agricultural crops.

In Garrett County, 788 buck (or antlered deer) were killed. The average age for most of the buck killed each year falls in the year and a half old class; this year was no exception. The yearlings comprised 86.3% of the kill; 11.5% were two and a half year olds; and 0.76% were five and a half year olds.

At each check station, the deer are weighed and number of antler points are counted. This data is used to compare the condition of the deer herd with that of other years. This year, weight and point figures compare favorably with those of the 1975 season.

The average weight for year and a half old deer is 105 lbs.; for 2½ year old deer, 123 lbs.; for 3½ year olds, 124 lbs.; and for 5½ year olds, 108 lbs. The number of points per deer are as follows: of the year and a half old deer, 11.7% were spike bucks, 34.2% were four-pointers, 37.6% were six-pointers, 14.7% were eight-pointers, and 1% were twelve-pointers. The two and a half year olds had 25% with four points, 6.25% with six points, 50% with eight points, and 18.75% with twelve points. Fifty-percent of the three and a half year olds had six points and 50% had eight points.

Hunting pressure for the 1976 hunting season rated about the same as that of last year. Considering the weather conditions, Garrett County experienced a very successful season.

'Fete de Rois' Old Tradition

The "Fete de Rois" — the Feast of the Kings — is an old French tradition, taking place on Twelfth Night. It is often celebrated by Parisians with traditional family dinners or a visit to a restaurant.

Customarily, a China bean is hidden in the meal-cake, the principal food. The cake is cut, one slice per person, and the finder of the bean shouts, "The King Drinks."

A toast is proposed and the bean-finder proclaimed king of the Twelfth Night celebration.

Choose Shirt To Suit The Man

If you plan to give a shirt to the best man in your life this Christmas, select wisely. There's more to consider than cost and size.

Collar styles have much to do with how much a man will wear a shirt, and how he will look wearing it.

Sharp-pointed collars with little spread between them tend to lengthen appearance of the face and the figure. Not right for the slim-Jim. Wide spread collars with short round points help fill out a thin face.

Men with short, thick necks usually prefer a shirt with long collar points or a low-set collar.

If you want to be sure the gift will please, take a good look at your man's "favorite" shirt, the one he wears most often. Something in the same style will likely be most appreciated.

Mrs. J. W. Jackson Dead At Age 84

Mrs. Mabel R. Jackson, 84, of 21 Park Lane, Lonaconing, died early last Thursday morning, December 9, at Garrett County Memorial hospital in Oakland.

Born in Lonaconing March 26, 1892, she was the daughter of the late August Hohing and Margaret Peebles Hohing. Her husband, John W. Jackson, died in 1955.

Up until about a year before her death she had been president of the J. W. Jackson Company, with a Ben Franklin Variety Store in Oakland. She was a member of First Presbyterian church of Lonaconing. She had been spending the past several weeks with her son and daughter-in-law in Oakland and had been a recent patient in the West Virginia university medical center in Morgantown.

Surviving are a son, Col. J. Haig Jackson (Army, retired), of Oakland; one sister, Mrs. Margaret Sowers, Lonaconing; six grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the John O. Durst funeral home in Oakland, and later taken to the Eichhorn funeral home in Lonaconing.

Funeral services were conducted from the funeral home Saturday morning at 10:30 o'clock with Rev. Richard A. Seaks, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, Oakland, officiating. Interment was in the Oak Hill cemetery in Lonaconing.

The family requested that memorials take the form of contributions to the American Cancer society.

For The Birds

It is an old custom in Austria to decorate a Christmas tree for the birds. Suet rings and other edibles are principal decorations.

Dutch Americans Noted St. Nick's Day

St. Nicholas Day and not Christmas was the important December holiday for early Dutch Americans along the lower Hudson River.

In the late 18th century a kissing bell hung in some American homes with the Christmas tree still decades away. And by the 1840's Christmas presents had already been exchanged for many years.

During December, these and many past holiday traditions can be seen at historic sites along the lower Hudson. At Sunnyside, the home of author Washington Irving in Tarrytown, N.Y., Christmas will be observed as he knew the holiday in the 1850's. Van Cortlandt Manor in Croton-on-Hudson characterizes the holiday as it was celebrated by a family in the late 18th century, with both Dutch and English tradition. Philipsburg Manor in North Tarrytown presents customs of early Dutch Americans that passed into oblivion in the late 1700's.

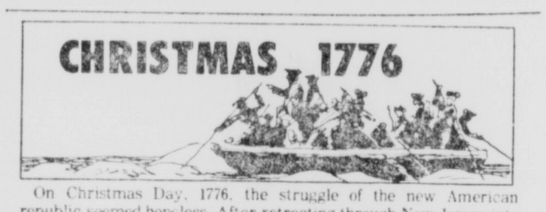
SIMULATED DISASTER — Emergency Medical Technicians of the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad worked quickly to "treat" 22 patients in a simulated mass disaster drill held Sunday afternoon at Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home in Oakland. Members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad provided realistic make-up and acted as critics for the performance of the nursing home staff and the Southern squad. Patients were transferred to the squad hall on Oak Street. All patients were treated and transported within one hour.



On Christmas Day, 1776, the struggle of the new American republic seemed hopeless. After retreating through New Jersey into Pennsylvania, the tattered American Army, riddled with dysentery, many shoeless, huddled along the banks of the Delaware River. In mid-December, Congress had left Philadelphia in anticipation of a British attack, giving George Washington dictatorial powers before departing for Baltimore.

In the bleak setting along the Delaware, Washington spoke to his ragged 2400: "This is it, gentlemen — victory or death. That is our only watchword.

"Notwithstanding the discouraging accounts, I am determined to cross the river and make the attack on Trenton in the morning."

The rest is history. Washington and his men ignored snow, sleet and ice to make a dangerous river crossing, marched to Trenton and humbled the vaunted Hessian mercenaries, thus writing on the day after Christmas, 1776, one of the most glorious pages in the American history book.

$20,000 Federal Grant Allocated For Elderly

The Maryland Office on Aging has received a $20,000 federal grant to implement a legal services program for the elderly on a statewide basis beginning January 1.

In making the announcement, Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging, says, "During recent visits to each subdivision in Maryland, many older people mentioned problems to me that could be solved if legal services were available to them. I am confident this program will have very beneficial effects."

Appointed by Dr. Tayback to initiate the new legal services program is attorney Peter Robb. Mr. Robb was graduated with honors from the University of Maryland School of Law after completing his undergraduate work at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. Mr. Robb's professional experience includes work with the Maryland Juvenile Law Clinic, a position with the Legal Aid Consumer Division and service as a clerk for the Honorable Robert L. Karwacki, Judge of the Circuit Court of Baltimore City.

The grant also provides for a consultant to be retained in an advisory capacity. Selected by Dr. Tayback for this role is Professor John J. Regan of the University of Maryland School of Law. Professor Regan is nationally noted for his long career in dealing with legal problems as they relate to the aged.

In planning his course of action, Mr. Robb says he will first determine what specific legal needs Maryland's senior citizens have and what legal services are now available to them.

"I have several objectives I hope to accomplish," says Mr. Robb. "I hope to make existing legal services more responsive to older persons, as well as develop additional resources to meet the legal needs of the ever growing senior population; I expect to initiate and conduct training programs on the subject of legal services for grantee staffs of various aging programs now in operation and I also will set up educational programs on legal issues for the elderly themselves." As part of his goal, Mr. Robb expresses hope of getting local bar or law schools involved in legal activities relating to services for the elderly.

Presently, three Area Agencies on Aging in Maryland have developed legal service programs for ther elderly. These are restricted to residents of Baltimore City, Montgomery and Prince George's Counties. Elsewhere in the state, the elderly rely on Legal Aid and Judicare services to meet their needs.

The Older Americans Act directs that older persons be entitled to efficient community services, which provide social assistance in a coordinated manner and which are readily available when needed. A legal service is itself a community service, but it also helps persons locate, use and receive appropriate benefits from other community services affecting their health, housing and income status. The availability of legal services in such situations contributes to the achievement of the Older Americans Act objectives.

Red, Green remain Favorite Wrappings

Christmas wraps come in many colors but, year after year, red and green continue to dominate. No one knows why, for there seems to be no legendary or historical reason.

Dark blue, white, silver and gold are popular hues, but still far behind the traditional red and green.

Byron Seeks Armed Services Place

Rep. Goodloe E. Byron (D-Md. 6th) has announced he wants to give up his seat on the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce committee for a position on the Armed Services committee.

Rep. Byron requested an appointment to the major house committee which sets the national defense budget and he should know soon as House leaders will be meeting to make the assignments.

The Frederick Congressman said he wanted the new post because of the tremendous interest in national security. He has consistently received high marks on his pro-military stands from the American Security Council, a group which favors a strong military.

"There is a great deal of legislation on security of the U. S." Rep. Byron said.

He said such an appointment would also be helpful to his constituency as there was a good deal of military work in his district.

"The A-10 airplane is important to Washington county, Ft. Detrick Medical Research center is there. And there is Ft. Ritchie, our underground defense center. I'd like to see Armed Services give more attention to Fort Detrick," he explained, "and adapt it to more clinical work on cancer research."

He added that such an appointment could help him understand the process of military contracts, and become a strong voice for his congressional district in that regard.

Byron said he grew dissatisfied with his appointment on the Commerce committee because "we were getting more and more into urban type problems. I think I can do better for my constituents elsewhere."

The United Auto Workers may rejoin the AFL-CIO.

Grantsville's Old National Hotel Awakening To New Life

By Carol Canan

The Old National Hotel in Grantsville, like Sleeping Beauty, is awakening. Her prince charming has arrived in the guise of varied human forms, and instead of a kiss there are the sounds of hammering, painting, food sizzling, and laughter.

In fact, says part owner Judy Miller, a sense of humor is your only defense against the trials and delays attendant to completely renewing a 150-year-old structure.

One of the most visible changes in the Hotel is the addition of The Pioneer Room Restaurant on the first floor. Judy, a native of Baltimore, and Bob Leavitt, who is originally from Bangor, Maine, opened the restaurant only recently and already are garnering a reputation especially for their chicken dinners and pizza.

Local cooks are Carol Craze, in charge of the home baking department and the kitchen, and Ed Delaney.

Before the restaurant could open, it was necessary to completely re-do the kitchen, with the exception of the huge cooking range which is so old parts are not available, and so competent parts are not needed anyway.

The dining room has been completely refurbished as well, with the addition of church pews from the Bald Hill Assembly of God Church in Baltimore and custom-made lights and center beams.

The hotel is now home for Judy and partner Bob, and for her partner in the hotel, Mark Silberstein. Others there to help complete the necessary work are Kemp Miller, Jr., and Joe Lebharz, Jr., formerly of Catonsville.

Those who have remodeled older buildings can tell you the best way is to start at the top. This the owners literally did, with installation of a new roof. Next, the third floor received months and months of attention, and was remodeled into five apartments. The fifth and final third floor apartment will be a duplex, with striking views of the town from its second story living area.

Upstairs, as everywhere, decayed varnish and the grime of years had to be stripped from all the wood, baring the beauty of solid cherry, oak and ash. The third floor work took over a year to complete, and now the group is getting ready to renovate the second floor, which will have 13 rooms for transient guests.

The hotel was also insulated and storm windows have been installed. Yeager and Sons did the electrial rewiring.

Some furniture came with the building, and as Judy says, these, too, are positively screaming for attention so that they may be restored.

On the first floor, work remains to be done in a side room which will be used as a parlor and which has a large bay window, a fireplace and decorative tin ceiling. The lobby will also receive more attention, in due time.

During the course of the operations on the house, various items have been discovered, chiefly an abandoned staircase, several pictures, and a hotel register from 1905.

Scotch tape has been used liberally in previous years to hold things together and turns up in the oddest places, including on the heating pipes.

For those accustomed to the Hotel in its past, drab years, it would be worth an eyeopening trip to see the changes. For those who have never before visited this revitalized building, it would be worth a trip to meet the staff, enjoy the dining facilities and hear how hard work can triumph over a "sleeping beauty."

A lovely stairway is at right in the lobby of the National Hotel, and is a focal point of the room. At right is the doorway into what will become the parlor-sitting room, while at left is the door into the rest room, which makes use of a converted phone booth to house the facilities.

Rooms on the second floor awaiting the transforming hands of the staff at the Old National Hotel in Grantsville look like this. Furniture, high ceilings, linoleum, and other facets of the rooms remind viewers of days gone by. Each of the 13 rooms for transients on second floor will be completely redone within the next year, according to Ms. Miller.

A fine old hotel desk which originated with the National Hotel remains a dominant feature of the lobby to this day, along with a metal cash register which is also of ancient vintage. Judy Miller, co-proprietor of the hotel and also of the Pioneer Room restaurant, keeps an eye out for customers from behind the curved wooden counter.

Banquet-style seating is featured in the dining room of The Pioneer Restaurant in the National Hotel. Custom-made lights and beams dominate the huge room, which offers smaller tables for less than family-sized groups. At left is Diane Sharpless, a resident on third floor.

Final touches are added to the penthouse apartment in old National Hotel in Grantsville by Joe Lebharz, Jr. The entire third floor was remodeled to include closets and bathrooms so five apartments could be arranged from existing space. All apartments are already rented, including this one which is not quite ready for occupancy.

Homemade pizza dough, without additions, is used to make rolls and breads in the kitchen of The Pioneer Room. Judy Miller, partner in both the hotel and restaurant, demonstrates how to roll out the dough, while some finished rolls can be seen in the left foreground. The kitchen boasts a chicken cooking apparatus which can cook 14 pounds of chicken in nine minutes.

Greeting cards have colorful, historic sources

Each year researchers come up with more and more fascinating information about the origins of Christmas and New Year greetings.

Greeting cards are usually made of stiff paper or cardboard, but cloth, vellum, leather, celluloid, metal, wood, clay, cork, and new materials have been added to their designs. Cards and their messages vary in size. In 1929 an inscribed grain of rice was presented as a Christmas greeting to the Prince of Wales, and in 1924, President Calvin Coolidge received a Christmas card that measured 21 x 33 inches!

In ancient Egypt the New Year was celebrated by the exchange of symbolic presents such as scent bottles and scarabs inscribed "an ab nab" ("all good luck"). The Romans exchanged strenae, originally branches of laurel or olive, often coated with gold leaf. Symbols of seasonal good will, such as a Roman lamp and the figure of Victory surrounded by strenae, were combined on objects of baked clay, with the inscription "Anno Novo faustum felix tibi sit" ("May the New Year be happy and lucky for you"). The acknowledgment of the New Year with the exchanges of good will continued in Europe through the early days of Christianity.

In the 15th century, master wood engravers produced inscribed prints which had the same intent as the modern Christmas and New Year cards. One of these shows the Christ Child with halo, before a cross holding a scroll on which appears "Ein gust selig ior" ("A good and happy year"). During the 18th and early 19th centuries, copper plate engravers were producing prints and calendars for the New Year and greetings by merchants and tradesmen were common.

Recognized as the first Christmas card is one designed in England by J. C. Horsley, in 1843 for his friend Sir Henry Cole. An edition of 1,000 copies was placed on sale at Felix Summerly's Treasure House in London in 1846. They were printed by lithography on stiff cardboard, in dark sepia and hand colored. The design shows a family party in progress, beneath which is the greeting, "A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year to You."

A similar card was designed by W. M. Egley of London and produced as an etching in 1848. While this card is more elaborate, its design suggests a relationship to the Cole-Horsley card. The same may be said of an American Christmas card of the same period, designed by R. H. Pease of Albany, N.Y., which bore the inscription, "Pease's Great Variety Store in The Temple of Fancy." Sentiment cards were exchanged and collected in the United States from 1830 to the Civil War and many have survived . . . among them an "expanding heart" Christmas present or greeting card in purse form, dating from about 1859.

Today you can say Merry Christmas in Macedonian, Greek, Hungarian, any one of 32 languages plus Braille. There are greeting cards available in our polyglot nation in Polish, Spanish, Japanese, Armenian, Croatian, Chinese, Macedonian, Portuguese, Greek, Swedish, Norwegian, Hungarian, Lithuanian, to name just a few. Distributed throughout the United States, many are produced in this country, others come from abroad.

It was noted by one of the manufacturers of these Christmas cards, that whenever there is turmoil or a revolution in a foreign country, the sales in that language soar. Since type faces in some languages are unavailable, many of the exotic messages are photographed from the originals. In the case of some Chinese messages, a waiter in a Chinese restaurant who is also an artist, wrote the greetings on a piece of paper from which they were photographed and reproduced.

Deadline Set On Scholarships

The deadline for applying for Maryland State scholarships for use in the 1977-78 school year is January 15, it was announced by State Senator Edward J. Mason, of Cumberland.

He indicated interested students should pick up the application packets at a high school guidance office or a college financial aid office, or place a call to the Maryland State Scholarship board.

B.P.W. Holds Auction

Fifteen Business and Professional club members from Garrett County gathered last Thursday evening at Will O' the Wisp for dinner and a Christmas auction.

Mrs. Wilma Calhoun, co-chairman of the auction, served as the auctioneer and collected $77 for the club. She was assisted by Joyce Pendergast and Mrs. Barbara Flinn.

Club president Mrs. Mildred Dunbar conducted a short business meeting, with a discussion centering on the club's proposed Individual Development program under the direction of Dr. Jean Shaw.

Dr. Shaw will be in charge of the International Women's Year program at the January 13 meeting, and plans to then set up a schedule for the Development program.

There were five guests present for the dinner and auction.

Tax Hike Slated

The General Assembly's top fiscal expert said this week that an increase in either the sales or income tax will be needed to balance the Fiscal 1978 operating budget Gov. Marvin Mandel will submit to the legislature next month.

The message was delivered by William S. Ratchford, head of the legislative department of fiscal services to senators and delegates attending the first pre-session budget briefings.

Goldstein was of the opinion no increase was necessary. Ratchford predicted a $176 million gap between income and spending.

The group, which now numbers 33, plans to use funds raised by the sale to help purchase additional equipment at the center and for an activity fund. With money raised last fall, they purchased an imprinting machine and hope to buy a similar piece of equipment soon. Goods offered will include cookies, cakes, breads, and mints, all made at the center by the participants.

Weather Is Milder, Drier

Milder, drier weather has been experienced on the Mountain Top during the past week.

It is the first time temperatures have averaged above normal for many weeks. There was only a skiff of snow one day.

Mostly cloudy skies prevailed from Thursday until Monday morning, being heavy overcast Saturday and Sunday. About .35 inch of rain fell during this time. Light snow flurries Monday deposited .2 inch of fluffy snow. Monday afternoon and Tuesday, skies were clear and the same late yesterday. This morning skies were mostly cloudy with some light rain.

For the first time since September, temperatures for the week have averaged above normal. The average was 34 degrees or 3.8 above normal. Highs averaged 43.6 degrees or 3.4 above normal. The high was 49 degrees last Friday. The high last Thursday was only 31 degrees, the coolest day. Lows averaged 24.3 degrees or 4.1 above normal. The coldest morning was Tuesday with only 9 degrees. It was in the teens Friday and Monday and 24 degrees this morning.

The Green Light For Nuclear Power

One of the "spin-offs" from the last national election was the public's overwhelming rejection of restrictive laws designed to hamper the development of nuclear energy for the production of electric power. The green light for nuclear power was signalled in six states — Arizona, Ohio, Oregon, Montana, Washington, and Colorado — where the people overwhelmingly voted against ballot proposals to hobble nuclear energy. And shortly before, in California, an all-out campaign against nuclear energy was turned back by a vote of more than two to one.

For many years the development of nuclear energy in the United States has been seriously — and expensively — hampered. A militant minority exploiting the four horsemen of ignorance, fear, superstition and subversion have thrown countless roadblocks in the way of nuclear power. Now, however, all of the arguments have been made; both sides have been heard and weighed. The people have made the decision: go ahead with nuclear energy.

Although this science-age energy comprises only a small part of our total power consumption today, it has been estimated that last year alone nuclear power saved consumers nearly $2 billion on electric bills. Perhaps more important than the saving of money however, was the conservation of our natural resources — the fact that nuclear energy saved us the equivalent of 12.5 billion gallons of oil, or 80 million tons of coal. In addition, we avoided the pollution of air and earth which would have resulted from the burning of coal or oil.

The people have spoken: not once or twice, but over and over again. Our natural goal to increase nuclear production from our present 9% to 50% by the year 2,000 has been set. Let's get on with reaching that goal, with no further delay. —U.S. Press Association.

How to "Kid-Proof" Your Kitchen

To a small child, the kitchen is an important part of his universe — ranking right up there with the bath and his bedroom.

It's a warm, cheerful place where mother spends a lot of her time, where the family gathers for meals, and where one can smell the aromas of cookies baking, french fries sizzling, hot chocolate simmering and bacon frying.

"Kid-proofing" your kitchen so that you don't have to keep a watchful eye out every second is a necessity for the mother who expects to have any peace of mind or to get any family meals prepared.

Here are nine tips on how to do it from the General Electric Consumers Institute which has been helping homemakers in the kitchen for more than half a century.

1. Starting at the bottom, put plastic insert plugs in all floor level electrical outlets when they are not in use. This will prevent anything metallic being inserted into the outlet and reduce the possibility of the child receiving an electrical shock.
2. Do not allow electric cords to hang below the counter or table top, where a child might grab them, try to eat them, or could fall on the prongs. (And keep such cords in good condition for your own protection — no cracked or cut cords should be allowed in a well run kitchen.)
3. When cooking on range surface units, always keep pot handles turned toward the rear so that little ones cannot reach up and tip or spill a pot of boiling water or a pan of scalding grease.
4. Keep knives and other sharp utensils out of sight and out of reach.
5. Don't store soap, bleach or other laundry chemicals where they are easily accessible to play in or drink. And insulate any undersink hot water pipes so that touching them will not result in burns.
6. Set up a "play area" for the child well away from the range and ovens. A child playing where food is being prepared runs the greater risk of injury.
7. If you have a trash compactor, keep it locked when not in use so that junior cannot fill it with your china, silver or the family cat.
8. Try to locate your refrigerator or freezer so that the back coils are not accessible to touch, as they do become hot.
9. The dishwasher door should always be kept securely latched so that a toddler trying to stand up with the help of the handle won't pull the door down on himself.

If you adopt the point of view of the child, many kitchen accidents are preventable. Removing temptation is half the battle in making your kitchen "kid-proof."

THAT'S A FACT

Italian Children Wait For Good Witch 'Befana'

Italian youngsters anticipate gifts on January 6, the Feast of the Epiphany, rather than on Christmas Eve.

Children place their shoes by the fireplace in anticipation of the arrival of "Befana", the good witch, who comes down the chimney on a broom to fill shoes with sweets for those who have been good, with coal for the naughty.

One Injured Due To Icy Road

A one-vehicle mishap due to ice, on the Mt. Zion road last Thursday sent one man to the hospital. A number of other less serious one-vehicle accidents were noted.

Ronald W. Warnick, RD 1, Swanton, was treated and released from the Garrett County Memorial Hospital where he was taken by Mrs. Warnick. He was driving east on the Mt. Zion road near the Sharpless Mine road and hit a patch of ice. The pick-up slid off the road to the left, struck a telephone pole and then a tree. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant investigated.

Wanda L. Collins, Deer Park, was driving north on Md. 495 near North Glade road late last Friday evening. Her car ran off the road to the right onto the soft shoulder. She then lost control of the car which struck a culvert, then a mail box, continued on and struck a pine tree before it came to rest. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

Two wrecks occurred Saturday, one shortly past midnight, the other in the afternoon.

Roberta F. McRobie, RD 4, Deer Park, was traveling south on Sand Flat road about 12:30 a.m., near the Spring Glade road, at an apparent high rate of speed. She failed to negotiate a left curve, struck a mail box and lost control of the car. The vehicle continued on for 500 feet before coming to rest. Tfc. E. J. Upole made the investigation.

About one p.m., Suzanne Ryan, Mt. Lake Park, was driving west on Md. 135, near the Savage River road. A dog ran from the south side of the road causing the mishap. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater made the investigation.

Two accidents Sunday followed the same time pattern as Saturday. About 12:20 a.m., Robert M. Smith, RD 4, Deer Park, was traveling south on U.S. 219 just north of Foster road, at an apparent high rate of speed. He lost control of the car which spun around and skidded about 330 feet, backwards, before it came to rest in a ditch off the northbound lane. Tfc. Upole investigated.

A Sunday noontime mishap involved two vehicles. Mark C. Edmiston, Maple street, Friendsville, was westbound on the Accident-Bear Creek road near the Accident-Friendsville road. Larry R. Buckley, Pierpont, Ohio, headed south, failed to keep to the right side of the road and struck the side of the Edmiston pick-up. Tfc. R. B. Westmoreland made the investigation.

Political Snow Job

Members of our U.S. Congress have bemoaned the "low public opinion" of our National Legislature. Unfortunately, the collective members of Congress haven't done much to change that low opinion. If anyting, they have tended to make it worse.

Consider, for example, the recent Congressional uproar over the "inflationary" 6% price hike by the steel companies. The expressions of indignation ran all the way from name-calling to a demand for a full-fledged investigation.

Warren Brookes, a distinguished feature writer for the respected Boston Herald American says that he doesn't recall "any politician raising an eyebrow when the United Auto Workers signed their contracts (just a month before), thus raising the labor costs on automobiles by more than $6.3 billion." That tidy sum, newsman Brookes reminds us, is not just 2 times, or 4 times, or six times, but twelve times the total size of the steel price hike.

Translated into cost per car, that figures out to a rise in price per car of about $18.00 because of the increased cost of steel. But the price of labor is going up by over $500 per car. Why no Congressional outcry? Could it be because Big Labor forked over more than $48 million in political "contributions" in the last election?

"Frankly," continues Brookes, "we don't remember a single politician from either party complaining when the Teamsters raised total trucking-labor costs by more than $11 billion over the next three years. That's 22 times as much as the steel price hike. Wasn't that inflationary?

"And what about the rubber workers who just added almost $2 billion to the price of tires — wasn't that inflationary, too?"

These same politicians, "while complaining bitterly about a mere half billion dollar increase in the price of steel, quickly forget that Social Security tazes went up last January $4 billion and will go up another $4 billion this January — and that Congress raised government spending by almost $50 billion last year and next year's budget will go up another $50 billion."

And now these same members of Congress, who socked it to us to the tune of $50 billion, have the audacity to complain because the steel companies increase prices by a mere half billion?

Informed (and concerned) Americans are well aware that the chief cause of inflation lies smack-dab in the middle of the halls of the U.S. Congress and Senate. If the members of Congress want to enjoy a "better public opinion," then they had better start doing something to earn it — and quickly. — U.S. Press Association.

Looking ahead to Christmas — Give a gift you make yourself

Some of the nicest gifts you can give are those you've made yourself. They have a special way of showing you really care.

The recipes below are for interesting holiday treats that you can make before the festivities begin. Attractively wrapped they will make most welcome gifts, or perhaps you'll want to show them off at home, for guests and your loving family.

Rum or Bourbon Balls

Make these a few weeks before giving, so they have a chance to ripen.

1 cup pecans, almonds or walnuts, chopped fine
1 cup vanilla wafer crumbs
2 tablespoons Dutch cocoa
1 cup powdered sugar
1½ tablespoons white karo syrup
¼ cup rum or bourbon

Mix all ingredients together. Using about 1 rounded teaspoon of the mixture, form small balls. Roll in extra powdered sugar and store in tightly covered container, making sure they are not crowded together. That's it! For a change, try chocolate wafers instead of the vanilla, but leave cocoa out of recipe if you do.

"Stirring the Christmas Pudding" from Harper's Weekly, December 30, 1876. Courtesy of The New York Historical Society, New York City.

Leckerli

½ cup honey
1 cup sugar
½ cup chopped candied lemon and orange peel
1½ tsp. nutmeg
1½ tsp. cloves
1 tablespoon cinnamon
1 tsp. baking soda
1 cup unblanched almonds, sliced thin
Grated rind of ½ lemon
2¾ cups sifted flour

Heat honey and ½ cup sugar to boiling. Remove from heat and add peel, spices and baking soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons cold water. Add remaining ingredients and knead until well blended. Roll dough to ½ inch thickness. Put on greased waxed paper, on cookie sheet and bake in moderate oven, 325°, for about 25 minutes. Turn out on wire rack and remove paper immediately. Turn, right side up. Cook remaining ½ cup sugar and ¼ cup water until mixture spins a thread. Spread on leckerli and cut in diamond shapes. Store in airtight container for at least a week before giving or using.

Nut Loaf Sensation

¾ cup sugar
¾ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
2 packages pitted dates — about 1 lb.
1 cup well-drained maraschino cherries
3 cups shelled Brazil nuts — 2 lb. unshelled, or 1 lb. shelled
3 eggs
1 tsp. vanilla

Start heating oven. Grease, then line with waxed paper, a loaf pan measuring 9" x 5" x 3". Place first 4 ingredients in sifter. In large bowl put nuts, dates and cherries and sift flour mixture over them. Mix with hands till fruits and nuts are well coated. Beat eggs till foamy, add vanilla, stir into nut mix until well mixed. Spread evenly in pan, bake until done. Cool in pan on wire rack for 15 minutes. Remove from pan; peel paper off; cool on rack. Wrap in aluminum foil and store in refrigerator. Will keep for 5 or 6 weeks.

Happy holiday nibbling to all!

Angola In The U.N.

The decision by the U.S. not to veto the admission of Angola to the United Nations will permit yet another regime imposed upon its people by foreign bayonets to take its place as a "respected" member of that august body. Since that is also true of most of the East European countries, many will shrug their shoulders with indifference.

It has been explained, in fact, that the earlier U.S. veto of Angolan U.N. membership in June was merely the product of U.S. domestic politics. President Ford was still battling Ronald Reagan for the Republican nomination, and he did not want to give his rival an issue by legitimizing the regime that Cuban and Soviet intervention had just brought to power. But these considerations no longer apply, U.S. officials point out. What does count is the desires of Black Africa, and Black Africa wants the Angola matter settled.

So Washington gives in. We think the U.S. is making a big mistake, however. The Cuban troops, which we once proclaimed to be anathema, have not been withdrawn as promised, but are still in Angola helping the regime to subdue its opponents. And, presumably, they are still available on call for further mischief elsewhere — especially now that U.S. policy is proving to be so weak-kneed in opposition to their presence. The cynical double standard game that the U.S. plays in Africa is further reinforced. That is, that white governemnts can do virtually no right and black governments can do virtually no wrong.

The U.S. Angola retreat will correctly be seen as a major U.S. surrender of principle (whatever we have left of this commodity) in favor of expediency. It cannot fail to whet African demands for more and to embolden the Kremlin into further trouble-making on the dark continent.

We have taken a further step down a very slippery slope. —U. S. Press Association.

DELECTABLE HOME MADE COOKIES make original tree trimmings as well as happy holiday eating.

Little folks bake cookies for fun and happy hours

Youngsters can spend many creative hours in the kitchen, baking and putting together their very own cookies and Christmas treats.

The recipes below are easy for little folk and will provide some toothsome goodies to add excitement to your table, hang on your tree or wrap as gifts.

Basic Cookies (from a mix). Decide which cookie to make and make up basic dough from package directions. Use ginger-cookie mix if preferred. Roll dough out about ⅛" thick. Cut in desired shapes. Bake as package directs, then decorate with prepared frosting.

Santa Cookie: From cookie dough mix, cut out tear drop shape about 3" tall. Sprinkle with red sugar. Bake, cool, then decorate. Pointed top of tear drop is Santa's peaked hat. The wide bottom, his body.

Gumdrop Christmas Tree: Cut out triangle for tree, and small rectangle for tree base, from basic cookie dough. Press parts into place on cookie sheet and bake. When cool, add gum drops for ornaments.

Singing Angel: From cookie dough mix, cut out circle for head and larger triangle for body. From contrasting dough cut wings in tear-drop shape. On cookie sheet, press all parts into place and bake. Cool and decorate with frosting or egg paint (recipe below).

Egg Paint: It is easier for young people to decorate baked cookies, but egg paint can be applied before baking too. To make this medium, mix an egg yoke with a few drops of water. Put small amounts in tiny dishes and add vegetable coloring as desired. Use a soft brush for each color, and let your imagination go! If you are using the cookies for Christmas tree trimming, remember to leave a small hole about ½ inch from top of the cookie, for a bit of colored yarn or ribbon as the hanger.

Wanted: Two Strong Parties

The Founding Fathers didn't overlook much in establishing a system of government for the United States. One thing they didn't anticipate, however, was a mechanism that has been crucial to the stabiliby we have enjoyed for most of 200 years: the two-party political system.

The Constitution divides national power among the executive, legislative and judicial branches of the federal government. The oil that has kept this check-and-balance structure viable. however, has been the frequent elections that have given citizens an opportunity to turn out of office officials of one party in favor of those of another — with an occasional independent clipping in as well.

Following the 1976 election, however, it must seriously be questioned how healthy the two-party system is. The Republicans went into the election holding the White House, but little else. They emerged from it without the White House and with even less power in other places than before November 2.

Only one of about every four governors is a Republican. Only one of three members of the House is. And the Democratic edge over the GOP in the Senate remains, as before the election, at 62-38.

What is so disturbing about this? For one thing, the last Congress, the 94th, was notable for the large number of Democratic members who committed unethical, illegal or immoral acts. Yet very few of these notorious individuals were turned out of office at the polls. The integrity of our democratic system depends on the good judgment of voters — a judgment that was sorely lacking this time around.

Lord Acton of Britain perhaps said it best: "power tends to corrupt. And absolute power corrupts absolutely." If some members of the majority party believe they will be reelected regardless of their conduct in office, that is indeed a corrupting kind of power.

Republican National Chairman Mary Louise Smith has now resigned her post and a scramble is on for a successor. For the good of the entire nation, it is to be fervently hoped that the new chairman will succeed in picking up the pieces of the GOP and making it a viable contender for national power again. —U. S. Press Association.

Farm Paper Carries Story On "Wild River"

"Northeast Agriculture," a Farm Bureau interpretation of events which affect business farmers, carried an article in its December edition on the Youghiogheny river. It was titled "Maryland's Wild and Scenic River," who shall govern it? who shall use it? who shall pay for it?

It was an account by C. M. Wilson over the hassle now going on between landowners and persons responsible for government regulations. The story carries a rather large photo of the Youghiogheny river at Swallow Falls, and a much smaller photo of George Bishoff and his two sons, great admirers of the river. Bishoff has a farm just outside the corridor, and he is a supervisor of the Garrett Soil Conservation district. He was named to an advisory board for helping to decide on plans for the river.

The story says Bishoff along with other supervisors, thinks 11,000 acres is more than is necessary. They believe 5,000 acres to 6,000 acres would be adequate. All agree that the preservation and use of the Youghiogheny as a wild river is a good idea. But they don't agree with the regulations.

Some of their reasons:

1. Through publicity and information the river has been discovered by the public, and it expects access to the river and its surroundings.
2. The proposed regulations are a developer's dream. They set up strict regulations in a wide corridor and will benefit only the purchasers of the 5 or 10 acre lots allowed by the regulation. The wild river designation has already supplied free advertising.
3. The soil conservation district representatives on the local advisory committee felt that they had very little leeway in which to work and that the state guidelines dictated the proposed regulations.

The state had indicated it has no money with which to purchase the land. To which the local landowners reply — "as long as they can force us to pay the taxes and let the public use it for free they never will have the money." Modification of the 11,000 acre corridor is presently being considered by the Department of Natural Resources.

The Window

There is a store that is displaying this scene of Christ's birth in all its beautiful simplicity.

People walk by the window and stop and look—and when they go on again the tired lines seem to be erased from their faces. For the moment, they have forgotten the "hustle and bustle" of holiday preparations. Instead, the peace of Christmas drifts over them like the softly falling snow.

Look at those beautifully carved figures and at that tiny babe. Makes you realize, doesn't it, that Christmas after all, is the birthday of our Lord, and should be celebrated first of all where most birthdays are celebrated—at home. In this case, that means the Church.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE RETURN TRIP

Lesson for December 19, 1976

Background Scripture: Luke 2:1-20
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 52:7-10

Bethlehem is a hill town. Surrounding it are fields where for thousands of years shepherds have kept "watch over their flocks by night" — even today. As you read this there are shepherds in the fields near Bethlehem and they look very much as they did that night when the Christ was born.

Rev. Althouse

Near Bethlehem there is another hill and on it the ruins of what was once one of King Herod's proudest monuments, the Herodion. One of a string of fortresses built in Judea by Herod, it would later be one of the last Jewish strongholds to fall to the Romans in the Jewish uprising of 66-70 A.D. The massive fortress where Herod himself was buried was built on a hill 2,500 feet above sea level and commanded the Wilderness of Judah and the approach to the Dead Sea.

Filled with fear

Yet, despite all its splendor, it is one of the least-visited historic monuments in Israel today. It is not that the Herodion is that far "off-the-beaten-track." It is but a few miles from Bethlehem, 30 minutes at the most from the center of Jerusalem. The problem with the Herodion is simply that it is so overshadowed by Bethlehem and the quaint church that marks the site where Jesus was born in a stable-cave two thousand years ago. How ironic that this splendid monument should be so eclipsed by a humble stable!

Yet, history is shot-through with that kind of irony and nowhere is this more manifest than in the Christmas story. The Messiah was born not in Herod's royal bed, but in a manger — not in his palace, but in a stable. His parents were not the royalty of the land, nor even of the priestly cast, but common people from an obscure Galilean town. And, though the Messiah, the Son of God, the Saviour of the world was born on that starry night, how ironic that God sent his "Good News," not to the powerful and the wise men of the land, but to poor, humble workingmen tending flocks on a cold, dark hillside.

Let us go to Bethlehem

Yet, despite their fear and amazement, there was something compelling about this experience and overcoming their own emotions, they said to one another, "Let us go over to Bethlehem and see this thing which the Lord has made known to us." That was the beginning of a celebration that has never ended. Because they were willing to respond to their vision, they "went with haste and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger."

That's what Christmas is: a willingness to respond to our vision, God's revelation, and "go over to Bethlehem" so that we may "see this thing" with our own eyes. But that's not the end of it, for, important as is the journey to Bethlehem, even more important is the return trip. "And the shepherds returned" not just to muse silently with their flocks, but they returned celebrating — "glorifying and praising God for all they had heard and seen, as it had been told them."

SANTA SETTLES HEALTH DISPUTE WITH ELVES

We have it on good authority that the head of Santa's elf brigade had planned to protest this year. It seems that with all the extra toy making effort that goes into the pre-Christmas rush, many of the elves have become run down, anemic and very susceptible to those north pole coughs and colds.

But Santa, acting wisely, has arranged for a good stock of multiple vitamin products to be brought in and is insisting that all the elves take these vitamins on a regular basis. Looks like everything will be right on schedule again this year.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound yours?

The November meeting of the Aurora Pioneer 4-H was held in the Parish Hall at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. Norma Hauser, Shauna and Cara Sisler were hostesses.

The meeting was in charge of the president, Debbie Stemple. Devotions were presented by Sharon Wiles, Alice Knight and Darla Stemple.

It was announced that there would be no officers' training school. Business consisted of a report from the executive planning session. A committee was appointed to plan for making Christmas boxes for the shut-ins. Ribbons for last year's projects, membership cards, new project books and activity records were given to the members. Names were drawn for a gift exchange to be held at the December meeting. Tena Knight was in charge of the program.

Debbie Stemple displayed items she had collected during her trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. A Christmas tree was decorated with ornaments and decorations made by 4-H club members.

Group On Hike

The Youth Group of the Aurora United Methodist Church went on a hike Sunday, December 5. A Christmas party was held December 12 in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Alan Lipscomb by the group.

The chaplain, Mrs. Nina Layman, read the Christmas story from Luke and also a Christmas poem. Prayer was offered by Rev. Galen Fike. The evening concluded with the singing of Christmas carols. The room had been decorated and tables prepared by Mrs. Florence Minnig.

Personal Items

The staff, bus drivers and assistants, employees and retired personnel of Aurora School met for an annual Christmas party held this year in the Aurora United Methodist Memorial Building with the dinner served by the women of the church. A gift exchange, Christmas music and recreation filled the evening.

Visiting Sunday with Mrs. Lela Roth in Eglon were Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Roth and Mr. and Mrs. Julius Dumire, all of Morgantown.

Cecil Evans returned last week to his home in Horse Shoe Run following his stay in the West Virginia University Medical Center where he underwent surgery and treatment.

Earns Promotion In Bank Business

A feature article concerning Ross Selby, native of Friendsville, appears in the November issue of the Annapolitan, a monthly publication from Annapolis, and it concerns his recent promotion to vice president and regional manager for The Surburban Trust Bank in that city.

Mr. Selby, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Selby, Sr., of Friendsville, went to work several years ago with Suburban Trust Bank in Washington, D.C., and his latest promotion took him to Annapolis where he and his family are planning for a lengthy stay.

They say they are especially grateful for the wide range of recreational opportunities there, as Mr. Selby is an avid fisherman and hunter. He is having little trouble making the transition from fresh water trout to blue fish or from hunting deer to goose hunting.

He admitted to the writer, Bill Miller, that living there is a different style of life from Garrett County. He attributed life on the dairy farm as tough at times with the day beginning at 5 a.m., first getting up to milk and feed the cows, then loading the truck with timber, sometimes "even cutting it ourselves." The timber was bound for mining operations nearby where it was used to shore up the tunnels. The winters were "really cold."

When the leaves begin to turn each fall Ross still gets the urge to head back home for a little hunting. Deer and turkey are two favorites for local hunters. He relates that he hasn't killed a deer in five years but still has as much fun as the more successful hunters. He counts his father as one of the best hunters in the Selby clan.

He told a story of one of his hunting trips. He tells:

"My brother-in-law pulled a good one. Soon after they located a deer the brother-in-law took careful aim and fired. But the bullet was off the mark and shattered the trunk of a small chestnut tree next to the animal. Suddenly the deer dropped in its tracks. A cautious examination showed that when the shot went through the tree a splinter flew off and pierced the deer in the heart, killing it instantly."

He now considers a trip to the Eastern Shore a treat. Ross got a taste of deep sea fishing off Ocean City with his son Michael. He and his party motored out some 45 or 50 miles and ran into a hugh school of tuna. The fish were apparently hungry giving them all the action they could handle. Ross landed a 35-pounder and he and his family have dined generously on fresh tuna.

His other interests include gardening with azaleas a specialty. Two of his favorite sports are basketball and football. A graduate of the University of Maryland, he makes a point of going to as many of the Terrapin games as his schedule permits.

His career has been a series of steady promotions and advancement. He keeps his fingers on the pulse of the financial community and predicts a healthy, controlled economic boom for Anne Arundel county.

The article on Mr. Selby was one a dozen or more articles which appeared in the November issue about persons in and around Annapolis.

Bond To Resign

The director of the Maryland Forest Service said he planned to resign from the post early next year because of his partnership in private tree business.

Adna R. "Pete" Bond, said he had come under pressure from superiors to resign. He was well known among forest people of the county.

James B. Coulter, Maryland secretary of the Natural Resources, said he learned several months ago that Bond was involved in two Christmas tree farms in Garrett and Anne Arundel counties. He said he considered it a conflict of interest.

Clowns Elect 1977 Officers

The Oakland Ali Ghan Shrine Harige Unit held its annual election for 1977 officers, and selected the following: Richard Travis, President, Lewis M. Marks, Vice President; John O. Durst, Treasurer; John W. Wolfe, Secretary, and Temple Unit Representative.

Retiring officers are: William G. Ashby, immediate past president; and John Marple, immediate past secretary.

The Oakland based Harige Unit is one of the eighteen units of Ali Ghan Shrine Temple of Cumberland.

The Shrine of North America operates 22 hospitals for crippled children, 19 Orthopedic centers, and 3 burn care institutes, which are equipped with advanced burn treatment facilities. Funds for the operation of these hospitals are derived from various Temple and Unit activities, among which are the Shrine North — South football game, and Shrine circus.

"No man stands so tall, that he cannot stoop to help a crippled child," is the motto of American Shriners.

5-Year Growth Program Planned By Westvaco

Westvaco Corporation has announced in its 1976 annual report a $500 million capital investment program extending through 1980, designed to increase the capacity of its existing papermaking facilities by 1,000 tons a day, broaden its forestland ownership and expand other sectors of its business.

The broad programs also encompass investments to secure the company's future energy needs, provide continuing progress in environmental protection and the increased use of recycled fiber at several locations. Details of the projects to be carried out at various company locations will be announced.

It was noted that although Westvaco does not expect to install a single new paper machine nor pulp mill, the company's gain of 1,000 tons a day in capacity is equivalent to the output of a very substantial new paper mill. It was also noted that the rate of Westvaco's growth in capacity would be about double that projected for the U. S. paper industry as a whole over the same period

Persons Under 72 May Still Work And Get Benefits

People under 72 can work and earn more and still get their social security benefits starting in January, according to James E. Robertson, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland, Maryland.

"In 1977 people can earn as much as $3,000 and get their full social security retirement or survivors benefit," Mr. Robertson said. "The yearly earnings limit for 1976 was $2,760. The increase keeps the amount in line with increases in general average wages.

For earnings over $3,000 in 1977, social security benefits will be reduced by $1 for every $2 earned. "But no matter how much people earn for the year," Mr. Robertson said, "they can get their full social security benefit for any month in which they neither earn over $250 nor do substantial work in their own business." The 1976 monthly earnings limit was $230.

Different rules apply to disabled people who are getting social security disability benefits. "And people 72 and over will continue to get their full social security benefits regardless of earnings," Mr. Robertson noted.

People who earn over $2,760 and get benefits in 1976 must send a report on 1976 earnings to social security by April 15, 1977.

The social security tax rate remains the same in 1977 — 5.85 percent of covered wages paid by employees and employers; 7.9 percent of covered self-employed income.

The earnings and contributions base — the amount on which social security contributions are made — will be the first $16,500 of covered earnings for the year, starting in January. The 1976 base was $15,300.

Since benefit amounts are based on average earnings covered by social security, the increase in the wage base means that while some people may pay more in social security taxes, they will be entitled to higher payments later.

People who plan to retire within the next three months should telephone the social security office as soon as possible Inquire before you retire and get all the facts.

The people at your Social Security Office will be glad to answer questions about social security. The Cumberland, Social Security Office is located at 316 Paca Street, and is open Monday through Friday, 900 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. (except National Holidays).

Potomac Edison Cautions:

colder weather will cause higher electric bills

During September, October, and November, the weather has been 40% to 50% colder than the same period last year. As a result, household demands for electric service have risen dramatically.

Forecasts are calling for continued below normal temperatures. If so, your electric usage could increase considerably.

COMPARE BILLS

If you feel you haven't used more electricity lately, compare your kilowatthour consumption on last year's bill with your current bill. Make sure it's for the same two-month period in both years.

WHAT TO DO?

Colder weather and increased customer use of electricity make the efficient use of energy more important than ever. Keep in mind that all automatic heating systems use electricity....So setting your thermostat to 68 degrees will do a great deal in your conservation efforts. For other energy-saving recommendations, send now for Potomac Edison's free booklet, USE ELECTRICITY WISELY. Try to follow as many of the suggestions as possible to keep your usage and cost to a minimum.

Farm Bureau Names Leaders

Maryland Farm Bureau voting delegates at the 61st annual convention last week, re-elected F. Grove Miller as president of the state's largest farm organization.

Miller, a Cecil County dairy farmer, was re-elected to his second two-year term.

Leon Enfield, a Frederick County dairy farmer, was elected first vice president of the Farm Bureau. Two other vice presidents elected were Henry Holloway, a hog producer from Harford County, and Roland Darcey, a grain and tobacco farmer of Prince George's County.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Young Farmer's Committee elected a new slate of officers for 1977. They are: Chairman — Robert Ramsburg, Frederick County; Western Maryland vice president — Donald Hancock, Charles County; and Eastern Shore vice president — William Haines, Cecil County. Mrs. Nancy Hardy of Howard County was elected secretary of the committee.

The Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee has elected two new officers. They are Mrs. Myrtle Bradley of Wicomico County as second vice chairman, and Mrs. Patricia Langenfelder, Howard County, as secretary.

Other officers who were not up for re-election this year continue in their terms. They are Mrs. Pat Ensor, Carroll County, chairman of the committee; Mrs. Winnifred Dixon, St. Mary's County, first vice chairman; and Mrs. Leona Dell, Carroll County, parliamentarian.

Three new district directors were elected to serve two year terms on the Maryland Farm Bureau Women's Committee. Mrs. Nancy Herbst of Washington County was chosen director for District One. She will represent Allegany, Frederick, Garrett, and Washington counties on the state committee.

New director for District Three is Mrs. Lillian Jarboe of St. Mary's County. In addition to her home county, she represents Anne Arundel, Calvert, Charles, and Prince George's counties.

Mrs. Catherine Dudrow will represent Caroline, Kent, Queen Anne's and Talbot counties. She is from Talbot County.

Other directors continuing their two year terms are District Two — Mrs. Peggy Fisher, Howard County (Howard, Carroll and Montgomery counties); District Four — Mrs. Dorothy Weber Harford County (Baltimore, Cecil, Harford counties); District Six — Mrs. Gertrude Mariner, Worcester County (Dorchester, Somerset, Wicomico, Worcester counties).

Little Change Noted In 1976 Deer Harvest

Unofficial figures show that this year's firearms deer season harvest in Maryland was almost the same as last year.

The results, compiled by the Wildlife Administration of the Department of Natural Resources, show that 9,110 deer were harvested during the season, a decrease of 16 from last year.

Robert L. Miller, Forest Wildlife Program Director for the Wildlife Administration, said official figures would be ready about mid-January after all deer tags are collected.

This year's firearms season was from November 27 to December 4. For the first time in modern history, hunters were able to take three deer during the season, if at least two were Sika Deer. The populations of this exotic species, imported to Maryland in the early 1900's have grown to the point where they are a heavy threat to farm crops and have to be controlled.

The following is a county rundown of the 1976 deer harvest as compared to last year's.

Garrett, 766, 658 last year; Allegany, 896, 1,000 last year; Washington county, 449, 527 last year; Frederick 358, 315 last year. The total given in The Republican last week was 770, which was accounted for because of four out of county tags listed on Wednesday of the open season that were counted in the final count.

COLOR TELEVISIONS

IT'S NEW
IT'S CALLED VIR BROADCAST CONTROLLED COLOR TV

Many TV programs are now transmitted with a special color reference signal called VIR When the VIR signal is present, new sophisticated computer-type circuitry, in selected General Electric color models, uses this signal to automatically adjust the color and tint of the television picture: this means you won't have to fiddle with those color control settings; instead, this truly automatic VIR system makes the adjustments for you.

GE's Broadcast Controlled Color system consistently gives you color and tint automatically adjusted by the VIR signal from the broadcasters themselves.

Come in for a demonstration . . . ask us to show you the extent to which VIR is available in this area.

Gosnell - McBride Vows Heard September 25 At Browning Farm

Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday, September 25, by Margaret E. McBride and Charles W. Gosnell. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. John Grant at the residence of Col. R. C. Browning, Sang Run. Vocalist was Mary Laura McBride, sister of the bride, who sang "Follow Me" and "Annie's Song."

Terry McBride and the late Mrs. Ann McBride are parents of the bride. Mr. Gosnell is the son of Bill Gosnell, Florida, and Lucile B. Grant, Thousand Oaks, California.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an off-white muslin and lace peasant gown.

Matron of honor for her sister was Patsy Gilbert. Flower girls were nieces of the bride, Teresa and Patsy Gilbert, all of Pittsburgh. Ringbearers were Joey Spiker and Joey Gilbert, nephews of the bride.

Steve Blizzard, Morgantown, W. Va., was the best man.

The reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the Browning farm. An outdoor buffet was set up and served along with wedding cake and punch.

The bride is employed at Starlite Restaurant in Oakland. The groom, a graduate of West Virginia University, is employed by Buffalo Coal Company as a pilot.

Pilots To Hear John R. Scott

John F. R. Scott, Deputy Administrator for the Maryland Aviation Commission, will be the guest speaker at the Garrett County Pilots Association meeting Thursday, December 16, at 8 p.m. at the National Guard Armory. The topic of Mr. Scott's presentation will be "How to Improve Garrett County's Aviation Facilities through State and Federal Aid." According to Bob Railey, President of the association, all interested persons are invited.

A thirty year veteran of flying everything from Spads to single engine jet fighters, John was manager of Friendship International Airport prior to being appointed to his present position. Some of his exploits during World War II, the Korean Conflict and as Commander of the Maryland Air National Guard Fighter Squadron would make the Black Sheep on television look like angels, according to Mr. Railey.

Rainbow To Entertain

Members of the Oakland Assembly No. 8 are inviting all members of the Masonic order, Eastern Star members and Shriners to a Christmas meeting on Sunday evening, December 19, at 7 o'clock, at the Masonic Temple on Wilson street.

The next regular meeting will be held January 18.

Northern Rescue Members Recertified

Ten members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad have been recertified as Cardiac Rescue Technicians. Cindy Sweene, Ken Hamilton and Paul Frank attended the session held at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland on November 24th. Raymond Yoder, Linda Walker, Dotty Folk, Ron Bowser, Dave Bicker, Barry Beal, and Floyd Baker attended the session held at Sacred Heart Hospital on December 9th.

Recertification consisted of review and performance of the skills required to recognize a series of electrocardiograph diagrams, defibrilate, give cardiopulmonary resuscitation, give intramuscular injections, and to prepare and administer intravenous fluids. The process required four hours during the evening for each CRT.

The Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad expects to have the CRT program in operation as soon as equipment arrives and the Central Alarm System of Garrett County is in operation. This should occur during the coming spring. Initially the cardiac life support equipment will be placed at the Grantsville station of the Squad as two-thirds of the trained CRT's can respond more quickly to that station.

Memberships are being accepted by the Squad. They may be obtained at both the Accident and Grantsville Stations between 6 p.m. and midnight any evening or by contacting any squad member.

The Scenic Beauty Of Maryland And Our Steps To Preserve It

When Congress is out of session, there is often the feeling that it's on holiday, but there is a big difference between being out of session and being out of work. Whether the Senate is actually meeting day by day or not, there is much work that must continue. One pleasant aspect of this work is the need to visit throughout the state of Maryland to see which federal installations are working well and which ones are not performing the function which Congress intended when they were created.

Since the first part of October, I've been to the Eastern Shore, Western Maryland, Baltimore, and southern Maryland to see what needs to be done, how we can find better solutions to the problems we all share. These visits have provided some very happy experiences.

For example, I visited several sections of the C&O Canal National Historical Park to observe the repair work on damage done several years ago by Hurricane Agnes. It's been a massive job because the damage was extensive. In certain sections, the embankment was ripped away by the force of the flood waters which not only drained the Canal of its water, but made the tow path impassable. These conditions made the Park dangerous for public use.

Now, after several years of work, much of this damage has been repaired. In some of the most beautiful areas of the Canal, such as those along the Maryland shore westward from Harpers Ferry, and in the neighborhood of Dargan in Washington County, the Canal tow path has been so well restored that I've never seen it in better shape. This beautiful countryside can be enjoyed by hiking or riding along the Canal. It's a magnificent stretch of country. Perhaps it's the narrowest national park, but it is certainly one of the most interesting and beautiful.

Other sections of the Canal are not so fortunate. In the Montgomery County section, between Violets Lock and Great Falls, there are still areas where repairs need to be completed. The embankment has been rebuilt, but the surface of the tow path is still hazardous for travel, and it takes a hearty soul to hike or ride along that area. Personally, it's well worth the effort. I find it one of the most beautiful sections of Maryland, really never prettier than at this season when the bare trees reveal nature in its rough glory.

New work must be done in this area at Wide Water and other sections of the Canal, and during the coming legislative session, I'll be seeking additional funds to complete the repair and restoration of this great national park.

Now, we know there will be recurring floods, and I feel we need a new program that sets up a fund to provide more effective relief for the damaged suffered from these periodic floods of the Potomac Valley. I've already begun preparing legislation for this in the coming session.

The U.S., Spain, and NATO: A Time For Review

Our country is about to embark on a four-year voyage with a new President at the helm. Four years in the history of any nation as great as ours is certain to include some stormy seas and rough passage, but I'm confident we can end this voyage as an even greater country, a more just and tolerant America, still contributing largely to the realization of a better world.

And, as our quadrennial voyage begins, just across the Atlantic another country embarks on an equally important, perhaps more historically significant, voyage. After forty years of war and dictatorship, Spain is now moving towards the ranks of democracy.

This movement to democracy will have tremendous influence on all of Europe, and on the United States. And, it suggests that now is the time to examine the role of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and our relations with Europe generally. At the formation of NATO, and throughout its existence, the countries of Western Europe found repugnant the idea of Franco's Spain becoming part of the defense structure. The separate peace of the United States with the dictatorship was mandated by the strategic position of Spain on the Mediterranean at a time when the threat of war with the Soviet Union seemed imminent.

Since we paid for air and naval bases which would be crucial in any military defense of Europe, Northern Europeans benefited from our treaty with Spain while maintaining a politically pure position opposing Franco. We were willing to put up with that arrangement and understood its necessity.

But I think we should now begin to take a serious look at that arrangement. Spain has taken the first momentous move toward reform of its own political system, and a closer relationship with Western Europe. We should encourage this, and as Spain develops, it should be considered as a candidate for full membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

There is an economic angle to this need. We have recently signed a five year treaty with Spain which would transfer one billion dollars worth of aid and military equipment in exchange for air and naval bases in that country. As I said earlier, this is primarily in support of our NATO responsibilities. Bringing Spain into the treaty will give us some hope of relief from paying the full cost of that defense arrangement.

There is also a strategic angle. It would be an advantage to Western defense to have the Spanish in the planning councils, instead of having their contribution delivered by us second-hand. It would mean rejuvenating NATO and reorganizing it in light of changing needs. The role of NATO needs constant re-examination, and the birth of democracy in Spain forms the ideal occasion for it.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Sir:

Friday, December 10, 1976, the Reed Friend family and renter Kenneth Harding had all of their possessions destroyed in a tragic fire.

Fifteen days before Christmas two families are without food, clothing and a place to live, yet somehow I feel that the people of this county will come to their aid.

I have witnessed many large fires in places where firemen are paid professionals, but the energy, the ability and the ultimately successful firefighting work of the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Department exceeds them all.

Three feet from the raging fire, with high winds hampering the efforts, was another shingled home. So sure was everyone it could not be saved that people and furnishings were evacuated. So determined were the volunteers of Friendsville to control the fire, that they did, with no damage to the other building.

Out of this tragic event, we should pause long enough to say thanks to the Friendsville Volunteer Fire Dept. because they have something that the paid professionals can never have and only few can possess. They care. Thank God for those who care.

Electoral College Follows Tradition

The electoral college on Monday had 538 electors cast ballots in 50 states and as a result Jimmy Carter was certified as the nation's 39th president, to be inaugurated on January 20.

The delegates cast their ballots as required by the constitution. With 25 states reporting Carter was leading and was expected to gain 297 votes to 241 for the GOP opponent, President Ford.

In Ohio, where some groups had questioned the outcome, a federal judge permitted the balloting to be conducted as scheduled and Carter won all 25 electoral votes. In the popular vote he carried the state by just over 11,000 votes and there were charges of voting irregularities. Had Ohio gone to Ford he still would have been shy two electoral votes. It was the first time since 1916 that the losing presidential candidate had carried Illinois.

Expert Tells How To Avoid Winter Skids

F. William Petring of Ann Arbor is the kind of person businesses and individuals question about traffic accidents and unusual driving problems.

Petring specializes in investigating and re-constructing auto accidents. He has served in executive engineering posts in the automotive industry and in the federal government, and is a long-time member of the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards.

His unusual qualifications have prompted the Safe Winter Driving League to interview Petring about one critical aspect of winter driving — the loss of traction on ice and snow slicked roads.

SWDL: Let's start with the tires a motorist uses. What about the driver who tries to get through winter on regular highway tires?

PETRING: If he believes in "business as usual" when driving on snow and ice, he's asking for trouble — regardless of his tires. We have all experienced difficulty in getting started on a snow or ice covered road, but a car with regular tires is much more likely to get stuck. When it comes to stopping on snow or ice, no matter what tires you are using it takes several times as far to stop as on dry pavement. Very few drivers realize how great that difference actually is. Tests conducted by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards show that it takes well over three times as far to stop in loose snow as on dry pavement, and on glare ice it takes more than eight times as far. From a speed of only 20 mph it takes 150 feet or more to stop on glare ice, and contrary to popular opinion radial ply or bias belted tires do not shorten that distance — for that matter, neither do conventional snow tires.

SWDL: When do snow tires help?

PETRING: When improved starting and pulling ability is needed, particularly in loose snow where they provide about half again as much pulling ability as regular tires.

SWDL: How about studded tires?

PETRING: In areas where they're permitted, studded snow tires offer additional help on glare ice where they reduce braking distances by 19 percent and provide three times the pulling ability of regular tires.

SWDL: What about the "60 series" or super wide tires some drivers use?

PETRING: NSC skid testers haven't evaluated these yet, but I have a theory from my own observations! Super wide tires have a much larger contact area that reduces the unit contact pressure between the tire and the surface. Therefore, instead of digging in, they may tend to "float" on top of a surface such as snow. If this is true, they would actually provide less traction for pulling through snow than conventional tires.

SWDL: What about those situations when a driver is caught in a severe winter storm and feels that he must get through regardless of the weather?

PETRING: The best advice, of course, is to get off the road or take public transportation. However, if he absolutely must drive, those old standbys — reinforced tire chains — are still the best self-help for driving on glare ice or pulling through deep snow. According to the Council's tests, they reduce braking distance on ice by 50 percent and provide from four to seven times the pulling ability of conventional tires on conditions ranging from glare ice to loosely packed snow.

Regardless of the help offered by traction aids, however, the motorist should be aware that the resulting traction on snow and ice is still nowhere near the normal, dry pavement traction.

SWDL: What is the driver's best precaution against skids?

PETRING: First, of course, it's an old cliche but true — you have to see danger to avoid it! This means the driver should make every effort to keep his windshield and all other windows clear of snow, ice and frost at all times. Next, he should develop a sense of feel for the condition of the road surface so that he knows at all times just how much traction he has available. The best way to determine this is to momentarily gun the engine to see if the wheels spin or to jab the brake pedal to see if the tires start to skid. If they do, the driver should reduce his speed accordingly, maintain a much longer than usual following distance, and do all maneuvering — steering, accelerating or braking — with a gentle, delicate touch. The worst thing a driver can do, of course, is to jam on his brakes on a slippery pavement since that will almost surely throw him into a skid.

Maintenance Tips Offered By Soil Conservationists

If your pond is mainly mud, your road has ruts, or your drainage ditch droops, help is as close as your local USDA, Soil Conservation Service (SCS) office, it was announced by the district conservationist.

SCS, in cooperation with the Garrett Soil Conservation District, has released a series of leaflets offering tips on maintaining nine of the most common conservation practices used in Maryland. In addition to ponds, access roads, and drainage ditches, there are recommendations on how to keep waterways, diversions, spring developments, recreation trails, subsurface drains, and disposal lagoons operating efficiently.

According to conservationists for Garrett County, most of these practices need to be checked periodically. If minor repairs and maintenance are performed regularly, the effective life of a practice can be extended many years, he said.

Knowing when to perform maintenance can be as critical as knowing how to do it. So Reckner advises landowners to consider the time of year when making repairs.

These concise and easy to read leaflets can also help you determine whether a problem actually exists. For example, some people think algae growth on a pond is undesirable. Actually, says Reckner, certain types of algae are beneficial to fish and other aqatic life. Similarly, algae on a disposal lagoon is beneficial and should not be removed.

Where weeds or aquatic plants are a problem, the leaflets suggest ways to control them.

They suggest ways to prevent sediment from accumulating in ponds, open drainage ditches, subsurface drains, diversions, and waterways. Planting vegetation in strategic places not only helps reduce erosion by anchoring soil particles, it helps trap sediment.

Teets - Harsh Vows Exchanged In Loch Lynn U.B. Church

Miss Mary Elizabeth Harsh and Bruce Edward Teets exchanged wedding vows on September 10 at a candlelight service at the Loch Lynn United Brethren Church. Mary is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Harsh and Bruce is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Teets, Eglon, W. Va.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Oscar Hull. The church was decorated with gladioli, asters and ivy. The family candle was lighted during the ceremony and placed on the altar.

Miss Debbie Glick, Harrisonburg, Va., played wedding music at the organ. Miss Jo Ann Kight sang "O Perfect Love," "Each For the Other," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her parents and brother, wore a floor length gown made of polysatin which featured a lace covered midriff. The A-line skirt extended into a chapel-length train which was trimmed in lace. The long sleeves were gathered at the wrists and trimmed in wide lace which extended over the hands. The waist-length veil fell from a bow head piece made of polysatin.

She carried an arrangement of mums and baby's breath on a white Bible with white satin streamers. A corsage was lifted from the arrangement and worn on her going-away outfit, a medium blue double knit suit.

Miss Ruth Hesse, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a light blue gown with a small white floral design. The gown was styled similar to that of the bride's, with long sleeves and trimmed in wide lace.

Miss Linda Crawford, Elton, Va., and Miss Jelenne Wimmer, Staunton, Va., classmates of the bride at Rockingham School of Nursing, were bridesmaids. Miss Crawford's gown was a light yellow with a white floral design and Miss Wimmer's gown was mint green with a floral design. The attendants' veils fell from bow headpieces made of polysatin matching the colors of their gowns.

Each carried a bouquet of white and tinted mums with long satin streamers matching their gowns.

Bradley Teets, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Charles Harsh, brother of the bride, Dennis Feather and Rick and Kirk Lantz. Brian Lantz, cousin of the groom, carried the rings on an open Bible fastened with a white satin ribbon.

The bride's mother wore a light pink dress. The groom's mother was attired in a beige dress, and each wore a corsage of chrysanthemums.

A reception was held at the Loch Lynn School auditorium. The wedding cake was baked by Mrs. Melvin Harsh, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Avenell Roth. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Richard Hesse aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Ross Teets, aunt of the groom. Serving punch were Misses Gretta Teets and Lesa Whitehair. Serving coffee was Mrs. Ernest Harsh, aunt of the bride.

Mrs. Kirk Lantz was at the guest book. Mrs. Maynard Lantz and Miss Robin Brown served at the gift table.

The rehearsal dinner for the wedding party was given by the groom's parents at the Oak-Mar Restaurant, Oakland.

The bride is a graduate of Southern High School, Oakland, and Rockingham School of Nursing, Harrisonburg, Va. She is employed at Hopemont State Hospital, Terra Alta, W. Va.

The groom is a graduate of Aurora High School and West Virginia University, Morgantown. He is in the farming business with his father.

Easier Breathing Program Boosted

Medical research and professional education to help Americans breathe easier are getting a "shot in the arm" worth almost $3,400,000, thanks in part to Christmas Seal contributors in this area.

The American Lung Association of Maryland has announced that close to a million of this amount was allocated during the past year by local, state and national units of the American Lung Association for research grants and contracts seeking more knowledge about threats to the lungs and lives of infants and grownups. Of this, about $260,000 was earmarked for a nationwide "seed money" research program administered by the American Lung Association.

The "seeding program" is designed to help young investigators begin studies that may later qualify for support from the federal government, foundations, or other sources, Dr. John Miller, ALAM president explained. The 20 grants in the nationwide program range in amount from $10,000 to $16,000. The projects now underway, each of which holds potential for a significant contribution to medical knowledge about lung disease, include the following:

Two studies related to production of surfactant, and essential material, the absence of which is associated with respiratory distress syndrome, also called hyaline membrane disease, and often fatal lung condition of newborns.

An attempt to broaden understanding of another hazard to young babies known as sudden infant death syndrome, or "crib death."

Experiments that may confirm suspicions that colds and allergies are linked by a common mechanism and could open up new possibilities for treating both.

Other studies in the program are concerned with finding better ways of relieving asthma, greater understanding of compensating respiratory mechanisms involved in patient response to a pulmonary disease such as emphysema and factors involved in the progress of this irreversible disease, acquiring greater knowledge of how the drug isoniazid works to kill TB and related bacteria, and the effects of radiation damage on lung tissue.

In addition to research grants, over $2,400,000 in Christmas Seal contributions support fellowships, faculty positions, training grants and other programs designed to expand professional knowledge among physicians, nurses and other health workers, according to Dr. Miller. "Giving more to Christmas Seals means more know-how to prevent and control lung disease," he said.

Oregon

Capital, Salem; governor, Robert Straub, Democrat; flower, Oregon grape; bird, western meadowlark; tree, Douglas fir; song, "Oregon My Oregon;" entered union February 14, 1859; motto, "The Union;" nickname, the "Beaver state;" largest city, Portland.

Oregon is a Pacific coast state, known for its vast forests of evergreen trees. Forests cover almost half of state. Every large Oregon city has factories that make wood products. State leads nation in value of forest products; over $3 billion dollars a year. Production of lumber, furniture, paper and other forest products provides jobs for 75,000 workers and is a major factor in state's economy.

In early days Oregon meant the end of the trail for many pioneers. During 1840s and 1850s thousands of settlers traveled by covered wagon on the Oregon trail to fertile farmlands of the Willamatte valley.

Fort Clatsop National Memorial includes a replica of the fort in which the Lewis and Clark expedition spent the winter of 1805. Oregon Caves National monument contains stone, waterfalls. Is often called "Pacific Wonderland," because of its natural wonders. These include Crater Lake in Cascade Mountains, the Columbia River gorge, Hell's canyon on the Snake river, and Oregon Caves national monument. Mount Hood, Mount Jefferson and other snow-covered peaks rise majestically in Cascade range. Mount Hood rises 11,235 feet and is highest point in the state.

Northeastern Oregon offers spectacular mountain scenery. Steep cliffs rise along much of state's wave-swept coast. But parts have sandy beaches and protected harbors. Only 23 of the 400 miles of Oregon coast are privately owned.

Rugged beauty of Oregon's mountains, seacoast and forest lands attract many millions of tourists a year. Tourism brings in over 588 million dollars annually. Hunters shoot deer, elk and other game in wooded regions. Commercial fish catch, including salmon, tuna, halibut, sole, cod and shellfish, was worth over 34 million dollars in 1974. Skiing is a big attraction.

Stone, nickel, cement and lime are important in mineral production, valued at 91 million dollars in 1974. A strong dairy industry markets excellent cheeses. Oregon turkey is featured also. Also ranking in importance is harvesting and processing of products of the sea.

Oregon is known as the "Beaver State," because the region supplied thousands of beaver skins during fur trading days.

Mighty Columbia river flows westward to Pacific ocean, forming most of the border between Oregon and Washington. Snake river forms much of the Oregon-Idaho border. Crater lake in Cascades, 1,932 feet in depth, is deepest lake in United States. Heavy floods damaged western part of state in 1964.

Bonneville Dam and lock were completed in 1937 and made Columbia river navigable for seagoing vessels. It provides electricity for Portland region. Now Columbia river brings ocean shipping to Portland, 100 miles inland. U.S. highway 101 follows Oregon coastline for hundreds of miles. Motorists driving along this route see views of white sand dunes, coastal lakes and bays, and cliffs rising above the shore. Sea Lion caves on Pacific coast near Florence, is winter home for hundreds of sea lions from September through spring. Salmon runs take place on Columbia river every year. For hundreds of years Indians speared the salmon as they swam upstream to spawn.

Republican party has controlled Oregon politics during most of the state's history. Famous Oregonians include Edwin Markham, Ernest Haycox, Stewart Holbrook, John Reed, Childe Hassam, Ernest Bloch, Dr. Marcus Whitman, Chief Joseph, and Mickey Lolich.

Pennsylvania will be the next state in this series.

There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Widow must give up income to marry

Q. I've met a good man, and he wants me to marry him. I'm a widow with a real good income and my own home, and that's my problem. If I marry him I'll have to give up all the money I draw each month and won't have anything to live on — only what he gives me. He tells me he can take care of me, for God provides for his children. He's a deacon and missionary preacher. I know he loves me, and I love him. But should I give up my money and take a chance with him?

A It would seem that if you really love someone you would be willing to give up everything to be with that person. However, since you show considerable prudence in realizing that your present good income and your own home are important to you, perhaps you ought to think twice, maybe three times, as to whether you love him that much.

Since you seem to be in doubt, it would appear to be advisable to stay as you are.

An obsessive overeater

Q. I have a terrible habit of overeating. Sometimes I can be in control of my life, but when things get on top of me I go back to eating as a relief. When that craze for food comes I lose all my energy and the house gets untidy, and I get untidy and nasty with my children that I love dearly. I become a different person, very selfish, irritable and cranky. The humiliation of making a pig of myself is almost more than I can take. Please tell me how to help myself.

A. Compulsive eating, like compulsive drinking, can indicate a psychological sickness. It is an effort to gain a satisfaction that is otherwise lacking in your life, and not merely a desire for food as such.

You could probably be helped to overcome this problem through counseling, which would explore reasons for your abnormal compulsion. Many persons have been helped by joining with others who need to lose weight. Weight Watchers is one such group. We've found that a doctor who insists that you lose weight and lays down strict, sensible rules can be a deciding factor in sticking to a diet.

Then an important psychological action for you is to form a mental image of yourself as trim and slim, visualizing how beautiful and happy you would be.

You'll find that this in time will help overcome your tendency to indulge your eating desires.

Doesn't like to go to church

Q. I am a young man and single. It is terribly difficult for me to attend church, because I see too many persons who are only "Sunday Christians." It is just too depressing to allow me to tolerate. I would rather commune with God in a field or with nature. I'm also uneasy around certain types of religious groups. To me my beliefs and convictions are very private, and I really don't want to be a chest-beater. Then sometimes I get the feelings that those groups are right, and I am wrong. Please give me your comments.

A. Church worship is, of course, futile if you sit in judgment on your fellow-worshipers. However, it can be very rewarding if you send to them good will thoughts, having a humble recognition of your own weaknesses.

The church is not primarily for saints, but for imperfect human beings who want to improve themselves. If you are uneasy around certain types of religious groups, associate yourself with a compatible group. But better drop that "better than you are" critical attitude.

True spiritual growth involves letting other people be what they want to be without condemning them.

Too much government control

Q. When and where is it going to end? Next they'll be telling us what we can eat! Instead of what he wants to, the farmer grows what the government telis him to. Prices and taxes are getting so high — no wonder there's so much stealing. Have to buy at least two acres and get a permit to build a house . . . telling children where to go to school . . . set your clocks up one hour to please the big man. We're already under dictatorship if you ask me.

A. Well, no, we are not a dictatorship. But seemingly the trend is toward bigger and ever bigger government. And always big government tends to put its tentacles into the everyday affairs of a free people. And taxes go higher and still higher to pay the cost of huge government. We believe it was Benjamin Franklin who, when asked what kind of government the founding fathers had created, answered, "A republic, if we can keep it." And we should be vigilant to see that government remains the servant of the people and not their master. But, not being in any sense politicians, only private citizens, we share with you a real concern about the problem your question raises.

What good does it do to pray?

Q. I keep feeling that what's the use in praying since God will do what He wants anyway? I just feel so half-hearted when I pray because I'm always wondering if what I am praying for is what God wants. I would appreciate your opinion.

A. There are so many great values in prayer that they cannot be enumerated in the short space at our disposal. But here are a few.

Prayer gets you into contact with God, your Heavenly Father; brings you into harmony with His will and purpose for your life; supplies you with extra power to meet difficulties and provides keen insights into the answer to problems.

Your idea of God, perhaps, needs revision. He doesn't want you to pray to Him just so you will do what He wants you to do. He wants you to love Him as He loves you. Then you will think right thoughts and take right actions.

We've written a booklet, Try Prayer Power, that has helped others with questions similar to yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write to: Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Young boy in reformatory

Q. I'm a 17-year-old boy, serving five years in a reformatory. My troubles have been since I was 13 years old. I have been in and out of institutions. I have an older brother who is in the penitentiary. He's also been in trouble since he was 14 years old. Do you think my problems are due to the fact of my brother being in trouble? And do you know how I can start to right my wrongs and live a better life?

A. It is, of course, possible that your older brother's action influenced you in the wrong way. However, regardless of influence, each of us is personally responsible for our actions.

You would be wise to take yourself in hand and make the decision that, beginning now, you are going to think right, act right and be right. Make a 180° turnaround from wrongness to rightness.

Whenever you have to make a decision ask this simple question: "Is it right?" And then do that which is right. You will never go wrong doing right. And remember, regardless of the past, you can always change and move forward to a better future.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N.Y. 12564.

Wisp Ski Club Elects Officers

The newly organized Wisp Ski club met Sunday, December 12, in the lunchroom at the McHenry House with 23 skiers present.

Ruth Umbel, active chairman, reviewed objectives of the club for new skiers present.

Elected for the executive committee were Ruth Umbel, president; Terry Bell, vice-president; and Faye Lemley, secretary-treasurer. Others named were Jimmy Recker, membership promotion coordinator; Jerry Geisler, racing coordinator; Barry Garris, social director; Madeleine Collins, program director; Ruth Beitzel and William Thomas, refreshment committee.

Another meeting was set for Sunday, December 19, at 7 p.m., in the McHenry House lunchroom for a combination Christmas party and business meeting.

Cross Country Ski Race Set

A cross country ski race has been scheduled for February 12, 1977, by the Department of Natural Resources.

The "family fun" event will be held on Meadow Mountain in Garrett County over a course traversing parts of New Germany State Park and the Savage River State Forest.

Skiers of all ages and abilities are eligible to enter the 7.5-kilometer (4.6-mile) touring race with prizes, certificates and trophies to be presented to winners in various classes of competition.

New Germany is the starting point and the trail winds along Meadow Mountain through the natural beauty of Savage River State Forest.

Cross country skiing was extremely popular in the Western Maryland area prior to World War II and the Department of Natural Resources believes it is regaining its appeal.

Three DNR agencies, the Park Service, the Forest Service and the Recreation and Leisure Service unit of the Extension Service are taking active parts in staging the February 12 event.

Harry Hunter, Chief of the Recreation and Leisure Service unit, is chairman of the committee working out the details of the ski tour race.

There will be awards in a variety to classifications, Mr. Hunter said, including oldest and youngest participants.

Other awards will be given for:

Fastest skier overall and first place finishers among children under 10, juniors from 11 to 17, adults 18 and over and seniors over 35. There will be separate but equal prizes for men and women in each category except fastest skier overall.

Identification aprons will be provided by the department.

"There is no entrance fee," Mr. Hunter said "and while advance registration is not necessary, it is desirable."

Entry blanks will be available at ski and outdoor shops or by writing X-C Ski, c/o Harry Hunter, Department of Natural Resources, Tawes Build, Annapolis, Md. 21401.

It will be possible to enter on the day of the race, Mr. Hunter said, between 11 a.m. and noon.

In the event of a lack of snow, cause of cancellation of last year's race, Mr. Hunter said, the race will be held February 19.

Trojans Edge Garrett 71-64

Allegany Community College broke open a close contest in the last few minutes to defeat Garrett Community College Lakers 71 to 64 last Saturday night at McHenry.

Final figures showed ACC shooting 33 free throws to 15 for Garrett. The Lakers committed 30 fouls to 18 for the Trojans.

Garrett Coach Paul Holzshu said the Trojans' height, strength and experience from Jay Hurtt and Tom Macko finally wore the Lakers down.

The Lakers showed good defense. The victory gave ACC a two game winning streak and are now 5-1 on the season. Garrett ended up 3-2.

Macko and Hurtt led the ACC scoring with 18 and 20 points, while Robinson added 12 and Price 10.

Garrett was led by John Guadagnino with 15. Tom Panther had 14, Bill McGarvey, 13. Lewis had 2, Kane 4, McPherson 2, Grove 4, Comiskey 10. Danel and Forest did not score. McGarvey fouled out of the game while two other Lakers had four fouls.

Beall High Tops Southern 52 to 42

Beall High of Frostburg, defeated Southern High of Oakland last Friday at Oakland 52 to 42. It was the opening game for Beall. The loss dropped the Rams' record to 1-1.

The contest was hardfought and close all the way until the final few minutes when Beall pulled ahead as the Rams were forced to commit personal fouls in an attempt to gain possession of the ball. The Mountaineers' rebounding ability on the foul tosses were a major reason the visitors were able to prevent a Southern rally.

Beall maintained a slender lead throughout, assuming leads at the quarters of 14-10, 29-26, and 36-34 and was ahead by only four points with three minutes left when the Mounties moved out to their widest margin of the game. Dave Blank and Brock Arnone had 18 and 12 points respectively, for Beall. Rephann had 9, Llewellyn 2, Bryon Arnone 6 and Thomas 5.

Ken Niner scored 18 points for Southern while Fred Griffith added 13. Steve Liller had 5, T. Liller 4, and Shockey 2. Ritchie and Messenger did not score.

Beall outgunned Southern from the floor 18 to 17 and the Mounties converted 16 to 25 foul attempts compared to 8 for 15 by the Rams.

State Revenue Estimates Given

The Maryland Board of Revenue Estimates, consisting of Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein, Chairman; State Treasurer William S. James, and R. Kenneth Barnes, Secretary of Budget and Fiscal Planning, this week reported to Governor Marvin Mandel that its estimates of state revenues for the fiscal years ending June 30, 1977 and June 30, 1978 reflect the impact of national economic trends in employment and consumer spending levels on Maryland revenues. The Board revised its corporation and individual income tax estimates for Fiscal Year 1977 from a total of $887.4 million to $896 million. The Board cut its original 1977 fiscal year sales tax estimate of $474.2 million to $450.8 million.

"We are experiencing higher than expected income tax revenues, but Maryland's retail sales and use tax receipts continue to show a slower growth," Comptroller Goldstein said in explaining the Board's action. "With the current indications of a federal tax cut to stimulate the economy in 1977 by President-Elect Carter and the Congress, there could be some recovery in the sales and use tax revenue during the next 18 months," Mr. Goldstein said.

The state income tax and the retail sales and use tax are Maryland's two largest sources of General Fund revenues.

The Board also increased the 1977 fiscal year revenue estimate for motor vehicle fuel taxes from $186.1 million to $186.8 million, reflecting the higher revenue trends being experienced currently, yet taking into account the possibility of an increase in the price of foreign oil.

"In addition to the revenue from the income, sales and use, franchise and excise taxes, these estimates include federal revenue sharing funds allocated to Maryland. General Fund Revenue from the Maryland State Lottery is included for Fiscal Years 1976 and 1977 only, because of action of the 1976 session of the General Assembly. The 1978 General Fund estimate does not include lottery revenue.

Last Opportunity For Bicentennial Medals

The final opportunity to purchase one of the official state of Maryland bicentennial medals, is approaching.

In 1774 Maryland participated in the beginning of the nation's drive for independence, in 1784 was the site of the Treaty of Peace, and in 1790 donated land on the Potomac to create the nation's capitol. Fragile tin impressions made from the original 327-year-old state seal were used by Medallion Art company, the State's official bicentennial medalists, to produce dies for the face and reverse of the art medals.

The exacting process required three months. The face depicts Lord Baltimore (Cecil Calvert) as a knight in full armor and riding a charging horse, and departs from the original seal only for the inscriptions: "American Revolution Bicentennial in Maryland" and the dates 1776-1976. The reverse, the Baltimore family's coat of arms, exactly duplicates the original seal down to a broken "O" in the legend on the border. To honor this occasion and to pay tribute to Maryland's role in the American Revolution, the Maryland American Revolution Bicentennial Commission has issued this medal. It is the official Maryland state bicentennial medal.

Medallic Art company, producers of the Congressional Medal of Honor, is the producer of the state of Maryland.

Medals are available in gold, silver and bronze and may be purchased individually, in necklaces, or in paperweights, or as part of the Official Thirteen colony collection. Additional information is available from local banks or by writing to Official Bicentennial Medal programs, Box 1332, Atlanta, Ga.

WINTER SOLSTICE

Tuesday, at thirty-six minutes past noon, the sun will be at the farthest point south that it will appear directly over head at noon. This is the beginning of our winter and of the summer of the southern hemisphere.

The variation in time between the solstices and equinoxes was used by Hipparchus during the 2nd century B. C. to figure with some accuracy the date of the closest approach of earth to the sun. Of course, Hipparchus thought the sun moved closer to the earth.

New Moon will occur as the moon and sun are in the same direction from earth at 9:08 p.m. on Monday. This week moonset ranges from 1:33 p.m. today to 7:08 p.m. next Wednesday evening.

Only 360,950 kilometers (224,330 miles) will separate earth and moon on Sunday. This perigee, closest approach of the moon this month, occurs at 7:00 a.m.

Mercury, Venus, Jupiter and Saturn all grace the night sky this week. Mercury sets about one hour after sunset. It is to the lower right of Venus and on the 21st and 22nd will be to the left of the cresent moon low on the horizon in the west. Venus, of course, is the brightest object in the west after sunset. It sets about three hours after the sun. Jupiter is the brightest object in the southeast, setting with the stars of Taurus at about 4:30 a.m. Saturn rises at about 8:30 p.m. with the stars of Cancer.

The Ursid meteor shower will be at its maximum on Wednesday at 6:00 a.m. About twice the average number of meteors may be observed during this, the last meteor shower of the year. These objects collide with earth at speeds of 34 kilometers per second (76,000 miles per hour).

One minute of daylight is lost during this week. This is the last week of the year that daylight will be lost. Sunrise was at 7:31 a.m. this morning. Sunset will follow nine hours twenty-four minutes later at 4:55 p.m. Wednesday the sun will rise four minutes later and set three minutes later than it does today.

Friends Return Home From Western Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Friend, Loch Lynn Heights, have returned home from a two-week vacation in the west. They traveled by plane from Pittsburgh to Seattle, Washington and spent a week touring the state and visiting relatives in Seattle and Tacoma.

They also visited Mt. Rainier and the Trojan Nuclear Power Plant in Portland, Oregon before flying to Phoenix, Arizona for a week. While in Arizona they visited relatives and toured places of interest before flying home.

An earthquake shook part of Chile and Peru recently.

Action Continues In Mt. Top League

Fast-paced action characterized the games last week in the Mt. Top Basketball League. The Carriage House defeated Heck's last Wednesday 98-58, with G. Dixon the top scorer for the winners with 24 points. B. Fletcher was high point man for Heck's, with 21 points.

Also on Wednesday, C. P. Martin racked up 108 points to hand McNally-Pittsburg a three-digit defeat. McNally had 64 points, 21 gained by Brentz. R. DiSimone was high man for C. P. Martin with 43 points.

On December 9, Martin Auto Body defeated Island Creek Coal 127-28. D. Gibson provided the spark for Martin's with 28 points, while Smith led the Island Creek men with 12 points.

In last Thursday's second game, Campus Life had 43 points, Hungry Hollow Coal 35. R. Brenneman provided 14 of the 43 points, both contributed 15 of Hungry Hollow's score.

The Alpine Lakers took the third game Thursday 85-38 over Oakland Lumber. M. Herring was high with 30 points for the Lakers, D. Gregory had 18 for the Lumber company.

Martin's Auto Body defeated Oakland Lumber by forfeit Monday, December 13. Heck's beat Hungry Hollow Coal 88-73 in the second game. S. Skiles had 36 points for the winners, B. Robinson 19 for the losers.

Island Creek Coal defeated the Alpine Lakers 97-48 in the third game. A. Smith had 25 points for the winners, M. Herring had 21 points for the defeated.

Games this week will be held Thursday, when Thomas Bears will face Accident Amoco at 7 p.m.; Davidson's Army-Navy will play Beachy Lumber at 8:20 and the Teachers will face C. P. Martin at 9:40.

On Monday, January 3, McNally-Pittsburg is against Campus Life in the first game at 7; C. P. Martin will play Heck's at 8:20 and Accident Amoco will vie against Knoll Crest Building Supply at 9:40.

On Wednesday, January 5, the Carriage House will face Hungry Hollow Coal at 8 p.m., Martin Auto Body will play Alpine Lakers at 9:30.

On Thursday, January 6, at 7 p.m. games will be Davidson's Army-Navy vs. Teachers; 8:20, Thomas Bears vs. Beachy Lumber; and at 9:40, Island Creek Coal vs. Oakland Lumber.

Traditions

The history of the decorated Christmas tree is an old one. It started in the 10th century, when an Arabian geographer told this story . . . On the night Christ was born, trees in the forest bloomed and bore fruit. To recreate the tale, people began to decorate trees around their homes.

The Germans were the first to decorate trees indoors. They used apples, sacramental wafers, candles, gold foil, paper roses and sweets. Through the years, the apple ornaments were replaced with oranges then by decorative balls. Cookies cut in a variety of shapes, replaced the wafers.

The use of tinsel began with this lovely story . . . Late one Christmas Eve, a mother decorated a tree to surprise her poor family. During the night, a spider wove a web around the tree. The web turned to silver in approval of the mother's goodness.

It wasn't until 1856 that President Franklin Pierce decorated a tree in the White House. The tradition then became widespread in the United States.

One festive way to entertain during the holidays is with a tree-trimming party. Here are some ideas for foods to keep the mood merry:

Cheese Fondue

1 cup Sauterne or other dry white wine, 1 large clove garlic, minced, 1 pound natural Swiss cheese, shredded, ¼ cup flour, 1 can (11 ounces) Campbell's Cheddar Cheese Soup, 2 tablespoons Kirsch, optional, French or Italian bread cubes or cooked shrimp.

In a saucepan or fondue pot, simmer wine and garlic. Combine cheese and flour; gradually blend into wine. Heat until cheese melts; stir often. Blend in soup and Kirsch. Heat, stirring until smooth. Spear bread with fork or toothpick and dip into fondue. Makes about 4 cups.

Ruby Red Aspic

1 can (12 fl. oz.) "V-8" Cocktail Vegetable Juice, ½ cup water, 2 packages (3 oz. each) orange-flavored gelatin, 1 can (16 oz.) whole berry cranberry sauce, 2 tablespoons vinegar, ¼ teaspoon ground allspice, sour cream.

In saucepan, heat "V-8" Juice and water to boiling; pour over gelatin. Stir to dissolve gelatin. Add cranberry sauce, vinegar and allspice. Pour into 5-cup mold. Chill 4 hours or until firm. Unmold on crisp salad greens. Serve with sour cream. Makes about 4 cups, 6 to 8 servings.

We wish to thank all our friends and neighbors for the kindness they showed following the tragic death of our son, Kenneth. Thanks to all for the flowers, cards, donations and the food that was brought to our home. We also wish to thank the Broad Ford Elementary School, (the 5th grade class especially) and the Dennett Road School for the books they plan to place in their libraries in his memory. Our thanks also to the pallbearers, Rev. Donald Matthews, Rev. Oscar Sines, Sandy Flanigan, and the Stewart Funeral Home.

Focus On Washington

By George Hagedorn
Vice-president and Chief Economist, National Assoc. of Manufacturers

The 1973 oil embargo, and the subsequent quintupling of the international price of crude petroleum, has led to some re-examination of the problem of assuring an adequate supply of energy for the future. In this space, I will not attempt an in-depth analysis but merely bring out some aspects of the subject that are often overlooked.

The industrial world's voracious appetite for energy has made it, for the present, dependent on foreign sources of oil, particularly sources in the Arabian peninsula. But this is a problem for the suppliers as well as the users.

First, petroleum is a non-renewable resource. There is just so much of it and the oil exporting countries face the problem of managing it so that, when it is gone, they will have acquired some other basis for maintaining their economies. Second, the value of the petroleum is dependent on the prosperity of the customers. If the oil-rich countries destroy the economies of Western Europe, Japan and the U.S., their resource will have no more value than it had in biblical times — except as war booty for the totalitarian powers.

U.S. efforts to achieve "energy independence" by developing new sources and conserving on usage are a sensible reaction to the situation. Yet energy independence can be achieved only on a time scale of decades rather than years. It is a time scale long enough so that oil exporters' problems — depletion of their major assets and the need for preserving the prosperity of their customers — must enter into their calculations for the same period.

What is encouraging is that, until the oil runs out, the interests of the two sides are not opposed to each other, but very much in harmony. Neither side can damage the economic viability of the other without harming itself.

As the oil-rich countries sell off their one asset, they will be anxious to replace it with earning assets that will ultimately replace their underground inventory as a source of income for them. One way they can do this is by using their oil revenues to acquire investments in the U.S. For our part, we should welcome an additional flow of capital into our own economy as a way of improving its productivity. For their part, unless the oil exporters are given this opportunity they would have little incentive to send us the oil we need for a lengthy period.

For their return flow of oil funds in the form of investment to occur, the U.S. must be an attractive place to invest. Thus for the intermediate energy problem merges into the more general economic problem of maintaining economic stability and growth at home.

The important fact to recognize is that "dependency" is a mutual relationship. Furthermore, it is not the kind of relationship in which one side can achieve its objectives only if the other fails. For it to work out advantageously for all, it is not necessary that either party put aside its self-interest, but only that each side pursue its self-interest rationally.

Of course, in this sometimes irrational world, that is a large condition. The best vehicle for rational economic decision-making is the market system. The worst is the political process. Let us hope that, as the world works out its approach to the energy situation, the role of the free market will be maximized and the role of government intervention will be minimized. We in the U.S. can't force either the other petroleum importers or the petroleum exporters to be guided by that principle, but we won't do any good by departing from it ourselves.

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

Please explain the supplemental security income program. Who is eligible?

The basic idea of supplemental security income (SSI) is to assure that everybody who is 65 or older, or blind, or disabled has a regular cash income every month. Those who don't have enough income from other sources — such as private pensions or social security checks — can get SSI checks as a supplement. The actual payment amount depends on what other income is available, and which pays health care expenses. If you are 65 or older, or blind, or disabled, and you think you might be eligible, get in touch with your local social security office to apply.

Do you have any information on federal financial aid programs for student assistance?

My office currently has an HEW Fact Sheet outlining five such aid programs including Basic Educational Opportunity Grants, Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants, College Work-Study, National Direct Student Loans and Guaranteed Student Loans. Interested students need only write me c/o 1730 Longworth Building, Washington, D. C. for a personal copy of this informative leaflet.

Where can I obtain a list of the gas mileage figures for 1976 cars?

Free copies of the booklet entitled "Miles Per Gallon for 1976 Cars" can be obtained by writing Consumer Information, Department 84, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

What are you doing to slow down federal spending?

During the 94th Congress, I introduced several pieces of legislation aimed at curbing wasteful federal spending. These included a joint resolution providing for a balanced Federal budget, except in times of national emergency; a measure requiring mandatory congressional review of all federal spending programs to evaluate the need for the continued funding of each program; and a bill which would provide a meaningful and simplified summary of just how the federal government stands financially. In addition, I have tried to represent the views of Central and Western Maryland citizens by voting against unnecessary and expensive programs such as foreign aid authorizations and increases in the national debt.

Who can I contact for information on HEW children's programs like Head Start?

For information about the Office of Child Development services and publications, Head Start Bureau and Children's Bureau programs, write to Saul Rosoff, Acting Director, Division of Public Education, Office of Child Development, P. O. Box 1182, Washington, D. C. 20013. (You may also telephone 202-755-7547).

I read somewhere that over 3 million illegal aliens are holding down jobs in the United States. Is this true?

A study released by the Immigration & Naturalization Service estimates that 3.5 million jobs in American are held by illegal aliens. It is unfortunate that this figure contrasts so negatively with the Labor Department's latest employment statistics showing that 7.1 million Americans can't find a job. In short, if there were no illegal aliens in the U. S. our unemployment rate could possibly be cut in half.

A special feature of the meeting included the presentation of a $150 recruitment grant to Miss Nancy Meyers, a student at Garrett Community College majoring in education. Miss Meyers is a graduate of Southern High School. The grant is awarded to a worthy young woman who is interested in furthering her career in education.

A business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Jean Wolfe, president, and the annual Christmas auction was then held to raise money for the chapter. Zeola Robeson served as auctioneer.

Thirteen Killed On State Roads

Thirteen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed nine were drivers, one was a passenger and three were pedestrians.

Four of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officer could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

Facts To Be Pondered By Concerned Travelers:

In 1975 in the State of Maryland, there were police investigated accidents every four minutes, a fatal accident every 14.5 hrs. and a personal injury accident every fourteen minutes.

Lt. Morgan said: "This is the time of the year when we like to get together with those with whom we work, play and live. Usually the refreshments include alcohol, and it is a rare party that people do not have to drive home. Many party goers only drink on festive occasions and many do not drink at all. Even among those who do, we must be aware that there are some who can not handle alcohol well, or some who may be taking prescription drugs which will magnify the effect of alcohol. This is where the perfect host has an opportunity to prove his skill . . . serve plenty of nibbling material . . . and maybe save a life or two. No one wants to be the cause of another's death, but a mistaken idea about hospitality has led to many a tragedy."

Persons killed through December totaled 623 compared to 649 for the same period last year.

Christmas Message . . .

Christmastide rightly emphasizes all the surroundings of happy family life. The sharing of messages and gifts, the Christmas dinner, the accompanying laughter of children, which term should include us all at this season. But this is not enough.

Christmas means so much more, for this is the season when God sent His Son into the world. In the presence of great events or scenes we unconsciously stand in awe. Such is the effect of the first view of the Grand Canyon. So we feel in viewing pictures of an atomic explosion. In deep personal experiences we often are lost in wonder. Do we realize what Christmas means?

God, Creator of Heaven and Earth, Everlasting Eternal, so loved the world.

Stop and think of the meaning of this for us all. Inevitably there will come wonder, reverence and thanksgiving. Christmas can only be real as we humbly kneel with the great company of faithful people to receive anew God's gift into our hearts.

A reverent and thus deeply joyful Christmas to all.

The above was resurrected from our files, written a number of years ago by the presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Republican Office Closed Tomorrow

The Republican newspaper office will be closed all day on Friday, December 24. It will open for regular business on Monday, December 27, at 8 o'clock.

Wounded Bald Eagle Found In Woods Succumbs

A young bald eagle, listed as one of an endangered species, was discovered during deer hunting season by four hunters Dec. 7, in the Green Gables area near Friendsville, which had been shot by an unknown hunter. The bird was in a fighting mood when discovered and tried to attack R. Kenneth Thomas, one of the hunters. He had heard a commotion in the brush and investigated.

When he reported the incident to the three others there was disbelief but all four returned to the scene and succeeded in capturing it, but not without further struggle.

At the time the hunters determined it was a golden eagle. The wildlife management personnel at Mt. Nebo were notified, among them Edward Golden, district wildlife manager.

Wildlife persons took the bird to Frostburg where it was examined and identified as a bald eagle, also as an immature bird and one of an endangered species. It was later taken to a veterinary school at College Park and examined again. The bird refused to eat and eventually died. An examination showed that its internal organs were full of shot.

In the hunting party with Thomas were Lowell Thomas, Vernon Sines and Richard Thomas. The bird had a wing spread of six to eight feet.

Ken Thomas received a letter last week from the Wildlife administration, offering sincere thanks for the hunters' cooperation in getting the bird to authorities and expressed their appreciation for their care and concern. Golden said it showed that there were many hunters who cared about wildlife preservation.

Boards Discuss Building Program For Schools

The school construction program of the Board of Education was discussed at the Monday meeting of the County Commissioners with all three members, Don Bender, George Edwards and Wayne Hamilton present.

Herbert Harman, Dr. William Buser and Dr. Jerome Ryscavage represented the board of education. They pointed out that the state of Maryland was underfunding the school construction projects.

The Northern Middle School project was recently bid and the state deleted several items such as tile for the floors, which would make the new middle school more durable.

Commissioners observed that the Maryland Association of Counties had requested that the General Assembly address this trend toward underfunding and provide sufficient funds for future school construction costs. Commissioners then approved the Board of Education request to provide local funding for the necessary construction items deleted from the bid specifications and not funded by the state.

Remainder of the commissioner meeting was occupied with routine business. Most of the morning was devoted to a regular staff meeting. Tuesday the Planning commission meeting was canceled due to inclement weather and rescheduled after the Christmas holiday.

Accident Woman Is Injured In Two-Car Mishap

An 80-year-old Accident area woman, who was injured Monday in a two-car mishap, was reported in "fair" condition late that evening at Sacred Heart Hospital, Cumberland.

Mrs. Mary L. Preston, of RD 1, Accident, sustained multiple contusions, abrasions and a left arm injury.

The accident occurred about 4:30 p.m. on U.S. 40, two miles west of Keyser Ridge.

A WHITE CHRISTMAS is now inevitable with the arrival of over six inches of snow early this week and the promise of more snow today and tomorrow. This mammoth drift on U.S. Rt. 219 south of Oakland is a result of the high winds which accompanied the snow. Garrett County students enjoyed a day off from school Tuesday due to the hazardous conditions.

PUTTING THEIR HEARTS INTO SONG at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home Tuesday were these young members of the Action One group of Pleasant View Baptist Church. The youngsters presented handcrafted gifts to the patients and sang several carols, including "Christmas Time," "Come With Me to Bethlehem," and "Who Is He in Yonder Stall." They were accompanied by the pastor, Rev. Ivan Martin, and several adults from the church. The Pleasant View Church also has a weekly visitation and hymn sing with residents of the home.

John Matthews Dies In Crash

John Matthews, route 1, Oakland, aged 80, died last Friday afternoon in Garrett Memorial hospital following a two-vehicle accident on Maryland route 39, about two tenths of a mile east of Crellin.

Mr. Matthews died in Garrett Memorial hospital about 4:45 p.m., as a result of shock as they were preparing to transport him to the University Medical center in Morgantown, W. Va.

He suffered multiple injuries, suffering a fractured pelvis, fractured ribs on his left side and a cracked hip in the 2:30 mishap.

Treated and released from the hospital were Lonnie Dolan Rush, 24, of route 1, Deer Park, driver of a truck which was involved.

Police said the Matthews car was traveling east on route 39 when the elderly man decided to drive off the berm to make a turn and head west. The truck operated by Rush, also traveling east, struck the auto broadside, as he emerged on the highway. No charges were preferred.

The man was taken to the hospital by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad which had to use Hurst power tool to extricate him from the automobile.

Born in Hazelton, W. Va., September 8, 1896, he was a son of the late Howard and Amanda Kelley Matthews and was preceded in death by his wife, Mrs. Susan E. Sines Matthews.

Mr. Matthews was a member of Oak Grove Church of the Brethren, was a retired farmer and a World War I army veteran.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs Mildred L. Peterson and Mrs. Ivadine E. Cummings, both Oakland; three sons, James E. Matthews, Rev. Eugene Matthews and Rev. Donald D. Matthews, Oakland; a sister, Mrs. Dorothy Stewart, Orlando, Fla.; a half sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Mitchell, Friendsville; two half brothers, Harold Matthews, Carlisle, Pa.; and Hobart Matthews, Harrisburg, Pa.; 10 grandchildren, six great grandchildren and many foster great great grandchildren.

The body was taken to the Stewart Funeral home, and later taken to the residence. Funeral services were conducted from the Pine Grove Church of the Brethren Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Rev. David E. Rittenhouse, Rev. Charles Teets and Brother Homer Mellott officiating. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Heart Campaign Chairmen Named

Mrs. Shirley A. Hinebaugh, Mt. Lake Park, and Charley B. Miller, Friendsville, have again accepted the positions as 1977 General Heart Fund Co-Chairmen for Garrett County, according to Michael Gingerich, President of the American Heart Association-Western Maryland Chapter, Inc. Mrs. Hinebaugh will be coordinating the efforts of volunteers in Southern section; Mr. Miller in Northern area.

In accepting these positions the chairmen said, "Heart Disease is the Nation's #1 Killer and over one million Americans will die of Heart Attack and Blood Vessel Disease this year. This represents 53 percent of deaths from all causes in the country." They pointed out that the percentage of deaths in Garrett County due to Heart Disease is higher than the national average.

Other top campaign positions for 1977 are filled and will be announced shortly.

The Fifth Annual Businessman's Educational Dinner to kick off the annual Heart Association campaign has been set for Thursday evening, January 27, at 6:30 p.m. at the American Legion Home in

First National Bank Declares Cash Dividend

At a regular meeting Wednesday, December 15, the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Oakland declared a cash dividend of $.70 per share of common stock to the stockholders of the bank of record December 1. The dividend was declared payable as of January 3, 1977.

According to Courtney R. Tusing, President of the bank, the present declaration brings to $2.70 the effective cash amount which has been paid per share out of 1976 earnings. He explained that this figure was arrived at using the stockholder base as it was prior to a stock dividend in the form of a split which was effected November of this year. This gave each stockholder one additional share of stock for each share held; Using the prior stockholder base, the present $.70 dividend is effectively a $1.40 per share declaration, Mr. Tusing further noted. The dividend paid on June 30, 1976 was $1.30 per share.

The total dollar amount of the present declaration amounts to $132,370. This brings to $255,285 the total cash dividends First National has paid out of 1976 earnings.

The latest dividend is payable on 189,100 shares of common stock.

Ohio Man Is Held On $25,000 Bond

An Ohio man is being held on $25,000 bond on charges of robbery, assault with intent to murder, assault and battery and robbery with a deadly weapon.

These charges have been placed against Merlin Glenn Williams. The alleged incident occurred along Star Route, Frostburg, in Garrett County, against James Nelson Layman. The four charges are: robbery of the wallet of Mr. Layman containing U.S. currency: Assault with intent to murder; Assault and and battery on Mr. Layman, and robbery with a dangerous or deadly weapon. The alleged incident occurred May 22, 1975. Charges were filed November 12, 1975.

At a bond hearing yesterday, Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill placed bond at $25,000, full amount. No trial date was noted.

The elapse of time was because he could not be located. He was finally picked up by Federal authorities and served 18 months elsewhere on other charges before being sent here.

Vet Hospital Entered Tuesday

There was a breaking and entering at the Mt. Top Veterinary hospital, north of Oakland, in the early morning of Tuesday, December 21, with the thief or thieves getting away with a variety of drugs, syringes and similar items, according to Dr. Paul Deal, veterinarian.

The intruders broke a meter box which interrupted the electric current and prevented the alarm from sounding. They then entered the building through a window, smashed a door and caused other damage. The robbery occurred at 12:07 a.m. as evidenced by the stopped clock.

A reward of $1,000 has been offered for the arrest and conviction of those responsible. Investigating the happening is Trooper first class Robert E. Friend, of the Maryland State Police. There have been no arrests in the case.

Hearing Set January 11 On Rt. 219 By-Pass

The State Highway Administration has scheduled a public meeting in order to discuss the relocation of a section of U. S. Route 219 (Oakland By-Pass) in this county. The limits of the project extend from Maryland Route 135 to existing U.S. Route 219, 0.7 miles north of Cherry Glade Run, a distance of approximately 2.3 miles.

The Public Hearing will be held on Tuesday, January 11, at 7:30 p.m., in the cafetorium of Southern High School, located at 1100 East Oak Street, Oakland.

This project is currently in the State Primary Highway Improvement Program (1976-1980). However, construction activity is projected beyond the program period because of time required to complete Project Planning, Project Design, and Right of Way acquisition. This meeting is one of the initial steps in meeting Federal and State requirements to progress the project in an expeditious manner to construction.

The Project Planning Team will acquaint those in attendance with the engineering, social, economic and environmental impacts of alternates that have been evaluated, including the "Do Nothing" alternate. The State Highway Administration's Relocation Assistance Program will be explained.

Interested persons are invited to attend this hearing and present their views.

Individuals and representatives of organizations wishing to be heard are requested to furnish their names, address, telephone number and organization they represent, if any, to Robert J. Hajzyk, Director, Office of Planning and Preliminary Engineering, 300 West Preston St., Baltimore, Md. 21201, no later than Jan. 4, so their names may be placed on the list of witnesses.

Holiday Lights Need Approval Of Test Laboratory

Robert Shimer, Fire Investigator, State Fire Marshal's Office, reported that on recent inspections in the Oakland area several stores were found to be selling Christmas Lights and other Decorations which were not labeled with the symbol of an electrical testing laboratory which is certified by the State Fire Marshal to test products to determine that they are safe for use. Those lights which were not approved were manufactured in Italy, China, Hong Kong and Taiwan Republic of China.

The State Fire Marshal's Office recommends to all persons who have purchased lights recently to check to see if they were manufactured in one of the countries mentioned. If so and they still have a proof of purchase the lights should be returned to the store and a refund obtained.

The law states "A Person may not sell or distribute an elecrical consumer product which is intended ultimately for the personal use of a consumer in or around a permanent or temporary household or residence, unless the product is clearly labeled, marked, or stamped with the symbol of an electrical testing laboratory which is certified by the State Fire Marshal to test products to determine that they are safe for use." Any person who knowingly and willfully violates the provisions of this section is guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction is subject to a fine of not more than $5,000.

Five County Gridmen Make Tri-Valley Team

Northern High school's football team placed three players on the all-Tri-Valley conference team, and Southern High team placed two members.

Hampshire High school captured its third consecutive Tri-Valley conference football championship and placed seven gridders on the TVC team. Hampshire mentor Paul Clovis was named coach of the year for the fifth time in nine years.

Northern High placed Tony Artice, running back was named on the offensive team along with Rod Bowers of Southern, interior lineman.

On the defensive team were linebacker Keith Kamp and defensive back Don Paugh, of Northern High school, along with Eric Cvetnick, defensive lineman, of Southern.

Hampshire finished the season with a perfect 4-0 record. Beall and Valley tied for second with 3-2 records while Northern was 2-2, and Bruce and Southern were 1-4.

Jim Miers of Southern High is president of the conference.

Transportation Difficulties Are Aired By Buser

Difficulties on transportation of pupils throughout the county are the concern of the Board of Education until some definite word is forthcoming from the State Department of Education.

Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of schools, declared that in the next three months decisions would be made in Annapolis that would determine the level of funding for school bus transportation in the county.

He said the board had a difficult time in getting the state to continue transporting students who live within walking distance of schools but who are classified as hazardous walking condition cases. He said at the current time the local school board has no assurance this transportation would be continued another year.

He sent out a plea to patrons that they express their concern to the governor's office, Delegate DeCorsey Bolden, and State Senator Edward Mason.

Dr. Buser said he and the board of education members hope this problem would be resolved during this session of the legislature in order that the problem would not be a recurring one each year.

Snowball Classic Set At Southern

Southern High school will hold its first annual Snowball classic basketball tournament, Tuesday and Wednesday, December 28 and 29.

Teams participating are Tunnelton, W. Va., Clear Spring, Northern and Southern high schools.

The tournament is expected to be competitive and balanced. Tunnelton has a veteran squad returning from last year's campaign and take the win to Preston county. Clear Spring is a class C school from near Hagerstown and also has a seasoned team. The school is reported to have one of the best guards in the Hagerstown area. The members and cheer leaders will be spending the night with the Southern contingent. Northern is a class C hopeful to represent the district 1 in state competition. Northern has some strong returning players built around 6-6 sophomore Tony Doerr who averaged 16 points and eight rebounds as a freshman. Southern, which will host the tournament is back from a successful season last year and hoping for a repeat performance. The Rams build their hopes around Ken Niner and Steve Liller.

Trophies have been contributed by the Oakland Rotary club and will be awarded at the conclusion of the tournament for the championship team, best cheerleading squad, runner-up team, most valuable player, and the six member all tournament team.

Tuesday, December 28, 7 p.m., Northern versus Tunnelton; at 8:30, Southern versus Clear Spring. Wednesday, consolation game at 7 with championship at 8:30, followed by awards. County fans are looking for a Northern-Southern, Doerr-Niner, Youmans-Liller match up in the championship.

Games will be played in the Southern High gymnasium.

Program Planned

The Open Door chapel at Sang Run will present a Christmas program on Friday evening, December 24, at 7:30 o'clock, it was announced.

The outward signs of the coming Christmas seem to appear earlier each year — in Christmas songs, store window displays newspaper advertisements.

Those who annually shout that "Christmas is too commercial" point the accusing finger here and there and raise their voices to a louder pitch.

Amid all the trappings, the loud voices, nonetheless, the true meaning, the real spirit of Christmas begins to shine forth from the human heart as it has for centuries as it will for many Christmases yet to come

Despots, dictators, disbelievers come and go. Some make their mark upon the pages of history, some temporarily impede the progress of humanity. But, as night follows day, the unchanging "Greatest Story Ever Told" remains the one single dominating influence upon generations of mankind

We pause, eyes lifted upward, to acknowledge the eternal power and wisdom that sent forth a saviour into the world, that gave to us an eternal hope symbolized by the miracle of Christmas.

Heart Campaign

Oakland. Sponsor of the dinner this year will be the Oakland Rotary Club. The cost per person will be $3.50.

Mrs. Hinebaugh is presently the manager of Windy Knolls Steak House near Oakland. Active in the Heart Association for eight years, she also served as 1976 Special Events Chairman, working on the annual Heart Sunday Radiothon and the other events which are so vital a part of the total Heart Fund campaign.

Mr. Miller has also been an active volunteer in the Heart Fund campaign for a number of years. Retired from the environmental section of the County Health Department, he has served as president of the Friendsville Rotary Club, is active in the Bear Creek Church of the Brethren, has served as a member of the Friendsville Town Council and chairman of the Friendsville area of the Western Maryland Health Care Corporation, and is a member of the Western Maryland Tri-County Council and the Health Planning Council of Appalachia Maryland, Inc.

Heart Sunday this year will be observed on Sunday, February 20. The chairmen noted that the volunteers may also collect the week before beginning February 14. The annual Radiothon will be held Sunday, February 20, from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m. at Southern High School.

Pinata Popular In Southwest U.S.

The pinata came into the Southwestern United States by way of Mexico. It is a whimsical creation of crepe and tissue papers made into hollow forms to resemble animals, birds, flowers — whatever suits one's fancy.

Filled with toys and candies, the pinata is suspended overhead. In turn, children are blindfolded and given three "whacks" or 30 seconds to break open the pinata and send the goodies falling down to their eager friends.

Storm Greets Winter Tuesday

Winter arrived Tuesday with a normal blast of snow, high winds and frigid temperatures. Slick road conditions closed schools the same day. Heavy wind-blown snow squalls reduced visibility to near zero at times. There was some drifting in the southern part of the county.

The snow began about 4 p.m. Monday, having started as rain earlier in the day. Temperatures dropped about 40 degrees from Monday to Tuesday morning. Slippery conditions were due in a large part to the earlier rain and wet snow freezing as the mercury plunged. As the storm progressed the snow became light and powdery. This with high winds caused the drifting in some areas.

State and County Roads crews were out from Monday through yesterday plowing and treating roads. The SHA used one of its new snow blowers south of the Gortner area on U.S. 219 where some drifting was encountered, also on a part of Kitzmiller road. The county roads had some drifting in the Broad Ford area and a few other spots. No roads were closed at any time. The snow emergency plan went into effect at 6:30 p.m. Monday.

Winter officially began at 12:36 p.m. Tuesday, at about the high point of the storm. The storm was apparently caused by frigid Canadian air meeting the warmer moisture-laden air from the Gulf of Mexico.

Skies were variably cloudy from Thursday through Saturday. There were a few light snow flurries, .2 inch, late Thursday. Sunday was mostly cloudy with rain coming in the evening, continuing into Monday morning. Skies continued overcast until rain began again shortly before noon. About 4 o'clock, the rain changed to snow and the storm was on. The mercury continued to drop with fresh breezes blowing. By Tuesday afternoon, about 4 inches had fallen. There were a few light snow showers through the night. Clouds broke yesterday morning with a brief clear period following. Around noon, skies began to cloud again, but by this morning became mostly clear. Precipitation amounted to .49 inch with 3.7 inches as snow.

The snow emergency plan was lifted at 3 p.m. yesterday but there were a few slick spots this morning.

Temperatures for the week averaged, as usual, 2.6 degrees below normal. Highs averaged 39.7 degrees or .5 degree below normal. The highest was 55 degrees Sunday. Monday's high was 51 degrees in the morning, then temperatures began to drop during the day reaching the freezing point by late afternoon. Since then the mercury has not gone above freezing. Lows averaged 15.4 degrees or 4.8 below normal. The low was 3 degrees early Tuesday, and then remaining in the teens most of the day.

Snowfall for the month totaled 5.7 inches, somewhat below normal.

The chill factor Tuesday was around 30 degrees below zero, because of the high winds and low temperatures.

Winter officially began at 12:36 p.m. Tuesday, December 21. This was considered the shortest day of the year, being 8 hours and 46 minutes. Actually several days before and after are about the same length. Days will then become noticeably longer.

Letter To The Editor

To the editor;

My comment regards the article of "Teaching of Hatred" printed in your paper on December 2.

The irony of printing the article during the Christmas season is remarkable. You see I am very naive and have always liked that phrase about "Peace on earth; good will toward men." Until reading this valuable article, I had always believed that the phrase meant all men. (I got that crazy idea from the Bible) But now I understand that what the angels were really saying was "Peace on earth; good will toward those who align with the western world."

Reading the article also gave me insight as to the great honor of the U.S. citizen. I'm glad that we do not simply sit back as Communist propaganda promotes "hatred" of our ways. We come back with our own distorted tales in order to keep our populus as paranoid as possible about other ways of life. I was misled in my youth to believe that we were above such tales and that freedom was based on understanding.

The Communist world says that we are hypocritical about our religion. They say that we have subtle ways of spreading myths about them which are grossly over-exaggerated. This Christmas they are correct on both counts. The mentioned article suggested that we demand the Russians to "stop teaching their children to hate" before we sit with them in negotiation. I agree, but should we not stop teaching our children fear and hatred also or am I again confused in believeing that it takes two willing parties to promote peace.

Angels may be ignorant in terms of politics and ideologies, but for some reason I still like the way they phrased it. "Peace on earth; good will toward men" with no stipulations. It's hard to extend good will toward those who hate you, but it can be done and if we do it this year, the meaning of Christmas returns in a glorious way!

Man Injured In Gas Explosion Dies Dec. 17

Harry John Croyle, Jr., who was injured in a gas well explosion near McHenry December 13, died Friday, the 17th, in Mercy Hospital in Pittsburgh, Pa.

Mr. Croyle sustained burns over 60 percent of his body in an explosion about 5:30 a. m., and had been rushed to the burn center at Mercy Hospital by members of the Northern Rescue Squad. He was working as a cementer at the time of the explosion, and had been employed with Halliburton Corporation, a subcontractor for Texas Eastern Company, for ten years.

Cause of the explosion, which occurred on the Ralph Kelso property off Bumble Bee Road, is still under investigation by Halliburton, Texas Eastern and Robert Shimer, fire investigator for the state fire marshal's office.

Mr. Croyle, a resident of Vintondale, Pa., is survived by his wife Judy; three daughters, Barbara, Melissa and Diane, all at home; one son, Scott, at home; and his mother, Mrs. Harry J. Croyle, Sr.

The Bell Funeral Home in Indiana, Pa. handled funeral arrangements. Burial was in Brush Valley, Pa. cemetery.

Bert Snair, another Halliburton employe who sustained arm injuries in the explosion, has now returned to work. Further drilling on the well where the explosion occurred has not been resumed until cause of the fire has been determined.

Recommendations Developed For Airport Updating

Two recommendations were developed at the third meeting of the Garrett County Airport Commission, held December 16. Present at the meeting were Edward Michael, chairman; Col. R. C. Browning, secretary; Tim Dugan, substituting for Marshall Rickert; Kenneth Metheny, substituting for Herbert McCrobie, and Charles Gosnell.

Guests at the meeting were George Edwards, Garrett County Commissioner, and John Scott, deputy administrator for the Maryland Aviation Commission; Robert Railey, and Thomas Jones, member of the county planning commission.

Mr. Edwards assured the group that from now on, positive action will be taken by his office to inform all concerned of actions taken on recommendations by the Airport Commission.

Mr. Scott made a presentation on procedures to be followed in obtaining federal and state funding for airport construction on improvements. He said a master plan for the county airport was needed before any federal action could be taken, and that a consulting firm was needed to up-date the master plan. Cost of a consultant was said to be approximately $25,000 with federal share of 90 percent, with the remainder coming from state and county.

Mr. Scott indicated that improvements to the county airport had been given high priority by the state aviation administration.

At a meeting of the county Airport commission on December 16 it recommended that the county commissioners file an application for federal funding for the updated plan and that the advice provided by Mr. Scott be followed to expedite the improvements.

Chapel On Mount Is Holy Spot

Among the many churches of the Holy Land is the chapel on the Mount of the beatitudes, the site where Jesus pronounced the Sermon on the Mount: "Blessed are the poor, blessed are the meek, blessed are the merciful."

From here, one can follow the footsteps of Jesus, down the Mount to the Sea of Galilee, where he walked on the water, where he performed the miracle of the loaves and fishes, and where He preached on the "Bread of Life."

Nazareth and Cana are not far away.

Others forfeited collateral, one paying high for not tagging a deer.

Seventeen Die On State Roads

Seventeen persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed eight were drivers, five were passengers and four were pedestrians.

One of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officer could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

We started our nation's 200th year last January by killing thirteen fewer people on the highway than we had the year before, the lieutenant stated. The future looked bright because mild winters usually mean high traffic fatalities. When conditions are poor people drive as carefully as they know how, and while traffic accidents increase, they are less severe. When conditions are good, people get careless. "During the Holiday Season don't let carelessness make you a traffic statistic," he concluded.

Persons killed through December 19 totaled 640 compared to 663 for the same period last year.

Pope Delivers Annual Message On World Peace

Pope Paul VI in his annual message on world peace, made a new attack on abortion and also struck at the arms race and political suppression.

"Do you want peace? Then let us defend life," the 70-year old Pope said in outlining the theme of his message to world leaders for the World Day of Peace on January 1.

The condemnation of abortion came just days after the Vatican officially released a new formal attack on sterilization as a means of birth control and one day after the Italian Parliament began debate on a measure to legalize abortion.

"It is not only war that kills peace. Every crime against life is a blow to peace, especially if it strikes at the moral conduct of the people."

He said motives such as population control, the prevention of malformed babies, illegitimacy and future poverty all ignore the supremacy of the more important principle: "human life is sacred from the first moment of its conception and until the last instant of its natural survival in time."

Holiday Service At Grantsville Set Dec. 24th

The Junior choir, directed by Mrs. Nancy Jones, will sing, accompanied by Mrs. Patricia Jones. Mrs. Martin will also sing and a guest soloist will be Miss Jeannie Elbin, Houston, Texas, singing "Oh Holy Night."

Following a meditation by the pastor, the entire congregation will sing "Silent Night," for the candlelighting event. David Savage is organist and Amy Swauger is acolyte.

Less Waiting Time Planned At Med Center

A new outpatient clinic emphasizing a unified approach to treatment of patients with general medical problems has opened at West Virginia University Hospital in Morgantown.

It emphasizes less waiting time for patients, availability of specialists for consultation, quicker diagnostic X-rays and other laboratory procedures, continuity of care and exact and accurate billing.

"It amounts to a revamping of our approach to general medical care for ambulatory patients," a spokesman said. "It represents a totally new method of expediting the care of such patients and will serve as a model for primary care physicians."

Full-time faculty physicians are staffing the clinic. In most instances, patients will see the same doctor on each visit. The clinic also will be staffed with full-time nurses, aides and secretaries.

Under the direction of the WVU School of Medicare and University Hospital, the new service is located in the Outpatient Clinic area of the WVU Medical Center adjacent to specialty clinics to facilitate referrals and consultations. Coordination of the new clinic with those of the other services such as surgery or neurology also is being stressed.

Opening of the new clinic is expected to shorten the time patients have to wait before they can be seen in the Medicine Clinic.

University Hospital and School of Medicine administrators believe the unlimited capacity of the new clinic with its increased patient load will enhance all educational aspects of primary ambulatory care.

Motor Fuel Tax Revenues Rise

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein announced that net state motor fuel tax collections for the first five months of Fiscal Year 1977 are 4.46 percent greater than for the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Net motor fuel tax collections for the month of November, 1976, totaled $15,308,236. Of this amount, $15,074,716 was distributed directly to the Department of Transportation. This brings the amount distributed to the Department of Transportation for the first five months of Fiscal Year 1977 to $77,889,421, up 4.10 percent from the $74,824,838 distributed or the same period of Fiscal Year 1976.

A total of 161,956,203 gallons of gasoline was consumed in Maryland during the month of October 1976, an increase of three million gallons over the 158,804,583 gallons consumed during October 1975.

Oakland Pair Charts Course As Marine Technicians

By Carol Canan

From the mountains to the ocean went two 1976 graduates of Southern High School, and near the ocean they plan to stay as they study and work as marine technicians.

Ed Panther and Dawn Tichnell chose these rather unusual careers because of a love for the boats and the sea. They are currently students at Cape Fear Technical Institute, Wilmington, North Carolina, and plan to continue their education through four years of training to become marine biologists.

Dawn, who is maintaining a 3.8 average, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tichnell, Oakland. Ed, who has a 4.0 average, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. James Panther, Oakland. Their studies this quarter include zoology II, chemistry, technical math, English composition, sociology, and ship and marine repair.

The 90 students, including four girls, also go out on one cruise each quarter to learn firsthand about ship repair and maintenance, as well as helping on the bridge, in the engine room or mess hall, or assisting the scientific crews working for the oil companies which charter the school's ship to survey for oil. Cruises are made up and down the coast from Massachusetts to Florida.

Scientists from the companies renting the ship work 24 hours a day, taking samples and sounding the ocean floor to determine suitability for oil drilling. The students work six hours on, six off around the clock.

The Oakland team has been on one cruise thus far, and will never forget the eerie effects of the Bermuda Triangle, off the south Georgia coast. When the Advance and crew got in the middle of the Triangle, all the ship's engines went dead, the generators suddenly stopped working, compasses no longer functioned accurately, and the ship's power steering unit was inoperable. Once the boat passed the Triangle, however, all functions inexplicably returned to normal.

Scenes from "Jaws" to the contrary, Dawn and Ed have seen few sharks so far. Schools of dolphins are plentiful and provide graceful aquatic accompaniments as they follow the ship. Sea turtles have been sighted, and on the trip back from Rhode Island thousands of squid and jellyfish were spotted.

Their favorite class is zoology, and they go often to the beach to collect samples and identify specimens. Both are very enthusiastic about their career choice, and have strong ties of affection to Cape Fear already. For years Dawn's family has vacationed there, with her uncle Kenneth Tichnell, and through this association they learned of the school.

Cape Fear also offers two-year courses in practical nursing, automobile mechanics, air conditioning, radio and television repair and varied other choices.

These two young people from Oakland have charted their course and now are moving toward marine biology goals, full speed ahead.

THE S.S. ADVANCE II ship owned by the Cape Fear Technical Institute is a former Navy escort ship now rented to various oil companies for underwater exploration for oil deposits. The Cape Fear Institute is the only school in the east which offers on-the-ship training to its students. The school also has a shrimp boat for students' use.

It's beginning to feel like Christmas when certain things begin to happen:

—The stone-faced elevator operator says "good morning" for the first time in months.

—The newspaper boy puts the paper on the porch and not on the roof.

—The office "coffee break" doesn't last through the morning.

—The taxi driver opens the cab door for a lady passenger.

—Your son says, "I don't need the car tonight, Dad."

—The wife brings you morning coffee in bed.

—The bus driver doesn't slam the door in your face.

—The store clerk says, "Thank you for shopping with us."

—You receive a call from a long lost friend.

—You feel like greeting the world with a smile and a friendly greeting.

Instructions Go With Useful Gifts

If you give a small appliance, a camera, even clothing to a friend or relative for Christmas — be sure you include the manufacturer's directions or instruction tags and booklets that came with the purchase.

Care instructions provided by clothing manufacturers should be followed for garment protection and longer wear. Appliances operated and maintained according to manufacturer's direction will give longer, trouble-free operation.

Fabric tags or booklets tell fiber content and proper laundering and dry cleaning procedures. For most electronic equipment, there are important do's and don'ts essential to operation and maintenance.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Beason Glotfelty wishes to take this opportunity to thank all the staff on 2nd floor and Dr. Johnson at Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the care they showed him during his long stay, thank you again.

CHRISTMAS IS CHEERIER at the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home thanks to efforts from the 60 or more volunteers who contribute time to help patients make decorations for the tree. Patients gathered around the cookie tree are Hazel Boyd, Martha Smith, Irene Fike, Patty Gonder, Olive Herring, Nina Naughton and Delma Hamburg. Mrs. Peggy DiSimone is activities coordinator for the nursing home, assisted by Mrs. Frances Birge. One of the most helpful volunteers is W. A. [Huck] Miers, of Keyser, who continues to visit patients and to bring gifts despite the fact that his mother, formerly a patient there, died a few weeks ago. He also provides the birthday gifts for the monthly birthday Parties.

A Festive Name

"Merry Christmas" in June? September? It is for a lovely young lady in Sacramento, California, whose name is truly Merry Cheree Christmas!

In answer to endless inquiries and as many jokes, this charming young woman never tires of explaining that her name really is Merry Christmas, and is spelled just that way. She is used to people thinking it's funny and the constant teasing, but enjoys the fun of it as much as others.

Miss Christmas, whose fame has spread all over the world, spends a considerable amount of time answering the many people who write her. She starts writing her Christmas cards in September.

Asked about marriage proposals and changing her name, Miss Christmas responded "Well, I've seriously thought about marriage a couple of times, but I was raised the old-fashioned way and I guess I'm looking for an old-fashioned type of person who thinks like I do. I really like the traditional things — like Christmas."

Garrett Wins Tourney Title

Garrett Community College Lakers turned to its big men and took the lightning out of Fayette's fast break to emerge with decisive 84 to 56 victory in the championship game of the Laker Holiday tournament Saturday night at McHenry.

Beaver Campus of Penn State clubbed Hagerstown JC in the consolation game 112 to 80.

The Lakers who had been defeated 86 to 82 by the Fayette fast break in Johnstown only two weeks ago, took the fuse out of the breakaway offense Saturday with a drop back zone defense, while successfully getting the ball on offense to the team strength, the front wall.

Freshman Bill McGarvey wound up with 18 points in pacing the Lakers to their fifth win in seven games, while the tourney's most valuable player was sophomore Tom Panther, former Southern High star. He added 12 while Comiskey had 10. Danel added 2, Lewis 6, Guadagnino 6, McPherson 4, Shutter 2, Frost 8, Saller 3, Grove 7, Brosnihan 2 and Russell 2.

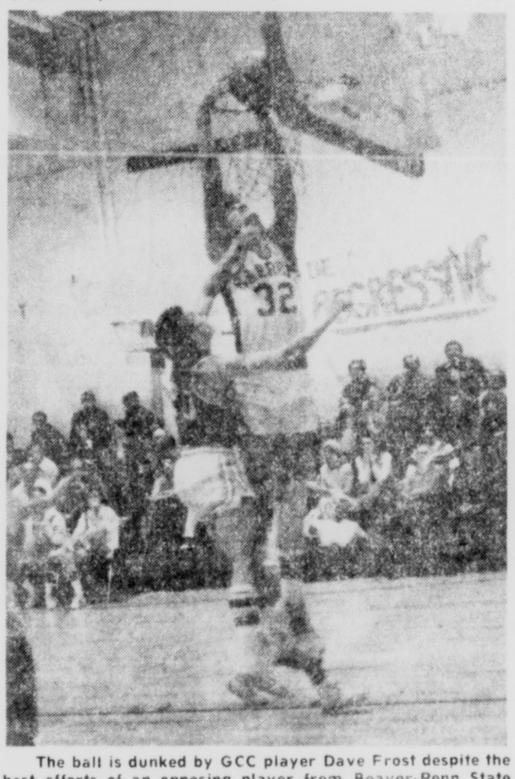
These young men, members and coaching staff of the Garrett Community College Lakers' basketball team, are responsible for the team's third consecutive win in the annual Rotary Christmas tournament sponsored at the college. In the center is Paul Holzshu, coach. This GCC win ups their current season record to five wins and two losses. The team will be idle now until January 7 when they will face Beaver Community College at Monaca, Pa.

Tom Panther, Southern High School graduate, won the most valuable player trophy following the annual Rotary Christmas basketball tournament at GCC earlier this month. Presenting the Trophy from the Oakland Rotary Club is Dr. Alfred O'Connell, president of Garrett Community College and a member of the Rotary.



The ball is dunked by GCC player Dave Frost despite the best efforts of an opposing player from Beaver-Penn State campus during the first round of playoffs in the annual Rotary Christmas tournament at GCC. GCC claimed this game 83-70, and Fayette defeated Hagerstown. In the championship game, Garrett bounced the Fayette-Penn State campus team 84-56. Beaver defeated Hagerstown 112-71 in the consolation round.

For Fayette Jones had 18, Lacente 11, Kupets 4, Matinak 7, Rush 1, Shafter 4, and Sleighter 11.

Garrett had advanced to the finals with an 83 to 70 victory over Beaver. Bill McGarvey had 17 points for the winners while Tom Panther shared scoring honors with 17 while Dave McPherson had 12 and John Guadagnino 11. Lewis also had 4, Kane 4, Shuller 2, Danel 3, Comiskey 1 and Frost 6.

Steve Novoselac led the losers with 17, Koslina had 16 and Breslin 12.

Fayette led all the way in the romp over Hagerstown.

To Have Christmas Program Tonight

The annual Christmas program will be presented at the Crellin Assembly of God Church, Thursday, Dec. 23rd., at 7:30. Recitations and songs will be given by the boys and girls of the Sunday School, followed by the "Christmas Story" a Cantata by the choir, which will be pantomimed by the children, under the direction of Mrs. Debbie Zimmerman. Rev. Paul Poland, pastor, extends an invitation to everyone.

Church Group Meets

Members of the Loch Lynn Missionary Fellowship met for their annual Christmas fellowship dinner, at the home of Gladys Paugh. Each member brought a salad and a Christmas gift for exchanging.

The program presented by Claudia Tressler, was "The Christmas Orange." Selections were read from Matthew and Luke, from the New Testament, including the Christmas story. The group sang Christmas carols.

Christmas Days At The White House

Through the years, Christmas at the White House has been somewhat like Christmas anywhere in America.

In 1800, President and Mrs. John Adams invited friends to a Christmas gathering at a White House yet incomplete, with damp walls and cold rooms.

Things were merrier five years later when Thomas Jefferson entertained Christmas guests with lively violin tunes. In 1835 young relatives of Andrew Jackson filled his stocking with a corncob pipe, tobacco and trinkets.

Young Tad Lincoln invited street children into the White House and his father bade them welcome. Benjamin Harrison ordered the first Christmas tree set up in the White House and Calvin Coolidge started the practice of lighting a tree for the nation on the lawn.

Franklin D. Roosevelt and his large family celebrated Christmas with parties for family, friends and staff. Mrs. Eisenhower usually wore a bright red dress while presiding at holiday gatherings for her grandchildren.

A Christmas Message

The last weeks of the month of December bring us to the winter solstice, to the shortest day of the year, the time when winter begins. It's a time of change that has been marked by mankind from the prehistoric period onward, a period that in this country we celebrate as Christmas.

But it is a time which has been customary for celebrations and for marking the change of the annual calendar from time immemorial. Many religions and many nations have marked it in their own way. And it's appropriate that all of us pause at Christmas to think exactly what is conveyed by this ancient festival, one that we all share and celebrate by the name of Christmas, or under some other name.

We celebrate the birth of Christ, but also a time of renewal, of rededication, of new beginnings. Once we have reached the shortest day of the year, it necessarily follows that the days will be lengthening imperceptably with earlier dawns and later sunsets. We have opportunities for beginning new works in the new year.

This is really the opportunity that we get at Christmas. It is not only that we have a chance to express our love for family and friends by giving gifts and by exchanging Christmas greetings, but, it's the fact that we have reached a point where there is a renewal of life. And, this can be just the physical renewal of life represented by longer periods of daylight in which to work, in which nature can grow; but, it can also be a meaningful new beginning, spiritually, for all of us.

In our national life, we are coming to a time of new beginnings. Under our constitutional system of government, there will be a peaceful transition of power shortly after Christmas, and there will be a new beginning for the nation. So this year, in a unique way, we're going to have an opportunity for new beginnings nationally as well as personally. Christmas, therefore, can be a very important day. I hope it will be a day of feasting and cheerful exchange of friendship for all Americans. But, more than that, it ought to be, I think, a conscious day of rededication to ourselves, our families, and rededication to the nation.

The whole Christmas story, the birth of Christ in the manger of a stable near Bethlehem, is an important object lesson for all of us. The very setting suggests that all of us have to begin, in the most humble way, to assess our own capabilities, to assess the way in which we can make contributions to the world around us.

From very humble beginnings, I think we can then see in what way we can dedicate our lives, so that they will be better in the years ahead, and that we can make a greater contribution of the gift of ourselves to those we love and to the nation that we love. And this will mean a truly merry Christmas for all of us.

For myself and my wife Ann, and our sons, Charlie and Rob, I do wish you all a very merry Christmas.

"Be Prepared!"

The slogan, "Be Prepared!," was once more than a Boy Scout motto. It was also a declaration of our national policy. Even so, there have been times when our defenses were down. One such time was the year 1941. As newspaper columnist Lewis Seale recently recalled, "This nation, then as now, sent men to Congress who were budget conscious and who were determined to keep military spending down. As a result there were gaping holes in our defenses."

This, of course, was well known by enemies of the United States. And because they knew we were weak, they attacked. We would not have been attacked if the enemy felt that they could not win. The rest of the story is history, written in blood and sacrifice. But would you believe, as bad off as we were in 1941, that today our national defenses are in worse shape than on Pearl Harbor day — much worse?

We were reminded of this unhappy — and dangerous — fact in a speech made by Navy Secretary J. William Middendorf II given aboard the Arizona memorial commemorating the 35th anniversary of the sneak attack at Pearl Harbor.

"Your navy has been cut in half in the past six years, while the Soviets have been building a gigantic navy," the Secretary said.

"Today your navy has 40 percent fewer ships than it had at the time of Pearl Harbor. Over the last decade the Soviets have built two and one-half times more submarines than we have; 30 percent more major surface combatants, and eight times as many smaller ships below 1,000 tons. Their research and development effort is some 50 percent greater than ours."

One of the problems confronting the new administration in Washington will be unemployment. Part of the solution is at hand. Just to rebuild our navy alone — to say nothing of our army and air force — could keep many of our unemployed busy for the next ten years or more. All we need is for Congress to wake up and restore the slogan, "Be Prepared!" —U.S. Press Association.

Jerusalem Cherry Bright Yule Plant

A brilliantly colored, inexpensive plant for Christmas giving is the Jerusalem cherry. It bears round, red fruit especially appropriate for the holiday season.

The Jerusalem cherry needs bright light and a cool temperature, no higher than 55 degrees at night. If the plant is allowed to wilt, or if cooking fumes are present, the fruit will drop.

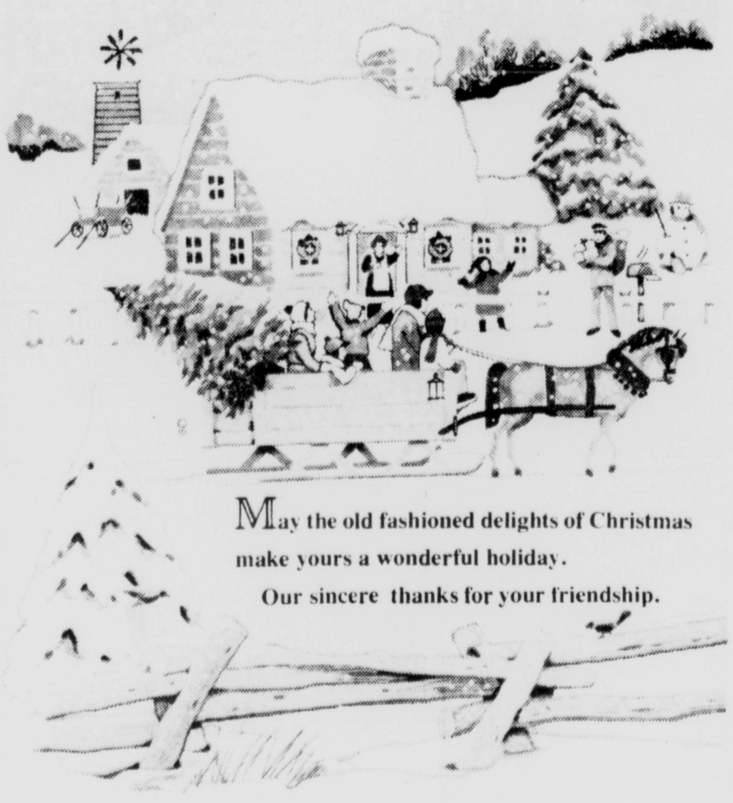
THE PRAYER OF ST. FRANCIS

St. francis of Assisi is membered for many reasons. He was the first to arrange a manger scene. He was a great friend to animals. He is also given credit for the following Christmas prayer.

Lord, make me an instrument of Thy peace. Where there is hatred, let me sow love. Where there is injury, pardon. Where there is doubt, faith. Where there is despair, hope. Where there is darkness, light. Where there is sadness, joy.

O Divine Master, grant that I may not so much seek to be consoled as to console.

To be understood, as to understand. To be loved, as to love; For it is in giving that we receive. It is in pardoning that we are pardoned. And it is in dying that we are born to eternal life.



May the old fashioned delights of Christmas make yours a wonderful holiday.

Our sincere thanks for your friendship.

Candle Associated With Superstition

Candles, once man's source of light, today are purely decorative. Traditionally associated with religious worship, candles also have long been associated with superstitions.

Among them, for instance, the belief that a blue flame from a candle indicates there is a ghost in the house and that a spark emitted from a candle means the person nearest the flame will soon receive an important letter.

Most of us tend to eat more during the holiday season than we should — because a great variety of snacks and goodies are much more in evidence than at any other time of year.

The wise homemaker will keep "poor" snacks out of sight and encourage family and guests with tasty, nutritious morsels.

Poor snacks include candy, carbonated beverages, sweetened drinks, chocolate, cakes, cookies, doughnuts, pie, jellies and jams. They're all good, in limited quantity, but two or three days on such a diet can add several pounds to the careless nibbler.

Good selections for family and visiting snackers include fresh, dried, or canned fruits; carrots, celery, lettuce and cabbage wedges, green peppers, cheese or meat-based dips. For the kids, boiled or deviled eggs, cheese slices or spreads, canned meats and peanut butter rate high.

St. Boniface, an English missionary to Germany in the 8th century, helped start the Christmas tree tradition when he urged the people to replace pagan sacrifices to Odin's sacred oak with a fir tree adorned in tribute to the Christ child.

Another legend says use of trees dates to the Teutonic practice of bringing trees into homes to appease the god-like spirits believed to inhabit the forests. Some say responsibility for the Christmas tree — and its candles — should be attributed to Martin Luther.

Perhaps the oldest legend of all is the most beautiful. According to this story, when Christ was born a group of stars looked down upon an olive tree, a date palm, and a pine tree which stood near the manger.

Seeing the pine had nothing to offer, while the others gave fruits and dates, the stars descended upon the pine's boughs to form the first glittering Christmas tree in honor of the newborn child.

STILL BEST...By far the leading theme for Christmas card illustrations and ever-popular as outdoor and store-display centerpiece, the Nativity Scene reminds us all of the true meaning of this greatest holiday.

Original holiday decorations add to merriment!

For a shimmering effect, swag long strips of tinsel at the top of your windows, over whatever curtains or drapes are already there. Add glistening Christmas tree balls and you'll have a picture window that is lovely inside and out.

For a festive indoor window-sill box, fill a long planter with evergreens and tuck bright tinsel flowers thickly through the greens. You might also want to stand this Christmas garden on a long book shelf.

Hang a silver metal lettuce basket in some unexpected corner of your house, filled with large and small balls of colored yarn accented with gleaming Christmas tree balls . . . all silver would be spectacular!

A simple and sophisticated table centerpiece can be a conversation piece when entertaining. Fill a glass hurricane chimney with cranberries, kumquats or crab apples and top with a tuft of graceful seasonal greenery. Flanked by graceful candles it is a lovely sight. If you're lucky enough to have a mantelpiece, this colorful arrangement will look charming on it as well.

Hot tips for entertaining

For a holiday buffet, you'll want a way to keep your hot dishes just that way. Electric hot trays are the number one choice because they are usually made to keep foods warm, without drying them up. Small electric cooking appliances are great too. You can cook a dish in one and when ready to set out on the table, you can turn the setting down to "warm." It will hold at serving temperature nicely that way.

There are many attractive tabletop warmers that use canned fuels . . . alcohol burners, butane gas burner, or candles. Be sure to read the instructions carefully, as a safety precaution.

Bethlehem Sky Inspired Carol

An American visiting Bethlehem one Christmas season was inspired to write a poem which became one of our best-loved Christmas carols.

Phillip Brooks spent some time outside, beneath a clear sky filled with glittering stars, he was inspired to write a beautiful poem. He titled it, simply, "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Later he asked Mr. Redner, his church organist, to compose music and the task was accomplished on another Christmas Eve. The two men, along with members of their Sunday School sang the song publicly the first time at Christmas services.

Commissioners Add Funds For Construction

Several construction items deleted by the state for the new middle school at Northern were being restored as a result of an allocation from the County Commissioners amounting to $50,000.

Features such as terrazzo tile flooring and vinyl walls were eliminated from the state's Interagency Committee on Public School Construction allocation.

Dr. William H. Buser, superintendent of schools, stated that because of maintenance problems anticipated without those features the school board decided to ask the commissioners to add county funds so that the materials could be included.

The Northern Middle school was recently offered for construction bids and the Westmoreland Construction company of Pennsylvania was the low bidder at about $3.4 million. A contract for the job was expected to be signed this week.

He said the Interagency committee had approved the Westmoreland bid. The school will be located on the 150-acre site which is also the home of Northern High school. It would be for sixth, seventh and eighth grade students from Friendsville, Grantsville, Accident and Route 40 areas.

Dr. Buser said that the school board would request furniture funds for the school in next fiscal year's IAC appropriation to the county. He said the school should be ready for operating in the fall of 1978. Another feature of the project is a $244,000 sewage treatment plant, also to be built with state funds.

Dr. Buser added that the IAC had agreed to raise the Middle School allocation by $125,000 to fully fund the construction cost.

Church News

A candlelighting service will be held in Emmanuel Lutheran Church for the parish on Christmas eve, December 24th, at 8 o'clock. The choir will sing an anthem "Noel Carol" from a 15th century French Carol.

Pastor and Mrs. James Mitchell held open house Sunday afternoon at the parsonage. There were some sixty guests attending. Refreshments were served.

Twenty-two new choir robes were purchased for the choir at Emmanuel Lutheran Church and were worn on Sunday for the first time. On Wednesday evening, choir members were invited to the parsonage for a social hour. It was the occasion of Pastor Mitchell's birthday.

Community Carolers

About twenty-five members of the community went caroling on Saturday evening. Delmar Yoder furnished transportation in his school bus. Many of the Senior citizens and shut-ins of the community were visited, and carols were sung for them.

Personal Items

Junior Brenneman and family, Grantsville, were dinner guests of Mrs. Amelia and Miriam Brenneman on Sunday. Afternoon visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Alton Miller, Springs, and Mr. and Mrs. William Brenneman, Grantsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brenneman, Chattanooga, Tenn., are spending the holidays at their homes in the community.

Mr. and Mrs. James Glotfelty, Tom and Lisa, Gary, Cathy, and Charee Reckner, McHenry, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Reckner.

Earns Master's Degree Friday

Miss Alice Hevner, Extension Agent, 4-H and Youth, received her Master of Science Degree from the Department of Agricultural and Extension Education at the University of Maryland, in ceremonies there. During January she will be touring New Zealand and Australia, where she will attend the 3rd World IFYE Conference (International 4-H Youth Exchange), in Christ church, New Zealand.

Public Debates To Continue At Frostburg State

The Department of Speech and Theatre of Frostburg State College in conjunction with the Forensic Union of the College has announced the continuation of its program of public debates on issues of concerns to the citizens of Western Maryland.

According to Michael Wallinger, Instructor of Speech and Theatre and Coordinator of the program, students at the College along with the faculty moderator will be available to appear before local groups and organizations to debate several topical issues.

The students are available to debate one of the following issues before organization audiences: handgun controls, toy safety, control of tobacco products. Topics available for discussion after March 1 include: water fluoridation, Sunday closing laws, and Allegany County unemployment. The rationale for the program is two-fold. First, the program holds potential for increasing dialogue between the community and the students of the College. Additionally, it can serve as the training ground for students to acquire and improve skills of rational argumentative communication in "real world" situations.

Depending upon the format chosen, the programs vary in length from 45 minutes to one hour.

Fire safety precautions are most important during the holiday season — and Christmas lights should be given special attention.

Used — even new — light strings should be carefully inspected, before the lights are turned on. Discard or repair those with broken sockets or worn, brittle insulation. Be sure all light sockets contain bulbs.

Make a "house rule" that children are not allowed to play with lights on the tree. Never use lights on a metal foil tree.

When trimming, be sure that no bulbs touch branches, needles or flammable decorations.

A dry tree is a fire hazard. If needles drop, you'll be wise to get another tree.

A zone of fresh water has been found in the Atlantic ocean farther off-shore than expected.

Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

Earlier this year you said in your OPEN LINE Column that the Department of Housing and Urban Development could help jobless homeowners who have fallen behind in mortgage payments. Please explain.

The new Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) ruling applies only to HUD - insured single family mortgages in imminent danger of foreclosure. All of the following criteria must be met: 1) The lender must have notified the homeowner and HUD of his intention to foreclosure; 2) At least three full monthly mortgage payments must be due and unpaid; 3) The default must have been caused by circumstances beyond the homeowners control including, but not limited to, job loss, death or illness in the family; 4) There must be a reasonable prospect the homeowner will be able to resume full mortgage payments following the temporary period of reduced or suspended payments; 5) the lender must have done everything he might be expected to do to avoid foreclosure; 6) The mortgagedproperty must be the principal residence of the homeowner; and 7) The homeowner must not own any other property subject to a mortgage insured or held by HUD. For further information, may I suggest you contact your nearest HUD office.

Do you support the proposed commuter tax which would be levied by the District of Columbia on those who work in D.C. but live in Maryland and Virginia?

I oppose any form of tax on the income of nonresidents who work in the District of Columbia. The proposed commuter tax is a case of taxation without representation and I will work for its defeat should it ever reach the floor of the House for a vote.

With all the talk about energy research, what is being done in the area of solid waste disposal?

Congress is currently working on legislation which authorizes research, development and demonstration studies relating to the management of solid waste and resource and energy recovery methods. Copies of this bill, H.R. 14965, may be obtained by writing my office in Washington.

Does the government publish any literature on how to find jobs?

"Merchandising Your Job Talents" is a new brochure published by the Consumer Information Center and contains suggestions on preparing a resume, writing a letter of application and interviewing for a job. Copies are available for $1.10 from Consumer Information, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

FOUR VEHICLES INVOLVED IN COLLISION — Two cars and a wrecker towing another car were involved in a wreck yesterday at 3 P.M. on State Route 39 at Rosedale. Sandra Paugh and Randall Thomas, Crellin, occupants of one of the cars were taken to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Rescue Squad where they were treated and released.

Photo shows two of the cars involved. The wrecker, belonging to C & M Pontiac and driven by Phil Rook, was hit nearly head-on by the Thomas car and damaged extensively. It was towing a sheriff's deputy car which was also damaged by the impact. Trooper Larry N. Smith of the State Police investigated but he was unavailable this morning for identification of the person or persons involved in the third car. The photo shows members of the rescue squad hastening to deal with the injured.

No Snow Fell On Bethlehem

Because snow scenes are so popular in Christmas illustrations, children often ask if there was snow in Bethlehem on the night Christ was born.

It is almost certain there was no snow on that Holy Night. If anything, there could have been rain, as December 25 falls in the midst of the rainy season in Bethlehem.

WHERE DOES INVESTMENT CAPITAL COME FROM?

The most important news story of 1976 was largely ignored by the news media, or if not ignored it was scorned as somehow "unAmerican." We are talking about the report of one American Corporation that its third-quarter profit exceeded $1 billion. Another Corporation reported profit in its third-quarter in excess of $800 million. This is good news for the future of America. (If Americans can keep the politicians from taking it all away in the form of new taxes.)

It is good news for the simple reason that new jobs are dependent on profit. It is good news for the reason that old jobs are dependent on profit. And it is good news for the reason that American free-enterprise and managerial ingenuity was able to increase profit despite the interference of many unnecessary government regulations. Profit from present business enterprises is the primary natural source of investment capital. It is essential to the development of the other two natural sources of capital.

Where does investment capital come from? The only well is profit. While we commonly think of Wall Street and the Stock Market as a source of investment capital in in the formation of new Corporations, without profit in the hands of investors there would be no Stock Market. We also think of Banks, Savings and Loans Associations, Insurance Companies and other lending institutions as sources of investment capital. However, unless individuals have something over and above the cost of the essentials of life to save . . . there would be no savings accounts or insurance company reserves to lend. That something "over and above" which is saved represents investment capital.

In 1976 . . . the home building industry began to spurt in the fourth quarter and the energy fueling that economic recovery was over $500 billion from the savings accounts of individual Americans who were able to save a little by exercising prudence and thrift . . . words which are strange to some government leaders.

Birth Dated Christian Era

Christmas, 1976 A.D. — most of us know this means Christmas 1976 "in the year of our Lord." We have been using the A.D. notation since Charles III of Germany attached the symbolism to the years of his reign in 879.

The "B.C." — Before Christ — notation came earlier, in the year 532, the idea of a monk who wished to mark the beginning of the Christian era.

According to calculations, the Christian era began on January 1 in the middle of the fourth year of the 194th Olympiad, the 753rd year of the building of Rome, and in 4714 of the Julian Period.

The Julian Period was devised in 1583 A.D. By Joseph Scaliger, who multiplied the lunar cycle 19, solar cycle 28 and the Roman indication 15.

Perhaps the earliest method of marking time was devised by the Egyptians, about 4,000 B.C. — based on the Mundane era of Alexander, and calculating the "beginning" to be about 5502 B.C.

In mid-19th Century America, the holiday turkey was often boiled rather than baked. Here is a recipe still used at the Sunnyside home of Washington Irving, Tarrytown, New York.

Make a stuffing for the craw, of chopped bread and butter, cream, oysters and the yolks of eggs. Sew it in, and dredge flour over the turkey. Put turkey to boil in cold water with spoonful of salt. Be sure water covers bird well. Let it simmer for two hours and a half, or less time for a small bird. Skim while boiling. It looks nicer if wrapped in a cloth dredged with flour. Serve with oysters in drawn butter.

Weather and Meteors

A system developed by the Canadians will be used to transmit weather information from remote regions in ten Northwest states. Remote transmitters will send data to central locations by bouncing a radio signal from the ionized air left by the passage of a meteor. This information, consisting of rain and snow measurements, is gathered automatically. This information makes possible forecasts of water runoff to help in water resource management and control.

First Quarter moon phase will occur on Tuesday at 2:48 a.m. Moonset varies between 8:15 p.m. tonight and 1:16 a.m. Wednesday morning.

Venus, Jupiter and Saturn are visible this week. Venus, brightest object in the west for three hours after sunset, is among the stars of Capricorn. Its motion against the star background may be observed as it passes not far from Deneb Algedi, the tail of the Goat. Jupiter, among the stars of Taurus, is high in the south at sunset. Saturn rises about 7:30 p.m. with the stars of Cancer.

Two minutes of daylight are gained as the week ends. The sun is above the horizon for nine hours twenty-two minutes today. It rose at 7:36 a.m. and sets at 4:58 p.m. Wednesday sunrise is at 7:38 a.m. and sunset is at 5:02 p.m.

Merry Christmas.

Fuel Cost For Public Schools Is Expensive

If the high cost of heating your home and operating the family car are an increasing source of concern, consider the plight of the Maryland public schools.

Energy for heat and light for 97.4 million square feet of school buildings last year consumed 55 million gallons of various grades of fuel oil, over half a billion cubic feet of natural gas, 7,600 tons of coal, 8.4 million pounds of steam, and 641 million kilowatt hours of electricity.

Gasoline and diesel oil to run the state's 2,400 publicly-owned buses plus staff cars ran to 10.4 million gallons.

"This is the first year we have collected this data in detail, and so we have no basis for comparison with earlier years," said Richard C. Ahlberg, associate state superintendent of schools, "but we do know that the threat of a more severe winter and continually rising costs will probably take a bigger bite out of school budgets this year than last in spite of our best efforts to hold down consumption."

In Garrett county for 444,800 square feet of floor space 406,178 gallons of No. 2 fuel oil were used, 74,251 cubic feet of natural gas, and 2,378,620 kilowatt hours of electricity. The schools also used 317.89 tons of coal, and 258,696 gallons of fuel oil for transportation.

FSC Play Entered In Competition

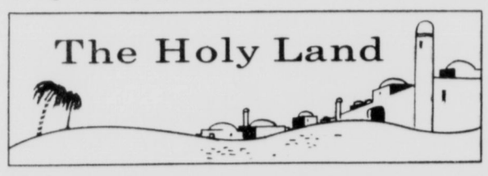
The dramatic production of "The Night of the Iguana," produced earlier this year by the Speech and Theatre department and Dramatis Personae of Frostburg State college, has been selected as a finalist in the annual American College Theatre festival — region II.

The production directed by Dr. David R. Press, professor of speech and theatre, was one of only four shows to be selected for the honor. In all, ten student productions in the Mid-Atlantic Region had entered the shows in the competition.

Selected to participate with Frostburg State College at Essex Community college from February 17 to February 20, will be productions from the U. S. Naval Academy, Howard university, and Anne Arundel Community college.

Frostburg's production will appear on February 20. The production was originally staged at the college last October. This is the third time that an entry by the college has been singled out for honors in this competition.

The Holy Land



With the coming of Christmas, the eyes and thoughts of the world turn again to the Holy Land, to Bethlehem and Jerusalem, and the five miles between them that contain so many landmarks associated with the life and death of Jesus.

The starting point, of course, the Church of the Nativity, scene of the Virgin Birth. The church is built over the grotto where the child lay peacefully in the manger. Just outside the city, on the old road to Jerusalem, is the tomb of Rachel. Follow a second (and later) route and your path is past the Milk Grotto and the Mount of Olives. This is the ancient grove where Jesus prayed and wept over Jerusalem. From here, one can see the wall built by Herod and, within the city, the Dome of the Rock, where tradition says Solomon built his temple and where Jeremiah hid the Ark of the Covenant. It was from this very spot, Moslems believe, that Mohammed ascended to heaven.

Nearby is the Garden of Gethsamane where Jesus prayed the night before he was crucified. Long cared for by the Franciscan fathers, the Garden contains olive trees said to date from the time of Christ's entry into the Golden City. Close by, too, is the tomb of Mary, mother of Christ.

Within the walls of Jerusalem, one can almost feel the magnificence of religious history. Standing near the Dome of the Rock one stands where great temples have stood for centuries.

David erected here an altar to God. His son, Solomon, built the great temple which Nebuchadnezzar destroyed in 586 B.C. in another temple on this same spot. Christ came at the age of twelve to drive the money changers out of the temple, foretelling destruction of the temple which came in 70 A.D. when the Romans destroyed all of Jerusalem.

In the seventh century the Arabs erected a mosque on the spot and later built the Dome of Rock, the third holiest place in Islam.

Not too far away is the holiest of places in Christendom — the Church of the Holy Sepulcher, erected over the place where Christ was crucified and buried.

The California Supreme Court recently struck down the death penalty.

The Christmas Pointsettia

The Poinsettia is a crimson plant native to Central and South America that we know by the name of the American who introduced it into this country...Joel Poinsett, first United States minister to Mexico.

When he returned from Mexico in 1825, Poinsett propogated the plant in his Greenville S.C. greenhouse and sent cuttings to friends, one of whom named it the Poinsettia.

In native habitat the plant is known as Flor de Feugo (Fire Flower) and Flor de Nochebuena (Christmas Flower.)

While Poinsett introduced the plant into this country, another American Family probably did much more to spread the poinsettia over the country and the world. Albert Ecke, who came to the United States from Germany shortly after the turn of the century, opened a cut-flower and vegetable business in Los Angeles. He quickly recognized the potential of the Poinsettia and its popularity with his customers. Soon he and his family were operating a 22-acre farm specializing in the red plant which had adapted to the warm climate of California.

Albert Ecke died in 1919 and his son, Paul, took over the family business. Paul Ecke became known as "The Poinsettia Prince", building a 500-acre, 150-employe operation at Encinitas, Calif., that is known to florists on several continents.

Elderly To Get Over $4 Million Federal Funds

More than $4,000,000 in federal funds has been allocated, expanding Maryland's Title VII nutrition program for unty and Baltimore City.

In making the announcement, Dr. Matthew Tayback, State Director on Aging, said: "This new money, $4,100,000 is the largest amount ever made available for the Title VII nutrition program and will enable us to set new and record levels of service to Maryland's senior citizens. This program is the most popular of all the aging programs under the Older Americans Act, largely due to its double-barreled benefits — adequate nutrition through a well-balanced meal and the opportunity for much needed social contact."

According to Janette Martin, nutrition project director for the Office on Aging, the new allocations will be used in several ways: "The funds will allow an 8.5% increase in the number of participants, thus we will soon be serving 7600 senior citizens a day. In addition to the meals at nutrition sites, approximately 10% of the funds will earmarked for home-delivered meals to the frail and disabled elderly. Another portion will be channeled into special projects in Baltimore City, Prince George's County and Somerset County so that those elderly requiring care for several hours per day can be accommodated at the nutrition sites."

The Federal monies will be equitably distributed across the state in proportion to the percentage of elderly citizens in each county and the city.

Garrett County is scheduled to receive $69,116 of the total amount to be distributed statewide. Baltimore City will receive over a million and Baltimore County over $397,000.

6 TIPS FOR SAFER WINTER DRIVING

by
Professor A. H. Easton
Director, Motor Vehicle Research Laboratory
University of Wisconsin—Madison

1. Get the "feel" of the road by accelerating carefully to see if wheels spin; or brake gently to see if they skid. Reduce speed accordingly.

2. Increase your following distance. It takes three to nine times as far to stop on snow and ice as on dry pavement.

3. "Pump" your brakes to slow or stop — don't jam them on. An intermittent pumping action keeps the wheels rolling and helps maintain steering control.

4. Have good tires with good treads. Better yet, use snow tires which provide half again as much pulling power in snow as regular tires. Studded snow tires (where permitted) offer still more help on icy surfaces.

5. Always carry reinforced tire chains in the trunk of your car for use during severe snow and ice conditions. They provide four to seven times as much traction on snow or ice as regular tires.

6. Keep your windshield and windows clear at all times. Replace streaking wiper blades gone dead from exposure to sun, wind and oily road film. Be sure that your windshield washer solution contains adequate anti-freeze.

Safe Holiday Is Happy One

Don't let "festivity fatigue" or carelessness turn the holiday season from happiness to grief on the highway. Each season hundreds of year-end accidents bring needless injuries and deaths into the family spotlight.

Winter driving is often hazardous because of bad weather and bad roads. Automobile heaters keep you warm, but also make you drowsy if not counteracted by some amount of fresh air. Slightly lower at least one window if you drive for a long time or a long distance.

Holiday parties mean less sleeping time for many, resulting in tiredness or "festivity fatigue". If you are off your sleep schedule and on the road — stop often, for coffee, or just for a walk around the car.

Alcohol and gasoline are an improper mixture — that can be lethal.

Keep the holiday happy by keeping it wisely.

May yours be merry and gay.
Our hearty holiday thanks for your kind patronage.

Brokerage-Firm Announces Free Financial Forum

Buying and selling stock options are among the most popular investment activities in today's market, according to Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith's, William Bauer.

To explain options and how they work, Merrill, Lynch will host a free forum on the topic, "Option Writing," at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, January 6th, at the Will O' the Wisp, U. S. Route 219, Oakland.

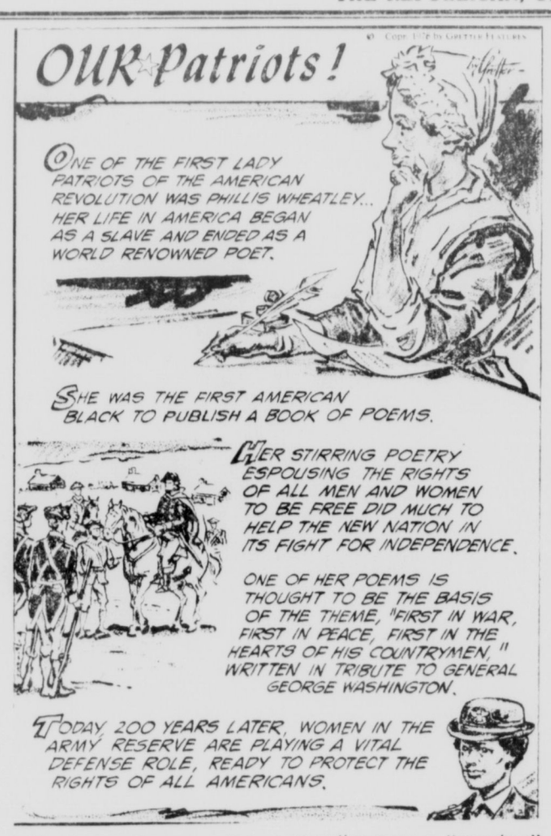
"Options provide a hedge in an uncertain market," Mr. Bauer noted. "And that's what investors are currently concerned about. In a falling market, for example, an option program can possibly provide protection against a decline in stock investments."

The spokesman for Merrill, Lynch, securities company, explained that stock options are a century-old device, newly popularized. They allow their holder to buy from or sell to another person 100 shares of a stock at a specified price and within a specified time. On the Chicago Board Options Exchange, for example, a listing titled Xerox, Jan 50, means that the buyer has the right to purchase 100 shares of Xerox common stock for $50 a share at any time before the last business day in January, regardless of Xerox's market price. However, the buyer of an option pays a "premium" for this right.

The option buyer stands to lose his investment if the stock's price declines or remains the same. The buyer might lose only part of his investment if the stock moves up less than predicted. But the potential for a large gain while risking a relatively small amount of money is one of the appeals to the buyer, stated Mr. Bauer.

The executive stated that all types of people from varying economic backgrounds are using options. "Airline pilots, computer operators, librarians, graduate students, retired persons — a variety of investors are using options," he said.

Although the forum is open to the public without charge, reservations are required. To reserve a seat, interested persons are asked to call Mr. Bauer, collect, at (301) 547-5166.



Accepting Youths For Summer Work

Applications for the 1977 summer Youth Conservation Corps program are being accepted by the Department of Natural Resources.

Eligible boys and girls 15 and through 18 may apply and, if accepted, will work at one of seventeen locations throughout the state at conservation-oriented tasks aimed at improving environmental quality of land and water in the state.

DNR officials said there will be 197 spots for youngsters this summer. There were 161 during the summer of 1976. Deadline for applications is March 15.

The Department of Natural Resources is the recruiter for the Youth Conservation Corps administered by the U. S. Departments of Interior and Agriculture and the State Government in Maryland. The Corps is a program of environmental working-learning. Youth who may be considered for the program must be 15 but not yet 19 (proof of age required). They must have a desire to work in the outdoors and become involved in the development and maintenance of the natural environment and be permanent residents of the United States. They must have no history of serious criminal behavior.

To be selected youth must be physically qualified to participate fully with a parental or legal guardian consent to enroll. A social security number and the ability to obtain a State work permit are also prerequisites for application to the program.

They will be paid $2.30 an hour for a 30-hour week with an additional 10 hours/week devoted to environmental awareness activities. Maryland camps are coeducational. Residential and non-residential camps will be in operation in Maryland. The duration of most camps is approximately 8 weeks with employment not exceeding 90 days during any single year. Applicants are selected at random by computer to fill the limited number of positions.

If qualifications are met, applications and information are available from school counselors, or by writing Department of Natural Resources, Youth Conservation Corps, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401.

There Is An Answer...

By Norman Vincent Peale
And Ruth Stafford Peale

Son killed in accident; daughter-in-law cut them off

Q. I don't know what to do about this heartbreaking situation. We lost our son on an off-shore rig, and his body was never found. His wife took their children and moved away, saying she has started a new life without us. She was pregnant when he died, and after she had the baby we went to the hospital to see the baby, but we were told "No." We lost all we had — our son. We don't want her money. We just need to see our grandchildren. One of them is 14 years old. Do you think he will forget us? Please tell me if you think time will heal all.

A. No, your grandson will not forget you. And if he is prevented from seeing you, that will probably stimulate his desire for further contacts with his grandparents.

It would seem that your daughter-in-law is having an acute emotional reaction, which accounts for her unreasonable attitude. The best thing you can do is to do nothing at present except to hold her in understanding and loving thought. Meanwhile pray with expectation that the rift may be overcome.

Yes, time often heals such situations.

We've written a booklet, What To Do When, that has helped others with questions similar to yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write to: Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

19-year-old daughter living with a man

Q. Our beautiful 19-year-old daughter has turned her back on us. She will not listen to our counsel. She dropped out of college saying she wanted to get married, but she and her friend never seemed able to set a wedding date. Recently we went to visit her and discovered they are living together. We are overwhelmed with mixed feelings — anger, shame, but mostly a deep sense of failure. Our daughter is brain-washed into thinking there is nothing morally wrong with her life-style. Is there anything we can do to reach them?

A. When you say that your daughter has turned her back on you, we get the impression that the pain has more to do with yourselves than your daughter.

To handle this situation reduce, as much as you possibly can, the emotional and recriminatory content. Ask yourselves, "What are we going to do about it now?"

Naturally, you have your moral standards and your daughter has rejected them. In our opinion she is doing a wrong thing and making a great mistake. But to get her to see that is the problem.

Don't act shocked; don't condemn. Send creative prayer thoughts in her direction that her own spiritual perception may be quickened so that she will correct her own moral immaturity and insight.

Widow feels foolish, but would like to remarry

Q. I can't overcome the loneliness I feel since my husband died a few months ago. I live out in the country and don't drive, and am left with a slightly retarded son. He's not much of a problem. I was thinking if I found a good man, would you advise me to get married at my age [68]? I sorta feel foolish. So far I'm in pretty good health and everybody tells me I don't look my age.

A. Your thought about getting married at age 68 is not at all foolish. You probably have years of good life ahead since you have good health and look younger than your age.

The only caution we would give is to avoid getting married on the rebound. Take time to cultivate the company of a responsible man. And if you fall in love, get married and live happily ever after.

Lacks faith in herself

Q. I know I'm a very intelligent girl, but I don't have faith in myself. I was admitted to one of the best universities, but I went to class three times and then quit. I like to study, but for some reason I never finish a course. I have faith in my intellectual capacity, but I'm very nervous and tense. Because of this, I have no friends. My attitude must be wrong. Please, I'd like to know how I can have faith in myself and win friends. Can you help me?

A. You are quite right in judging your attitude to be wrong. But, beyond that, your thinking is shattered. You need to get it organized and focused.

If you are as intelligent as you say you are, you do not seem to be using that intelligence effectively. Use it to determine how to control your tension. Also to get a goal and the motivation to work for it. Learn to use your mind, instead of being controlled by unstable emotion.

It makes no sense to go to class three times and then quit. Hang in there. Keep it going. As you do this, your dislocated personality will flow together.

Afraid of flying

Q. I'm petrified of flying in an airplane. I don't know why. I am not scared of heights. I am not scared of roller coasters. I don't know whether I'm afraid of dying or I don't have trust in my fellow man. Or maybe I don't trust God. My family flies all over the place, but somehow I can't get on the plane. I don't know the answer and I was wondering perhaps you might have some hints for me to overcome this problem.

A. The best way to handle any fear is to realize that basically it is an obsessive idea that has been built up in your consciousness. To overcome it, substitute faith as an obsession or dominating idea.

Consider the thousands of flights that take the air every day, safely and without incident. It will help your faith to realize that the law of averages is on your side. Also remind yourself that God is up there too.

When you take a flight, offer this prayer: "Dear Lord, bless this airplane and this captain and his associates. Bless the engines that they may operate with full efficiency; and the plane that it function perfectly."

Then give thanks for the incredible joy of flight. And always remember this: It never pays to live with fear.

Is it right to take fertility drugs?

Q. After nine years of marriage and one "miracle" baby [now 4 years old], I am again taking fertility drugs, hopeful of another pregnancy. I find myself torn between a tremendous desire to have more children and questioning whether I'm going against the will of God by trying to force my body to function through the use of these drugs. I really enjoy children and I feel we all have so much love to share. But these doubts muddle my thinking, and I get to feeling guilty that I'm not content with just one beautiful child. Please help me.

A. Your doctor's advice, in this case, is of pre-eminent importance.

From the moral and spiritual point of view there seems to be nothing more reprehensible about taking drugs to increase fertility than pills for any other purpose. God put elements into the world which man has made into what he calls drugs and these are to assist nature. In our opinion they are not contrary to God's will and you need have no guilt feelings about using them under medical guidance.

May enchantment be your gift at Christmas. Our gift is your friendship, thanks.

Cold And Windy Weather Increase Use Of Electricity

Cold weather and high winds caused electrical demand to reach an all-time high in the Potomac Edison service area last week.

Between 6 p.m. and 7 p.m. December 8, Potomac Edison customers used 1489 megawatts of electrical power, 36 megawatts more than the previous peak demand recorded February 2 of this year.

Electric heating bills will obviously increase during the period. Electrical power used for blowers, pumps, fans and motors on all heating systems also increased during the cold weather. Added to this could be increased electrical consumption for water heaters and lighting required because of shorter periods of daylight.

Records kept by Potomac Edison show the September-November period about 50 percent colder than last year. The comparison is based on the number of "degree days" in which heating is required and the relative temperatures on those days.

Potomac Edison's total generating capability is 1380 megawatts, 109 megawatts less than that used by customers during the peak demand last week. Electrical power used here in addition to PE's owned capacity was supplied by other companies in the Allegheny Power System and through interconnections with neighboring utilities.

Ground Broken For New Credit Union Facility

Directors and employes of the WEPCO Federal Credit Union broke ground for the new office facility in Bloomington which will be located on the old Brydon property near the intersection of Maryland route 135 and North Branch avenue.

Ample parking will be provided as well as a drive-up window and remote teller station in order that members may transact business from their automobiles.

The facility will be a one-story brick building with burnt salmon colored brick to complement the natural wooded landscape. An effort will be made to allow the large trees in the location to remain intact.

The interior will feature four modern teller stations providing a degree of privacy to members. Private loan offices, administrative offices, large meeting and board room, bookkeeping and vault facilities are planned. Storage areas, employes' snack room and toilet facilities are being provided. The building will be protected by latest burglary equipment.

The board of directors has invited members to watch the construction progress which is under the direction of Ujjal Maker, project superintendent of the Bank Building corporation.

The gifts of the wise men to the infant Jesus — gold, frankincense and myrrh — represented three most valued items. Gold, of course, has always been one of man's cherished trasures — but what about frankincense and myrrh?

Frankincense and myrrh are resins taken from trees and shrubs. Since antiquity man used these two substances for a variety of purposes — perfumes, medicines, incense, in cosmetics, for embalming. Both are found in the trees and shrubs of the dry, rocky hills of Somaliland and southwestern Arabia.

Most frankincense comes from a small shrub-like tree with a stout trunk and pale brown and yellow bark. It bears slender clusters of flowers and the fragrance of the blossoms is discernible for a considerable distance. Resin may flow from a natural fissure in the tree, or from a man-made incision. The resin emerges as a whitish, viscous liquid that turns yellow and clings to the tree wound like tears.

Myrrh comes from the resin of several species of trees, some mere bushes, others rising to 30 feet. It will flow freely from a break in the bark, is collected in brownish-red or red-brown masses about the size of a chicken egg.

Ancient Egyptians probably first used myrrh — in the mummification process. Roman physicians prescribed myrrh treatment for dropsy, earache, eye diseases, bladder stones, abscesses and broken heads.

Although used principally as incense, frankincense was an early ingredient in prescriptions for such varied aliments as chest pain, hemorrhoids, hemorrhages from mouth and throat, broken heads, paralyzed limbs, bruises and ulcers.

We had put the last bauble on the tree and hung the children's stockings by the mantel. We had even remembered our newly acquired kitten. Her catnip mouse was adorned with a red ribbon and a small gold bell.

Then suddenly I found myself staring at the wreath in the window. In the center of it, I could see the white church I'd gone to as a child. More often than not at Christmas there was snow on the ground when we went to the services, crisp and crunchy beneath our feet.

I blinked . . . and, when I looked again, the church was gone. But memory's message still remained. I turned to my husband. "There's something else to do," I told him, "if tomorrow is really to be Christmas."

WHEN THE PARTY'S OVER

Lesson for December 26, 1976

Background Scripture: Luke 2:21-36
Devotional Reading: Isaiah 9:2-7

When the party's over . . . then what?

Well, when the party's over we go home, return to work, get back to normal (whatever that is!). That's all.

Or is it? To fracture an old saying, isn't the proof of the party in the way we go home from it? In other words, if the party is worth anything at all, won't it "go with us" in some way — even if for just a while?

Rev. Althouse

Two senior citizens

By the time you read this column, the birthday party for Jesus Christ will already be over for many people. They will be "back to work" and "back to normal," with only the Christmas bills and a few decorations as a continuing reminder of the celebration.

Actually, that's pretty much the way it was at the first Christmas. Remember, only a few shepherds in the fields of Bethlehem celebrated the Messiah's birth. The rest of the community, let alone the rest of the world, wasn't even aware that there was anything to celebrate.

Later, when the shepherds were back at work with their sheep, when the morning star had faded into the eastern sky, Mary and Joseph took their newborn child to the temple according to custom. Certain rituals needed to be performed before they returned to Nazareth.

Perhaps for them too it seemed that the party was over. The angelic voices were gone, the shepherds had returned to their flocks, and they were about to return to their home in Galilee. But at the temple in Jerusalem they met two senior citizens, two aged "nobodys" who would make it clear to Joseph and Mary that though the party was over, the celebration would continue and no one need ever go home in the same spirit in which he came.

Now depart in peace

Once more God seemed to make a strange selection of personnel. Just as he surprises us by selecting a group of shepherds as the sole celebrants of his Son's birth, so now he chooses two unlikely people to make manifest the enduring significance of that celebration. Though all Israel looked for a warrior-Messiah, the aged Simeon looked at the infant Jesus and suddenly in his heart knew that in this child God had kept his ancient promise to both Israel and the whole world.

The world was still full of corruption, sin, brutality, misery and injustice, but Simeon could let go of life still celebrating the love of God, though the party seemed to be over. And isn't that true for us too? Another Christmas celebration has come and gone and the world still seems to lie in darkness. Still, if the celebration of Christ's birth means anything to us at all, isn't it the same reality that found expression in Simeon's confession of faith? Now that the party is over, let us take the celebration with us, knowing with Simeon that we can "depart in peace," our own eyes having seen the salvation that God has prepared for us and all men who will receive it.

Federal Excise Tax On Telephone Bills Down To 5 Percent

Telephone users will get a one per cent reduction in the federal excise tax on their phone bills in 1977, according to C&P Telephone.

A C&P Telephone spokesman said the excise tax rate is being lowered from 6 to 5 percent as part of a 10-year plan to eliminate the tax.

The tax was 10 percent in 1972 and has been cut one per cent each year since then. The yearly one percent reduction will continue until the tax is eliminated in 1982.

Repeal of the tax is provided for by the excise, estate and gift tax adjustment act of 1970.

Suggestions On Holiday Phone Calls Are Made

If you're going to say "Merry Christmas" or "Happy New Year" by making a long distance call, try to avoid the holiday rush, the C & P Telephone officials advised.

One way is to call Christmas Eve or New Year's Eve

Since Christmas and New Year's fall on Saturdays this year, holiday rates for long distance calls will be in effect both preceding Fridays, December 24 and 31.

Holiday rates will apply for all dial-direct calls. Also, the discounts will apply after the initial three minutes of interstate operator-assisted calls.

If planning to call on Christmas Day, a good time is in the afternoon. Usually, fewer people make their Christmas Day calls between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m., so calls should go through more quickly then.

Here are some more tips about calling during the Christmas season: Dial direct if possible; If you receive a "fast busy" signal or a recorded announcement of a circuit delay, wait a few minutes before dialing again; If you're placing a call through an operator, allow a little extra time for an answer; Check your personal number list ahead of time to be sure you have out-of-town numbers you will want to call.

"Christmas Day is traditionally one of the busiest days for the Bell System, not only because of the tremendous volume of calls but also because the calling pattern is so unusual," a C&P Telephone spokesman said.

On holidays, people are calling from their homes, and the calls have to travel routes which usually do not have a heavy calling volume.

To meet the needs of callers on Christmas Day, a full staff of operators will be on duty, and special circuits will be added.

Also, the flow of telephone traffic will be watched closely at Bell System network management centers throughout the country. The staffs at these centers watch for "traffic jams" and see that calls travel over paths that are open whenever possible.

If you're looking for the Christmas spirit, take a trip to Santa Claus, Indiana or Christmas, Florida, best known of the many towns and cities with names which reflect Christmas in some way.

There's a Bethlehem in Connecticut and six other states. Virginia and Missouri boast a Noel; there's Advent, W.Va., and Mary is found in Kentucky; Joseph in Oregon and Utah.

There's a Wiseman in Alaska, one in Arkansas, and a Wisemantown in Kentucky. You'll find Good Will in West Virginia and Joy in Illinois, Kentucky, Missouri, and Texas.

There's Mistletoe, Kentucky; Trees, Louisiana, and an Evergreen in six states.

Guidelines Given For Fire Safe Holiday Season

Robert Shimer, Fire Investigator, State Fire Marshal's Office, reported that this is a very special and happy time of year but it is also a season that can bring many serious and unsuspecting fire hazards into the home. He suggests that everyone follows these guidelines: (1) Buy a firm, fresh tree. Until ready for use, store in a cool place with its base in water. (2) Before setting up the tree cut off tree base. This fresh cut helps tree absorb water. Place tree in a stand containing water. Keep water level above cut and check daily. (3) Locate tree away from heat and where it will not block exits. Consider giving tree extra support with guy lines. (4) Take down tree as soon as possible after Holiday. Unless tree you buy has been treated correctly with UL listed chemicals — do not rely on the tree's fire retarding qualities. (5) Absolutely never, never put lighted candles on a tree or near any evergreen decorations. (6) Lighting sets can wear out or become damaged. So check them closely for worn insulation, broken plugs, loose bulb sockets. (7) Use only lighting sets that show underwriters' Laboratories Inc. (UL) or Canadian Standards Association (CSA) label. (8) Plug tree and decorative lighting sets into house circuits having 15 AMP fuses. Use extension cords sparingly. Outdoor wiring needs special weatherproof cords. Turn off indoor lighting sets before going out or retiring. Use noncombustible materials if possible or flame-retardant decorations. Untreated cotton, flock and tissue paper ignite so easily. (9) Ordinary polystyrene foam or natural evergreens make fine displays but can be fire hazards. Keep candles, open flames away. (10) Electric toys should carry UL or CSA label to show they meet safety standards. (11) Pick up wrappings while opening gifts. Put them into covered trash containers. Do not burn them in fireplace.

Mr. Shimer reports that too many fires are started by misuse of matches and smoking. Holiday celebrating calls for extra-special caution. So, don't smoke near the tree. Use adequate ashtrays, empty them frequently, safely. Keep matches and lighters out of children's reach. If fire occurs, get everybody out of the house, then call fire department.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mr. Elra Galen Resh who passed away two years ago, December 20, 1974.

Our Dad

Somewher between sunrise and sunset God was calling your name. God was so very kind. He knew you would like to see us one more time. We were with you at the table, for a short time, then God called once more"Come take my hand and walk with me, you will suffer no more." With our arms around you, we knew it would be our last, for God had taken our loved one home at last. Although you are so very far away your memories will be with us each day. Maybe we didn't speak it in so many words, but Dad we loved you dearly. You were our guiding light. What is our home without you "Dad". Never, never more the same. There's no name so sweet as "My Dad". On earth you worked and suffered much pain. But now in heaven you are at rest. Still our hearts are filled with sorrow. For we'll never find another like you in this world again. So don't forget us till we're with you once more. The saddest words mankind knows will always be 'Good-bye.'

Silver Decorations Are Easy To Make

Silvered decorations are easily made from berries, seed pods and sprays of ivy.

Pour a small amount of aluminum paint (the kind used for metal surfaces) into a container of water. The paint floats on the water. Dip materials to be silvered into the water and draw out slowly. Hold over the container until dripping stops. Hang in a dry place for 24 hours.

Huskie Matmen In First Loss

Beall High matmen handed Northern High grapplers their first setback in wrestling Monday evening. Final score was 27 to 22.

The Huskies, losing for the first time in four outings copped six of the 12 matches but the Mountaineers picked up a pair of pins and a forfeit to overcome the two match disadvantage.

After losing the first bout by default the Huskies ran off five straight wins via the point route. Point makers for Northern were Galen Kamp, Dwayne Bittinger, Randy Broadwater, Jamie Sisler and Jack Garlitz.

John O'Connor snapped the trend for Beall with a decision win and then the Huskies' Tony Artice and Beall's Jim Crowe battled to a standoff.

Harman got the Beall momentum going with a decision win and then Jimmy Blake and Steve LeMay got pins to make the difference. Keith Kamp of Northern won a decision in the closeout match.

Four Huskie grapplers remained unbeaten. Winning for the fourth time were Galen and Keith Kamp and Jack Garlitz. The only blight on Artice's record is the standoff.

Area Retiree Succumbs After Lengthy Illness

Last Friday, December 17, after five weeks in the intensive care unit at West Virginia University medical center, Morgantown, following the perforation of a duodenal ulcer, peritonitis and numerous complications, culminating in heart failure, Boris Mandrovsky, North Second street, Oakland, departed this mortal life.

Born in Moscow, Russia, April 8, 1916, he was a son of Mrs. Olga Mandrovsky, North Second street, Oakland, and the late Nicholas Mandrovsky. He was 60. Some years after retirement he moved to Oakland in December, 1974, where he continued to study, write and publish articles.

He was endowed by God with a brilliant mind, great sensitivity and an unusual memory, according to close friends. He absorbed and retained many varied impressions as he fled from Russia with his parents, and lived in Constantinople, Sremski-Karlovici, and Berlin before coming to the United States at the age of seven and beginning his formal education.

Halfway through college he realized he would not become the well educated man he wished to be if he continued with the engineering curriculum he was following, so he switched and took his degree in physiology so he could include the study of music, art, literature and history.

He was drafted in 1941, interrupting his work in a cancer research lab, but soon he was working and teaching in the Army Medical Center at Walter Reed, Washington, D. C. Here he met the young woman who would later become his wife and help him cope with the frail health he was plagued with all his life. His army career continued with ASTP training in Russian studies at Georgetown university, the Infantry, the Air Corps, Intelligence, and finally the post war Quadri-Partite government in Berlin, where he terminated his five years of service.

Returning to Washington, he married and began five more years of study on the G.I. bill, including two in Paris, for a degree in Art and Political Science, and a Master's degree in Education. During these years he did a great deal of painting, using various media.

Because of his Russian language facility he took a job at the Library of Congress temporarily filling in when a friend went to Mexico to teach for six months. The friend remained in Mexico and Boris continued at the Library for more than 20 years. He became involved in the Geophysical Year and compiled the "Glossary of Ice Found at Sea," published by the Library and since used internationally. Active later in the geoastronautical aspect of the space program he traveled abroad and within the U. S. to meet and work with outstanding people from all over the world.

Having moved to Fairfax county, Va., in 1952 he concerned himself with suburban problems and worked with his civic association and with the Federation of Civic Associations. He retired early and divided his time between civic work and the pursuit of one of his many hobbies, research and writing on the history of playing cards, and moved to Oakland in 1974, where he continued to study, and write. Following two successful cataract operations he was able to resume another of his hobbies, photographing aspects of American Life such as old hotels, barns, etc., which are disappearing.

He was known as an exceptional individual by all who knew him.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Olga Mandrovsky, and his widow, in Oakland. His body was given to the university medical school for research.

Two memorial services will be conducted in Stratford, Connecticut, one on December 26, and another the latter part of January.

Use Your Tree After Holidays

There are many uses for the Christmas tree when the holiday is over.

Longer branches can be "planted" as windbreaks to protect azalea, yew, rhododenron and low-growing boxwood.

The entire tree may be "planted" or fastened against a fence for a bird feeder. You can tie pieces of suet to branches. Put some water beneath the tree and keep the container filled. Once the birds begin to visit, they will return time and again.

Extra Know-How Needed For Safe Winter Driving

In the eyes of police officials who must keep traffic moving during winter storms, a little extra "know-how" can avoid prolonged and costly delays this winter.

"Traffic tie-ups not only inconvenience all motorists," a police spokesman has warned, "but they often hopelessly block the movement of crucial emergency services as well. And it makes little difference whether local motorists or out-of-state cars are involved."

The spokesman was Glen D. King, executive director, International Association of Chiefs of Police, and a director of the Safe Winter Driving League headquartered in Chicago.

King is adding the resources of IACP to a national effort to insure that all drivers have the know-how to overcome adverse weather conditions — winter driving precautions that have been recommended by the National Safety Council's Committee on Winter Driving Hazards and that have been endorsed by IACP. They include:

Overconfidence in Car Take Precautions

See that your car has a tune-up and thorough mechanical check.

Make sure defrosters and windshield wiper blades can clean slush or wet snow off your windshield. Replenish antifreeze fluid in windshield washers.

Use good tires with good treads. Have brakes checked for equalized braking.

Overconfidence in Yourself

Don't become overconfident about your winter driving skills. Plan for periodic rest stops — don't cover too much territory in one sitting. Check weather and road conditions along the way. Stop and wait when either become uncertain.

Practice Common Sense

Anticipate situations that call for reduced speed — intersections and your own turning maneuvers, for example.

Increase following distances when surfaces are slick. Use extra care in signaling other drivers who seem to be following too closely and who may be unable to stop.

Take precautions

Keep your gas tank reasonably full at all times. Keep your exhaust system, battery and emergency equipment in dependable condition.

Safety check your trunk. Emergency gear should include a glass scraper-brush; booster cables; flares or emergency lights; a shovel; sand, rock salt or traction mats; a tow chain or strap; extra windshield washer fluid; blankets; and tire chains.

If you must drive during severe snow and ice conditions, tests by the National Safety Council have demonstrated that reinforced tire chains far out-perform any other traction equipment. They provide from four to seven times the pulling ability of regular tires for climbing icy grades or pulling through deep snow.

"Remember," King concluded on behalf of all IACP members, "thorough preparation and a healthy respect for winter's hazardous driving situations are two important elements in safe and enjoyable winter trips."

A bomb recently disrupted the water supply in Lisbon, Portugal.

Northern Rescue Squad Has Drill

Members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad assisted in staging a drill testing the effectiveness of the staff of the Cuppett-Weeks Nursing Home and the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The mock disaster was held on Sunday, December 12th. There were over twenty victims of the simulated plane crash into the Nursing Home.

Make-up for the simulated injuries was accomplished by Dotty Folk, Doris Beal, Shirley Baker and Mary Friend of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. Injuries consisted of burns, lacerations, heart attack, punctures and other trauma that could be expected from flying debris and fire.

A critique of the actions of the rescuers was accomplished by members of the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad: Pete Crowell, Captain; Floyd Baker, Chairman; Terry Spear, Ron Bowser, Training Officer.

May you share the wondrous tidings of this Holy Season. Merry Christmas and sincerest thanks.

Kristin Milne
Garrett County
Teachers' Association

When a school principal and vice-principal are summoned to attend a conference lasting an entire school day, who runs the school? When a teacher has 35-40 students whose lessons must be planned, prepared, and evaluated on an individaul basis, who can that teacher turn to for assistance? When the main office of a school is bombarded with urgent requests, immediate demands, not to mention anxious visitors, who acts as a buffer between public and principal? When a learning center is needed for specialized teaching, who has time to attend to this when all of the students require individua attention?

School secretaries and aides are often called upon to function in a greater capacity than their job definitions.

With all due respect toward principals and vice-principals, it is a little-known fact that the mainstay of the school office is not necessarily the man behind the desk, but the woman behind it. This is not tantamount to saying that behind every good man there is a better woman— feminist persuasions notwithstanding — but it is an invitation for the reader to sincerely consider the significance of the secretary's presence in the process of education.

The duties and responsibilities assigned to school secretaries appear insurmountable for one person to accomplish within any given work day; sometimes, those work days may begin at 7:30 a.m. and continue through the day until 7:00 p.m. This late extension of work hours is the exception and not the rule, but this can and has been a common occurrence.

Nevertheless, this job is not for the individual who requires a closely structured work environment. Dexterity should easily be a prerequisite to being appointed such a position, as the work itself demands strength, team effort, and a phenomenal amount of patience. Lacking even one of these qualities could make all the difference between a well-organized business and a frantic work situation.

On a "typical" day, a secretary will be faced with a variety of tasks. Besides taking dictation, typing letters, dispatching inter-school memoranda, and all general correspondence with the school, there is the responsibility of financial accounting for a general school account, accounts for each academic department, and a books and materials fund. Any requisitions from department areas are also left in the custody of the secretary. Add to this list a ringing telephone, and the results would appear to be mass confusion, but the secretary somehow takes it all in stride.

The job doesn't end here, either. Some secretaries must act as a health room monitor for those schools which have only a part-time health nurse. In the nurse's absence, the secretary must perform these duties and sometimes dispense medicines through parental permission. There is also a matter of figuring the work hours for the payroll and handling student traffic for early dismissal and disciplinary action. If this isn't enough to "keep busy," there are student office aides to train and supervise.

Aides are another group of necessary personnel whose presence in the classroom or office is vital and whose absence is sorely felt. There are two classifications of aides in Garrett County schools: Clerical aides, whose role is to assist office management in clerical duties, and classroom aides whose prime responsibility is to an assigned teacher and classroom area. Clerical aides also serve as assistants to guidance counselors; classroom aides are hired according to a student/teacher ratio requiring additional supervision. The salary earned is roughly half that of teachers; a college degree, although not required for an aide's position, earns $600.00 or more.

There is often an indistinguishable dividing line between the duties of secretary/aide and teacher/aide. The primary function is, of course, to provide each with a capable resource for rudimentary procedures in the classroom and office.

For the teacher's aide, these procedures may include setting up and maintaining a structured learning environment through the use of learning centers, and also preparation of teaching materials. There is often a need for individualized tutoring for students, especially in classes designed to focus on specific learning disabilities. Teacher's aides are also called upon to help administer standardized tests which evaluate pupil aptitude, achievement, and disability. In short, the teacher's aide often relieves the classroom teacher to attend to actual instruction rather than having to devote such a great amount of time to manual preparation and assessment.

Clerical aides may be required to complete tasks that are delegated by the secretary which allow the secretary to concentrate on more demanding work. These tasks are, again, centered on manual skills and competence. For example, if a secretary is required to submit a budgetary report which requires precision in completing, the typing, filing, and general office business may be assigned to the clerical aide, allowing the secretary more time to concentrate solely on the budgetary report.

Many aides, both clerical and classroom, are advancing their education through night classes. Although a college degree is not mandatory for obtaining such a position, some college education is desirable and often prepares the individual for job qualifications, especially if classes in education are pursued.

Without the excellent support and co-operation that both aides and secretaries have exhibited, Garrett County schools could never run as efficiently as is needed. On behalf of all school personnel a genuine note of thanks is extended toward these people who have truly dedicated themselves to making the educational process a smoother and more successful one!

School Seniors In Biology Project

During the weeks of November 29 to December 4 and December 6 to 9, twenty-five 12th grade students from Northern and Southern High Schools participated in a resident field biology project at Camp Hickory.

While at Camp Hickory these students worked on a two phase project — Winter Tree Identification and Field Exercises in Forest Management. In the Winter Tree Identification phase these students learned to identify the structures of a woody twig, keyed and identified at least 35 common and/or native trees of Maryland and their uses. The Forest Management phase dealt with the use of a forester's tools in determining tree age, diameter, merchantable height, board foot volume and market value of selected trees. In addition they took part in a timber stand improvement exercise.

Instructors were: Charles F. Strauss, Sr.; Joseph L. Winters and Ernest L. Metz, the latter of the Maryland Forest Service.

Students from Northern included: Debbie Garlock, Ursula Bradler, Jill VanSickle, Cheryl Rexrode, Darrell Evans, Donald Lipscomb, Tim Humberson, Richard Fife, Glenn Broadwater, Ed Vincent, Randel Broadwater.

Changes Noted In Seeking Supplemental Aid

The value of a home no longer counts as a resource in determining eligibility for Federal supplemental security income (SSI) payments, according to James E. Robertson, Social Security District Manager in Cumberland.

The SSI program makes monthly payments to people with little or no income and limited resources who are 65 or over or blind or disabled. "Limited resources means possessions worth up to $1,500 for one person living alone and $2,250 for a couple," Mr. Robertson said. "But under a change in the law enacted in October 1976, a home doesn't count as a resource."

Previously a home with a market value over $25,000 did count as a resource. Some people who were ineligible for SSI payments because of the value of their home may now be eligible, according to Mr. Robertson.

Other possessions that aren't counted as resources, depending on their value, may include a car, personal effects, household goods, and life insurance policies, Mr. Robertson said.

Job-related injuries and deaths showed a decrease in 1975.

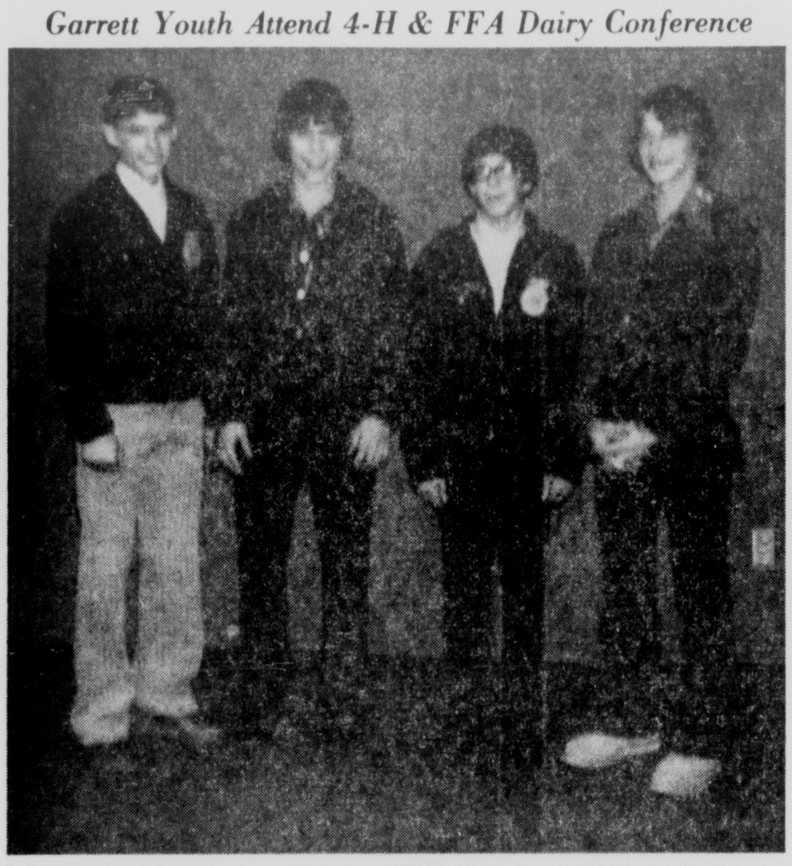
Garrett Youth Attend 4-H & FFA Dairy Conference



The Garrett delegation attending the 4-H & FFA Dairy Conference were Southern FFA members, according to Dick Bishoff, Vo-Ag Instructor at Southern High School. Two of them, Ron Green and Steve Lichty, are also active in the 4-H Dairy Program in the County.

The recent Ninth Annual Dairy Conference was held at the National 4-H Center in Chevy Chase where the Garrett delegation toured an ice cream plant, milk processing facility and spent an evening touring Washington, D. C. where they attended a theater production and a banquet.

During the weekend session the youth learned about quality milk, dairy marketing, the role of cooperatives and careers which are available in the dairy industry. In the photo, left to right, are Ron Green, Gary Glotfelty, Steve Lichty and Bill DeWitt.

Sen. Mason Seeks Yough Easements

State Sen. Edward J. Mason (R-Allegany, Garrett) is seeking use of state Program Open Space money to purchase easements within the Youghiogheny River wild and scenic corridor.

If the legislation is successful, it could make the state regulations within the corridor more palatable to the property owners affected. The bill is already prefiled for the 1977 General Assembly session.

Sen. Mason said he has introduced a second measure, this one changing the membership of the local Advisory Board for the Youghiogheny as another means of lessening concern over the state's control of the river.

Concern about the Youghiogheny regulations has led to the formation of a property owners association which is threatening legal action against the state.

That controversy has been underway since the General Assembly approved legislation including the Yough in the Maryland Wild and Scenic River system and giving the Department of Natural Resources power to regulate use of river corridor land.

In a letter to property owners and various officials, Sen. Mason said he has been busy gathering information in anticipation of introducing legislation aimed at making the Yough regulations more equitable.

One of the bills will require the Yough Advisory Board to include "two residents owning land continuous to that portion of the river that is designated as a wild river."

The other bill would allow use of Open Space funds to "purchase an easement of interest in the land so affected which limits the use thereof in such manner as to preserve its natural open character in perpetuity. The grantee of such easement shall be the state, local or federal government."

He said that Section 8-410 of the Youghiogheny law already permits use of open space funds to acquire property rights, but only if there has been an unconstitutional taking of property.

He said his legislation would go much farther and would use what is known as "negative conservation easements."

"This concept appeals to me because it could give monetary benefits, both direct and indirect, to Youghiogheny landowners who have had their property rights restricted under the Scenic and Wild Rivers program. This concept also appeals to me because with negative conservation easements, the land affected would be individually owned and controlled entirely by the owner," he explained.

Explainging the negative conservation easement idea, Sen. Mason said that the word "easement" usually connotates a positive type of easement whereby one landowner grants to the owner of an adjacent parcel of land the right to use his land for a particular purpose, such as a road or utility lines.

"With a negative statement, the landowner does not grant to anyone the right to use his land for any reason. A negative easement is an easement where the landowner restricts the right to use his or her own land. A negative conservation easement means that a landowner restricts his or her right to use the subject land for purposes that would have an adverse impact on the environmental quality of the land."

The voluntary restriction of the land would entitle the landowner to certain benefits like income tax deductions, real estate reductions and federal estate tax benefits. If the suggested addition of Section 8-410 (b) to the code would pass, there would also exist the possibility of some reasonable compensation from Program Open Space funds.

Mason feels it is more important, however, that with a voluntary conservation easement the landowner could again feel that he has total control over the land.

Sen. Mason is asking for a meeting with the property owners in the future to discuss his proposals, and has said he would make an expert in the field of negative easements available for a presentation at the meeting.

Time to Look Ahead . .

The arrival of the new year on Saturday brings with it an opportunity to assess the past year, then put it behind us and face our responsibilities and opportunities with a fresh outlook. In this respect the year 1976 was an especially significant year for concerned Americans — and that should be all of us.

The year marked our bicentennial celebration, brought a national election and now is a particularly appropriate time to pause and take stock of the records of our nation and our leaders.

Each citizen must make his or her own judgment on these things and then act accordingly.

Action means deciding what you want America to accomplish in the coming years, then work towards accomplishing those goals.

Two hundred years ago Americans fought to insure our right to make and support these decisions. The bicentennial year now about to pass, was the year in which we commemorated the struggle to exercise those rights. We must continue to preserve those rights this year and throughout succeeding periods of time. We should resolve to make America stronger.

A HILLTOP EXTRAVAGANZA bejewels a hilltop off Route 135 near Deer Park where the Clifford Friend and Mervin Kauten families live. Their efforts this year won them first place in the annual home lighting contest sponsored by the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association. Mervin Kauten and his wife, the former Maxine Friend, have retired here from the Post Office Department at Hagerstown and began the decorating idea last year. Approximately 1,000 bulbs were used this year, and stringing the lights took all of one day for the two families. Assisting with the lights were Mr. and Mrs. Friend, their son Larry and daughter-in-law Becky, son Carl, Mr. and Mrs. Kauten, and a neighbor, Jimmy Whitacre. A 40-foot ladder was used so Carl could string the lights in the tallest pine trees, with the ladder being capably held by Mr. Kauten.

Group Plans To Exempt County From River Law

Members of the Youghiogheny Property Owners Association have now set two goals, the first a short-range plan to have Garrett exempted from the Maryland Wild and Scenic Rivers law, the second, to work toward the ultimate elimination of the law in Maryland.

Col. R. C. Browning, president of the property owners association, said that the group has received assurances from Del. DeCorsey E. Bolden that he will write legislation proposing that Garrett be excluded from the river legislation.

Even if Garrett County is amended out of the law, "That's not going to help people in other areas such as Anacostia, Patuxent, Deer Creek and the Monocacy Rivers," whose wrath will be aroused by the imposition of the regulations on wild and scenic rivers, says the Col.

"We need to continue with the legal aspects of the thing as far as whether the law is constitutional," Col. Browning said.

The idea for having Garrett amended out of the legislation was suggested by Garrett County Commissioner Wayne B. Hamilton. At a recent meeting of the association, he said he believes there would be a more realistic chance of having an amendment passed rather than seeking to have the law itself changed.

The Youghiogheny was placed into the state's wild and scenic rivers system early this year, and shortly thereafter the Department of Natural Resources began enforcing state regulations on how property within the river region can be used.

Property owners have labeled the regulations as too harsh and have demanded that if the state wants to regulate the river property, it should purchase the land rather than saddle the present landowners with rules and regulations which they consider confiscatory.

Col. Browning went on to say that interest in the property owners' fight with the state has been more than he anticipated. One group which has pledged support to the Garrett Association is the National Legal Center for the Public Interest, a group described by Col. Browning as a non-profit national organization which offers legal assistance to associations like the one in this county.

Another person interested in the Youghiogheny is a Vermont newspaper editor who led a fight in that state against similar land-use legislation.

Sen. Edward J. Mason (R-Allegany, Garrett) recently suggested that the state use some Program Open Space money to purchase some of the river property. He also discussed the possibility of a "negative conservation easement" which might give the property owners some relief.

Col. Browning said that the majority of the property owners do not feel Sen. Mason's idea is feasible in this instance, and the association members voted unanimously to pursue the amendment idea.

He said that because the chief sponsor of the Youghiogheny legislation — Maryland Senate President Steny H. Hoyer — has said that he would seek to block any repeal of the law, it was decided to try for an amendment to exempt Garrett County.

Del. Bolden met with the property owners and said he would promptly have the necessary legislation drafted in time for introduction into the 1977 General Assembly session which begins next month.

Del. Bolden has also said that he will attempt to have legislation passed to strengthen the trespassing laws in Maryland.

Property owners along the Youghiogheny have relied on strict enforcement of trespassing laws to keep their land closed to the public and to the state as a protest against the state regulations.

Mr. And Mrs. Denison Retiring

Both Hugh and Freda S. Denison, who reside at Gortner, south of Oakland, are retiring from their positions tomorrow, Friday, December 31. Mrs. Denison has been with the Maryland Extension Service for the past fifteen years. Mr. Denison is retiring after being with the Monongahela Power and Potomac Edison electric companies for over thirty years.

Mr. and Mrs. Denison have two living children, Roger, Fairmont, W. Va.; and Mrs. Kenneth Steyer, of near Deer Park, and two grandchildren. Another son, Richard, was killed in an automobile accident in 1966 while a member of the armed forces. They have resided for the past ten years at Gortner.

Upon retirement they plan to move to Marquess, W. Va., near Grafton, on the home farm of Mrs. Denison. Both Mr. and Mrs. Denison have been active in the community, both being members of St. Paul's United Methodist church.

Mrs. Denison became an extension agent for 4-H and home economics with the county extension staff in October, 1961, and in March of 1966 she became extension agent for home economics, working primarily with homemaker clubs in the county. At present there are 21 homemaker clubs with 375 members.

She started expanded food and nutrition program in the county in December, 1968, and Family Aide program in August, 1973, with 8 aides, two technicians and one secretary working. She has been active in state and national associations of extension home economics and has served on various committees. She received the distinguished award from this association in 1975. She is a member of Eastern Star and Methodist Women's church group. She is also a member of Tau Chapter, University of Maryland, Epsilon Sigma Phi, national honorary extension fraternity. A graduate of Fairmont State college, prior to being an extension agent she was a home economics instructor in West Virginia. She also has taken additional studies at West Virginia university.

She was recently recognized by the County Homemaker council at the annual Christmas workshop by the extension staff at a surprise luncheon and by the State Home Economics association.

Business Places To Close At 5 New Year's Eve

Nearly all the business places in Oakland plan to close their stores at 5 p.m. this Friday, New Year's Eve, according to I. Robert Rudy, president of the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association.

Stores will remain closed until Monday, January 3, when regular shopping hours will be observed.

Commissioners Ask Larger Slice Of Severance Tax

County Commissioners of Garrett and Allegany counties, backed by the members of the General Assembly representing these two counties, conferred with James B. Coulter, state secretary of Natural Resources, at his office in Annapolis on Tuesday in efforts to get a larger portion of the state severance tax on coal returned to the two counties.

The tax of 15 cents on each ton of coal extracted in Maryland was added effective July 1 as a result of the passage by the General Assembly of House Bill 696, which later became Chapter 900 of the Acts of 1976.

Originally, HB 696 would have applied to other materials extracted from the earth but was amended so that only coal remained.

Because all of Maryland's coal comes from Garrett and Allegany counties, the commissioners from these two counties contend that most of the severance tax money should be returned to the two counties.

Funds collected from the severance tax are supposed to be used by reclamation of land damage by open pit or strip mining in the two counties. However, the commissioners pointed out that it can only be spent on public land.

The only public land in Western Maryland where strip mining has occurred in recent years is in the Savage River State Forest in this county, where the Buffalo Coal Company operated for a time. The commissioners said mining there has ceased.

Another provision of Chapter 900 is that funds collected from the severance tax may be spent for road maintenance where coal trucks have damaged the roads.

That is the big point the county commissioners wanted to make when talking with Mr. Coulter. The state is planning to return about one and one-half cents out of every 15 cents collected to the counties, so that each county would get only about ten percent of the tax money and the other 80 percent would be retained by the state.

The Garrett County Commissioners are Don S. Bender, George Edwards and Wayne Hamilton. The delegation invited to attend the Annapolis session included Senators Edward J. Mason and John P. Corderman, and Delegates William B. Byrnes, Thomas B. Cumiskey, Casper R. Taylor, Jr. and DeCorsey Bolden.

Commissioner Arthur T. Bond planned to point out that the coal mining companies themselves now do much reclamation. When they get permits to strip mine from the State Land Reclamation Committee, they often agree to repair damage done by earlier deep or strip mining operations.

Funding For Renovation Of Court House Nearing Approval

It appeared over the weekend that two major projects in Garrett and Allegany counties, having a total value of $4.5 millions, would be funded by the federal Economic Development administration.

Biggest of the projects is $3.4 million for an expanded and renovated court house in Oakland.

The second project is a $1.1 million adult education center on the campus of Allegany Community college in Cumberland.

The EDA published a notice in the Federal Register stating that the projects are among the thousands throughout the country which are moving into a final review stage.

The court house modernization would be the largest single project to be approved by EDA, in Maryland, according to Wayne B. Hamilton, county commissioner. He said the county would be ready to start construction in the spring.

The funding comes under the federal Public Works bill and is designed to help areas whose economy is depressed and where high unemployment exists.

The court house project is now in the hands of a design engineer and architectural plans for the job should be completed soon, it was stated.

Funding would be 100 percent federal money and would allow the county to expand the present court house by demolishing the jail and adding on office space to the offices and courtroom already there.

Proposed are new facilities for all county court offices and for various other local government agencies. There may also be some other rentals to state and federal agencies.

Another feature would be a plaza area in front of the building. The plaza, which would be a park type area, would be used for a variety of public events such as such as bake sales, arts and crafts exhibits and the like.

Parking would be provided underground with office space above.

Thieves Pull Trailer From Building Site

Thieves pulled right up to an $1,000 flatbed trailer on a construction site near Oakland sometime between December 18 and 19, hitched to the trailer and drove away.

Or at least that is how the theft must have occurred, according to the sheriff's office which is investigating the incident. The theft was reported December 20 by James Simms, owner of the new Green Acres Garden Center under construction on Route 219 north of Oakland.

Two rear tires on a vehicle belonging to Ralph Arnott were cut or slashed between 9 and 9:30 p.m. December 20 while his vehicle was parked on the Southern High School lot.

Edward Proudfoot, 23, was picked up by sheriff's deputies December 28 in connection with a warrant from Prince George's county charging Proudfoot with larceny after trust. He was arrested in Mt. Lake Park.

Proudfoot was transferred to the Prince George's jail.

Discount Cards Of Sr. Citizens Now Available

Senior Citizen discount cards for 1977 are now available at Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., 360 West Liberty Street, Oakland, or at one of the Hot Meal Sites at Crellin, Finzel, Jennings, or Kitzmiller, it was announced by W. Dale Ellis.

The card program was started two years ago and some 2,000 are distributed annually to the some 3,750 elderly in Garrett and surrounding counties.

Mr. Ellis, Director of the CAC Senior Citizens Program, said the merchants and Senior Citizens are extremely pleased by the results of the program. Senior Citizens normally receive a 10 percent discount on items purchased at the participating stores.

Ellis said he hopes to expand the number of participating businesses and the elderly in the program this year.

The pink cards given last year will not be honored after December 31.

Friend-Kauten Lighting Display Wins First Prize

The decorations and Christmas lights put up jointly by the Clifford Friend and Mervin Kauten households near Deer Park won them the first prize in this year's lighting contest sponsored by the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association.

In second place was the exhibit created by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Callis, Loch Lynn, and taking third prize was Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Marucci's home on High Street in Oakland.

First place winner will receive a $25 check, second place $15 and third $10.

Three More Snow Storms Hit Area In Past Week

Three snow storms hit the area the past week dumping 7.5 inches of new snow. Winds kicking up Sunday night caused some one-way traffic early Monday but the new snow blower took care of these problems. Temperature fluctuations caused frequent melting and freezing resulting in many icy conditions.

Snow started to fall Christmas afternoon which was reinforced by another storm Sunday. Still another storm hit Tuesday night and continued through yesterday. The winds Sunday night and early Monday caused drifting and one-way traffic on U. S. 219 about three miles north of Oakland, on U. S. 219 south of Red House, on the Kitzmiller road about 3 miles south of Md. 135, and at several spots on Md. 495. State and county roads crews have been out in greater or less force since the storms began Christmas.

County roads crews have had no particular difficulty. The only one-way traffic was quickly cleared as plows passed through. Light flurries continued into last night with the wind subsiding. Another 1.5 inches of snow had fallen. The total amounted to 7.5 inches. Skies were cloudy this morning although the sun did peek through for a short time.

Three Companies Fight Hanft Fire On Christmas Day

Firemen from Accident, Friendsville and Addison responded to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanft at 4 a.m. Christmas morning to fight a fire which originated under the living room floor.

Damage was confined to the living room of the two-story frame farmhouse, located on Griffith Road, off Cove Road. Robert Shimer, deputy State fire marshal, who investigated, said the cause of the fire was the result of defective wiring.

According to Mrs. Hanft, the floor will have to be replaced in the room, and the room rewired.

The Hanft's daughter Juanita was awakened by the smoke and alerted the family, who escaped from the home just as the first flames burst through the floor.

Fred A. Thayer, 6th street, Oakland, will be sworn in as associate judge on Monday morning, January 3, at 10 o'clock, it was announced. He will succeed Chief Judge Stuart F. Hamill, Jr., whose resignation takes effect on December 31.

The swearing in ceremony is formally called an Investiture, and is open to the general public.

Attending will be Judges Irvin Rutledge, Paul Ottinger, Washington county; Harold Naughton and James Getty, Allegany county, members of the fourth judicial circuit.

Mr. Thayer was recommended by the Trial Courts Judicial Nominating committee for the fourth Judicial Circuit for the vacancy in the Circuit court for this county, because of the resignation of Judge Hamill. The recommendation was subsequently sent to Governor Marvin Mandel. He had been endorsed previously by the Garrett County Bar association.

A graduate of Duke Law school in 1958 with a Doctor of Jurisprudence degree, Mr. Thayer has been practicing law here since that year, serving as state's attorney from 1962 to 1974. He was admitted to practice before the Supreme court in 1967.

Mennonite Home Renovation Project Given Approval

The proposed two-phase renovation and expansion of the Goodwill Mennonite Home in Grantsville is one of seven state projects approved this month by the Maryland Comprehensive Health Planning Agency, according to Dr. Frederick Nevins, acting executive director.

The estimated cost of the Grantsville project is $572,740. The seven projects affirmed have an estimated value of $10,887,272.

The principal purpose in the renovation of the structure is to meet all fire and safety codes set up by Maryland, but a blueprint has not yet been definitely established for the changes. Meetings will be held over the next few weeks with an architectural firm and Goodwill Administrators to plan the renovations.

The MCHPA is the state planning agency designated by the federal government to review applications from prospective sponsors of health care facilities which provide services under federal medicare, medicaid and maternal and child health care programs.

Based upon the reviews and recommendations of area-wide health planning agencies throughout Maryland, MCHPA certification under the combined programs helps assure that new or expanded facilities and services are consistent with health needs and planning, are as comprehensive as possible, eliminate wasteful duplication, are economically feasible and will foster cost containment or improved quality of care.

Another Western Maryland project which has been given approval is the proposed air conditioning of Pangborn Hall of the Washington County Hospital Association in Hagerstown at an estimated cost of $140,000.

Hospital Rates Are Presented

As a result of the review initiated by the Maryland Health Services Cost Review Commission, that authority empowered by the Governor and the State Legislature to set hospital rates, the below listed rates will take effect at the Garrett County Memorial Hospital at midnight, December 31, 1976. Although over simplified, rates are basically developed by taking expenses and dividing them by an HSCRC established measurement of volume. These rates are permanent until a yearly review to be conducted once again by the Health Services Cost Review Commission sometime after July 1, 1977.

Dipping Custom Tells Future

The "dipping" custom was brought to this country by early immigrants and, although little is known about it, some American families follow this practice on New Year's Eve.

With the family gathered around, the head of the family closes his eyes, opens the Bible and touches it with his finger.

A careful reading of the passage on which the finger falls is supposed to indicate the fortunes that lie ahead during the New Year.

Warnings of the Nantucket Oil Spill

For all of us, the breakup of an oil tanker on the shoals off the Island of Nantucket is a very grim reminder of our present situation: We have to import nearly half of all the oil we use. That means if we pull our car up to a gas tank for 10 (ten) gallons of gas that 5 (five) of those 10 (ten) gallons has been brought to the United States in a ship. Or, if you happen to have oil heating and call for a tank of oil, half of that tank comes to the United States for your furnace in a ship. This, of course, is a very perilous situation.

The breakup of the tanker on Nantucket shoals and the release of millions of gallons of oil in the ocean, the risk of great damage to the fisheries of New England, to wildlife in general, to the jobs of fisherman, the fish processing plants — all of these things are incidents and perils which accompany the wholesale importation of oil.

Now, at the moment, we have no choice, because our entire economy is floating on oil; and, unless we import it, the dislocations will be very great. But, we do run serious environmental risks by importing the increasing amount of oil that we are purchasing from Liberia, Venezuela, Iran and other oil producing countries. These risks are not simply risks to the lives of ducks, or geese, or other wildlife. They are risks that infringe upon the livelihood of thousands of Americans who earn their living as fisherman, or work in industries that are related to fisheries and to other forms of marine seafood.

Beyond that, of course, there is another risk that we run in being so dependent on imported oil, and that is the risk to our national security. If, for any reason, the continued passage of great tankers over the seas were to be interrupted, or even temporarily delayed, the havoc that would be caused in the United States is very hard to describe.

While the whole country is about half dependent on imported oil, the East Coast is obviously much more dependent because of geographical factors and the sources of oil within the United States. That means the East Coast would be hit first and hardest by any kind of suspension or interruption of oil deliveries. The potential for economic and social dislocation is of tragic dimension. Factories might have to slow down or even close. Workers might not be able to commute to their jobs. These local problems of East Coast cities would soon translate to problems which affect the entire national economy of the United States.

Of course, a national economy is the most important weapon in securing the defense of the nation. It is when the economy is strong and vibrant and productive that a nation is strong in the real sense of the word. So the continued growth in our dependence on foreign sources of oil is a national security problem of major proportion. It is more important to us, I think, than any single weapons system in our arsenal. Unless we resolve this problem, we will become increasingly aware that our national security does not lie entirely in our own hands.

"IF UPS CAN STRIKE, SO CAN RUDOLPH," is the theme of this year's creation by Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Callis in the front yard of their Loch Lynn home. Their display won second prize in the home lighting contest sponsored by the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association. For this scene, Mrs. Callis made two new figures, that of Rudolph and Santa Claus, both of which have cloth bodies stuffed with styrofoam packing. Other figures she made in previous years and redressed. Mrs. Callis estimates that she spent 40 or 50 hours on the two new figures for this year. All the work is worth it, however, when she is rewarded by the children who come to look forward to her scene every year, asking her "What is going to happen to Santa this year?"

First-Foot

We call it visiting on New Year's Eve. In old Scotland, 'twas known as Hogmanay or "firstfooting."

Friends brought symbolic offerings when they came to call. A piece of coal symbolized the wish for "a warm house"; an evergreen bough said "May you have a long life," and a loaf of bread expressed the wish for "a full larder."

After the exchange of gifts, the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" and a Scottish reel or two. A late supper usually consisted of meat pies, scones, Scottish pancakes eaten with butter and jam, ginger wine or port.

COCONUT LAYER CAKE

If the Christmas feasting season has tired the family of fruit cake and apple pie, and you feel you need a dessert for the New Year meal, spiced coconut layer cake may be the treat you are looking for.

Coconut Layer Cake

2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅔ cup shortening
½ teaspoon ground mace
1½ cups sugar
¼ teaspoon almond extract
⅔ cup milk
Spiced Comfort Frosting
1 can (3½ ounce) angel flake coconut

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Set aside to use later. Mix shortening with mace. Gradually blend in sugar and almond extract. Beat in eggs, one at a time. Add flour mixture alternately with milk, beginning and ending with flour. Turn into 2 well-greased, 9-inch round cake pans. Bake in preheated moderate oven (374 F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto wire rack to finish cooling. Spread spiced frosting and coconut between cake layers and over tops and sides.

Names & Months

The months of the year have taken their names from gods, goddesses and emperors.

January, of course, from Janus, the two-headed god; March from Mars, the god of war; May from Maia, goddess of marriage; and June from Juno, another goddess.

April came from Aperire, to open, denoting time the earth opened up with new fruit; February from Februalia, the time for sacrificing to the gods.

THE 201st YEAR

The 201st year of America, the year 1977, must not be an anti-climax to the highly-successful Bicentennial that re-affirmed in the minds of Americans and the world the principles upon which this nation was founded.

The 200th year will be recorded in history as a period which brought about a resurgence of patriotism, a time when it was fashionable to stand proudly, sing loudly the national anthem.

In many ways not the very best of years, 1976 will be remembered because of the doings of politics and politicians. Hopefully, much good can come from all the "bad news" — rumored and real — that came from the nation's capital. Those individuals elected to represent the people, to manage the nation's business, and the voters who confer upon them this privilege should be much less casual about their responsibilities and obligations.

As this 201st year unfolds, we shall all have frequent opportunity to perpetuate the American way of life, to support the principles of our founding fathers. Let us do so, with full awareness that these United States, whatever its imperfections, is truly a government of, by and for the people.

Three More Snow

The only clear skies during the week were last Friday and a short time Monday.

Temperature-wise the week followed the recent trend, below normal. It was 9.5 degrees below normal the past week. Highs averaged 31.4 degrees or 8.2 below normal. The highest was 42 degrees on Christmas Day. Last Thursday, Friday, Monday and yesterday the mercury remained below freezing, in the 20s. Lows averaged 9.1 degree or 10.7 degrees below normal. The lowest was predawn Christmas Day when the mercury hit a minus 2 degrees. Temperatures then rose by dawn but began to fall later in the day. A temperature rise also occurred before dawn Tuesday and again later in the day the mercury began to drop. This morning's reading was just zero.

$275 Million In Food Stamps Went To Ineligibles

Almost $215 million in food stamp benefits was paid in the first six months of 1976 to people who were not eligible to get stamps or who were paid more than they were supposed to get, the Agriculture Department announced Monday.

A semi-annual report by the Department's Food and Nutrition Service showed that about 745,000 ineligible low-income people not on welfare collected $109.3 million in benefits.

Further, some $105.4 million in overpayments went to nearly 1.8 million persons who were eligible for stamps but should have received less, officials said.

The report covered the first six months of 1976 and included figures only for those not on welfare but who seek and get government food stamps because of their low incomes.

Slightly more than one half of the nation's 18.5 million food stamp participants during the first six months of this year were in the so-called "non-public assistance" category.

People on welfare are automatically certified for food stamps and are not included in USDA's semi-annual reviews.

The food stamp program currently costs taxpayers about $5.7 billion annually, including $5.3 billion in bonus stamps which are issued to needy families so they can buy more food. The remainder is for administrative costs and aid to state agencies which handle the program.

Based on income and size of household, a family pays a fixed amount each month for food stamps and gets bonus coupons free to help supplement the grocery budget.

Cable Message New Year's Day

January 1, 1903 was an important day in the history of world communication.

On this date the cable ship "Silverton" arrived in Honolulu, completing the task of laying 2600 miles of cable from San Francisco to Honolulu.

The first trans-Pacific message was promptly cabled back to the City by the Golden Gate.

Calendar Might Have Been 'Fasti'

Among the things we can wonder about this time of the year is why we have a calendar instead of a "fasti."

The word calendar comes down to us from the Romans, who knew the first day of the month as "calends." On this day it was customary for the priests to assemble the people for a review of the sacred days and festivals to be observed in the month ahead.

The people marked the important days on their "fasti" and we, of course, mark them on our calendar.

The Rose Bowl

The Rose Bowl, "Daddy" of the many year-end collegiate contests, did not enjoy instant popularity. The first game was played as a supplement to the Tournament of Roses in 1902, between Michigan and Stanford. The following year the football game was eliminated in favor of chariot races.

As everyone knows, the gridiron classic was renewed in 1916, has been going strong since.

Public Notice

STATE OF MARYLAND DEPARTMENT of NATURAL RESOURCES WATER RESOURCES ADMINISTRATION TAWES STATE OFFICE BUILDING ANNAPOLIS MARYLAND 21401
Telephone: 301-269-2260
APPLICATION for STATE DISCHARGE PERMIT
Public Notice No: MDP-76-0079
Public Notice Issue Date: December 20, 1976

The following facilities have applied for a State Discharge Permit to discharge the described wastes into the described receiving waters. On the basis of approved discharge restrictions, the State of Maryland proposes to issue the permit.

APPLICATION NUMBER:
State: 77-DP-1378

Thoman Motel Corp., (Village Inn), Marsh Hill Road, McHenry, Maryland, has applied for a State Discharge Permit to discharge treated wastewaters from The Village Inn, Marsh Hill Road, McHenry, Maryland. The applicant is planning to operate an on-site, central collection and sewage treatment facility to serve a motel complex, with disposal via land application. This permit is for an existing facility. The wastewaters treatment facility serving the motel is to provide a minimum of secondary treatment with complete disenfection prior to discharge via spray irrigation and/or the manufacturing of snow on approximately 300 acres of ski slopes. During the initial phase the facility will discharge approximately .002 mgd, with a final phase discharge of .07 mgd.

On the basis of preliminary review and application of lawful standards and regulations, the Maryland Water Resources Administration proposes to issue a State Discharge Permit to discharge subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions. These proposed determinations are tentative.

The Maryland Water Resources Administration will hold a public hearing at the time and place stated below:

Friday, February 4, 1977 at 9:00 a.m., The Garrett County Court House, Bar Library Room 205, Third and Alder Street, Oakland, Maryland, 21550.

The issue to be considered at the hearing is whether or not water quality or related environmental factors require effluent limitations or additional requirements other than those proposed.

Persons wishing to comment on the proposed determinations are invited to submit a statement to the Maryland Water Resources Administration no later than five days following the public hearing, or to be present or represented at the public hearing, or both. All comments and suggestions will be considered in the formulations of final determinations regarding the application. Parties making presentations at the hearings are urged to address the issue stated in this notice. Oral statements will be heard, but, for the accuracy of the record, all important testimony should be submitted in writing. Oral statements should summarize any extensive written material to allow time for all interested parties to be heard.

The application, fact sheets, related documents, proposed effluent limitations and special conditions, comments received, and other information are on file and may be inspected, and arrangements made for copying, at the Maryland Water Resources Administration, Water Permits Section, Tawes State Office Building, Annapolis, Maryland 21401, at any time between 9:00 a.m. and 4:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, except during State holidays. Fact Sheets and further information may be obtained by writing to the above address or by calling 301-269-2260. A copying service is available for public use at a charge of 10 cents per copy.

Register of Interested Persons

Any person interested in a particular application or group of applications may leave his name, address, and phone number as part of the file for an application. The list of names will be maintained as a means for persons with an interest in an application to contact others with similar interests.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the Accident Volunteer Fire Company for their quick response to our call very early on Christmas morning when fire threatened to destory our house. We could never begin to repay our friends, neighbors and the Accident, Friendsville and Addison Fire Companies for coming to quench the fire and getting the smoke out of our home so that we had a happy and grateful holiday season instead of a disastrous one. Thank you all and also thank you Denny and Kathy Margroff for taking our girls to your house to sleep that morning and thank you Rev. Ilick. It's wonderful to know there are so many people willing to give up their sleep and time to help others in their time of need.

Walter and Myrtle Hanft

Southern And Tunnelton Win First Rounds

Southern High Rams and Tunnelton High school were winners in the opening rounds of the Holiday Basketball tournament held Tuesday night at Southern High gymnasium in Oakland.

Northern High school's Tony Doerr turned in a 38-point performance but he and the Huskies were edged in overtime by the score of 68 to 66 in the first game.

In the nightcap, Southern High held a slender three point lead with 40 seconds left to play but then took advantage of Clear Spring's aggressive play to emerge a 73 to 64 winner at the foul line.

Doerr dumped in 17 field goals and was five for six at the foul line as the Huskies dropped their fifth game in six outings. They stayed close to Tunnelton throughout and finally tied the score at the buzzer ending regulation play. Tunnelton held Northern during the overtime period and emerged victorious.

Gible and McCloud scored 23 and 22 points, respectively, for Tunnelton, Kolyou added 14, Ridenour 7 and Maier 2. Tunnelton led at the quarters 14 to 9, 35 to 29, and 52 to 45.

Rodney Youmans added 11 markers for Northern while Allen Skidmore had ten, Workman 1 and Spear 5.

It was nip and tuck for Southern High in the second game and the Rams led by only three points with 40 seconds to go. Clear Spring went into a more aggressive game and the host cagers pulled away with foul tosses.

Steve Liller and Kenny Niner were Southern's big guns with 28 and 23 points, respectively. Griffith added 12, Ritchie 4, Todd Liller 6.

Southern outgunned Clear Spring from the field 32 to 28 and both teams converted nine fouls. The Rams led at the quarters 17 to 12, 35 to 34, and 54 to 48.

For Clear Spring Martin had 16, McMullen 20, Cobb 20, Corwell 2, Poling 2, and Hudson 4.

Ski Season Gets Good Start From Snowy Weather

Snow falls and squalls have brought two to six inches of new cover every other day to the Wisp ski area, drawing near-capacity crowds of skiers to the slopes.

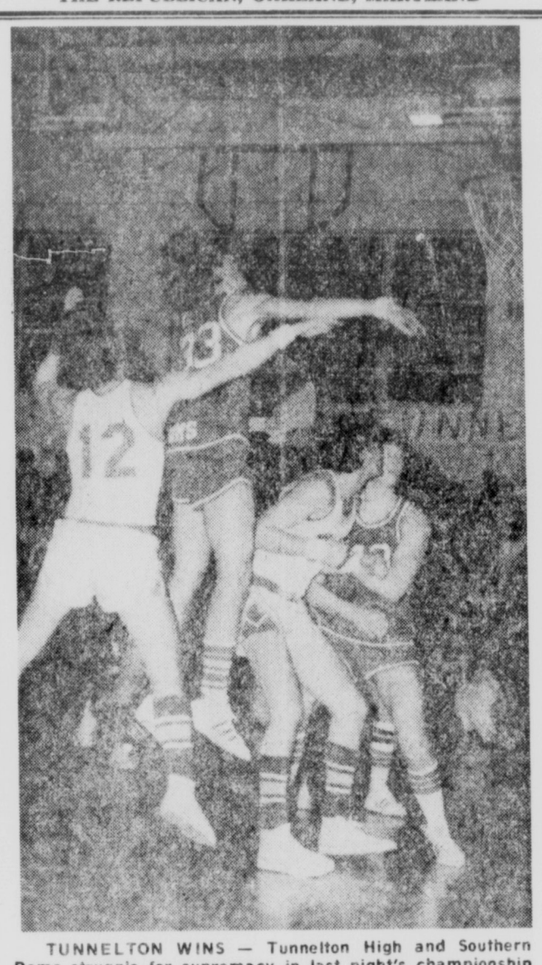
According to a spokesman for the winter resort, the ski season that opened two weeks ago is the best start for the resort in the past several years, due to the cold weather and steady snowfall activity.

With more than ten inches of natural snow and 22 more inches of man-made snow, the resort reports excellent conditions and superb activity. The inn will be posting "No Vacancy" signs until after the first of the year due to the influx of skiers from the tri-state area.

All slopes, trails and lifts are open.

Beginning the first of January, the resort also schedules night skiing from 6 to 10 p.m. on Wednesdays and Fridays. The ski season ends at the Wisp with the Winterfest celebration in March.

At the West Virginia ski resorts, Alpine Lake conditions are fair with a 12 to 14-inch base and one inch of new snow, and Canaan Valley reports excellent skiing.



TUNNELTON WINS — Tunnelton High and Southern Rams struggle for supremacy in last night's championship game which the former won by a one-point margin.

Power Companies Swap Facilities

The Potomac Edison Company and West Penn Power Company, both parts of the Allegheny Power System, have received the necessary regulatory approvals to exchange certain facilities in order to improve the operations of both.

Potomac Edison will add capacity to the generation reserves that it owns by acquiring a portion of the capacity owned by West Penn in the Harrison Power Station, which is located near Clarksburg, West Virginia, and has a total of 1,920,000 kilowatts. In exchange PE will transfer its distribution system in Pennsylvania to West Penn.

PE currently serves about 37,800 customers in portions of Adams, Bedford, Franklin, Fulton, and Somerset Counties of Pennsylvania. West Penn, which is headquartered in Greensburg, Pa., serves about 486,000 customers in all or parts of 18 southwestern and north central Pennsylvania counties.

J. M. McCardell, PE's executive vice president and general manager, explained that the exchange of properties will not affect service to customers in any way, and present PE rates will continue in effect. After January 6 those customers in Pennsylvania now served by PE will begin receiving bills from West Penn Power.

Hospital Board Discusses Various Items Of Business

Several items of business were resolved at the regular meeting of the Board of Governors of the Garrett County Memorial hospital on Monday, December 20, at 6:30 p.m.

Items discussed included moving of the admitting office to its new location. An update was given by Kenneth Richmond, administrator, on the architects/engineers firms interviewed noting that recommendations would be made at the January board meeting. It was expected that three to five firms would return to the February board meeting for final selection.

Mr. Richmond reviewed plans for the Christmas party. Dr. Thomas G. Johnson commented on plans to develop a new ICU/CCU unit toward the care rendered to the hospital community. He also noted plans on behalf of the hospital and medical staff to meet with the University of Maryland medical school personnel to discuss the possibility of developing a residency relationship at the local hospital.

Thomas J. Earley and Willis Shaffer reviewed the November finance report. Wayne Hamilton gave a personnel committee report highlighting plans over the next eighteen to twenty-four months.

At the November Board meeting other items were taken up, including the purchase of new laundry equipment to be delivered in January or February. Mr. Richmond reported progress on a grant for monies to purchase a new operating room air conditioning and humidity control system. He also reported on progress on the hospital building project.

Hospital was given approval to order a blood gas analyzer by Emergency medical services.

A review of the finance report by Mr. Shaffer and Mr. Earley noted that accounts receivable had decreased and total cash receipts increased.

Solomon Stops Swine Flu Shots

Maryland's Health secretary, Dr. Neil Solomon, declared last night he has decided to permanently discontinue the swine flu inoculation program in the state.

He said he was taking the action in the wake of an announcement earlier in the day that the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Ga., had indefinitely extended its moratorium on the national program.

Solomon said he decided to end the vaccination program because the risk of contracting Guillian-Barre syndrome, a temporary form of paralysis, is greater than a swine flu epidemic at this time.

The national program was suspended December 16 to give authorities a chance to study the relationship of the swine flu vaccine to a rising number of cases of the paralysis.

Talents With Pen And Ink Leading To Career For Loch Lynn Man

By Carol Canan

An inborn talent is developing into a livelihood for a local man whose artistry with pen and ink is beginning to make a name for him.

Riley Lloyd, 30, of Loch Lynn, first put his talents with pen and drawing paper to use about one year ago. Now ideas and drawings come pouring forth from his mind and fingertips, making way for still more ideas and sketches.

A son of Mrs. Ruth Lloyd, Loch Lynn, and the late William Lloyd, Kitzmiller, Riley has four brothers and one sister. One brother, Tex, is a figure in one of his recent sketches, "The Sportsman," shown below. Riley lives with an uncle, George Kight, in Loch Lynn.

Riley likes to use pen and pencil better than other drawing mediums, and is concentrating on portraits and sketches. He says he aims to get down his own impressions in portraits, rather than merely copying a face into a photograph-likeness.

Although Riley has always liked to make sketches, he had never taken his talent seriously until recently. With the encouragement of some friends like Ivan Rowe, Mike Kildow, Lindsey Gonder and John Murphy, he hopes he will pyramid his ability into a fulfilling, satisfying life's work.

Riley is a perfectionist by nature, and never satisfied with his work. He hopes to some day be like the artist whose patrons sign a contract giving him the right to change a picture at any future time he may wish. For every completed drawing he has, there are probably 20 that he has torn up or given away in disgust.

He prefers to work at night, getting into drawing about 11 p.m. and sometimes working all night when motivated by free-flowing ideas. Work is accomplished in the living room or kitchen.

Riley makes much use of the public library in Oakland, and spends hours poring over books, especially art books. His favorite painters include Albert Dorn and Norman Rockwell, although lately his choice has swung in the direction of Aaron Sopher, who also concentrated on line drawings. A local artist he admires is Aza Stanton.

His immediate plans include the sale of several reproductions made from sketches such as "The Sportsman," an Amish boy, "The Teacher," and others. He has done a huge picture of Christ for the Church of God of Prophecy in Deer Park, painting with wall paints on a section of Formica He has also worked with embroidery paints on tee shirts and sweat shirts, and has done some painting on velvet materials. He has never tried oil painting.

Riley loves the outdoors and the sense of freedom to be gained by tramping over the mountains and woods. He likes to hunt and fish, and was a trapper in earlier years. He likes to be in a natural setting, and his pictures reflect the everyday, natural people in life.

Several people have told Riley there is no future in his art work, that he would be better off to concentrate on sign painting or a more lucrative form of drawing. But Riley, with an artist's soul, says he cannot bring himself to twist his God-given talent this way, and continues to work nights, drawing, criticizing, sometimes destroying, but always striving for that elusive dream he sees in his mind, and tries to capture on paper.

Firemen Called Twice In Hour

Oakland firemen were summoned twice within an hour on Tuesday about noon, one to an outbuilding on state route 39, east of Crellin, where a motorcycle was on fire, and the other to Country Club acres where some hot ashes had started a fire in the bed of the garbage truck.

The first fire was on the property of Andy Snyder and damage to the motorcycle was estimated at about $500 by firemen. The flames did not extend to the outbuilding.

In the second fire the damage was slight. There was no damage to the vehicle.

Fire recently killed actor, singer, dancer, Jack Cassidy.

Weather Causes Several Mishaps

Several persons were treated and released from Garrett County Memorial hospital following traffic accidents last week, mostly due to snow-covered roads.

Last Monday, December 20, Larry Allen Corby, E. Liberty street, Oakland, was driving west on Md. 135 near D street, Mt. Lake Park. Driving at a speed allegedly too great for road conditions, snowy, and not equipped with snow tires in an emergency, the car went off the road to the left, struck an embankment and overturned. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant investigated.

Also treated and released from the hospital early the following morning, 3 a.m., was Albert E. King, RD 1, Friendsville. The two-vehicle wreck occurred on U. S. 219 just south of Sand Flat road. King traveling south on Rt. 219 in a pick-up went to the left of center of the road and into the path of a pick-up driven by Lonnie E. Upole, Mt. Lake Park. The two vehicles struck head-on.

Junior Frederick Tasker, Star Route, Kitzmiller, was treated and released from the hospital in a one-vehicle accident late last Thursday evening. Tasker was driving east on Md. 135 near Turkey Neck road when his pick-up went out of control on the snow covered road. The vehicle went to the right side, struck an embankment, a culvert and overturned. Tfc. G. D. Broadwater investigated.

Shortly after, a one-car mishap occurred on the Accident-Bear Creek road about two miles east of Everly road. The one person involved was apparently not injured. Allen Jackson Teats, Gravel Hill road, Friendsville, started to skid as he tried to negotiate a curve on a snow covered road. The vehicle skidded off the road and struck an embankment. Tfc. R. C. George investigated.

The operators of both cars of a two-vehicle mixup were slightly injured just east of the Crellin bridge on Md. 39, Thursday afternoon. Mary Ellen DeWitt, RD 1, Oakland, was stopped on the Hutton road, headed west, waiting to make a left turn. Gary D. Fox, Westover, W. Va., following, lost control on the snowy road, ran to the right, side-swiped a guard rail, returned to the west bound lane and struck the DeWitt car. Tfc. L. R. Rosage investigated.

To One and All,

We send our very best wishes for continued health, well being and spiritual and material prosperity in 1977.

In looking forward to the coming year we are mindful that the success we have enjoyed during 1976 has in large part been due to the confidence and cooperation of many without whose help our accomplishments would not have been attained.

We would particularly like to thank the many property owners whom we have served in the sale of their real estate, and the purchasers whom we have assisted in acquiring this property. It is their confidence that has made us Number 2 in our field in Garrett County. The support we have received from the staffs of the local, public and private institutions has lightened our task and enabled us to better serve our clientele. These include the professional and business community, the staff of the local banks, the federal, state and county agencies, Pennsylvania Electric Company, Potomac Edison Company, Deep Creek Lake Garrett County Promotional Council and the Republican Newspaper.

During the coming year we ask the opportunity to serve you toward realizing your real estate goals whether you are buying, selling, renting or simply wish to have your real estate appraised. We are confident that the professional quality of our work will meet and exceed your expectation.

On behalf of our entire staff, Happy New Year!

PRIVATE ENTERPRISE ESSENTIAL TO HUMAN FREEDOM

Many people in America are now taking a second look at the merits of private enterprise. Really, this is the economic system that put America foremost among all of the nations of the world in productivity. The only real alternative to private enterprise is Socialism — Communism. Dr. Diffine, Professor of Economics at Harding College, has written an excellent article showing the relationship between human freedom and private enterprise. The remainder of this column is taken from that article published in the College's Newsletter, and I quote:

"Personal liberty and economic potential go together. To reach or even approach his potential, man must have something no other creature can even imagine — he must have personal freedom. Without it he can live, subservient to the will of others, but the level of material welfare in an economy without personal freedom is always low. Without the incentive of possible improvement he will not make the effort to increase his individual productivity. Freedom of choice and action is a major stimulant for human imagination and energy. Every man has his own preferences and goals, and, to express and realize these, he must be free to be himself.

The desire for private property, whatever its form, is deeply rooted in the nature of man and his purpose for living. It is an extenison of his personal freedom and a necessary instrument of human dignity. To destroy man's desire for private property is tc destroy his self-respect and his hope for self-improvement.

The right to own and control private property permitted the development of individual freedom, independence and relative economic security. The obligation of a government that wants to preserve personal freedom, independence, economic security and a relatively peaceful society, therefore, is to protect the "property rights" of all citizens equally, without prejudice or favor.

Only when there is widespread recognition and protection of the right of individuals to acquire and to hold property is it possible for the market economy to flourish and for people to produce more confidence that their property will be safe. When they are more amply supplied with resources to use themselves or to trade with others, they are in better position to narrow to some extent the gap between what they have and what they want, and so to acomplish more of their various goals."

The Four H's: Head, Heart, Hands and Health!

CHICAGO—Finding a doctor and getting to the hospital can be very real problems for persons living in rural areas.

In fact, the scarcity of medical services in small town and farming communities has prompted the USDA to label rural health care "one of the major concerns in the nation today."

Careers as rural health professionals may eventually attract some of the 333,969 boys and girls from 9 to 19 currently enrolled in national 4-H health projects and activities In its 20th year of sponsorship by Eli Lilly and Company, the program covers all aspects of the fourth H—the one that stands for Health—in the 4-H cloverleaf emblem.

4-H'ers learn by doing

Learn-by-doing projects are the core of the program. Under the supervision of the Cooperative Extension Service, 4-H members participate in a variety of personal, family and community health activities geared to their special interests and abilities.

4-H'ers learn the importance of preventive health care, including adequate sleep and exercise, good personal hygiene, regular medical checkups, immunizations, and a balanced diet.

In family-centered projects, 4-H'ers record health histories of brothers and sister, update emergency phone lists, and study first aid techniques.

Projects benefit community

Last year's national winners of the seven college scholarships donated by Eli Lilly pinpointed community health problems and worked at solving them.

One 1975 winner launched a preventive dentistry program for migrant workers and their children, started a blood bank donor list in her county, and initiated a cancer education drive.

Other national winners organized 4-H clubs for retarded children, campaigned for better garbage disposal, joined volunteer ambulance units, and helped institute local mosquito control measures.

In addition to seven national scholarships of $800, Eli Lilly provides an expense-paid trip to the 54th National 4-H Congress, Nov. 30-Dec. 4 in Chicago, to one top 4-H'er from each state. The company also offers up to 10 certificates per state to 4-H clubs conducting outstanding health programs.

Medals of honor are awarded to a maximum of four members per county, and up to four clubs in each county are eligible for certificates of merit for worthy health programs.

All winners are selected by the Extension Service on the basis of their records of accomplishment. Awards are arranged and announced by the National 4-H Service Committee.

County extension agents can furnish more information on this and other 4-H programs.

Health careers may attract some of the young people 9-19 now participating in 4-H health projects and activities supervised by the Cooperative Extension Service. For the 20th year Eli Lilly and Company is providing awards to 4-H'ers for outstanding achievement in the program.

Russian New Year Is Quiet Holiday

Traditionally, Russians have celebrated the arrival of the New Year less noisily, but probably just as enthusiastically as we do in America.

For Russians, it is a quiet household holiday, with New Year's trees decorated with toys and lights, with parties for the children. At midnight, in celebration of an old custom, all lights are turned off.

Teenagers, like teenagers everywhere, go about the streets. They don't carry noisemakers or shoot fireworks — instead they throw peas and wheat grains at passers-by, much as we throw confetti.

The Chessie System is fighting vandalism with a reward program.

Special Classes For Expectant Parents Available

A joint effort by the County Health Department and Garrett Memorial hospital has resulted in classes being available for expectant parents, childbirth and infant care, it was learned from James Stanton, administrator for the health department.

Classes are for first time mothers or fathers or those who have never taken classes previously. Classes involve both the mother and father, so that both may share and the father can coach the mother during labor.

Benefits, according to Mr. Stanton, include knowing what is fact, opinion or myth concerning pregnancy, birth, infant care and parenting. Information is given on how relaxation exercises and breathing techniques "pay off," with practice resulting in easier, shorter labor, less need for medication and awareness of options regarding maternity and services that are available. Classes also help mother or parents to make decisions such as breast or bottle feeding.

Classes consist of three phases, with early registration. This class consists of three two-hour sessions. It includes pre-natal development, nutrition, physiology of pregnancy and how to relieve minor annoyances that occur. This class will begin Tuesday, January 11, at 7:30.

Part 2, on infant care, is usually taken in the middle of the pregnancy and consists of three two-hour sessions. Classes cover physical care of the baby, characteristics of the newborn, needs of babies and children, and feeding and nutrition. This class will begin Tuesday, February 1, 7:30.

Part three, Preparation for Childbirth, consists of six two-hour sessions, covering physiology and psychology of labor and delivery, exercises, breathing techniques, uses and options of medication, a tour of the obstetrical unit, and an emphasis on the labor coach. This class begins Monday, January 10, 7:30.

Classes are offered free of charge to all interested expectant parents, and permit receiving the classes without driving to Cumberland, Morgantown, as a community service by the county health department and local hospital. Classes will be taught by professional staff of the two units. Additional information and registration information are available from the health department.

Joseph, Mary Give Birth On Christmas Day

The setting was appropriate.

Joseph and Mary gave birth to a child on Christmas day. You might say that Joseph and Mary did their thing on the sacred holiday. But it was a girl.

The parents were Joseph and Mary Harvey, Deer Park. Mrs. Harvey is a secretary in the Extension office in the post office building.

Hospital Employes, Doctors, Others In Holiday Party

Employes of the Garrett County Memorial hospital and their families celebrated the Christmas season at a gala event held at the American Legion hall on Tuesday, December 21. Attendance through out the day was estimated to be in excess of 750 people.

The success of the party was attributed to support and assistance of many.

Directors and producers of the party arranged the menu, the talent and entertainment and also arranged the decorations. Dozens of community individuals, businesses and physicians contributed merchandise and financial support for door prizes for every employe and their children.

Cooks and chefs of both the hospital and legion club participated and servers included those who could be found at times in their roles of board members, doctors, dentists, department heads and members of the Loar auxiliary.

Entertainment included clowns of the Harige clown unit of the Ali Ghan Shrine included Hugh Denison, Willis Shaffer, William Smith, Jack Durst and John Wolf. Dr. Herb Leighton, Ed Rice, Bill Baker served as Santa Claus. Musicians included Dr. Gilcin Meadors III, Cathy and Ann Leighton, Marjorie Clever, Mel Silber, Southern High School Stage Band under direction of Richard Clever, the EUB church choir, directed by Stanley Callis, and music by Terry King from WMSG.

A WREATH IN EVERY WINDOW and a huge wreath decorating the chimney won third prize for Mr. and Mrs. A. T. "Blue" Marucci in the annual home lighting contest sponsored by the Downtown Oakland Merchants' Association. Mrs. Jane Simms made the small wreaths, while Mr. Marucci created the large wreath for the chimney, using rubber hose as a framework. The Maruccis live on High Street across from the National Guard Armory. Mrs. Marucci said if the hose ever came apart, "there would be pine boughs clear to Crellin."

Ice, Snow-Covered Roads Cause Less Serious Wrecks

A rig jack-knifed on U. S. 219 and several other less serious mishaps occurred during the past week because of ice and snow-covered roads.

Alvin R. Alsup, Bethlehem, N. C., was driving his rig north on U. S. 219 late last Tuesday evening when a vehicle pulled onto the road from the west shoulder. Alsup applied his brakes causing the rig to jack-knife on the icy road with the trailer causing considerable damage to the tractor. The mishap which occurred about a quarter mile north of the Accident-Bear Creek Road was investigated by Cpl. Ronald Lewis.

About the same time Lynda Isherwood, Millersville, was traveling on U. S. 48 about three miles east of the W. Va. state line. She applied her brakes causing her car to skid on the icy road onto the shoulder, hit an embankment and overturned. Tfc. R. C. Georg investigated.

The afternoon of December 20, Ned Carter, Jr., Baltimore, was traveling east on U. S. 40 just east of U. S. 219, south. He applied his brakes, lost control on the ice and snow-covered road, and struck some guard rails. Tfc. C. D. Skidmore investigated.

Two accidents were noted last Wednesday.

James H. Garner, III, McHenry, was driving south on Dry Run road just east of Md. 495. A truck operated by Raymond Bittinger, RD 2, Swanton, was turning around in a private drive and backed out onto Dry Run road. Garner could not get stopped due to the snow-covered road, ran off the left side, into a drainage ditch and back on the road. Tfc. Georg investigated.

Martha Lynn Miller, RD 4, Deer Park was driving north on U. S. 219 near the Glendale Bridge road late in the evening. Henry A. Johnson, RD 3, Deer Park, following, the second vehicle back of the Miller car, attempted to pass both vehicles. At that time Martha Miller started to turn left into a c urch parking lot and was struck by the Johnson car. The Miller car then struck a post. Tfc. L. N. Smith investigated.

Two Indicted On Charge Of Trying To Fix Mandel Trial

A New Jersey man said by prosecutors to have Mafia connections, and a furniture salesman from Baltimore were indicted Tuesday with trying to fix the aborted trial of Gov. Marvin Mandel and four co-defendants.

Charles E. Neiswender, also known as Lee Anderson, 51, of Cinaminson, N. J., and Walter Weikers, 67, Baltimore, were charged by a federal grand jury with one count, each of obstructing justice.

The maximum penalty upon conviction for each man is five years in prison and a $5,000 fine. No date for an arraignment was set.

Weikers is free on $100,000 bond after earlier being charged with obstruction of justice for allegedly offering $10,000 to Oscar Sislen, a member of the Mandel jury, and a distant relative, to hold out for acquittal.

Neiswender also was previously in custody in connection with an alleged attempt to influence the trial's outcome.

He was charged last month with asking Arnold Weiner the governor's lawyer, if he was interested in fixing the jury.

According to government documents, Neiswender was arrested Nov. 5 and released 10 days later after prosecuters got U. S. District Judge John H. Pratt to drop the obstruction of justice charge because it could not guarantee a speedy trial.

Christmas Seal Contributions Over $279,000

More than $279,000 has been contributed to this year's Christmas Seal campaign, according to Dr. John E. Miller, president of the American Lung Association of Maryland.

Nearly 80 percent of what was contributed last year has already been received by the American Lung Association of Maryland, Dr. Miller said, and the campaign is roughly $30,000 ahead of where it was this time last year.

He pointed out that Christmas Seal donations are accepted until March 31, and urged all Marylanders who have not yet answered their Christmas Seal letter to do so.

A major oil field in China is under development.

. . . is an expression often associated with leisure, with having nothing special to do.

But in a larger sense LIFE is having time on our hands. A day is a span of hours. What we do with those hours can make it a busy day or a wasted day, a good day or an evil day.

And a year is a span of days. What we do with the days can determine the kind of year it will be.

One of the best of New Year Resolutions is this: To learn to know better the God who has given us Time . . . and to share that knowledge of God with a rising generation who may make of their years more than we have made of our own.

Your church can help you and your family make this a Happy New Year!

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

International Uniform Sunday School Lessons

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

THE HOLY FAMILY

Lesson for January 2, 1977

Background Scripture: Luke 1:80, 2:39-52
Devotional Reading: I Timothy 4:12-16

It is traditional to regard Joseph, Mary, and Jesus as "The Holy Family." But, of course, as the New Testament indicates, their household eventually included other children as well. At least one of his brothers, James, played a significant role in the early church.

Rev. Althouse

Beyond that, the Bible tells us very little about the family of Jesus. Most of what we know about the years between his birth and the beginning of his ministry is to be found in the latter portion of the second chapter of Luke's Gospel.

According to custom

For one thing, it is apparent that here was a family with a strong religious foundation. Luke says: "And when they had performed everything according to the law of the Lord, they returned to Galilee" (2:39). Later he tells us that "his parents went to Jerusalem every year at the feast of the Passover" and again: "And when he was twelve years old, they went up according to custom . . ." (2:41,42). Furthermore, as Jesus sits with the elders in the Temple and asks his surprising questions, it is apparent that this boy has been taught the scriptures, probably at home and in the synagogue.

Secondly, we can see that there was a strong element of mutual respect in this family. For one thing, as a twelve year old lad Jesus is given a certain amount of freedom, so that when the return journey from Jerusalem begins, his parents assume that Jesus is somewhere in the caravan with his playmates.

It used to seem strange to me that his parents could go a whole day's journey before missing their son, but several years ago I had a similar experience. I was conducting a bus tour through Europe and we had stopped briefly in the Italian alpine town of Cortina D'Ampezzo to take a few photographs. About 30 miles beyond this, someone asked me where was my son, Kevin. "Oh, sleeping on the back seat of the bus as usual," I replied confidently. As I turned to gesture to the back seat, I realized Kevin was not there. Immediately we turned the bus around and drove all the way back to Cortina where we found Kevin waiting patiently! He didn't understand why we had been so excited.

Didn't you know...?

So, I can better appreciate what Jesus' parents were feeling when at last they found him in the Temple and I can also understand why there was some misunderstanding between them. From his point of view, there was nothing over which they should have become excited. From their point of view, his unexplained absence seemed a lack of consideration for them.

Yet despite the fact that Jesus did not understand their attitude, Luke tells us, "And he . . . was obedient to them," and although Mary did not understand her son's strange explanation, she nevertheless "kept all these things in her heart." In the Holy Family misunderstanding and hurt were healed with love and respect . . . why not in our families also?

Personal Comments

Since this will be my last news article, I would like to thank the many people who have made my job such an enjoyable one.

First I would like to thank The Republican Staff for the past years. I have enjoyed writing an article each week, and getting the Homemakers announcements published has been a great help to me and my co-workers. The Extension Staff in Garrett County is the "Greatest!" This includes Agents, Extension Aides, Technicians and Secretaries. My thanks go out to each of them for their fine cooperation.

Many thanks to the fine Homemakers Council that I have had over the years. The clubs have been a joy to work with. Eight new clubs have been formed during my stay in Garrett County.

Thanks go out to our Agencies in the County for the important roll they played in my Extension work.

Garrett County has been a good place to live and work. The many friends I have made will always remain in my memory.

I wish for all of you a Happy and Prosperous New Year in 1977.

Can Millions Of Greeks, Romans And Babylonians Be Wrong?

Most of us think of sauerkraut as German, but actually the Germans came to use the cabbage fermented in a brine of its own juice and salt relatively late in its history. Many writers claim the builders of China's 1,400 ft. Great Wall, erected about 225 B.C., ate sauerkraut regularly as a healthful, energizing staple. It is also known the early Greeks, Romans and Babylonians ate the fermented cabbage. Later, after the Middle Ages, the Alsatians popularized it and sent it along to the Germans. Possibly the confusion of the food's origin is a result of the immediate and continuing enthusiasm of the Germans for sauerkraut. But, the food has been loved by many more nationalities than the Germans. An account of a French wedding in 1543 describes the relish with which the guests feasted on sauerkraut garnished with liver.

Now, you serve something similar to your family and guests. Chourcroute Garni, a special one-dish meal combines three types of sausages, sauerkraut, bacon, onions and wine. The dish is easy and economical too. A good companion dish for your Chourcroute is Burgundy Beets. Sweet and delicious, this tempting vegetable dish combines beets, brown sugar and oranges. The universally popular vegetable is available in tin and glass containers, crinkle cut, sliced, tiny whole, blended whole and crinkle sliced pickled. Served hot, cold or as a garnish with salads, beets are a colorful, delicious addition to any meal.

Most people believe that we should serve sauerkraut on New Year's Day so we will have "good luck" during the New Year.

Chourcroute Garni

1 can (27 oz.) Sauerkraut, 4 slices bacon, cut in half, 2 cups chopped onions, 2 tart medium apples, pared, cored, and chopped; 2 cups dry white wine, 6 peppercorns,1 bay leaf, 4 Polish sausage, 4 knockwurst, 4 bratwurst, Dijon mustard.

Soak sauerkraut in cold water 15 minutes. Drain well. Cook bacon in Dutch oven or large saucepan. Add onions; cook until tender. Add sauerkraut, apples, wine, peppercorns and bay leaf. Bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, 1 hour. Remove peppercorns and bay leaf. Fry sausages. Drain. Add to sauerkraut. Cover and continue cooking 30 minutes. Serve with mustard.

4 servings.

Burgundy Beets

1 jar (16 oz.) Sliced Beets, 2 Tbsp. firmly packed brown sugar, 1 Tbsp. cornstarch, 1/8 tsp. salt, ¼ cup dry red wine, 2 Tbsp. margarine or butter, ⅓ cup raisins, 3 thin slices orange, quartered, 1/8 tsp. allspice.

Drain beets, reserving liquid. Combine brown sugar, cornstarch and salt in pan. Stir in reserved liquid and wine. Add butter and raisins. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add orange slices, allspice and beets. Heat through.

4 servings.

Byron's Mother Is Dead At 78

Katherine Edgar Byron, the first woman to represent Maryland in Congress, died at her home in Washington Tuesday of a heart attack. She was 78.

Mrs. Byron was elected to the House of Representatives from the 6th district in special balloting in May, 1941, to fill the unexpired term of her husband, William D. Byron, who died in a plane crash near Atlanta, Ga., three months earlier.

Goodloe Byron, one of their sons, currently represents the district in the House.

Running on a platform of carrying out her husband's programs, Mrs. Byron defeated Charles Stewart, Frostburg, but did not run for reelection in 1942. Prior to serving the House Mrs. Byron was elected to several terms on the town council of Williamsport.

She is survived by a brother and four sons.

Friendsville's Woes Over Sewer Project Aired In Sunday Sun

A feature article on Friendsville and all its woes with its sewer project appeared in the "Perspective" section of the Baltimore Sunday Sun of December 26, written by Barbara Starr, with accompanying photos of a section of the town and two of its residents.

The story relates how the people of Friendsville are up in arms over the water bill charges which some of them are not going to be able to pay. In January the town fathers have to make the first of 40 annual $25,000 payments on a new multi-million dollar sewer system and water treatment plant. On New Year's Day Friendsville will be bankrupt, according to the town clerk. The townspeople were told by state and federal officials that their spring water was contaminated and they could no longer dump their sewage into the Youghiogheny river. The people thought they had no choice but to agree to government plans to build a new sewer and water treatment facility. And thus the project began.

Since they had only to pay 20 percent of the total cost it seemed like a good deal. But now, after nearly three years as the system nears completion and the townspeople begin to get the bill they say they have been "hoodwinked," that they can't afford the final tab and didn't know what they got themselves into.

The problems are basically twofold:

Conflicts with the project engineers and contractors have led to charges of poor workmanship and shoddy construction. Delays, mid-project changes and a series of repairs are costing the town thousands of dollars which it can't afford on its meager $32,000 a year budget. The town is ill equipped economically to meet the financial obligations imposed on it by the federal and state governments, not to mention any future operating costs of the entire project.

Charlie Ross, town attorney, said, "We got raped."

Since they began trying to connect individual homes and businesses to the sewer system the town has found nearly a third of the work done by the original contractors had to be repaired. They have dug up broken and crushed pipes and pulled apart joints. Some of the pipe grading was done the wrong way which would have caused a back flow of sewage to the source instead of to the main. On one street 25 feet of pipe had to be dug up to be lowered another two feet. The whole system is leaking and carrying more than six times the groundwater it should, according to a plumber who has done some of the work on the sewer.

Neither system is completely operational yet. The water treatment plant is still undergoing last minute engineering changes and the sewer system is only partly functioning. State officials told the town it could not open the new elementary school in September without hooking it up to the sewer system. The school was hooked up but the plant is still so far under capacity and it is not working properly, the townspeople have been told.

There were no final on-site inspections of the system before the hook-ups were made.

The whole issue may wind up in the courts. Mr. Ross said he wants to take Rummel, Klepper and Kahl, Baltimore engineering firm, along with the contractors, to court and prove they did substandard work. Carl Nardei, main project engineer, has threatened to sue both the town and the engineering firm. Several months ago Mr. Ross had recommended that the town council stop paying some of the bills until the situation was resolved.

The engineering firm says it won't comment because of the possibility of pending court action against it.

Original 1970 estimates showed the sewer and water system would cost each resident $125 a year. That figure has now jumped to over $250 a year as the town has been forced to market $200,000 worth of bonds and seek a $199,000 loan from the state. In the past four years the cost of the water system has jumped from $347,000 to $918,000 while the sewer system cost has skyrocketed to just over $1.1 million from the original estimate of $360,000.

All of this leaves Friendsville $400,000 in debt with 40 years to pay for a system which engineers predict will reach capacity in 35 years if the town's population increases according to state planning estimates.

How did the town get so financially overextended? In 1974 the state began to reassess the value of land in the county. Most property in Friendsville tripled in value. In the meantime the income levels of the townspeople held steady. It was on the basis of inflated land values that the bonds and loans were secured and the ability of the people to pay the bill was calculated, Mr. Ross said.

"What we want is for the federal government to come in and make the engineers and the contractors pay for their mistakes instead of making us pay for it."

Mayor Jim Ross said, "If we have to pay for it, we're through."

Task Force Finds Yough Meets Wild River Standards

A task force led by the U. S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation has evaluated the Youghiogheny River from Oakland to Friendsville and found that this 22-mile stretch qualifies as a wild river. The force also concluded that the 27-mile segment from Youghiogheny Dam to South Connellsville, Pa. qualifies as a scenic river.

The river was under investigation by Act of Congress, which provided for the task force composed of federal and state agencies, with the assistance of private individuals and organizations.

To be classified, designated and administered as a wild river, the Yough or sections of the Yough must be free of impoundments and generally inaccessible except by trail, with watersheds or shorelines essentially primitive and the water unpolluted.

Those rivers or sections of rivers that are free of impoundments, with shorelines or watersheds still largely primitive and shorelines largely undeveloped, but accessible in places by roads, may qualify as scenic river areas.

The Maryland segment meets the wild river criteria because it is in a free-flowing condition; its water quality is being upgraded to meet the minimum criteria for primary contact recreation; its shorelines are essentially primitive, and the river corridor is generally inaccessible by road.

The Pennsylvania segment generally meets these criteria except that railroad tracks parallel its entire length and therefore it could not qualify as a wild river.

The task force's conclusion was based on the substantial natural values of the river, especially its outstanding whitewater, with the Maryland section rated as "difficult to exceedingly difficult."

Other contributing factors are its outstanding natural setting, flowing through a narrow, heavily-forested gorge and featuring Swallow Falls in Maryland and Ohiopyle Falls in Pennsylvania.

There is also excellent trout potential, supporting quality game fish; excellent air quality, botanical variety, rich wildlife habitat, improvement of water quality, and historic interest.

Preliminary recommendations, to preserve the Yough in its free flowing condition and to protect and enhance the river's natural values, suggest that the 22 mile segment from Oakland to Friendsville be included as a component of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers system, administered as a National Scenic River by the state. To recommend wild status would require significant land acquisition along the river by a public agency.

Other recommendations were that the protection boundary include the area within the visual corridor; that the state continue to implement and maintain land use regulations which can protect the river's scenic values; produce a plan which assures long-term protection of the Youghiogheny and which guarantees public access to the river for recreation purposes.

It is also suggested that several access sites and a trail system parallelling the river be provided for either wild or scenic designation in the National System so visitors' desires to enjoy the river's natural amenities may be accommodated while at the same time relieving local property owners of the legal burden imposed on them by trespassers.

Water pollution abatement efforts should be accelerated by the state, local governments, and appropriate federal agencies, with attention devoted to abating acid mine pollution from state and interstate sources and eliminating untreated domestic sewage, especially from the Oakland area.

The full preliminary draft report evaluates the resource values of the area, and considers several important social issues, including whitewater use and recreation safety, public land acquisition, vacation home development near the river, and the issues of public access and private access and private rights.

Copies of the full report will be available by writing Youghiogheny Wild and Scenic River Study, Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, 600 Arch Street, Room 9310, Philadelphia, Pa., 19106.

Copies are also available for review at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, Ruth Enlow Library Friendsville branch, Uniontown, Ohiopyle, Mill Run, Pa. and Cockeysville, Md.

During 1977 the task force expects to prepare a report for the Secretary of the Interior which he can submit to the president and the congress for action on the final recommendations.

There Is An Answer...

Hearing loss makes her fee. unwanted

Q. I am 76 years old and leading an active life. I have an adequate income and a family which is kind to me. But I often do not feel a part of a family group. I have a hearing loss and don't hear all that is said if they do not look at me. Some members of the family will not do this and are irritated if I ask them to repeat. Sometimes I'm tempted to stay home since I'm not enjoying being in the group. What would you suggest?

A. One thing you can do is to put down the sensitive feeling. You have a hearing loss — so what? Take it as a normal condition. Presumably you have a hearing aid. If not, you could consider that.

Another thing you can do is to realize that much of the average group conversation is idle and superficial. When you miss something, unless it is a direct question, let it go by. When the others laugh, laugh along with them.

One of the facts of life is that we have to take ourselves as we are and live with it. When we do so philosophically, things go pretty well as a general rule.

We've written a booklet, Spirit Lifters, that has helped others with questions similar to yours, and a copy of it is on its way to you. Anyone reading this column who wishes a free copy may write to Dr. and Mrs. Peale, Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

15½-year-old girl in love

Q. I am a girl of 15½ years. I have recently met this really wonderful guy of age 17. We are good friends. I have the tendency to think of him as more than a good friend. I seem to feel a strong passion to want him near me and for me to be wrapped up in his arms and to be loved by him. I have never felt so strongly over a guy before I met him. I can't stop thinking about him. I have this feeling that I'm falling in love with this guy, but if he asks me out I know my father doesn't approve of him and would not permit me to go out with him. I don't want to tell this guy that I don't want to when nothing else would make me happier. Please help me.

A. Regardless of the intensity of your feelings, you will be smart if you let yourself be guided by your father. He is familiar with the predatory sex drive of a boy 17 years old.

Your father wants to prevent you from making a mistake and getting fouled up with an undesirable person. Better cool that "strong passion" and enjoy controlled relations with the opposite sex.

You can have the happiest time of your life at your present age if you don't mess it up.

Having an affair with next-door neighbor

Q. I have been having an affair with my next-door neighbor for about two years now. I have three lovely children, and he and his wife have no children. He is very happily married, and I am too, but he is so nice and kind to me. He told me he loves me, but I don't believe him. Is there any way I can believe him? Should I stop this affair before it is too late?

A. Of course don't believe him, for he is not being truthful with you or himself. He is using you for physical gratification with no sense of responsibility.

Why don't you leave him alone? Certainly you should stop this affair before it is too late. Your question implies that you realize there can be trouble ahead. And don't think you can continue to fool your children. It will be painful for them to find out what you are doing.

14-year-old daughter caught shop-lifting

Q. I have a very heavy heart. Our 14-year-old daughter came home yesterday with a shop-lifting ticket. We were crushed. She had never given us any trouble, and we've never had any experience like this before. She refuses to go to church with us. Her Dad and I told her we love her but that we don't understand. Can you give us any suggestions.

A. An important factor here is to comprehend why your daughter has been shoplifting. It would be helpful in understanding her mental and emotional reactions to put her in the hands of a skillful counselor, one who is aware of psychological reactions and causation involved.

Sometimes young people do these things for a kick or as a symbol of rebellion, rather than plain dishonesty.

Don't panic, nor ride the girl. You have told her of your feelings. Ask yourself why she is uncommunicative with you, why she doesn't want to go to church. Love her, study her, study yourself and patiently expect the reestablishment of communication.

28 years of unhappy marriage

Q. I could write a long, long story about our 28 years of married life. I feel like a prisoner in my own home. My husband got his sister-in-law pregnant and has other women. But what does he do? Every time I go any place without him he thinks I've been with another man. Even if I just go to the store he accuses me of all sorts of things. He gets drunk every weekend so we can't go anywhere together. I go to church, but the rest of the weekend I have to stay home with him asleep. I've worked hard, clearing woods and digging stumps so we can farm. I can leave him and lose everything I've worked for, or I can stay and be miserable. How do other wives work our problems? I wish I knew how to solve mine.

A. Anyone who has no moral inhibitions himself is likely to suspect others of like behavior — a wife in particular.

You've hung on so long that it would be very difficult to break his behavior pattern toward you. However, if there is any family counseling service in your area, we would suggest you go for help. They might be able to show you how to stand up to this guy so that he doesn't dominate you to such an extent.

From your description, your husband seems to be extremely mixed up and probably insecure. Perhaps a bit of praise and understanding (very difficult, we know) might help your relationship.

Dreams realistically of lost son

Q. My son disappeared from our home and more than seven years of searching, tracing rumors, following clues have turned up nothing. During all these years my boy comes home — in my dreams, night after night. The relief of seeing him, realizing that my burden is lifted and all the worry is over, seems so real that I fight off the awakening as long as possible. Some people tell me such dreams are wishful, subconscious thinking. To me, they are much too realistic for that. Bill always arrives home; he always tells me where he has been during the long years. Upon awakening I immediately search a map, and sure enough the name of such a town is there. I think my son is either thinking of home or dreaming of home. Do you believe I'm right?

A. It is quite possible that your son is reaching out to you. It would seem that in his unconscious mind he is returning home; but in his conscious mind, for some reason, he remains separated.

We would suggest that you keep "contact" with him in this dream relationship. Send out to him healing prayer thoughts; believe that these thoughts will reach him and finally have the power to restore him to a normal condition.

Your question is intensely interesting and we are prepared to believe that you can, indeed, establish an in-absentia relationship that may ultimately bring him home. At least you may hope that you are helping him.

Perhaps you would like to find an answer for yourself to a problem that you can share with others in THERE'S AN ANSWER! If there is something you would like to ask Dr. and Mrs. Peale to discuss in this column, write to them in care of Box 500, Pawling, N. Y. 12564.

Agency Offers Trapper Rewards

Rewards from $5.00 to $10.00 are being offered throughout the State of Maryland by the University of Maryland's Center for Environmental and Estuarine Studies (CEES) in connection with studies being conducted on nutria, otter, raccoon and rabbits. The rewards are being offered for both ear tags and carcasses. The studies are being conducted in cooperation with the Maryland Wildlife Administration.

All of the named animals are not available or needed from all counties of the State. Carcasses from otter and raccoon are, however, needed from all Maryland counties.

The raccoon trapping season began December 15 and will end February 15. Otter trapping season begins January 1 and ends March 15. According to the Maryland Wildlife Administration, trapping of otter is closed to non-residents of the State.

The Nutria trapping season extends from January 1 through March 15, and the rabbit hunting season began on November 8 and will conclude on January 31.

The reward for the return of metal ear tags and nutria "in-the-round" (entire unskinned animal) is $10.00. Over 350 nutria were tagged this fall on the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge in Dorchester County.

For the return of just the metal tags on each harvested raccoon a $5.00 reward is offered. Raccoons were tagged and released at the Blackwater National Wildlife Refuge; McKee Beshers, Montgomery County; and Savage River State Forest, Garrett County.

Rabbits were also tagged and released at Savage River State Forest, Garrett County. Rabbit tags should be returned to the Appalachian Environmental Laboratory located on the Frostburg State College Campus, Frostburg, or a phone call should be made to Jim Roseberry at the College. According to CEES, the information gained from these tags will be very useful for managing rabbits in western Maryland.

Named Christmas Queen At Northern

At the Christmas dance at Northern High school, prior to the holiday season, Chris Feree was crowned Christmas Queen. The dance was held to raise money for the family of Malcolm Broadwater, and was sponsored by the FHA club.

Malcolm, a tenth grade student, was injured in an accident in October and was paralyzed from the neck down. He is recovering in Sacred Heart hospital in Cumberland.

To obtain funds the FHA members asked each club at Northern High to nominate a girl as candidate for queen, and once nominated the candidates were to represent the club by raising money in their name. The girls raised over $1,900 for Malcolm.

Twenty-One Die On State Roads

Twenty-one persons lost their lives on Maryland Highways, according to the weekly news release compiled by 2nd Lt. M. I. Morgan of the Maryland State Police. Of those killed nine were drivers, eight were passengers and four were pedestrians.

Four of the deaths in the opinion of the investigating officer could have possibly been prevented had seat belts been in use.

This week marks the closing of our Bicentennial Year. Most everyone will be joining in the holiday celebrations, noted Lt. Morgan. "Remember! If you are driving: Don't let 'liquid holiday cheer' sadden your holiday season."

Persons killed through December 26 totaled 661, compared to 679 for the same period last year.

Students Vacation

Many students have been spending the Christmas holidays at their homes in the area.

They include Lu Ann Holland, Lisa Hinebaugh, Cathy Davis, Mark Ashby, Scott Shirer, Mike Browning, Tim DeWitt, Christine Maffett, West Virginia University, Morgantown; Dave Sharps, University of Florida; Barry Sweitzer, Oberlin university; Dana Liller, University of Richmond; Mary Mattingly, Towson State; Steve Filemyr, Lehigh; Ben Sincell, Beverly Remley, Robin Rodeheaver, Mike DeWitt, Lenora Fischetti, Barbara Purbaugh, West Virginia Wesleyan; Hank Rebele, Pennsylvania State; Rick Thayer, Wooster College: Barbara Friend, Debra Frazee, Alderson Broaddus, Philippi; Steve Ashby, technical school in Pittsburgh; Monte Pagenhardt, Bridgewater college; Brian Frederick, VPI, Blacksburg; Kevin Liller, Cindy Hayden and Bill Weissgerber, Frostburg State.

Bird Count Down From Other Years

A near-record low number of birds were spotted by observers December 18 in the annual Christmas bird count sponsored across the U. S. by the National Audubon Society. This year there were only 56 species seen, only one more than the record low of 55.

A total of 4,347 birds were counted, with the common crow the most numerous, with 643 spotted. There were 612 starlings and 605 black-capped chickadees counted by the 21 observers who volunteered this year.

Last year there were 71 species sighted and 8,228 birds counted, an all-time high so far.

Only 16 evening grosbeaks were counted, a record low. The birds may have stayed north later than usual due to good crops of pine and hemlock cones. Very few ducks were spotted this year, probably attributable to the fact that most lakes and ponds were frozen.

Two relatively rare birds were spotted in the county area which included Cranesville Swamp, Bittinger, Bear Creek, Swallow Falls, Mt. Nebo and McHenry. There were five each of the Rufuos-sided towhees and the swamp sparrows.

Results of this count will appear in the April issue of "American Birds," the official publication of the National Audubon Society. The entire issue is devoted to count results from all over the United States.

COMET CORE

In May an asteroid called Betulia passed close to the earth. It was observed carefully and found to be most like a sphere approximately six kilometers (3.7 miles) in diameter. The surface is rough and reflects light like carbonaceous materials reflect light. Darkest of any asteroids known inside the main asteroid belt, this object also has an orbit shaped more like that of a short-period comet. No one knows what the nucleus of a dead comet might be like, but the characteristics of Betulia appear to match the inferences concerning a comet core more closely than those of any other known object.

The moon passes through its Full Moon phase at 7:10 a.m. Wednesday. Moonrise was at 1:10 p.m. this afternoon. On Wednesday the moon rises at 5:43 p.m.

Visible in the sky this week are Venus, Jupiter and Saturn. Venus is the brightest object in the west for three and one-half hours after sunset. Jupiter, among the stars of Aries is high in the east at sunset. Saturn is among the stars of Cancer. It rises an hour after sunset.

Five minutes more daylight will be present Wednesday. Sunrise was at 7:38 a.m. this morning. Sunset is nine hours twenty-five minutes later at 5:03 p.m. Wednesday the sun rises at the same time as today and sets five minutes later than today.

Two Admitted To Hospital Monday

Two persons were admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital Monday morning following a two-car head-on collision on the Sand Flat road. About two hours later two others were treated and released from the hospital following an accident in Crellin.

Josephine E. Moon, Mt. Lake Park, driver of one car, and her passenger, Violet Railey, Deep Creek area, RD, Oakland, were admitted to the hospital. Both were listed in good condition yesterday at the hospital.

Josephine Moon was traveling south on the Sand Flat road and following a coal truck. Then, due to blinding snow, she drifted into the wrong lane and struck a State Police car driven by Tfc. Robert Friend, head-on. The accident investigated by Cpl. Ronald Lewis, was attributed to poor visibility.

About two hours later, Shirley Ann White, 32, and John Allen Kitzmiller, 9, both of RD 2, Oakland, were injured. They were passengers in a car driven by Lyle Raymond White, 21, of the same address. White was leaving a parking lot in front of the General Store on Main street in Crellin. The accelerator pedal stuck (due to snow under it) and the operator was unable to reduce speed. He then struck a utility pole. Tfc. C. H. Hinnant investigated.

Later that afternoon a non-injury mishap involving a snow plow and a car occurred on U. S. 219 just north of the West Virginia state line. William C. Lohr, Sr., RD 1, Swanton, was driving the snowplow south on Rt. 219. He then began to back in an attempt to push more snow. Carl D. Pollastrino, Washington, D. C., following the plow, noted it, tried to back also to avoid it. He blew his horn but Lohr did not hear it due to the back-up buzzer on the truck and struck the car. Tfc. Hinnant investigated this one also.

OPEN LINE

By
Congressman Goodloe Byron
Maryland—Sixth District

This regular column serves as another vehicle to keep in touch with all segments of my constituency. It is an open invitation for you to question me on issues, let me assist you with your problems, request information or comment on whatever happens to be on your mind. Letters should be sent to me c/o U.S. House of Representatives, Washington, D.C. 20515. While space is obviously limited for printing all replies, I shall make every effort to answer each person who contacts me.

The following questions were typical of the kind asked of me in recent weeks.

I have a complaint about airline service. Who can I direct a consumer complaint to?

The Office of the Consumer Advocate at the Civil Aeronautics Board handles consumer complaints against airlines and attempts to resolve consumer problems by contact with the company involved. You should write Mr. Jack Yohe, Director, Office of the Consumer Advocate, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D. C. 20428.

Are VA subsistence payments to vocational rehabilitation trainees tax exempt?

According to the Veterans Administration such payments are tax exempt as well as compensation, pensions, G.I. Bill and other educational assistance and grants to service disabled veterans eligible for specially adapted homes and cars. Your local VA and IRS office can provide you more complete details.

What are your views on health insurance?

I feel no American should have to bankrupt himself because of a long-lasting illness and I support legislation to make it possible for every individual to obtain comprehensive medical and hospitalization insurance for catastrophic major illnesses. I oppose, however, any compulsory program financed by social security taxes.

Do you have any information on Medicaid and Medicare?

The department of Health, Education and Welfare has recently revised a free booklet called Medicaid/Medicare. For your free copy, write to Consumer Information Center, Department 79, Pueblo, Colorado 81009.

Is it true that jurisdiction over federal narcotics efforts is spread among dozens of federal agencies and departments? If so, what is being done to correct this unfortunate piecemeal and bureaucratic approach?

Jurisdiction over federal narcotics control is currently split among 17 executive agencies and departments and seven congressional committees. To eliminate the fragmenting of enforcement efforts, Congress has established a special committee to provide a central focus for coordinating legislation in the drug abuse area and to conduct a continuing review of all federal efforts against narcotics abuse.

Next Leap Year 1980

Because 1976 was, 1977 is not a Leap Year. We won't have another Leap Year until 1980. Leap Years come every four years, except for the years which number a century, as 2000 will be.

Leap years are determined by dividing the year by four, except for those numbering centuries, but they must be divisible by four after the ciphers have been removed.

If you have forgotten, Leap Years are neccessary to keep the Gregorian calendar in tune with the solar year, which actually consists of 365 days, 5 hours, 48 minutes and 46 seconds. Leap Years use up those extra hours, keeping the Gregorian calendar accurate, which it will remain until 2500 A.D.
